BOSTON CITY RECORD

OFFICIAL CHRONICLE OF MUNICIPAL AFFAIRS.

VOL. 18.

SATURDAY, JANUARY 2, 1926.

No. 1

ONLY FEW OF BOSTON'S 22 WARDS SHOW DECREASE IN POPULATION IN PAST 10 YEARS.

IN FIFTEEN WARDS POPULATION HAS JUMPED, INDICATING DRIFT OF RESIDENTS TO LESS CONGESTED AREAS. CITY, AS WHOLE, HAS INCREASED OVER FOUR PER CENT.

PHOTOSTATIC REPRODUCTION SHOWING TREND AND DRIFT OF BOSTON'S POPULATION IN PAST 10 YEARS.

Only seven of the twenty-two new wards of the city have shown a decrease in population in the past ten years according to figures prepared and submitted to Mayor Curley by the City Planning Board. Wards 2, 3, 5, 6, 8, 9 and 10 have shown a decrease, according to these figures while all the other wards have shown increases.

These figures show the growth and trend of the population in the past few years more graphically than could otherwise have been indicated or even believed. They show that the city, as a whole, has increased 4.6 per cent in total numbers. These figures are all the more interesting in view of the fact that adjoining districts within the metropolitan area also show remarkable gains. Wellesley has shown the greatest growth in the past five years with Belmont a close second. These, as all others adjoining Boston, have grown largely at the expense of Boston.

The figures of the Planning Board follow:

POPULATION OF BOSTON BY WARDS OF 1925.

MAYOR CURLEY MOVES TO HALT PAYMENT ON CITY COUNCIL FURNITURE BILL.

CALLS ON CITY AUDITOR TO WITHHOLD PAYMENTS UNLESS ORDERED BY THE COURT—SAYS PROCEEDINGS APPEAR IRREGULAR AND UNDULY EXCESSIVE.

Mayor Curley on December 30, directed the following letter to City Auditor Carven:

Mr. RUPERT S. CARVEN,
City Auditor:

DEAR SIR,—The testimony as printed in the newspapers relative to the furnishing of furniture, desks and carpet for the City Council would indicate, providing the facts are as reported by the Press, that the proceedings in connection with the contract were not only irregular but the price charged the city was unduly excessive.

Under the circumstances, you are hereby directed to withhold payment of any bills presented under this contract.

In my opinion, the only way payment should be made upon this bill or any portion of the bill in this case when presented would be upon order of the Court.

Respectfully,
JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

"O Boston, fair City enthroned like a radiant queen,
From thy hills looking down on the ship-teeming plain of the ocean,
May thy future be bright, thy skies beam with light all serene,
Ensured by thy sons' and thy daughters' unselfish devotion!"

BOSTON'S WELCOME TO NEW YEAR PROVES UNIQUE, BEING LINKED WITH PHILADELPHIA'S RECEPTION BY RADIO.

THOUSANDS ON COMMON JOIN WITH MAYOR CURLEY AND OTHER CITIZENS IN CELEBRATION AND UNVEILING OF DECLARATION OF INDEPENDENCE TABLET.

Boston's citizens who shared in the welcoming accorded the year 1926 on the Common and all over the city will treasure the event as the most memorable in the history of such events. Other welcomes may have been more boisterous. Other welcomes may have been more noisy or even more solemn but never has there been a welcoming celebration in Boston of a more truly historic and significant interest.

In welcoming the new year the citizens of Boston welcomed the year of the sesquicentennial when the country will celebrate the 150th anniversary of American Independence, and they shared, in spirit if not in presence, the ceremonies connected with the unveiling of the Declaration of Independence tablet by Hon. James M. Curley, Mayor of Boston, and the linking of Boston and Philadelphia in those ceremonies.

Extensive preparations for these events had been made by the Public Celebrations Committee, who planned an open-air program centering upon and radiating from the Parkman Bandstand.

Mayor Curley issued a New Year statement, which was as follows:

To My Fellow Citizens of Boston, to My Friends and Neighbors.

GREETING:

1925 will soon be added to the endless scroll of time, to memory and history; and the new year will be here, 1926, to challenge us and call upon us to make its opportunities and activities more notable than the record that is closed, more useful to our country and community, more beneficial to our fellow men.

I sincerely trust we will all accept the challenge of the new days and by our individual and collective efforts seek to bring to Boston a renewal of its ancient fame and honor, a restoration of its former commercial and industrial dominance and prosperity. I ask you all to work together for a better Boston, that its name may become a synonym for true Americanism and real democracy; for a city where peace and good will prevail; where brotherhood, kindness and tolerance can flourish and its leadership be marked by wisdom and sanity.

I earnestly pray that peace, happiness, contentment and health may be constant in every household, and become incentives to the expansion of that spirit which expresses itself in deeds that redound to the glory of our land and the betterment of our race. 1926 is at our door; let us translate our good resolutions into good deeds, and make it a year of glorious achievements.

A committee composed of members of the Citizens' Public Celebrations Association was in charge of arrangements with the usual co-operation of the City Director of Public Celebrations, J. Philip O'Connell, and his assistant, Edward C. Carr. The committee is as follows: Chairman, Edward L. Curran; John B. Archibald, Frank Chouteau Brown, Wilfred F. Kelley, James H. Phelan, John A. Scanga; Secretary, Everett B. Mero.

Between the hours of 9 and 10.15 p. m. radio features were taken from programs then on the air and amplified by the municipal apparatus at the bandstand for the assembled people of the city. The Christmas tree was illuminated throughout the evening. From 10.30 to midnight there was a special illumination of the fountain at the Frog Pond, repeating the attractive and picturesque similar feature of Christmas Eve.

Beginning at 10.15 o'clock, and lasting until the New Year arrived at midnight, at the bandstand there was an organized program of band selections, community singing and special features, together with an address by Mayor Curley.

The program at the bandstand had as its grand finale a special five-minute ceremony, during which all lights were extinguished, silence maintained for half a minute, "Taps" sounded by a bugler as the old year departed and then the reception to "Young 1926" in the form of a grand illumination of the Common by army flares on Lafayette Mall.

A very unusual element in the New Year's celebration this year were significant patriotic features due to the fact that 1926 is the 150th anniversary year of American Independence and the year is to have a sesquicentennial celebration, especially in Philadelphia, where the Declaration was signed, but equally in Boston, from whence went so much of the inspiration, and, of course, in other cities of the country which have shared in the later benefits.

Arrangements were made by which the special ceremonies in and about Independence Hall in Philadelphia New Year's Eve were transmitted by radio direct to the audience assembled on Boston Common, concluding with the tones of the original Liberty Bell at midnight, sounded, for the first time in recent years, by the wife of the mayor of that city.

Simultaneously with this radio feature, the City of Boston gave its own significant contribution. While the tones of the Liberty Bell were sounding, Mayor Curley unveiled, as the first official action of the New Year, the newly erected tablet on which is inscribed the complete Declaration document, including a reproduction of the Session of the Continental Congress at which the Declaration was originally signed.

MAYOR CURLEY DISCUSSES MEANS FOR ENDING DISEASE AND POVERTY AT LAYING OF CORNERSTONE OF SANATORIUM BUILDING.

TELLS AUDIENCE PROTECTION OF WORKERS, MOTHERS' AID LAW, AND SAVING WAGE DO MUCH TO CUT DOWN VICTIMS OF TUBERCULOSIS.

Mayor James M. Curley and a distinguished group of citizens took part in the ceremonies incident to the laying of the cornerstone of the new Out-Patient Department building of the Boston Sanatorium on Monday, December 28.

Mayor Curley said in part as follows:

"I am sure I am grateful to Doctor O'Brien and I think it is impossible to find words to express my gratification for his kind introduction. I want to say, however, that the City of Boston is exceedingly grateful to the able, capable, and kind-hearted women and men who serve without salary as trustees of the Boston Consumptives' Hospital.

"After the very interesting presentation made by Doctor Locke it is very unwise for a layman to attempt a discussion of this most interesting of all problems, the problem of the proper method of combating disease, for after all, strange as it may appear, the one particular thing that stands out in my mind in the presentation by Doctor Locke is the fact that in America and in the world generally we have not really awakened to our responsibilities or to our obligations until within the last quarter of a century or I might say the last ten years.

"My connection with this kind of work dates back a long time ago. On the matter of combating tuberculosis I was always of the opinion that tuberculosis was an economic disease, rather than a medical one and I am not inclined to change that belief in spite of the presentation of Doctor Locke, although what he says is true. It requires money to overcome tuberculosis and an expenditure of money is as necessary as medical science.

"I recall in 1905 the City of Boston, in spite of its splendid history and its kind-hearted men and women, lacked a single institution outside the poorhouse, where a person could receive treatment who was unfortunate enough to be afflicted with tuberculosis. I recall in 1905 appearing before the Legislature with a bill authorizing the City of Boston to hire at a cost of $5 a week, two hundred beds at outside hospitals until the City of Boston could provide accommodations to care for persons afflicted. Board was not quite as high in those days as in the present time but at any event we made provisions and the bill was adopted. We provided places at the rate of about one thousand dollars per week at the Holy Ghost Hospital in taking care of the consumptives of Boston until such time as we could provide necessary accommodations ourselves.

"I recall after taking office as Mayor in 1914 providing money for a Children's Hospital and in 1915 providing money for a pathological laboratory and in 1917 providing the necessary money for a general hospital of eighty beds and now it is a source of pleasure to provide a clearing house for tuberculosis for all these.

"I want to say in passing, however, in the combating of tuberculosis that the success achieved by the trustees is in no small part due to the persistency and insistency of Doctor Minot.

"I am just wondering here this afternoon if we are really not on the dawn of one of the most important epochs in the history of America. The presence of Father O'Connor reminds me of the words of the Scripture, 'The poor are always with us,' and after all, poverty, disease and ignorance have been the companions of mankind from the beginning. Singularly as it may appear, it is only within the last ten years we have made progressive work through the latter to destroy the two former. Poverty and disease can only be destroyed by the destruction of ignorance in the land.

"I believe the institution dedicated today and the institution in which we are assembled, the institution dedicated last week, the building being erected for the consummation of the most important product in the world, the mothers of America and their offspring, the maternity hospital, and the institution for which the contract will be awarded tomorrow and which will ultimately represent an expenditure of $5,000,000, a chronic hospital in Boston, are all a part of the program for the combating of ignorance.

"Some people complain about the increase in the tax rate and feel that the Mayor is responsible for it but if they would only consider that we could very well have accomplished a reduction in the tax rate provided we were agreeable to the postponement of necessary expenditures for schools, they would reverse their opinion; for after all education is something more than bricks and cement.

"It is necessary that children have the best of educators. The City of Boston rejoiced in the fact that this year and next year also the salaries of teachers will be increased in the amount of $500,000 for 1925 and $1,000,000 for 1926. A building program to which the city has already committed itself approximates $5,800,000, so that the cost of conducting the activities of the schools this year represents an expenditure of $17,000,000; if in consequence of this expenditure for education we are developing the mentality and health of the community and are developing a higher moral standard, and in addition a more profound realization on the part of every individual of his obligations to his neighbor, then we are engaging in the character of work that is of greatest value.

"I want to congratulate the trustees upon this most necessary adjunct to the conservation of health and I trust every individual will realize that while medicine is necessary other things are essential. The work of the government in passing laws for protection of industrial workers, the mothers' aid law, the increase in the wage of the worker in America that came out of the World War, that makes possible better and more food and that makes possible better clothing and that makes possible better housing laws and more parks, a more courageous outlook on the part of the individual, all have been contributing factors.

"Only one more thing is needed if we are going to end disease and poverty, namely, a development on the part of every individual of the duty he owes to his neighbor in America and when that time comes we are going to destroy in one stroke these two enemies of mankind, poverty and disease.

"Through the establishment, national or otherwise, of agencies that will end seasonal employment in America, it should be possible to provide opportunity for every woman and man to earn a livelihood under proper conditions and at a saving wage. In view of the achievements made in the last decade, it is not unreasonable to believe that this happy condition will ultimately be realized. The guaranty of permanency in employment in healthful and inviting surroundings, with a wage sufficient to insure every necessity and an occasional luxury, represents a goal worth striving for since, rightly interpreted, it can mean but one thing, happiness in the home and patriotism in the land.

The programme was as follows:

1. Police Band.
2. Introductory. Dr. John F. O'Brien, presiding.
3. Invocation.
Rev. George P. O'Connor.
4. "America." Band.
5. Address. Dr. Arthur J. White.
6. Address. Dr. Edwin A. Locke.
7. Corner Stone Exercises. Address.
Mayor James M. Curley.
8. "Star-Spangled Banner."

PRESENT ADMINISTRATION ENDS WITH RECORD OF NOTABLE ACCOMPLISHMENTS FOR PAST FOUR YEARS.

ACHIEVEMENTS IN MANY LINES OF MUNICIPAL ENDEAVOR SHOW THAT BOSTON CITIZENS HAVE GREATLY BENEFITED BY ACTIVITIES.

With the end of the present administration only a matter of hours in the distance, it is perhaps, fitting that some of the notable achievements of the past four years be noted for the benefit of Boston citizens.

The present administration has been conspicuously solicitous for the health, recreation and education of the people of Boston; for better housing conditions; and for their general progress and advancement. The accomplishments of the last four years include the following notable achievements.

HEALTH DEPARTMENT.

West End Unit, Blossom street, established in 1916. First in America. Eighty-seven thousand services per year performed by West End Health Unit.

Laying of cornerstone of new East Boston Health Unit. Estimated cost, $300,000.

Land taken for new South Boston Health Unit. Estimated cost, $300,000.

Compulsory pasteurization of all milk sold in Boston.

Absorption of baby hygiene work previously directed by private organizations, and institution of public service by registered and trained nurses and medical experts. Visits of baby hygiene nurses now average 65,000 per year.

One hundred thousand injections of serum for the prevention of diphtheria among children.

For four years Boston has shown the lowest death rate in the history of the city from tuberculosis, typhoid fever, child birth and pregnancy, infant mortality, and diarrhea and enteritis in children under two years, and in 1925 established highest health record of any American city.

HOSPITAL DEPARTMENT.

Construction of new Out-Patient Department, caring to date for 60 per cent increase in daily number of patients and capable of caring for 300 per cent increase, or from 500 to 2,000 patients per day.

PARK DEPARTMENT.

Expenditures of more than $600,000 for the purchase of land for twelve parks and playgrounds.

Appropriations of more than $3,000,000 for improvements on thirty-four parks and playgrounds.

SCHOOLHOUSE DEPARTMENT.

Eleven million dollars have been expended for sites, erection and furnishing of new school buildings, and approximately $5,000,000 for enlargement of school yards, rent of hired quarters, repairs, alterations and equipment.

Among the notable additions have been the Boston Latin School in the Fenway, Dorchester High School for Boys, Washington-Irving School, Roslindale; Theodore Roosevelt School, Eggleston square; Daniel Webster School, East Boston; and Frank V. Thompson Intermediate School, Dorchester. At the present time eleven new schools are under construction, including the beautiful new Memorial High School for Girls in Roxbury.

Two million, forty-eight thousand, five hundred three feet have been taken for playground purposes, 1,818,646 feet for schools, and the balance for hospitals, municipal buildings, court-houses, police headquarters and public works purposes.

PUBLIC BUILDINGS DEPARTMENT.

More than $3,500,000 have been expended on property for ten public buildings, including the restoration of Faneuil Hall and the construction of a new Charity Building on Chardon street.

PUBLIC WORKS DEPARTMENT.

The Bridge and Ferry Division has entirely rebuilt eight bridges, made major repairs on nine and minor repairs on fifteen. In addition, new ferry bridges have been constructed, barrier gates installed, minor repairs made on all ferries, and plans drawn for two new ferryboats.

Upon December 24 the Mayor approved a contract with the John Bowen Company for an elementary school in the Warren-Bunker Hill District.

A communication from the Schoolhouse Department was in part as follows:

"On Tuesday, December 15 1925, it was found that William J. Delaney contractor, from Lawrence, Mass., was the lowest bidder, in the amount of $91,700. The next lowest bidder was John Bowen Company, in the amount of $105,975.

"Mr. Delaney informed the Board on December 15 that he was willing to accept the contract at his figure. Under date of December 15 he notified the Schoolhouse Commission that he had made an error of $8,211, the addition of which made his bid approximately $100,000. On December 24, in answer to a communication sent by the commission, Mr. Delaney withdrew his bid, and his check was returned to him.

"In view of the fact that Mr. Delaney is a new builder of schoolhouses in the City of Boston, that his first bid was $15,000 lower than the next lowest bidder, and that he made an error of over $8,000, the Board is of the opinion (and so requests your approval) that the contract should be awarded to the next lowest bidder, John Bowen Company, in the amount of $105,975, the same being within the appropriation for this building.

"As the John Bowen Company is a building concern of recognized standing, and is now constructing schools and hospitals in the City of Boston, the Board requests your approval in awarding the contract to this company."

The following is the list of bidders under date of December 15, 1925:

William J. Delaney, $91,700; John Bowen Company, $103,975; M. & D. Construction Company, $109,900; M. S. Kelliher Company, $110,450; Joseph Rugo, $111,400; Burton H. Wiggin Company, $112,687; Alco Contracting Company, $115,000; A. Piotti Company $116,466; John B. Dolan, $125,334.

WITHOUT ADVERTISING.

The Mayor has approved the following contracts awarded without advertising; requests of heads of departments to do the work with the department forces without advertising; additions to and deductions from contracts.

PUBLIC WORKS DEPARTMENT (Paving Service).

Upon December 28 the Mayor approved a contract with J. A. Singarella for restoring granite block paving on Warren street, Roxbury. A communication from Joseph A. Rourke of the Public Works Department was as follows:

Boston, December 28, 1925.

To the Mayor of Boston:

Your approval is respectfully requested for the award of a contract, without advertising, to J. A. Singarella for restoring a large area of granite block pavement on Warren street, Roxbury, recently disturbed by a water pipe break, the total cost of the paving work being $2,754.

Singarella recently completed a contract for repaving this street with granite blocks, on concrete base, with grouted joints; and the damage done by the water break was so great that the blocks had to be barred out and cleaned, the concrete base broken out and a new subgrade established for the new concrete base and grouted granite blocks. As this contractor is responsible for the five-year guaranty on the street, he was the only one who could do the work, the cost of which is considered fair.

Yours respectfully,

JOSEPH A. ROURKE.

Commissioner of Public Works.

SUPPLY DEPARTMENT.

Upon December 26 the Mayor approved a contract with E. J. Byrne for furnishing the Public Works Department, Sanitary Service, five new draft horses. A communication from Mark L. Hersey of the Supply Department was as follows:

Boston, December 22, 1925.

HON. JAMES M. CURLEY,

Mayor of Boston:

DEAR SIR,—Permission is requested to award a contract, without advertising, to

E. J. Byrne, 350 Athens street, for furnishing to the Public Works Department, Sanitary Service, five new draft horses at $325 each.

These have been selected by Doctor Cronin, veterinarian, as horses which will be satisfactory to the department.

Yours respectfully,

MARK L. HERSEY,
Superintendent of Supplies.

Upon December 26 the Mayor approved a contract with B. L. Makepeace, Inc., for furnishing the Street Laying-Out Department with one blueprint machine. A communication from Mark L. Hersey of the Supply Department was as follows:

Boston, December 23, 1925.

HON. JAMES M. CURLEY,

Mayor of Boston:

DEAR SIR,—Permission is respectfully requested to award a contract, without publicly advertising for same, to B. L. Makepeace, Inc., for furnishing to the Street Laying-Out Department one new "Blue Streak" blueprint machine, 60 inches wide, with revolving glass cylinders and six arc lights located outside of cylinder, at a price of $1,156, delivered, less amount allowed for exchange on old Everett & McAdam mercury machine, $200, making a balance of $956.

The Street Laying-Out Department has secured bids from the maker of this machine and others, and as the price submitted by B. L. Makepeace is the lowest I trust that the permission asked for be granted. I am attaching letter from the Street Laying-Out Department regarding this machine.

Very truly yours,

MARK L. HERSEY,
Superintendent of Supplies.

FIRE DEPARTMENT ORDERS.

General Order No. 62.

I. NEW FIRE ALARM HEADQUARTERS.

At 8 a. m., Sunday, December 27, 1925, the new fire alarm station in the Fenway will be placed in commission and the present station on Bristol street will be abandoned. Otherwise than by telephone communication department stations will not be affected and the service will be operated through an entirely new system, the operation to be as follows:

At the hour stated above the magneto telephones now in use will be discontinued and the common battery telephones, recently installed in stations, are to be used. All connections, either to department stations or public exchange lines, must be made by the operator at the fire alarm station. In order to establish communication with any station, remove the receiver from the hook and that movement will give the person calling the fire alarm operator, to whom the party calling must give the station or exchange line with which he desires connection; the entire operation being similar to that in general telephone service, except that after calling for a station on the same line press the hook down while the operator rings the station requested.

The rings for chief officers and other stations not listed below remain as at present.

Changes in station calls are as follows: Engines 1, 2, 5, 7, 8, 9, 10, 12, 13, 15, 16, 17, 18, 23, 25, 27, 38-39, 42, 46, 47, 51, 53, are now two rings.

Engines 21, 22, 30, 41, 43, 45, are now three rings.

Engines 6, 14, 19, 24, 31, are now four rings.

Ladder companies, other than those housed jointly with other apparatus, will be three rings.

Chemical 7, three rings; Rescue 1, two rings; Tower 1, three rings; Tower 2, four rings; Tower 3, three rings; High Pressure Station 1, three rings; High Pressure Station 2, two rings.

In order to maintain telephone service in the most efficient manner the rules governing the use of telephones must be observed.

Do not remove the receiver for calls other than your own.

Observe Rules 489 and 499. No outside connections will be made except as specified in the rules and regulations. Operators have strict orders to enforce these rules. When outside calls are made the number and exchange must be given to the operator as the call has to be dialed. Operators will have no time to look for numbers in the directory.

The new telephone number, after the time stated above for the transfer of operation, will be Kenmore 1100.

II. RETIREMENT.

The following retirement is hereby announced to take effect at 8 a. m., Friday, December 25, 1925:

Engineer Dennis J. Caddigan of the Motor Squad. Engineer Caddigan was appointed to this department August 12, 1903, and was made engineer in charge of Emergency Squad No. 1 on June 30, 1922.

III. DEMOTION.

Assistant Engineer James C. Harrington of Engine Company 13 has been reduced to the grade of hoseman, at his own request, to take effect at 8 a. m., Friday, December 25, 1925.

By order of Fire Commissioner Theodore A. Glynn.

DANIEL F. SENNOTT,
Chief of Department.

I. CHRISTMAS GREETINGS.

I desire to extend to the entire personnel of the Boston Fire Department my hearty and sincere wishes for a happy and blessed Christmas, a bright and prosperous New Year. It is with a deep sense of grateful appreciation that I review the year that has passed since I last greeted you in like manner, and I cannot be oblivious to the general spirit of co-operation and loyalty that has been manifested throughout the department. Every call that has been made upon the department has been met with a wholehearted and earnest response to give the city the best possible service on every occasion.

Demands have been made upon the Fire Department during the past twelve months which were of a character that required courage and endurance. All these calls were not associated with fire duty, but evidently a public realization of the character of service the Fire Department can and does render has been brought about, to the extent that it is called in every emergency, particularly where judgment, bravery and heroism are required. We all have reason to be proud of the record and standing of the Boston Fire Department, briefly stated in the Report of Investigation by the National Board of Fire Underwriters in October, 1925, from which I quote:

"Administrative and executive officers progressive and competent. Sufficient companies mainly well distributed. Engine capacity and chemical service adequate. Unusually large number of ladder companies. Good supply of minor equipment and heavy stream appliances. Good fireboat service. Sufficient 2½ and 3 inch hose well cared for. Fire stations generally well arranged and in good condition. Repair shop well equipped with adequate force; sufficient reserve apparatus. Modern and effective system of drills and training. Discipline good. Fire methods good. Inspections and records good. Fire service, as a whole, ranks high among metropolitan departments." (General Summary, page 46, Report of October, 1925.)

I am pleased with the spirit of co-operation which made such a report possible, and I am grateful to all those who assisted in bringing about the present high standing of the department.

THEODORE A. GLYNN,
Fire Commissioner.

The reasons as given by the superintendent why these transfers are needed are as follows:

D-4, Transportation of Persons.—More carfares were used than anticipated.

D-5, Medical, Surgical and Laboratory.—Because of extreme demands for medicines and X-ray films.

B-13, Communication.—Not sufficient money to cover the cost of the telephones. The telephone rates have increased.

B-8, Light and Power.—Not sufficient money to cover the expenses for the rest of the year.

There are a number of transfers to A-1, evidently due to mistakes in arithmetic when the budget was made up, which are as follows:

Head nurses of Wards, 9 at $960 a year; Night Supervisor, 1 at $1,090 a year; Out-Patient Department Nurses, 34 at $1,500 to $1,600 a year.

The amount asked for the assistant resident medical officers, 4 at $1,200 a year, was due to the fact that the full amount for four a year was not entered in the budget because in previous years it had not been possible to fill all these positions for the whole of the year.

The transfer to A-2, Temporary Employees, was probably caused by the number of temporary employees carried because of regular employees being sick and receiving pay during their sickness.

The transfer asked for D-2, Food and Ice, is caused owing to the fact that the balance on hand according to the November 30 draft sheet is only $2,144.71. The amount of money appropriated was considerably less than that asked for; further, the cost of food is higher this year than last year.

Yours very truly,

JAMES J. MINOT,
Secretary.

The above transfers were made by the City Auditor with the approval of the Mayor December 17, 1925.

From Other Sources, $2,150.18, to B-4, Transportation of Persons, $16; A-3, Unassigned, $1,826; B-6, Hire of Teams, FINANCE COMMISSION.

RUPERT S. CARVEN,
City Auditor.

DEAR SIR,—For the reasons as below explained, will you kindly approve and forward to the Mayor the following request for transfer within the appropriations of the Finance Commission:

From the appropriation for G-2, Special Investigations, $450, to the appropriation for B-1, Printing and Binding, $100; B-39, General Plant, $150; D-1, Office Supplies, $200.

From A-1, Case Worker at $3,000 per year, $125, to A-1, Case Worker at $1,500 per year, $125.

The commission has been obliged, for the sake of preservation, to rebind volumes of Boston City Documents and Massachusetts Reports, to the number of forty-five or fifty, and wishes to pay the bill this year as it was contracted this year. There is not sufficient money in B-1 to do this.

Certain partitions in the offices of the commission have been moved and should be paid from B-39, which has been practically depleted.

Additional office supplies have been necessary this year, the staff has been enlarged and more supplies have been used.

A permanent case worker was employed December 1, at $1,500 a year and one month's salary should be paid from this year's appropriation.

Respectfully,

CHARLES L. CARR,
Chairman.

FIRE DEPARTMENT.

RUPERT S. CARVEN,
City Auditor.

DEAR SIR,—For the reasons as below explained, will you kindly approve and forward to the Mayor the following request for transfers within the appropriations of the Fire Department:

From the appropriation for A-1, Blacksmith's Helpers, 7 (6) at $28.50 per week, $5, to the appropriation for A-1, Mechanics, 30 (31) at $33 per week, $5.

There is need for a blacksmith in the Bureau of Supplies and Repairs on account of the growing work on motor apparatus. By promoting a man, who came to this department as a blacksmith, but took a reduction of pay as a blacksmith's helper some two years ago, this new position will be efficiently taken care of.

Respectfully,

THEODORE A. GLYNN,
Commissioner.

The above transfers were made by the City Auditor with the approval of the Mayor December 7, 1925.

BOSTON, December 2, 1925.

From A-1, Privates, $1,092 at $1,500-$2,000 per year, $2,200 to E-7, Pensions, $2,200.

The deficit in E-7, Pensions, was caused by requesting an appropriation too small to cover numbers not anticipated at the time.

Respectfully,

THEODORE A. GLYNN,
Commissioner.

The above transfers were made by the City Auditor with the approval of the Mayor, December 11, 1925.

From A-1, Laborer, Fire Alarm, 1 at $4.50 per day, $66, to A-1, Assistant Janitor and Guide, at $5.50 per day, $66.

Request new position by promoting $1,700 clerk to $2,000 and assigning said clerk to the new Fire Alarm Station in the Fenway. This branch has never had a permanent clerk and as the volume of work is ever on the increase there, respectfully make request for same.

Two (2) new privates at $1,000 are needed for the new Foamite apparatus which is to be installed as a company shortly, hence the request.

The new Fire Alarm Station is about to be occupied, and it will be necessary to employ a man to care for the place as an assistant janitor; this man will act as guide also for tourists and visitors, who visit the Fire Alarm Headquarters to view the system.

SIR,—In order to pay bills now at hand and those due on December 31, 1925, it will be necessary to transfer on our budget and request an additional amount of $314.95.

From A-1, Personal Service, 3 Deputy Sealers at $1,900-$2,000 per year, $19.04, to 7 Deputy Sealers at $2,000 per year, $19.04.

From B-39, General Plant, $36; C-13, Tools and Instruments, $135, to C-4, Motor Vehicles Equipment, $171.

Constant repairs, using extra amount of gasoline and oil to run and the incident hard usage on the tires and tubes have caused the expenses up to date. On all these items, however, we were cut at the beginning of the year from the amounts figured by us by the following amounts:

B-14, $480 cut, now asking transfer for $355.

C-4, 473 cut, now asking transfer for $171.

D-11, $330 cut, now asking transfer for $55.40.

Hoping this request will meet with your approval, I am,

Respectfully yours,

JAMES A. SWEENEY,
Sealer.

MAYOR CURLEY WARNS AGAINST INCREASED MENACE OF FIRES IN WINTER.

Mayor Curley, on December 24, sent the following letter to Fire Commissioner Theodore A. Glynn:

COMMISSIONER THEODORE A. GLYNN,
Boston Fire Department, Boston.

DEAR SIR,—The morning newspapers published a list of fires with the losses sustained that is alarming. Undoubtedly, in a large measure, these fires may be traced to carelessness on the part of the individual. However it is well to bear in mind that it is not an unusual situation for a merchant to find the holiday season ended with a large stock of holiday goods on hand and, under the circumstances, it might be well to protect the individual as well as the community from a weakness to which occasionally human nature is susceptible.

As a measure of protection I beg to suggest that you increase the fire inspection force and make more frequent inspections of premises during the remainder of the winter season.

Respectfully,

JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

MAKES PLEA FOR UNITED EFFORT ON PART OF ALL CITIZENS FOR A GREATER BOSTON AS MOST CONDUCTIVE TO COMMERCIAL, INDUSTRIAL AND CULTURAL BENEFIT TO COMMUNITY.

HON. JAMES M. CURLEY, IN VALEDICTORY TO CITIZENS, SOUNDS CALL TO PATRIOTIC RALLY AROUND ALL LEADERS WHO WILL IN NEW ADMINISTRATION WORK TO BRING CITY OF OUR LOVE AND PRIDE BACK TO ITS FORMER PRISTINE GLORY AND ACCOMPLISHMENT.

In laying down the burdens and cares of the office of Mayor of the City of Boston and passing along the official duties and administrative problems the position entails to my successor, there are some views concerning the present needs and future possibilities of the city I desire to convey to my fellow citizens which are based upon an experience of twenty-five years with the affairs of the municipality. My service as an official of Boston covers seventeen years out of that twenty-five, during which time I was a member of the Council in 1900, 1901; a member of the Board of Aldermen 1904, 1905, 1906, 1907, 1908, 1909; a member of the reconstituted City Council, which displaced and absorbed the two former chambers, in 1910, 1911, and Mayor of the city, 1914, 1915, 1916, 1917 and 1922, 1923, 1924, 1925, an experience sufficiently extended to make me familiar with municipal legislation and administration and enable me to express an intelligent opinion on the conditions and requirements of this city.

I am a native of the City of Boston; here I grew up and here I acquired such training and education as I possess; I am very proud of the city of my birth, its traditions, history and achievements; I am zealous for its prosperity and growth and the expansion of its commerce and industry; and I am jealous of its good name and reputation; and resentful of those who for personal gain, political advantage, or for other purposes equally base and unworthy, have been willing or consenting, to the sacrifice of much that Boston stands for in the annals of the Republic.

Boston, like every other great American city, is peopled by a population diverse in its origins and various in its religious beliefs. These peoples have made their homes in Boston; they have absorbed its spirit and contributed to its growth and greatness; and in the day of national trouble have always given good service and made willing sacrifice for the common weal. They have entered into the warp and woof of our national and civic life; they and their children are here to stay, to become part and parcel of the American community; and upon the training and treatment the newer peoples receive from the older will depend much of the character of the future of our city, much of the happiness, peace and contentment of our citizens. These opinions are not especially new; they are based on the experience of all lands in their formative and fluid ages; and we in America must learn from the success and failure of others how to meet and solve the problems that emerge from the old conditions repeated here and now.

The futility of attempting to indict a nation, a people, or a specific group of exiles and newcomers, has been stated time and again. Men are pretty much alike no matter where they originate, what tongue they speak, what God they worship, or what church they worship

Him in; they love their homes and families; they react according to the treatment accorded to them in their new environment; and if for no other reason an enlightened self-respect should impel us to make the newcomers a source of strength not of weakness to the community. *Therein the attitude of Boston today and tomorrow towards the newer peoples, the latest comers, becomes of vital importance to the city's future. It is as unphilosophical as it is illogical to attempt to hold the stranger within our gates responsible for our derelictions; we must be our own sin-eaters, and learn to understand that no particular people is a chosen people; that a full pantry, a clean shirt and a contented home are the best allies of law and order, and the best auguries of a happy community. The duty of securing these desirable conditions lies heaviest on the backs of the people who have been here the longest, and it is undeniable that if they refuse to do their duty and foolishly insist on pulling back in the harness, they will realize later that they are delaying the coming of the perfect day. They have enjoyed the rights and privileges of America a long time; the novelty of it has worn off; they are too prone to stress them and neglect the duties their citizenship and Americanism require; and to expect from the stranger a higher standard of duty than they themselves give while they grudge him the rights and privileges, is folly.

The new peoples in time emerge with the old; they increase and multiply within the years; they become American citizens endowed with all the rights and privileges of their citizenship and for good or ill must be reckoned with. It would seem to be the part of wisdom on the part of those who now constitute the majority of Boston to so guide and guard these people and their rights that when the inevitable day comes when today's majority becomes tomorrow's minority the spirit of political and religious fair play and justice will so saturate Boston that the rights and privileges of their children will be guarded and conserved by a genuinely American community. That condition does not exist today; the political parties of the state see things as in a glass darkly; and the interests of the few are allowed to outweigh the betterment of the Commonwealth and city; and unless we wake up we will be left laggards in the struggle.

We cannot live on traditions of former greatness and leadership; traditions are spurs to activity and achievement, not foundations upon which to build accomplishments; and the day has come when Boston needs a community united in action and purpose, animated by the broadest of American ideals, infused by the spirit of progress, and regardful of the true meaning of Americanism. We must rid ourselves of the provincialism that bids fair to become parochialism; we must meet the conditions of the restless, changing age, discard the limitations of the country town, and put on the garments of the potential cosmopolis we are; and by shedding the trappings of the village become metropolitan Bostonians. To the accomplishment of this purpose we must subordinate the sectarian and the party man to the Bostonian emulous for the greatness and betterment of our city, each of us free in his place and thought and action, and all united for the common weal. Let us at least make a start for the goal on the mountain top where the Boston of our affections may sit in the honor and respect that were once hers.

I am firmly convinced that the time has arrived for concerted action by all organizations and individuals interested either in the city or the Commonwealth to work whole-heartedly for a greater Boston. I have a profound realization of the obstacles that must be overcome to achieve an object so desirable and necessary; but I firmly believe that the beneficial results that will accrue from the establishment of a Greater Boston will justify the effort and energy expended on its accomplishment. The last Federal census quoted Boston in eighth place among American cities, despite the fact that a Greater Boston, embracing the cities and towns within fifteen miles of the State House, gives Boston fourth rank among the cities of America.

The commercial and industrial benefits that would result from this favored position should be apparent to every thoughtful citizen, yet politics prevents favorable action, to the detriment of both city and state.

The port of Boston, which for more than a century occupied first place commercially, and for half a century second place in the matter of exports and imports, is today relegated to seventh place, and a harbor once alive with the shipping of the nations of the world is today merely a port of call. This negligible condition of Commercial Boston is reflected in the Rivers and Harbors appropriation bill adopted annually by Congress, which this year, out of a total expenditure in excess of $16,000,000, allots the scanty sum of $200,000 to the port of Boston. It is further reflected in the failure of international and national industries either to locate within the city limits or to establish branch distributing agencies here for overseas trade, notwithstanding the commercial advantage represented by a saving of nearly three days in round trip shipments to Europe, or a saving of time and risk in shipments to the Pacific Coast via the Panama Canal, or to the Atlantic ports of South America. The same hostile attitude displayed by the Federal Government in the case of Boston in the matter of development of commercial agencies is constantly manifested by our State Legislature, almost wholly as a matter of politics. Personally, I believe that too much consideration has been given the question of political control in the event of a Greater Boston, and consequently the real object of such consolidation has been lost sight of, namely, the benefits that would accrue to both city and state from an expanded municipality with a community of interest. The creation of a Greater Boston will undoubtedly result in the control of the greater city for many years by the Republican party; but if this change in control will mark an end of petty hostilities and the beginning of a constructive program for the restoration of commercial activity and the promotion of industrial prosperity, it should be welcomed by all citizens. The present geographical area of the city inevitably tends to the slower growth annually in population as compared with other American cities. The increased demands of education, of religious and charitable institutions, coupled with the normal growth of mercantile and industrial establishments and the necessary extension of playground and park facilities, must result, not only in an increase in the valuation of land within the city limits but lessen the area available for places of habitation under our present political and municipal organization. The inviting character of the towns and smaller cities adjacent to Boston, and the excellent facilities afforded by transportation systems and good roads, inevitably tend to the development of the suburbs of Boston to the disadvantage of the city, from the standpoint of numerical position based upon population, a large percentage of which shares our advantages without contributing to their upkeep. Under these circumstances the City of Boston, until such time as a Greater Boston has been established, must be confronted with the necessity of providing, at a great expenditure of public money for street widenings and construction of the arteries necessary for the convenience and benefit of a transient population, equal in actual numbers, and sometimes exceeding, the total population, of the city. Railroad transportation, rapid, frequent and adequate, for a numerous commuting population who earn their livelihood in the city and live elsewhere than Boston, presents a problem difficult of solution. Believing that sanity might sometimes assert itself in our legislative assembly, I have, during the past four years, instructed the City Planning Board and Municipal Department heads to base their estimates upon the possible requirements of the next quarter of a century. In consequence of this planning for the future many of the municipal departments are in a position today to assume the increased obligations that would result from the adoption of a Greater Boston program. From the point of view of public health, Boston has achieved the distinction during the present year of ranking first among American cities. Boston has front rank among American cities in municipal hospitalization facilities. Boston's Fire Department this year received the highest commendation from the Board of Fire Underwriters. In public education Boston is the only city in America defraying the entire cost of education and schoolhouse facilities from its current taxes, paying as it goes, without burdening the future. In park and recreation facilities, Boston's place is in the forefront. Boston's police accommodations, through the recent completion of the largest police station in the world and the best equipped police headquarters to be found in America, are surpassed by none. In view of these evidences of a constantly progressive activity, with an exceptionally well organized and efficiently conducted Public Works Department and a sane consideration of the commercial and industrial needs of this community, the case for the consolidation of Boston and the suburban cities and towns she has built up and fostered into a Greater Boston should be apparent to every intelligent citizen.

Against the claim for this most needed change is heard the plea of local autonomy, largely from sources that have never been solicitous concerning home rule for Boston; yet this plea, feeble and fatuous as it is, has, by political bolstering, been accepted by politicians as sufficient to deny a movement, healthful and stimulating to the territory that would be embraced in the greater city, and the state generally. The elements of Greater Boston are here; the embryo of the creation exists already in various commissions and activities, called Metropolitan, when no metropolis is functioning, and which under consolidation would become integral parts of the machinery of the greater city.

The need of the hour is the self-reliance and faith that made successful the Massachusetts Bay Colony. Poston in 1930 will celebrate the tercentenary of the settlement of Boston. The time is ample in which to consummate a Greater Poston as an enduring memorial to our work and worth in this century. It is the character of task in which all can play a part and should success crown our mutual efforts it will be the character of victory in which all may well rejoice.

FINANCIAL.

The City of Poston has long enjoyed the highest financial reputation among American municipalities. There is no city in America that enjoys a larger market for its securities, and there are no municipal securities that enjoy a more ready sale than those of the City of Poston.

This financial position, the result of extreme conservativeness coupled with honest management, has rendered it possible for the City of Poston to finance its loans regardless of the financial condition in the nation, at the lowest rate obtained for municipal securities by any city in America. Boston alone among American municipalities has, during the past fifteen years, with the exception of debt incurred for rapid transit, reduced its net debt $8,000,000, and in addition has provided the sum, including amounts authorized this year, of $21,000,000 for school lands and buildings out of taxation, despite the custom obtaining in substantially every other American city of issuing bonds for work of this character.

The enviable position of Poston in the matter of tax rate as contrasted with other large American cities and the cities, large and small, of Massachusetts itself, is of interest. Despite an expenditure of nearly $3,500,000 in the past three years for the maintenance of a contributory pension system, and county obligations borne entirely by the City of Boston, and a metropolitan tax system, the major burden of which is borne by the City of Poston, it has been possible in each of the past four years to establish the third lowest tax rate of any Massachusetts city.

The public demand that the Government do more and more than has ever previously been done for public necessity and convenience, has been met in a larger measure and in a broader manner by Poston than any city in Massachusetts. The increase in the cost of municipal administration has made necessary an increase in temporary loans to meet obligations that are discharged by municipal revenues. The City Government will organize this year during the first week of January, and taxes will be assessed on both real estate and personal April 1; but the tax rate will not be announced until about the middle of August, while tax collections are not made until October 1. It may readily be observed that in consequence of the prevailing system that municipal departmental activities must be largely financed through temporary loans for a full period of nine months. The same condition that obtains with reference to temporary borrowing in Poston obtains throughout the Commonwealth; and it has been conservatively estimated that temporary borrowing during the year 1925 by the cities and towns of the Commonwealth represented a total estimated at $75,000,000. The interest charges represent for the year a cost for the use of temporary money in the Commonwealth of approximately $1,500,000, and unless the system is changed it will be impossible to avoid an annual increase in this expenditure. There is no immediate prospect of a reduction in the cost of municipal or town administration. The public will annually demand increased service and the cities and towns in response to these demands will provide it.

The theory which at present applies in the case of Poston provides that the tax collections in a given year shall be equivalent to a 100 per cent collection upon taxes collected less abatements. The difficulty in living up to the theory with reference to tax collection lies in the fact that the taxpayer enjoys the right to petition for abatement at any time within a period of six months after the date of levy. In consequence of this condition, properties which should be sold because of failure of owner or owners to pay taxes, cannot be subject to sale until after the six months' period has elapsed. With a view to conserving revenues, and to provide the funds for the conduct of municipal activities, New York City has adopted a system under which persons subject to a tax assessment pay early in the municipal year an amount equivalent to 50 per cent of the tax levy for the preceding year, the balance of the amount actually taxed to be paid after October 1. The adoption of the New York system would in a measure render unnecessary temporary borrowing, and would materially reduce the enormous sums now required to meet interest charges on temporary borrowing.

In addition to the adoption of the New York system, it might be advisable to consider increasing the interest charges on unpaid taxes from 6 per cent to 8 per cent on taxes paid prior to December 15, and an increase from 8 per cent to 10 per cent on taxes remaining unpaid after December 15. In addition to these measures, an advance in the assessment date from April 1 to January 1 would prove of real value. The proposition for the advancement of the tax date was advocated by me in a bill presented to the Legislature this year, but which the Legislature in its wisdom rejected. This measure providing for an advance in the tax date while an expedient rather than a cure-all, would have resulted in a considerable saving through rendering unnecessary the borrowing of money in the form of temporary loans for a period of at least three months each year.

Under present conditions it is an utter impossibility due to the possible earning power of money invested in wildcat or other securities, to compel payment of more than 90 per cent of taxes levied in a given year. The average individual prefers to pay the present 6 per cent or 8 per cent interest charge on unpaid taxes rather than to forego possible 10, 12, or 15 or more per cent which may be earned through speculation in which the money is invested. Under the circumstances it is an utter impossibility to collect in any given year within $5,000,000 of the total levy, and in a period of depression an estimate of $10,000,000 would not be setting the figure too high.

In consequence, while the city in its taxes receivable shows a surplus over all expenditures paid or payable, it is the custom to declare that a deficit exists at the end of the year, due to the noncollection of cash represented by outstanding unpaid taxes.

HEALTH DEPARTMENT.

From the standpoint of public welfare the most important activity of the city is represented by public health. Due to the generosity of two great Boston citizens the opportunity for service has been so enlarged that the city for the first time in its history ranks first in the list of large American cities in health services rendered. A survey of health activities conducted by the American Public Health Association, acting in conjunction with the United States Public Health Service, scored Boston 907 out of a possible 1,000 points. The beneficence of Thomas Forsyth, whose contribution to his fellow man is represented by a benefaction of $3,000,000 in the establishment of the Forsyth Dental Infirmary, where the children of the city can receive treatment for adenoids, tonsils and teeth gratis, and the benefaction of George Robert White, with its vast clearing house possibilities for public health, present an inspiration for humane and useful service unequalled in the world's history. The achievements during the past four years in the successful combating of disease are most noteworthy.

During this period there has been secured for Boston the lowest death rate in the history of the city from tuberculosis, diphtheria, typhoid fever, childbirth and pregnancy, infant mortality, and enteritis in children under two years of age, and there have been fewer stillbirths than at any time since 1900. These results may be traced to the co-ordination of health activities and health program adopted. The problem of additional accommodations for children suffering from infectious diseases, acute in 1917, exists no longer. Compulsory pasteurization of all milk sold in Boston so that at the present time 98 per cent of the city's supply is pasteurized; 100,000 immunization protective doses of toxin-antitoxin have been administered as a protection against diphtheria, and with the co-ordination of public and private health and welfare agencies through a central agency, measures for the prevention of communicable diseases and infant deaths, the correction of physical defects, the education of parents and children in protective health rules, indicate that we are approaching a health program goal that is unexcelled in this country. The Health Department nurses during the past year have made in excess of 122,000 visits in baby hygiene work. Since taking over the infant and pre-school-age-child hygiene activities from the voluntary agencies by the city, the Health Department has organized and is conducting a chain of twenty-two child hygiene stations, at which there are thirty-six weekly baby clinics, at which an average of 1,000 children are treated each week. The program for extension of health unit activities under the direction of the George Robert White Fund Trustees is today represented by the establishment of a health unit in the most congested section of the North End of Boston, costing equipped, $450,000; a health unit in process of construction at East Boston at an estimated cost of $300,000; and a site taken at South Boston upon which another unit to cost $300,000 will be erected. A definite program of extension which will ultimately be represented by six George Robert White Fund health units in six congested centers of the city is an indication of the valuable character of the work being conducted for the protection of public health.

It may be reasonably expected that the operation of these six health units and the West End Unit will play an important part in the material reduction of infant morbidity and mortality. Motherhood in its most trying period will enjoy a protection never previously accorded in any American municipality, thus guaranteeing a more healthful and sturdy womanhood and manhood for our city.

During the past four years there has been no serious outbreak or epidemic of communicable disease in this city. Our Detention Hospital is in better physical condition and with better equipment than ever before. A compilation of Health Laws, rules, regulations, and ordinances, comprising 350 pages, the fifth issued and compiled in 100 years in Boston, was made last year. The three medical schools of Boston and the Forsyth Dental Infirmary are co-operating intensively with our child-health program, and this department is co-operating with the Harvard School of Public Health in the education of their students who are entering the field of preventive medicine (students—graduate physicians) from all over the world. Intensive work has been started with leading experts in the city in research work in whooping cough, and beneficial results are anticipated.

Supplementing the work of the Health Department, the policy inaugurated in 1916, the purpose of which has been to rid the city of disease breeding so-called "slum" tenement places of habitation, has been pursued with vigor. More than 2,000 houses have been razed, and in the congested centers of the city breathing places, which are really the lungs of a city, have been established. The policy adopted in 1916, continued without interruption, would in a period of fifty years, through an annual expenditure of $200,000 result in the elimination from our city of fifty half-acres of unsightly and unhealthy tenement properties where babies and mothers waste and die for lack of sunshine and fresh air.

The Morton Street Playground, the playground surrounding the North End Health Unit on Salem street, the site of the Health Unit at East Boston, the playground established on D street in South Boston, and numerous other playgrounds that might be termed Mothers' Rests and Children's Safety Zones, now serve a health-giving purpose where formerly the only purpose served was the breeding and distribution of dirt and disease. The expenditure of public money for parks and playgrounds has been supplemented by liberal expenditures for the establishment of permanent concrete "bleachers" through which opportunity is now afforded for spectators to witness in comfort athletic events arranged under the direction of the Park Commission upon the public parks and playgrounds of the city. "Bleachers" with a seating capacity in excess of fifty thousand have been installed, and it is not an unusual situation to find every seat occupied during pleasant summer days by persons who, through attendance at baseball or other outdoor activities, are unconsciously contributing to the promotion of health and longevity.

THE BOSTON CITY HOSPITAL.

The Boston City Hospital is one of the most important of the city's instrumentalities and while in a large sense a public philanthropy it is in its results one of the most practical, economic utilities administered by Boston. The success of every industrial and commercial enterprise is measured in the skill and constancy of its workers; and the preservation of the health and conservation of the strength of the wage earners of the enterprise is just as essential to it as its credit in the bank. This highly useful and humane function is worth all the city pays for it and deserves the sympathy and support of all, since the health and welfare of the army of industry, and their conservation, constitute the basis of our prosperity and the guaranty of our civilization.

The Boston City Hospital has always appealed to the best and wisest in our community; its upkeep and the expansion of its work and instrumentalities have met public approval; its community value is acknowledged and its growth in all modern directions indorsed; and that growth along all the lines of medical progress has kept pace with the broadening intelligence of the age; and in the cure and care incidental to all hospitalization the City Hospital has maintained the front place in the field of preventive medicine and research. In the past four years $6,109,306 has been appropriated for the maintenance of the Boston City Hospital, and $1,315,899 has been provided by loans for new building and equipment and the work done has shown that it is money well spent.

There were admitted to the hospital during the past four years for treatment for a variety of ailments, 102,136 persons; and the number of visits of persons made to the Out-Patient Department during that same period was 959,446. These figures give some conception of the tremendous work done by this splendid institution.

The Out-Patient Department with a capacity three times that of the old institution, or with sufficient accommodations to permit of a maximum treatment of 2,000 patients a day, is unquestionably the best equipped and most complete Out-Patient Department Building in America. The Thorndike Memorial Medical Research Laboratory is unique among municipally controlled hospitals in the United States and contains the largest and best equipped X-Ray Department. It provides opportunities for medical research, two floors being devoted to laboratories, a large animal house upon the roof and twenty private wards for intensive study. The Thorndike Memorial Research Laboratory represents an investment of $500,000, the dividends from which will be visualized in the improved health of the community through a scientific combating of diseases by preventive research work.

In 1924 legislation was secured authorizing an expenditure of $3,000,000 for hospital building requirements; and upon December 17, 1925, the corner stone was laid of the Gynecological and Obstetrical Building, the most up-to-date to be found in any American municipality. The total number of beds, prior to the erection of this building, for maternity cases was but twenty-three and the number of births annually in these twenty-three beds has never been less than five hundred. The completion of this building, representing an expenditure of $750,000 will mark an end to overcrowding and exposure that has too long obtained. Accommodations will be provided for eighty mothers and ninety babies in three wards of the building, while fifty-two women in need of gynecological operations can be cared for in two of the remaining wards. The entire upper floor will be devoted to labor, delivery and operation room, where prospective mothers may obtain the best services that medical, surgical and nursing science can furnish, regardless of the financial standing of the individual.

Plans have been prepared and bids for construction will shortly be invited for medical and surgical ward buildings sufficient in size to accommodate 200 patients. Recognizing the necessity for an alert, healthful and contented nursing force to supplement the work of the physician and surgeon, provision has been made to erect a nurses' home with accommodations for 125 nurses; and a building of sufficient size to house 125 officers, internes and orderlies. The sum of $500,000 has been apportioned to enlarge the pathological building, modernize the South Department buildings, and provide the complementary dining room, laundry and store-house facilities. The official installation of these improvements will represent an hospitalization program sufficient to meet the requirements of the next twenty-five years, so that if and when the Greater Boston project becomes a reality in the next quarter of a century the city will be in a position to meet the increased obligations necessitated by the action of the citizenship comprising the territory that would be embraced by what is recognized as Greater Boston.

Tuberculosis is today recognized as an economic disease, and while the mortality rate has been materially reduced within the past ten years, opportunities for greater results still remain. The so-called saving-wage established in America during the period of the war has, happily for the people of America, been maintained. To the saving-wage may be traced whatever measure of business prosperity today obtains in America. In consequence of the increased earnings and purchasing power of the workers of America there has been a larger use of the necessities so essential to the prevention of economic diseases. The advantages of the saving-wage in the home are represented through better clothing for the children and more and better food for every member of the household. Supplementing the benefits resulting from the saving-wage, provision has been made for the establishment of an Out-Patient Department for the Boston Tuberculosis Hospital, the corner stone of which was laid December 24, 1925, which will provide opportunities for diagnosis at a central point of the city where all persons desiring examination will be afforded opportunities for consultation without inconvenience or expense. It has been customary for more than a quarter of a century to send unfortunates suffering with chronic diseases, who were without influential friends or money, to the Paupers Institution for treatment. This institution, located on an island three miles distant in Boston Harbor, while it represented to the busy practitioner a splendid opportunity for service, entailed a sacrifice of time that he not infrequently found impossible to make. The need of a chronic hospital on the mainland has long been recognized, but the expense involved in the abandonment of the island institution and the cost of a replica of it on the mainland has in the past been considered too great to warrant the character of action which justice to the unfortunates clearly calls for.

At a cost of $240,000 a site has at last been secured for a chronic hospital at the top of Parker Hill. An area representing more than 500,000 feet of land has been provided where a building sufficient in size to meet the requirements of the next century may be located.

On December 29 of this year bids will be invited for the first unit of this chronic hospital, representing an expenditure approximating $1,000,000, which will permit of such enlargements as may be necessary to meet any demand of the future. The establishment of the chronic hospital at Parker Hill will mark an end to the classification of the chronic sick as paupers; and the location of the building in a section of the city wherein are located the medical and surgical schools of the leading Massachusetts Universities should make possible, for the first time, constant professional services of the highest character.

The Federal Government having at last provided the necessary funds for housing the demented veterans of the World War, the property of the city located at West Roxbury and leased to the government for such patients will be returned to the city. An opportunity in consequence will be afforded for the transfer of the aged poor to quarters where they may be visited by friends without the inconvenience and annoyance they are now subjected to because of the isolation of the institution in Boston Harbor. The completion of the chronic hospital, with the transfer of the chronic sick to Parker Hill and the removal of the aged poor to the West Roxbury institution, presents an opportunity for the state to solve the distressing question of a new State's Prison. Long Island is admirably adapted for a correctional institution and the transfer of the inmates of Concord Reformatory to Long Island and of the prisoners in Charlestown to Concord, should be possible.

EDUCATION.

The Boston schools are an entity apart from the rest of the city administration; the Legislature in its wisdom has created a special body, the Boston School Committee, to look after the affairs of the schools; it has large powers and few checks upon its authority; the Mayor has merely a nominal corrective connection with school administration, the Council none; and there is practically no restraint upon its activities and expenditures, the function of the city government being restricted to building the schoolhouses and providing any and all funds to finance the system.

In 1905 there were 100,463 pupils attending the Boston schools—90,605 day and 9,818 night school attendants; the expenditure in that year was $3,676,731.26, which worked out a per capita expense of $6.17. In the current year for 11 months the expense of the Boston public schools was $17,684,567.59, which with the number of pupils in attendance, 137,909—129,041 by day and 9,818 by night—works out a per capita of $22.58.

The City Council finds the money through taxation to meet the demands of the School Committee; both bodies are elected from and by the people and represent the average man in administrative fitness and equipment; yet, while any gentleman with reformatory notions and quaint ideas of public duty may earn applause by throwing a brick at the Council, he will run the risk of being stigmatized as an iconoclast if he undertakes to question the wisdom and integrity of a School Committee. In the presence of this public psychological point of view few councillors are intrepid enough to refuse to vote any and all the money the School Committee demands; and the laws are so framed that such refusal is discouraged and the money asked is supplied.

The Mayor and his Schoolhouse Commission build the public schoolhouses and there is a constant race between the birth rate and the schoolhouse with the birth rate generally ahead. Personally, I have striven to provide a place and desk for every child of school age in the city and I am still behind.

From time to time the multiplicity of items in the curriculum of the schools is seriously protested, and justly, for there is a needless lot of tophamper in education that has the appearance of being a futile attempt to pour a quart of information into a pint of brains. There appears to be a radical need of a revision in the curriculum and the elimination of subjects whose usefulness as an aid to preparation for citizenship it is difficult to explain to the man who pays the freight—the taxpayer—and with such elimination would go a squadron of experts who adorn payrolls. It is absolutely true that the fundamentals, upon which all later and more advanced culture rest, are an ability to read, write and cipher; and yet to state this age-old fact is to call down on one's head the scorn, anger and contempt of those who insist that the public school is the ante-chamber of the college and university, rather than what it actually is, the door to productive industry and good citizenship. About 99 per cent of the public school pupils after graduation go to work to help themselves and their families earn bread and butter; the other 1 per cent may go to college, and yet the college rather than the home and shop is made the objective of the school. Opinions as to the relative value of objectives will always differ, and in view of the limitations written into the immigration laws and the quite evident indisposition of many of our youth to do the rough work of the country, which is the most essential work to be done, one might well question the wisdom of a scheme of education which if it fits some for what may be described as the parasitic occupations of our civilization, certainly does unfit many for plain industry who have no genius for the "white collar" class of our social organization.

That something is inherently wrong with our public schools is evident. An analysis of some of its statistics is illuminating if not pleasant. In a passage of twenty years, from 1905 to 1925, the number of pupils in attendance at the schools increased from 100,463 to 137,909, or roughly an increase of 37 per cent. In the same period the expenses of the system in Boston have jumped from $3,676,731.26 to $17,684,567.59, that is, $14,007,836.33, or roughly about 400 per cent. These figures, showing a 37 per cent increase in attendance and a 400 per cent increase in cost, deserve some thought; and it might be valuable to the taxpayer to have them thoroughly examined and learn what the causes are. The increase in the salaries of teachers, which had my approval, doesn't explain it all, and the increasing tendency to add to the subjects taught or rehearsed and the specialists who carry on the work should be well worth investigation, if only with a view of getting rid of the superfluities that add to the public burdens without increasing the intelligence, industrial fitness and capacity for citizenship and duty of the pupils. I am writing these things in a suggestive spirit, for I feel unless these questions are satisfactorily answered, the public school system must suffer, for an overburdened taxpayer generally kicks first and thinks later.

I hope I am not unduly alarmed. In any event I believe that my successor and the citizens of Boston will do well to give some thought to school finances and to remember that the hard facts and vulgar considerations of our civilization—streets, sewers, sanitation, health, water supply and the protection of life and property—should not be disregarded.

The work of the physical side of our educational system, during the last four years, which is the labor of the Schoolhouse Commission, represents a busy and efficient program of operation. This branch of the public school system is under the control and supervision of the Mayor and City Council, the administrative work being done by the commission.

The housing of the children of the public schools is indeed a tremendous problem, and the results which have been accomplished in this direction have been very creditable.

The growth from the first small building erected in 1635 has been continuous. Up to September 25, 1925, 292 permanent school buildings were erected, accommodating 127,231 pupils.

The school buildings of Boston were built by the City Council and School Committee previous to 1901, when the Board of Schoolhouse Commissioners was created by an act of the Legislature. The money at this time was derived in part from taxation and in part from bond issue. In the year 1916, under the present Mayor, this act was amended and the bond issue discarded, thus putting the city on a pay-as-you-go policy under which schools have been constructed and authorized to the amount of over $21,000,000.

During the past four years, 1922-1925 inclusive, the Board has constructed 40 new high, intermediate and elementary schools, at a cost of $11,340,873, containing classrooms to the number of 406, and accommodating 16,280 pupils.

The Board has under construction at the present time 15 school buildings which will cost approximately $6,888,000. These buildings contain 175 classrooms and will accommodate approximately 7,000 pupils.

Plans are in progress for 8 buildings including one high school. These buildings will accommodate 3,520 pupils when completed, and will cost approximately $1,030,500.

During the past four years the Board has made much progress towards the accomplishment of a seat for every pupil in a permanent school building. Due to the large number of buildings completed the Board has been able to dispense with the use of 31 portable school buildings for classroom purposes.

Work has begun on the athletic field in connection with the Dorchester High School for Boys at a cost of approximately $375,000, when completed.

The amount appropriated for alterations and repairs to existing school buildings for the years 1922-1925, inclusive, was $5,465,793.13. Extensive alterations were made to 98 existing buildings and replacements and repairs to heating apparatus, electrical appliances and lighting, roofing and plumbing; also, for the general repair of the buildings, such as carpentry, painting, glazing and masonry, the grading of yards, lawns and moving of portable school buildings to relieve crowded conditions in certain districts.

PROTECTION OF LIFE AND PROPERTY.

The report of the Board of Fire Underwriters for the year 1925, representing a survey by an impartial agency, disclosed certain facts and figures of a most gratifying character. Attention was directed to the fact that high pressure fire protection service, embracing some seventeen miles of pipe mains located in the high valued district of Boston, has been completely installed; the motorization of the Fire Department, started in 1914, has been completed; the two-platoon system, after a full year of trial, had justified its adoption; and through an increase in the maximum and minimum wage of the fire fighters, an effective fire-fighting force, contented and intelligent, and with a capacity for efficient and energetic service, has been established. The fire signal system, the nerve center of any successful fire-fighting plan, and long located in the most hazardous fire section of the city, has been replaced by the most modern fire alarm service station in the world, located in a section of the park system practically inaccessible to fire hazards and of a sufficient capacity to meet the requirements of a city many times greater in area than that of the City of Boston.

The expenditures for improvements of the fire service have been large and productive of such an increased efficiency that it should call for an early decrease in fire insurance rates.

The discontent in the Police Department due to wages and inadequate housing conditions has been remedied largely during the past four years. Both the minimum and maximum wage of patrolmen have been increased, and provided that the agencies created for the correction of evil doers apprehended by the police were sufficiently alert and high minded it should be a small matter for Boston to rank first among American cities in the matter of freedom from lawlessness. The housing conditions in the Police Department have long been a prolific source of discontent due to inadequate structures and unhealthy surroundings, or, in other words, due to the failure of municipal authorities to provide necessary funds for construction and maintenance. In the past four years the expenditure for housing the Police Department has been greater than in the entire century preceding. A new police station for intown service and traffic squad, representing an expenditure of approximately $1,000,000 for construction and equipment, ten stories in height and the largest single station of its kind in the world, has been constructed and is now in use. The police headquarters at Pemberton square is unquestionably most inadequate for its official purposes and will be replaced by a modern structure, nearly completed, in the Park square section of Boston, at an expenditure of $1,000,000. Appropriations have been made for courthouses, and these structures are either complete or in the process of completion at West Roxbury, Brighton, Dorchester and East Boston. The erection of these courthouses has made possible the enlargement and improvement of station houses in those districts through occupancy of the quarters formerly utilized in station houses for court purposes, thereby providing more healthful and commodious quarters for the guardians of life and property.

PATRIOTIC SHRINES.

Boston's obligations during this, the one hundred and fiftieth anniversary of the War for Independence, have been in keeping with the best traditions of this historical city. The most sacred shrine in America, the Cradle of Liberty, Faneuil Hall, through an expenditure of $260,000 has been reconstructed in part and made immune from loss by conflagration. Funds have been provided for plans, and a site has been selected in the vicinity of Bunker Hill Monument in Charlestown, to commemorate the one hundred and fiftieth anniversary of the Battle of Bunker Hill. The sum of $400,000 has been made available for the enlargement and improvement of recreational facilities at the Strandway, South Boston, to commemorate the one hundred and fiftieth anniversary of the departure of the British fleet under Lord Howe from Boston Harbor. Bronze tablets have been erected throughout the city to mark the sites of historical events and the homes where once lived patriots of Revolutionary days. Upon the sacred soil of Boston Common a memorial to the Marquis Lafayette has been erected, and Boston will shortly unveil a bronze replica of the Declaration of Independence.

CAPITAL AND LABOR.

Boston, during the past four years, has completed a building construction program greater than in any similar period of years in the history of this city. The total amount expended upon new constructions during this period of time represents a total of $179,703,930. This building program may be traced in a large measure to two causes:

1. Harmony between the building trades employees and employers due to the adoption in 1922 of an agreement to submit all disputes that might arise to the Mayor for adjudication.

2. To the change in the height of building laws to permit the erection or reconstruction of buildings to a height of 155 feet.

It is worthy of notice that for the alterations and remodelling of structures during this same period, some $37,577,736 were spent, making a sum total expenditure in the building trades for these four years of $216,181,736, that can be credited to the spirit of industrial peace and conciliation.

The need of new hotels of great capacity has long been recognized and its value to the merchants during the summer season when business is dull is best appreciated, because for the first time in the history of the city accommodations sufficient to meet the needs of major conventions will be possible. It has been estimated that a convention of any one of a half dozen of the leading fraternal organizations in America convening in our city expends during its stay $5,000,000. One obstacle to the assembling of these conventions in Boston in the past has been lack of hotel accommodations which, upon the completion of the Statler Hotel and other hotels now in the process of construction, will no longer exist.

CITY PLANNING.

The most forward step in municipal administration in America is today recognized in the creation of planning boards. Their usefulness in the furtherance of economic, intelligent, constructive work in municipal government has long been recognized and long disregarded. Planning boards have been established, their recommendations scoffed at and their demands for reasonable funds for the prosecution of beneficial work denied. Boston, during the past four years, has been exceedingly generous in the appropriations of public funds for the Boston Planning Board; and the results obtained have justified the wisdom of this liberal policy. An intelligent, scientific, constructive policy, free from political expediency, has been substituted for the waste represented by an unwise, thoughtless, day-to-day conduct of public affairs. Due to the existence and advice of this potential agency a zoning system has been established, the value of which is already recognized and the benefits resulting from which will prove a blessing to posterity. Every worth-while improvement adopted during the past four years has first received the approval of the Planning Board. With a breadth of vision they have courageously recommended the abandonment of homeopathic treatment and the adoption of allopathic surgery for the ills which have so long afflicted Boston. They have made it possible in a short four years for Boston to shed a portion of its swaddling clothes and, through an expansion of lungs and enlargement of limbs, become a lusty child, rather than an anaemic infant.

The temporary park roads unsuited for modern traffic and temporary construction upon public highways have been abandoned, with the result that today Boston boasts of a park system with 600,000 square yards of smooth, permanent paving as against 1,200 square yards in 1914. Every radial highway in the city is today smooth paved, while the bridge approaches of the city have been replaced with modern structures, at an expenditure of $2,000,000 in the past four years.

Cambridge street, upon which during a period of one half a century not one single structure had been erected, notwithstanding the fact that it was an all important intersecting thoroughfare, has been widened to 100 feet; while new buildings, planned or under construction, is an evidence that will show a value that in increased revenue to the city will be fully 100 per cent in excess of the amount necessary to amortize the loan for the widening of the thoroughfare.

Province street, long recognized as one of Boston's serious fire hazards, and upon which no expenditure has been made in a period of three-quarters of a century, has been transformed from a dirty, disreputable, dilapidated alley to a broad, inviting and wholesome thoroughfare upon which structures have already been created or are in process of construction, representing an income to the city three times as great as the total amount necessary for the amortization of this loan.

Tremont street, from Stuart street to Castle square, has been widened to 80 feet, thereby making possible an artery for the release of downtown traffic congestion and upon the artery there has already been constructed the Metropolitan Theater Building, one of the largest and best equipped amusement houses in America, at a cost of $2,500,000 and an Elks' Home at a cost of $2,500,000, and numerous other structures totaling in the aggregate $7,000,000. At the present municipal tax rate, the revenue derived from the values accrued on this thoroughfare would represent an income to the city of two hundred per cent in excess of the amortization requirements.

The widening of Kneeland street has been authorized, and the indications are that with this improvement completed Kneeland street will develop into a high class wholesale district with substantially built, expensive structures covering every available lot upon its entire length. It is not unreasonable to anticipate that the increased revenue from this improvement will justify the wisdom of the action taken.

The congestion of the market district of Boston has of late years been of such a character that it has seriously depreciated the value of the city's investment in Faneuil Hall and the Quincy Market; and is largely responsible for the deterioration and idleness of the properties in the market district. Immediate relief will be afforded and beneficial results be achieved by the widening of Dock square, by which a free flowing traffic artery opening the heart of the market district will be created.

The vexations and expensive traffic congestion in the high-value retail section of Boston cannot be relieved by such expedients as additional traffic officers, or the adoption of laws to regulate automobile traffic. The problem created by the increase in persons and vehicles on the narrow downtown streets of Boston cannot be cured by sugar-coated remedies. A major surgical operation is necessary, and it is for the people of Boston to determine whether they have the courage, the vision, the vitality and the money to undergo the operation. The experience of the City of Boston in downtown street widenings during the past four years justified the belief that the excess condemnation act may be profitably applied in the case of the suggested loop highway.

The loop highway as proposed, with a width of 92 feet will represent an expenditure estimated at $30,000,000. Provided a strip 50 feet in width were taken by the city on both sides of the proposed highway and the land thus taken by the city were sold, it should be possible (provided the same results were secured which have obtained in England and in Buenos Ayres, where similar projects have been tried) to secure sufficient revenue from the strips sold on either side of the new highway to more than cover the entire cost of the project. I recognize the immediate need of the loop highway and am the last person in the world to suggest anything that would delay its adoption. I nevertheless believe, from the experience with the recent widenings in the downtown sections, that excess condemnations proceedings are deserving of study.

The city has been seriously hampered because of legislative limitations in the extension of sewerage works and in the expenditure of money for street construction upon thoroughfares where homes have been erected. Due to existing law which has been in operation for twenty-five years, the total annual borrowing power of the city outside the debt limit for sewerage works is limited to $1,000,000. When this law was adopted the cost of materials and of labor were about one third of the present cost. As a consequence many necessary sewerage works are postponed from year to year, and a condition is gradually developing that may at some time prove a menace to public health. The total amount which the city can expend for sewerage works in a given year could be expended in one year in the West Roxbury (Germantown) district, where, until the last four years, the old privy system was still in use. The completion of Stony Brook, upon which some $2,500,000 has already been expended, would alone represent an expenditure of $1,000,000. Legislative limitations apply in the case of water main extension, notwithstanding the fact that we have become posterity in the matter of water main expenditures. The 40-inch main laid down on Beacon street in 1859 has been supplemented by a 48-inch main on Commonwealth avenue, while the Beacon street main must continue in use until the new main is completely installed. The sum of $5,000,000 could be expended at once upon the construction of streets already accepted or streets that should be considered for acceptance, and this is in no sense a new condition.

Municipal demands for various purposes leave available for the acceptance of streets in any given year a sum rarely in excess of one tenth of the amount which should be expended.

The expenditure of about $500,000 annually, where $5,000,000 would be a proper amount, represents a condition which should no longer be permitted to continue. Accepted streets, or unaccepted streets which have not been constructed and upon which values in excess of many million dollars have been made, are today quagmires during the winter and spring months and breeders of dust and pestilence during the summer months. This condition should be remedied for the good of all.

RAPID TRANSIT.

The year 1925 marked the completion of the first section, known as Section K, of the Dorchester Tunnel, Rapid Transit System. The contract has been awarded for the second section and work is progressing most expeditiously. Indications are that this necessary means of adequate transportation facilities will be completed within twelve months and in consequence large areas of land in the section served by the system should prove inviting as sites for homes and industrial establishments. The experience of New York City in the removal of a portion of the 6th Avenue Elevated structure, where in consequence of such removal property values have increased fourfold, would justify serious thought by all public-spirited citizens upon the question of substituting tunnels for the present elevated construction in Boston.

PUBLIC MORALS.

Modern civilization is the result of a long series of restraints and taboos, of human effort to reach light and cleanliness, slough off dirt, disease and decadence, subordinate the flesh to the spirit, and prevent humanity returning to that primeval degradation which some quasi-philosophers have termed "Back to Nature" and religion and morals recognized as the conditions of the beast.

In every city of the world constant vigilance is required to sustain a reign of law and order and an observance of the moral sanctions that make municipalities safe for civilization; and the outbreaks of mobs, the activities of outlaws, the crimes against property, and the violence of murderers, are more easily and sympathetically suppressed than is the insidious spread of the poison and infection of social decadence that rot and corrode the fabric of civilization itself.

Pleasure, amusement, recreation are as necessary to the sanity and safety of humanity as bread and meat; and as long as they are kept clean and wholesome they serve mankind usefully and civilization admirably; but just as soon as they cease to be the aids and stimulants of the soul and mind of men and become the panderers to the passions of individuals and communities, they are transformed into threats to the integrity of our life and living. The Ten Commandments still stand as a barrier between the best and worst that organized society develops; and only as we show a front of flint to the smut and decadence that are constantly lurking in the shadow of pleasure can we hope to survive.

The modern theater is a subject of eternal vigilance; it can be a splendid ally of enlightenment and progress, or a deadly enemy of religion and morals, according to the measure of its supervision. The theater is essentially a place of amusement and pleasure; its influence is widespread; its language and lesson are learned by impressionable youth and cynical age and carried into countless homes; and its supervision and censorship are imperative. Boston has insisted upon keeping its houses of amusement clean by the elimination of theatrical lawlessness, suggestiveness, indecency and profanity, and the law has wisely given to the Mayor and the Board of Censors the power to close the doors of theaters that do not obey the regulations and restrictions laid down by them for their conduct. Some there are who attempt to discredit the censorship of Boston by terming its decency, prudery and its cleanliness, Puritanism; yet the fact remains that the Boston standard of theatrical management have attracted the attention of the Republic and led to the adoption of our methods. The dramatic decadent and the theatrical vendor of dirt are entitled to neither mercy, pity nor tolerance; for it is no exaggeration to say that an unwholesome stage is an index of an unwholesome community and the advance agent of unwholesome homes.

The youth of the world since time began have loved to dance; whether the dancing was religious, allegorical, illustrative, social or merely pleasurable, the world has always danced, and found joy in it in home, or hall, or open space. Boston has many dance halls which are thoroughly safeguarded, by sound and wholesome provisions; but it is unfortunate that only the licensed dance halls that exact a fee and are under police supervision and municipal regulation are so safeguarded. The character and safety of public dancing are the outcome of regulation, not of its fee; and the same provisions of law that keep them clean and safe should be extended to hotels and cabarets, where the fee exacted masquerades under other names and where laxity and looseness are only too common. These places should be brought under a stricter management, and supervision of lights, hours and conduct by police be made compulsory.

The open sore of our moral and municipal life is the so-called night club, which is chartered by the Secretary of State for certain stated purposes never observed, and turned loose on the community, free from police regulation and supervision; and behind their locked doors the members of these decadent organizations can engage in orgies and practices that are at times unspeakable and infamous, and at all times demoralizing and an affront to the Boston community. The police are barred from admission; the nocturnal activities of these organizations are learned only through rumors and whispers that call for a cleansing of these Augean stables. The right of granting charters to these bodies should be taken out of the hands of the Secretary and be transferred to the municipal license authorities; they should be made amenable to the rules and regulations of other pleasure resorts and to police inspection and supervision in the interest of public order, decency and moral safety. Until measures of this kind are adopted the corruption of youth and the befoulment of homes will continue; and it is the duty of churches and schools, clergy, fathers and mothers, and all decent citizens to demand and work for the extirpation of the moral plague spots of the city. The fact that the habitués of these decadent clubs are rich and influential in corrupt quarters should act as a spur, not as a deterrent to their complete elimination.

STATE PRIGANDAGE.

During the past four years the City of Boston has been required, for the protection of the people, to expend a sum in excess of $200,000 in combating unwarranted raids by state created bodies. The law provides a penalty for interlocking directorates, yet one is permitted to function in the Commonwealth and escape the law,—the Public Utilities Commission, which serves as a part of the interlocking directorates of many corporations. The City of Boston has appropriated to the present time $75,000 for the employment of attorneys and experts in combating the increase in telephone charges sanctioned by the state appointed Public Utilities Commission. The Telephone Company at the outset declared that $1,000,000 additional revenue was all that would be necessary, but upon the discovery of the pliable and pusillanimous character of the Massachusetts Public Utilities Commission it increased its demand to $9,000,000. Despite public protest and a bill filed in behalf of the city before the Interstate Commerce Commission and the Department of Justice, when justice was denied by the Massachusetts Public Utilities Commission, we are confronted with the sickening spectacle of the reappointment of a member of the Public Utilities Commission who voted in favor of the raid.

The Edison Electric Illuminating Company, largely in consequence of the fight waged by a Boston newspaper and by the city, covering a period of six years, has made reductions in rates representing a saving to the taxpayers of more than $3,500,000.

The Boston Consolidated Gas Company during the past four years has made four reductions in its rates, totalling $2,000,000, and not one single reduction made upon recommendation of the Public Utilities Commission.

The railroads of Massachusetts have increased the commutation charges despite protests of the people and of the legal department of the city, and unless this interlocking directorate is ended by legislation providing for the election by vote of the people of members of the Public Utilities Commission, there is little hope of relief for the long suffering public in the Commonwealth.

The rapacity of the financial interests is responsible in a large measure for the increase in the tax rate in the cities and towns of the Commonwealth. Each year organized money, through the employment of highly skilled legal talent, shifts the burden of the cost of government upon the home owners until today more than 90 per cent of the total cost of government, representing a total in nation, state, cities and towns approximating $11,000,000,000, is borne by the home owner and 10 per cent by the financial interest where ten years ago 25 per cent was borne by the financial interest and 75 per cent by the home owners. The home owners are without organization. The financial interests possess perfect organization and the most adroit and able of legal talent; and these two agencies abetted by venal legislators and corrupt political machines, represent a force that must grow more destructive unless checked. This condition will continue so long as the American public are content to regard lightly the most important business in America,—the business of government. Government is as good as we make it, and as bad as we are willing by our neglect to permit it to become. In certain places in Massachusetts it has reached the putrid state, and today represents a challenge to the best that is in us to check the rapacity of the evil that today waxes fat and strong, unchecked.

MASSACHUSETTS BAY COLONY.

The first chartered colony in New England, charter granted by Charles I on March 4, 1629. About a year before, a patent had been granted to six prominent men of Dorchester, west of England, among whom was Capt. John Endicott. He sailed in June, 1628, with a party of 50 or 60 persons, arriving in September and settling at Naumkeag, afterward named Salem. In the spring of 1629, the Bay Company fitted out three ships conveying about 400 persons and arriving at Salem in June. Endicott sent a small party to effect a settlement on the Bay in Mishawum, afterward named by the settlers Charlestown, the first town in New England to assume the town polity, Plymouth and Salem being governed by a Governor and Council. Endicott was appointed in London as the first resident Governor on April 20, 1629. The Massachusetts Bay Company was reorganized in London on Oct. 20, 1629, when John Winthrop was chosen as Governor. He arrived at Salem on June 12, 1630, soon proceeded to Charlestown with a large following and finding that place unsuitable, finally settled in Boston. Winthrop served 13 years as Governor in four different periods ending in 1649 and Endicott 15 years at various times ending in 1665. Other governors were

Thomas Dudley, Richard Bellingham, John Haynes, Henry Vane, John Leverett and Simon Bradstreet, the latter serving 12 years until 1692 when the Bay Colony and the Plymouth Colony were merged, becoming the Royal Province of Massachusetts Bay, which existed 82 years to 1774, the governors being appointed by the King.

The name Massachusetts is Indian and signifies "near the big hills."

The Mayor longest in office was Mayor Lincoln, who served three years ending 1860 and then four years ending 1866. Coun. DONOGHUE—Mr. President, I think there ought to be some sort of new procedure in these matters. As long as we are going out of office, I suppose we are not so much interested in it, but in view of the resentment, the near scandal over a gasoline location in South Boston, I think there should be some means whereby these very large gasoline permits which are now being handed out promiscuously, and which seems to slide through this Council without anybody knowing about them, or without the citizens of any district having an opportunity to make a protest, might be controlled. The only time when the citizens of a district have an opportunity of making protest is while the matter is before the Council, as I understand it, and if we were to delay a little longer, not acting so hastily upon these matters of gasoline stations, I think probably there would be much more satisfaction with those that are granted and not so much turmoil as has been created because of some of these permits.

President MORIARTY—They often act on them while they are pending here. There is practically only a gentleman's agreement between the Street Commissioners and the Council, that the Street Commissioners will send over notice of them and allow us to request that they be not granted. But, if you will remember, in the case of the Charlestown station we went on record as being opposed, and then they granted it.

Coun. DONOGHUE—They granted it, then?

President MORIARTY—Yes. We had a public hearing in Charlestown and went on record as in opposition to it. Notwithstanding that, they granted it. There is only an agreement that they will notify you—a gentleman's agreement, practically.

Coun. DONOGHUE—In other words, we have no authority.

President MORIARTY—We have absolutely no authority. It is simply an opportunity given while the matter is pending for notice to the public and to us. But even that one you have referred to slipped by. I did not even know it was here.

Coun. LANE—We can even veto it, and if the Mayor does not sustain our veto it doesn't count.

Coun. GILBODY—I have a similar case in Dorchester, where there was an application. The Council held it up for me, and I woke up to find the permit had been granted a few days later, that the action of the Council in laying it on the table at my request amounted to nothing, as the commissioners overlooked it and granted the permit.

Coun. DONOGHUE—I understand that, that if the Council should hold a matter up, keep it on the table, the Board are still able to grant it while the matter is pending, but if the Council took a vote disapproving it, it is my understanding—whether correct or not I don't know—that then the Street Commissioners don't have any right to grant it. I may be wrong as far as the law on the matter is concerned, but I recollect a case which was brought to the attention of the Council by former Representative Bigney of South Boston. He took that angle, that while the matter was pending before the Council, if the Council disapproved it, the Street Commissioners didn't have any right to approve it.

President MORIARTY—If our action was signed by the Mayor, the commissioners would not take it up, but would give leave to withdraw. Our disapproval, however, has to be signed by the Mayor.

Coun. DONOGHUE—In order to have it become effective?

President MORIARTY—Yes.

Coun. DONOGHUE—Well, at least I trust that something will be accomplished. Of course, there is no need of bothering so much about it now. But the new Council coming in, in all probability are going to have the same difficulty with these matters that we have had. The law apparently is very indefinite, as indicated by what has been stated here by members of the Council. We are all more or less in a maze and confusion in regard to it. I personally would like to see the thing straightened out, with a decision one way or the other. If we haven't any real authority in the premises, there is no reason why the notices should even be sent here.

President MORIARTY—We have that much authority, that if the Mayor does sign a proposition it becomes effective, but not until he signs it. Of course, he did not sign on the Charlestown station.

EXPENSE OF COUNCIL, HOSPITAL INVESTIGATION.

The following was received:

Boston, December 15, 1925.

To the Honorable the Mayor and City Council. Gentlemen,—On March 30, 1925, the Mayor, at the request of several members of the City Council, transmitted to the Council an order authorizing the Executive Committee of the Council to expend $2,500 for investigating hospitals for chronic diseases.

On April 11, 1925, the Finance Commission sent to the Mayor and to the City Council a protest against the proposed expenditure on the ground of illegality. The City Council, however, passed the order authorizing the Executive Committee to expend the money. On April 7, 1925, ten taxpayers brought proceedings to enjoin the city officials from paying out this money and, upon an adverse decision by a single justice, appealed to the full bench of the Supreme Court.

On May 14, 1925, notwithstanding the fact that the question was still pending before the Supreme Court, the City Treasurer, upon a warrant issued by the City Auditor, paid over the $2,500 to the president of the City Council, Mr. James T. Moriarty, although the Council order as passed called for the expenditure of the money by the Executive Committee, of which Mr. Moriarty was not chairman.

On May 14, 1925, as soon as the check was received by Mr. Moriarty, it was cashed by him at the National Shawmut Bank.

On the same day (May 14, 1925) the following nine persons left Boston on a trip to New York and Chicago: President Moriarty; Coun. Walsh; Coun. Gilbody; Coun. Lane; Coun. Purcell; Mr. Howland, Mayor's office; Mr. Fred Glynn, Assistant City Messenger; Mr. Hancock of Marsters Tourist Agency; Mr. Gerald, newspaperman.

On May 23, 1925, the party returned to Boston, but up to date no report of their investigation has been made public, nor has any statement of their expenses been filed with the City Auditor.

On November 25, 1925, the Supreme Court handed down a decision that the expenditure by the City Council for this purpose was illegal.

On December 1, 1925, the Finance Commission asked the Mayor whether or not he intended to compel the return to the city treasury of the $2,500 and similar payments in the past four years.

On December 2, 1925, the Corporation Counsel, to whom the letter of the Finance Commission of December 1 had been referred, wrote the Mayor that he would recommend that legislation be sought to legalize these payments and to authorize the City Council to appropriate money for these purposes in the future. Accordingly, if such legislation is passed, no one will be compelled to pay the money back into the city treasury and future junkets of the City Council will be authorized by law.

The Finance Commission therefore believes that the way in which the $2,500 was spent should be known.

It has been the practice on trips of this kind to have the check drawn by the City Treasurer to be payable to a tourist agency which arranged the trip, paid the expenses and filed returns at City Hall.

The money for this trip, unlike the other trips, was kept by Mr. Moriarty and handed out in small sums as needed to Mr. Hancock, who had charge of the trip.

The party left Boston on Thursday, May 14, 1925, with no definite itinerary as to the places or cities to be visited. Mr. Hancock testified "they told me at that time they would make arrangements in New York where they would jump."

They stayed in New York until Saturday. While in New York they visited the city hospital at Blackwell's Island, and the same day, according to Mr. Hancock, paid a short visit to Mt. Sinai Hospital, which, however, is not a hospital for chronic cases. The rest of the time was spent in sightseeing and two theatre parties, one at the Winter Garden, and the other at the Knickerbocker, all of the expenses for which were paid out of the $2,500.

They left New York Saturday night at eight o'clock and reached Chicago Sunday evening, and stayed there until Thursday noon. During their three and one half days in Chicago one and one half days were spent in visiting the hospitals of the city and county and in making "observations of some of the private institutions, not by visiting, but by going and looking over the type of building they were." The other two days were spent in sightseeing and in theatre parties.

The party broke up in Chicago. One member came back direct to Boston; another returned by way of New York, and the other seven left on Thursday for Niagara Falls, where a stop was made for sightseeing and crossing the international bridge. The next stop for these seven was Buffalo, where the party lunched at the Buffalo Hotel, and "just lounged around." At neither Niagara Falls nor Buffalo was any hospital visited.

When Mr. Moriarty returned he was on several occasions informally asked by the City Auditor to file vouchers and details of the expenditure of the $2,500. He promised to do so in the future. The future never came, as far as the report was concerned.

When Mr. Moriarty was asked by the Finance Commission to produce the details of the expenses of the trip, he stated that he had only the total expenditures and no memoranda of the details, as he had destroyed them. Mr. Hancock also had destroyed his memoranda, although he admitted that he had made them and kept them up to two months ago. After considerable interrogation, Mr. Hancock was able later to submit a list of expenditures in approximate detail. The following day (December 5) Mr. Moriarty presented a list of expenses which tallied within 70 cents with that submitted by Mr. Hancock. The latter's total was $2,295.33. Mr. Moriarty's was $2,294.63. Although it has been called to the attention of the Mayor that the whole expenditure was illegal, even the balance of $204.67 has never been returned to the city.

The following are the details of the expenditures of the trip, which the Corporation Counsel seeks to have legalized by the Legislature:

Soft drinks.....	$15 00
Food and rooms.....	490 00
Meals.....	360 00
Tips.....	29 00
Taxis.....	172 00
Railroad fares.....	1,054 83
Checking.....	2 50
Sightseeing trips.....	32 00
Miscellaneous.....	150 00
Total.....	$2,295 33

Of the miscellaneous expense $130 was spent for theatre parties in New York and Chicago.

When Mr. Moriarty was first examined at the office of the Finance Commission, on December 2, he said the report of the committee on its investigations in New York and Chicago was ready and would be presented to the Council at its meeting a week ago last Monday. Up to the date of this report it has not been filed.

When the Finance Commission made its recommendations which resulted in section 49 of the charter amendments of 1909, to wit: "Each member of the City Council shall be paid an annual salary of fifteen hundred dollars; and no other sum shall be paid from the city treasury for or on account of any personal expense directly or indirectly incurred by or in behalf of any member of said council," it had in mind the prevention of junkets, cab fares and carriage hire, and similar expenses on the part of the City Council. The money spent on the junket described in this report is exactly what the Finance Commission intended to prevent.

The Finance Commission believes that the law should not be changed.

Respectfully submitted,

THE FINANCE COMMISSION,
by CHARLES L. CARR,
Chairman.

Placed on file.

Later in the session, President MORIARTY said:

President MORIARTY—I have here a communication headed "The Finance Commission, 11 Beacon street, Boston, December 15, 1925. To the Honorable the Mayor and City Council, Gentlemen: On March 30, 1925, the Mayor at the request of several members of the City Council transmitted to the City Council an order authorizing the Executive Committee of the Council to expend $2,500 for investigating hospitals for chronic diseases. On April 11, 1925, the Finance Commission sent to the Mayor and to the City Council a protest against this proposed expenditure on the ground of illegality. The City Council, however, passed the order authorizing the Executive Committee to expend the money. On April 7, 1925, ten taxpayers brought proceedings to enjoin the city officials from paying out this money and, upon an adverse decision by a single justice, appealed to the full bench of the Supreme Court." I want to say that they have singled me out as one of the members of the Council more distinctly than any of the other members who took the trip. There was no move from the Council after passing the order. The next move was by ten citizens of Boston, Mr. McCaffrey, secretary of the Good Government Association, being one of those ten. Mr. McCaffrey was also secretary of the Good Government Association under the last administration, when a similar order for members of the Council to get information was introduced into the Council by the Hon. Andrew J. Peters, and after receiving a favorable interpretation from the then Corporation Counsel, Arthur D. Hill, the members of the Council did proceed to follow out the instructions of the Council by visiting many cities. There was not one step taken at that time by these so-called protectors of the city treasury of the City of Boston. So that I may not forget, let me say that one of the ten citizens is a man who is drawing a pension from the city, having been a schoolmaster, and I remember just prior to the last Evacuation Day in Boston, when the Building Department was transferring some chairs from a Hyde Park building he also protested against taking the chairs from the municipal building in Hyde Park, because they were going to Irish in South Boston. That is the man who is protesting as one of the ten citizens, Mr. Morse. Mr. Dowling, who is the secretary of the Finance Commission—under the law creating the Finance Commission there were to be five commissioners and they were allowed to hire a secretary—some few years ago took a trip to Europe, and while in Europe he claimed to be working in the interest of the Finance Commission. What business of the Finance Commission he was doing in Europe I don't know, although he might as well do it in Europe as here, the way the business of that body has been conducted, because they have not paid the City of Boston one cent since they have been in existence. But Mr. Dowling drew a salary from the City of Boston while sojourning in Europe and, of course, nobody protested. These same ten citizens did not protest about his receiving his pay. Going along farther in this communication, it says that several members of the Council requested the Mayor to send in this appropriation. I have no recollection of several members requesting the Mayor to send in, but I have a recollection that the then Corporation Counsel, Mr. Sullivan, was requested by the Mayor to consider the matter. The real law head of the City of Boston, confirmed by the Civil Service Commission and serving with honor to the city, sent back to the Council at their request a favorable interpretation of the law allowing the Council to appropriate the money and travel for their information. When the court was appealed to a single justice of the court decided against the ten citizens and refused to enjoin the city officials of Boston from furnishing the money to the City Council. I don't think any member of the Council knew until the decision made had been rendered by the full bench that the ten citizens had appealed to the Supreme Court. But when we left this city in May, 1925, there was no member of the Council who felt that he did not have a right to go and did not go with the full sanction of law on a trip to seek information on an order then pending before the Boston City Council. The letter sent out by the Finance Commission is full of sarcasm. It says:

"On May 14, 1925, as soon as the check was received by Mr. Moriarty," not even giving me my title, not even giving me in their communication the surname that was given at my birth, overlooking entirely the fact, whether they or the ten citizens like it or not, that I am the president of the Boston City Council, and that, as a city organization, receiving money from the city of Boston, they should give me the title to which I am entitled, "as soon as the check was received by Mr. Moriarty it was cashed by him at the National Shawmut Bank. On the same day (May 14, 1925) the following nine persons left Boston on a trip to New York and Chicago"—which is an absolute lie. Their statement, in so far as it says nine members of the Council left on the 14th day of May for New York and Chicago is an absolute lie. I appeared before the Finance Commission, not at their request, as did two other city employees, the City Treasurer and the City Auditor, who were requested by telephone to appear there. They did not even extend to me that courtesy. They took the process of law, which they are entitled to as a Finance Commission, and summoned me through due process of law. From my status, not from a legal point of view, I feel that they abused that privilege of theirs, because it is my thought as a layman that when a Board has the right to summon citizens courtesy is due to the citizens of a request to appear before the Board that uses that process of law. But when I went there I didn't find the Finance Commission. I found the chairman and I found a paid secretary, a paid stenographer, and I found another man, whom I call a leech. I don't know what his purpose there was. He was the attorney for the ten citizens. On my second appearance I protested, said that if I knew the man who was in the room the day prior I would have refused to testify, that I felt that if it was to be a private hearing nobody was entitled to be there before the Board, such people as this attorney. They took notice of my protest, but that is all.

"On May 23, 1925, the party returned to Boston, but up to date no report of their investigation has been made public, nor has any statement of their expenses been filed with the City Auditor."

I will say that I don't feel that I am accountable to them in so far as any business I do as a member of the City Council is concerned, and I feel that that part of their communication is not entitled to much consideration.

"On November 25, 1925, the Supreme Court handed down a decision that the expenditure by the City Council for this purpose was illegal."

A number of months had expired from the time that the Council took the trip until the appeal was heard, and I feel that every member who voted—not only those who went on the trip but every member of the Council—felt that when the matter was acted upon in the Council they were within their lawful rights, that there was no bad faith, but that the trip was taken with good faith and within the law.

"The Finance Commission therefore believes that the way in which the $2,500 was spent should be known. It has been the practice on trips of this kind to have the check drawn by the City Treasurer made payable to a tourist agency which arranged the trip, paid the expenses and filed returns at City Hall."

I want to say that that is another deliberate lie, and that if that is as close as this body gets to the facts it is about time that there should be a change. That I may not hurt anybody's feelings I will say that there is one councilor within the hearing of my voice who took a trip to Washington at the time of President Harding's death, and that councilor was given a check, paid the expenses and made the return. So what is stated here in this communication has not been the practice.

"The money for this trip, unlike the other trips, was kept by Mr. Moriarty"—again refusing to give me the title I am entitled to,—and handed out in small sums as needed to Mr. Hancock, who has charge of the trip. The party left Boston on Thursday, May 14, 1925, with no definite itinerary as to the places or cities to be visited. Mr. Hancock testified: "They told me at that time they would make arrangements in New York where they would jump."

So you can see the language used by such a learned man as the secretary of the Finance Commission—in my estimation a fine subject for the psychopathic hospital in Boston. The place might be good for him. Maybe if he were put in some other place where the degenerates are sent, he would be at home. The Council had a definite understanding before leaving Boston where they were going but, in order to make arrangements suitable to all, as the Council could not all leave Boston at one time, that was to be considered in New York. We had also made arrangements that some men might be picked up, had made arrangements concerning men leaving Boston, those who would have been unable to reach New York but who could be taken up at some other point, for joining the party. I testified to this and other matters, and my testimony was under oath and taken by a stenographer. They had the truth there and didn't even see fit to publish it in their report. I find that the report is not signed by the Finance Commission as a whole, but is signed by one of the members of the Finance Commission, the chairman. Of course, if I was a member of the Legislature and Mr. Carr should have happened to be a member of the same committee that I served on, perhaps he would have refused to sign this report the same as he, as a member of the Legislature, serving on a committee with other members, refused to sign a report, because it would have put him in an embarrassing position. I call on the Governor of the Commonwealth now to remove the whole Finance Commission and to appoint a commission that will represent and not misrepresent Boston, as the present Finance Commission now in existence is doing.

"They stayed in New York until Saturday. While in New York they visited the city hospital at Blackwell's Island, and the same day, according to Mr. Hancock, paid a short visit to Mt. Sinai Hospital which, however, is not a hospital for chronic cases. The rest of the time was spent in sightseeing."

I want to say, another lie. I want to say, an absolute lie, the Council did prior to our arriving in New York, visit Blackwell's Island, but, on account of the police chiefs' convention being in New York at that time, the city officials unfortunately could not give the representatives of Boston the attention that they would have liked to give. The parade on Saturday, and it is unfortunate that we were there at that time, because we would have been given a further opportunity to visit hospitals. But they say we made a short trip to Mt. Sinai Hospital, and that the Mt. Sinai Hospital does not take chronic cases. I want to say that both of those statements are lies, because we spent better than three hours in the Mt. Sinai Hospital and were shown every courtesy by those in control of the hospital. And I want to say this, that the Mt. Sinai Hospital is a credit to New York, that it is a credit to the race of people who are in control of the hospital, it being a Jewish hospital, and that it was the cleanest hospital that we visited during our trip, in all the cities that we visited. The Mt. Sinai Hospital takes any kind of cases, chronic and otherwise. But I am afraid that if the secretary of the Finance Commission were brought to the Mt. Sinai Hospital they would not make a reservation for him, because he is too far gone.

"The rest of the time was spent in sightseeing and two theater parties, one at the Winter Garden and the other at the Knickerbocker, all of the expenses for which were paid out of the $2,500."

I say to the secretary of the Finance Commission, "Go to the City Auditor and find out what the trip cost that an Assistant District Attorney took to St. Louis, and then compare it with the trip that the nine members of the City Council took, and you will find that the comparison is very much in favor of the City Council. The information I received is that he took a trip covering a period of six days, and put in a bill for $995. Nine members of the Council took a trip lasting over nine days, with railroad fares $1,054, and their expense was less than $2,300. But, of course, this letter is because of likes and dislikes, and it is because of my handling the money. They did ask some of the men who appeared there with the thought that they ought to enjoin the members of the Council from receiving their last pay check as members of this Council, having the idea of holding up the last pay check of the Council, and they were informed at that time by the many who appeared before them, as I have said, that everybody, in so far as the City Council was concerned, acted in good faith. Now they want to find out how they are going to get the money back. Well, if they are going to try to get that money back, I am going also to try to get back the money paid to Mr. Dowling in wages while he sojourned in Europe. If it was unlawful for the Council to travel for their own information, it was also unlawful for Mr. Dowling to travel and receive his salary. It says, "The party broke up in Chicago," which is another absolute lie. Two members of the committee were compelled, on account of other business, to leave. It says, "One member came back direct to Boston; another returned by way of New York,"—which is another absolute lie. Both of the men who were compelled to leave the party returned by way of New York City. They were compelled to leave. The other members of the party decided that they would go to the city of Buffalo on their way home. But I want to say that one of the witnesses whom they examined unfortunately they did not publish anything about. They asked Mr. Hancock when we landed in Canada to get our liquor. I want to say to the Finance Commission that I don't need to go to Canada if I desire liquor. I can get it within the boundaries of the United States. But, being a total abstainer I neither have to go to Canada nor violate the law to get it here, because I have been a teetotaler all my life. I am not a hypocrite, like some of the members of the Finance Commission, because there is not one of the Finance Commission, the body or the secretary, who can make a similar statement and be truthful in it, as each of them has violated the spirit of the prohibition law as it is now on our statute books. So, in so far as the Council traveling to Canada to receive liquor or get liquor is concerned, they didn't go there for that purpose. They didn't get any while they were there, and they didn't get any while they were on the trip.

"When Mr. Moriarty returned he was on several occasions informally asked by the City Auditor to file vouchers and details of the expenditure of the $2,500"—which is an absolute lie.

"When Mr. Moriarty was asked by the Finance Commission to produce the details of the expenses of the trip, he stated that he had only the total expenditures and no memoranda of the details, as he had destroyed them. Mr. Hancock also had destroyed his memoranda, although he admitted that he had made them and kept them up to two months ago. After considerable interrogation Mr. Hancock was able to submit a list of expenditures in approximate detail. The following day (December 5) Mr. Moriarty presented a list of expenses which tallied within 70 cents with that submitted by Mr. Hancock. The latter's total was $2,295.33. Mr. Moriarty's was $2,294.63."

So I paid my 70 cents. Therefore, if I am entitled to anything, I am entitled to add 70 cents to a copy of the bill I presented to the Finance Commission on December 5. They also submit a list of items of the money that was spent which

Food and rooms.....	490 00
Meals.....	360 00
Tips.....	29 00
Taxis.....	172 00
Railroad fares.....	1,054 83
Checking.....	2 50
Sightseeing trip.....	22 00
Miscellaneous.....	150 00

I want to say to the members of the Council that I gave the Finance Commission a copy, and a true copy, of the bill I received from Marster's Company on May 25, 1925, and the items in that bill are not similar to the items as set out by the Finance Commission:

Railroad transportation, Pullman accommodations, hotel accommodations furnished Boston City Council party (9 persons), Boston to New York, New York to Chicago, Chicago to Niagara Falls, Niagara Falls to Buffalo, Buffalo to Boston, $1,689.63.

Automobiles furnished in New York, May 15 and 16.....	$85 00
Meals furnished party for eight days.....	320 00
Autos provided in Chicago May 18-20.....	60 00
Miscellaneous expenses.....	140 00

That made a total of $2,294.63. I presented that to them, and I was under oath. If these things are true, why should they publish a report of this kind? If Mr. Hancock or any other individual gave an expense account of that kind, it was only from memory, and if they are taking things from memory other than from sworn documents, it shows the type of men now serving on the Boston Finance Commission. Their report says:

"Of the miscellaneous expense $130 was spent for theater parties in New York and Chicago."

"When Mr. Moriarty was first examined at the office of the Finance Commission, on December 2, he said the report of the committee on its investigations in New York and Chicago was ready and would be presented to the Council at its meeting a week ago last Monday."

I want to say that that is absolutely another lie, such as the whole circular seems to contain. I did say that the committee had a report and would make a report, that I was not chairman of the committee and that we had not decided when the committee would make a report, but that we would make a report to the Council. I will also say that we left New York on Saturday, May 16, and when the Finance Commission were told that we left New York at eight o'clock on Saturday night and didn't arrive in Chicago until nine o'clock the following night they were quite surprised. They didn't think it took as long as that to get to Chicago. Neither did I, until I got on the train. But we criticized the man who made the arrangements for taking us out on such a trip, because it was taking our time as well as anybody's else. I want to say for the committee, those who went, that every member of the committee who took the trip went for the purpose for which the order read, to receive information. I feel that a great deal was learned from the trip and that the City of Boston will be repaid for the trip. In the investigation and in the visiting of hospitals the committee did their duty as members of the Boston City Council; and it is about time that this sort of utterance by such narrow-minded men as have made up the Finance Commission since its infancy, representing their attitude towards members of this Council at all times, should cease. If it is the desire of the officials on Beacon Hill that Boston should proceed with leaps and bounds along lines of betterment for all good citizens, the Finance Commission as now made up should be requested to tender their resignations to the Governor and he should accept each of the resignations individually and then appoint five reputable citizens of Boston for the purpose of helping the administration of Boston to make Boston a better city than it ever has been. But while this narrow-minded lot of men are on the commission, the type of men like Carr, who did not have the courage to make a decision, because he served on a committee as one member of the Legislature, because he was appointed to serve as a member of the Boston Finance Commission, our city cannot progress as it should. I challenge the Finance Commission here and now, as a member of the Boston City Council and as a member of the party that made the trip to Chicago, to withdraw the report and, instead of the report of December 15, to furnish to the citizens of Boston a correct report from the testimony received of those who appeared before them; and I further dare them to publish in the Boston papers a verbatim report of what we testified to before them. If they don't furnish such information to the citizens of Boston I want it impressed on everybody, so far as I am concerned, that this is a lying communication, damaging to honest members of the Boston city government and that it is up to this commission to prove now that the statements in this communication are right. The only way in which they can be proven is for them to furnish either this Council or the reading public of Boston with a verbatim report of the hearing taken in connection with this trip to Chicago. I want to say in conclusion that I am in hearty accord with the bill that is now being prepared to be submitted to the incoming Legislature, with the Council that is to go into session for the first time on January 4, and trust that a law will be passed amending the present city charter so that the members of the incoming Council and all other Councils may have a proper opportunity afforded to them to seek information that they may desire, even if they have to go to any angle of the North American continent—yes, or to Europe, if it will be to the benefit of the citizens of Boston. I here and now as a member of the city government say that I will appear in favor of such action and will reiterate some of the statements I have made in so far as this communication is concerned, at the meeting that will be held in the legislative halls on this amendment. I will make the statements that I have made here today, in those legislative halls, in the presence of the chairman and other members of the Finance Commission, and I challenge them here and now to either produce the truth as it was brought out at the hearings or to refuse to send such communications. I want to say to the incoming Council, after eight years of service, that I hope that it will be the thought of the members of the newly elected Council that they should give credit only where credit is due, and there certainly will be none due the Finance Commission of the City of Boston as it is now constituted, because they are a lying, defaming, unscrupulous lot of men. I say that as the result of my dealing with them as they are made up now, and as a result of experience with the men who have served on that commission prior to and during the make-up of it in my eight years as a member of the City Council.

BUILDINGS RAZED.

The Mayor, upon request of the Acting Building Commissioner, has approved the razing of the following structures as fire menaces and nuisances:

To take down the two buildings on premises 220 Quincy street, rear, Ward 17.

The owner, Benjamin Berenson, has been served with notices of the unsafe conditions of these buildings, but he neglects to remove the cause of complaint.

To take down the building on premises 84 Sawyer street, Ward 13.

The owner, Alexander Nicholson of 1006B Tremont street, Roxbury, has been served with a notice of the unsafe condition of the building, but he neglects to remove the cause of complaint.

FEARS K. K. K. REACTION TO COLOR OF DECLARATION OF INDEPENDENCE TABLET ON COMMON.

The following was received in the Mayor's Office on December 30:

For the love of Mike! call out the militia!! They have set up the Declaration of Independence on Boston Common and painted it GREEN!!!

Well, at any rate you can't complain if the Bolsheviks paint it RED later on.

N. B. Green is not so bad after all, considering the fact that the original Declaration of Independence was written by a group of Scotch-Irish at Charlotte, N. C., and read by Col. Tom Polk, a sturdy Irishman. On mature consideration green seems to be a mighty appropriate color for it, but, Holy Smoke, what will the K. K. K. say when they catch on?

HON. MALCOLM E. NICHOLS, BOSTON'S 38TH MAYOR, INDUCTED INTO OFFICE ON JANUARY 4 AMID SCENES OF DIGNIFIED SPLENDOR.

With a dignity well in keeping with the best traditions of Boston and a brilliancy that made the occasion most memorable, before more than 4,000 citizens, Hon. Malcolm E. Nichols became Mayor of Boston for the next four years in ceremonies at Symphony Hall on Monday, January 4. The event was epochal in many ways but was featured particularly by the procession which moved up the center aisle to the stage. Heading the line was George H. Johnson, director of the inauguration, and Capt. William J. Blake, commanding the color guard, which comprised stands of regiments and veterans' organizations, including the 101st Infantry, M. N. G.; 101st Field Artillery, M. N. G.; 141st C. A. C. M. N. G.; First Corps Cadets, Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company, United Spanish War Veterans, the American Legion, Veterans of Foreign Wars, Military Order of the World War, 301st Infantry, U. S. R.; the state flag and the city flag.

The doors of the building were opened at 9 o'clock a. m., and the entire audience was seated by 9.45 a. m. Beginning at 9.15 a. m. there was a concert by the Boston Festival Orchestra, John W. Crowley, conductor.

A processional march, "The Invincible Eagle," by Sousa, was played as the dignitaries proceeded toward the rostrum.

Then, preceded by City Clerk Donovan and City Messenger Leary, came Mayor-elect Nichols, flanked by Chief Justice Rugg and by the Rev. H. Clinton Hay, pastor of the Church of the New Jerusalem on Bowdoin street, as chaplain of the inauguration. Members-elect of the City Council brought up the rear.

Owing to the death of Councilman-elect John T. Carr of Ward 6, South Boston, there were but twenty-one men in this group, as follows:

Timothy F. Donovan, Ward 1; Thomas H. Green, Ward 2; John I. Fitzgerald, Ward 3; Seth F. Arnold, Ward 4; Henry Parkman, Jr., Ward 5; William G. Lynch, Ward 7; John F. Dowd, Ward 8; Michael J. Ward, Ward 9; Walter J. Freeley, Ward 10; Edward L. Englert, Ward 11; Herman L. Bush, Ward 12; Joseph McGrath, Ward 13; Israel Ruby, Ward 14; Thomas W. McMahon, Ward 15; George F. Gilbody, Ward 16; Robert Gardiner Wilson, Jr., Ward 17; Walter E. Wragg, Ward 18; Horace Guild, Ward 19; Charles G. Keene, Ward 20; Frederic E. Dowling, Ward 21; John J. Heffernan, Ward 22.

As soon as the participants and invited guests were seated, Mme. Claire Maentz, soprano, and Walter H. Kidder, baritone, sang "America," assisted in the chorus by the entire assembly. An organ prelude by Horace B. Blackmer was followed by Doctor Hay's invocation.

MAYOR MALCOLM E. NICHOLS ANNOUNCES PLANS FOR CONDUCT OF BOSTON'S BUSINESS FOR NEXT FOUR YEARS, IN INAUGURAL ADDRESS, SOUNDING KEYNOTE OF SERVICE.

PLANS TO PROVIDE MORE MONEY FOR STREETS, ADDITIONAL POLICE, INCREASED PAY FOR LABORERS AND OTHER PROGRESSIVE IMPROVEMENTS—SHOWS THAT NEEDS OF CITY FOR $8,000,000 NECESSITATES INCREASING OF TAX BURDEN—POINTS OUT, HOWEVER, THAT THIS IS WISE ECONOMY.

Gentlemen of the City Council:

Boston is a business as well as a service enterprise. Her commercial transactions reflect the activity of some fifty cities and towns comprising a metropolitan city of nearly 2,000,000 persons.

In trade and commerce Boston is big business. In municipal government she is big business. She disburses seventy-five millions of dollars annually, gathers in the money for this purpose from various sources and expends it for the common good. This vast sum is all governed by statutes passed by the Legislature. Such statutes empower and direct the city to perform public services which cannot so well be supplied in any other manner.

Service is the test by which a city is usually judged. Service spreads over considerable ground. In fact, it covers the civic alphabet from art to zoning. Its cost is fixed in our budget and shown on the tax bill.

The words economy and efficiency inspire a certain feeling of dread. They are sometimes taken to mean that we shall not get as much as we feel we ought to have. I believe that we should exercise economy and efficiency, but I would not have them understood in an unpleasant way. I would do the task in hand with an intelligent effort to get the most for the amount expended. No municipal budget should be increased without thought about the ways and means of payment. This old and respectable principle is sometimes lost in the lure of wishing for things. We all like more and more parks, playgrounds, concerts, celebrations, buildings and other attractive municipal services, and we shall have them too, in reason I hope, always bearing in mind that their cost is in the tax rate. Some of this means borrowing in the first instance. And as borrowing is easier for the time being than levying taxes, debt is easily expanded. It is sound finance to borrow for future benefits, but dangerous to borrow too much. Yet payment for all benefits out of the tax levy would prove so burdensome as to be intolerable.

A DIFFICULT FINANCIAL CONDITION.

Sixteen years ago the governmental affairs of Boston caused such alarm as to result in the passage of the charter amendments by which impovident borrowing has been checked. Thanks to the change of policy at that time the general financial condition of Boston now is not fundamentally unsound, although very difficult.

With the exception of the period of our Civil War, there has been no time within the history of the City of Boston when it has been so immense a task to handle financial questions wisely as during the last twelve years. The outbreak of the World War in 1914, was followed by a great inflation of commodity prices. This inflation has left us with a price level that is more than 50 per cent higher than that of 1913.

This revolution in commodity prices has increased the cost of about every article purchased by the city, and has made necessary successive increases in the wages of city employees, which increases are not at an end. For this reason, city expenditures measured in terms of dollars have inevitably increased, while it has not been easy to secure a proportionate increase in the city revenues.

Then, after the United States entered the war, it became necessary to postpone needed improvements and even to reduce maintenance charges, with the result that in 1919 the city's "Plant" had not been replenished and therefore was in much the same condition as the plants of business corporations and the residences of private individuals.

There was an enormous demand for improvements, one which has been met but partially within the past five years by huge expenditures. Yet the demand, far from being satisfied, appears to be growing, and thus since the war our municipal resources have been strained to meet the restoration of city facilities and the desire for more. This desire has resulted in further demands from here, there and everywhere, for improvements whose cost is placed in the neighborhood of $200,000,000.

Thus far, this review has been directed towards extraordinary conditions of municipal life, and is designed to lift above the level of politics and personalities important questions of municipal finance which the City of Boston must face at the opening of the year 1926. It is intended to set forth, with just historical perspective the fundamental and far-reaching causes of a financial situation so serious as to justify making it the sole topic of a Mayor's inaugural address.

The demands for improvements and the necessity for making up deferred charges cannot easily be disassociated, but their effect may be seen during the past five years wherein the amount of loans has more than doubled over the total for the five years immediately preceding, and this takes no account of money for schoolhouse construction which, previously raised by loans, has for the last nine years been paid out of the tax levy. Moreover, the inflation of prices during the past ten years is reflected in the amounts appropriated for city, state and county requirements which have very nearly doubled.

The appropriations for the year 1925 were made to cover eleven months because of a change in the ending of the fiscal year from January 31 to December 31. Estimating the increase for a twelve-month year in 1926, with such additions as now seem necessary, the city will need this year over $8,000,000 more than in 1925, with a resulting tax rate very close to $32.

BORROWING AND "PAY-AS-YOU-GO."

There are only two ways of meeting this additional expense. One way is by increasing a tax rate which may not be high by comparison with that of other cities and towns, but, nevertheless, is a high rate, and the other way is by borrowing. Of the two ways, undoubtedly, that of the higher tax rate is preferable. However, it is desirable to consider whether any part of the charges to be met may not with safety be financed by loans in order to avoid an excessive increase in the tax rate.

The incoming Mayor's inheritance is due to conditions over which he has no control. These conditions oblige him to enter upon his administration under a severe financial handicap for which he has no responsibility, except to meet them with appropriate measures.

Agencies for propaganda directed towards increasing public expenditure are very numerous nowadays, consequently, the administration will be under the necessity of examining with especial care every new proposal to see whether it represents a real or a manufactured need and whether it is for an object of real or of doubtful benefit.

A sharp rise in the tax rate from the figure of $26.70 to $32 is a serious matter for everyone who either dwells or carries on business in the City of Boston. It can be kept down by borrowing, which, of course, would tend to increase the tax rate in the future. If the existing situation, critical but not dangerous, is met promptly and wisely by an appropriate increase in the tax rate, taxpayers will suffer present inconvenience but will turn the best face towards the future. This course will also improve the credit of the city which is still good and must be maintained above all question or suspicion.

If, on the other hand, the city fails to face the facts, much higher tax rates, even as high as $35 or $40, will become inevitable at no very distant date and the city's credit may be impaired.

The permanent interests of taxpayers demand the adoption of a farsighted policy, which requires them to submit to some present inconvenience in order to avoid still greater difficulties at a future date; and the adoption of such a policy will hold forth the prospect that when the charges inherited from the war period and the demands for new projects have been met, the taxpayers can benefit by a period of no further increase and perhaps a reduction in the rate of taxation.

TWO ESTIMATES FOR 1926 REQUIREMENTS.

Excessive demands for maintenance, upkeep and improvements have given grave cause for reflection. I realize the burden placed on real estate. It is difficult to find new sources of revenue. The revenues of a city are pretty rigidly fixed by provisions of law. About all that can be done on a large scale must be done by good management and with the realization that if expenditures are allowed to become as great as those we now face, then tax rates must respond to them. With this thought in view, I have caused to be made up two estimates for city, state and county requirements for which the city may be liable during the coming year. I refer to one of these as the lower estimate, and to the other as the higher estimate, and there is only a small margin between the lower and the higher. Both estimates are, therefore, not far apart in point of tax rate. The lower estimate produces a tax rate of about $30, and the higher a tax rate of about $32.

The requirements for 1925 were as previously stated for an eleven-month year ending on December 31 last, and the requirements for this year must be made on the basis of a twelve-month year corresponding to the calendar year. This difference in time was occasioned by the charter amendments of last year whereby the fiscal year begins on January 1 instead of as heretofore on February 1. The additional month for this year, together with various increased costs, adds to the city and county requirements of 1925 the estimated sum of $3,044,000. School requirements add $1,900,000. Debt requirements add $721,000. The contributory pension accumulation fund for employees adds $400,000. The total is $6,065,000, to be added to the 1925 requirements under the lower estimate.

In making the higher estimate, there has been added to the lower estimate a further sum of $2,271,000.

The additional items which make up this $2,271,000 include estimates for street reconstruction, for resurfacing parkways and roadways, for library books, granolithic sidewalks, additional employees and supplies for the City Hospital, larger reserve fund, increased county expenses, pay roll increases and more policemen. These items are accounted for as follows:

The allowance for street reconstruction is $800,000. In 1925, the requirement set aside for this purpose was but $200,000. The policy used to be regarded as settled that $1,000,000, chargeable to the tax levy, was required annually for this purpose. I believe this policy, if possible, should be again put into effect, and I have, therefore, added to the lower estimate the sum of $800,000 for street reconstruction.

It is estimated that $100,000 will be needed this year to complete the permanent resurfacing of parkways and roadways, but inasmuch as $35,000 of this required sum of $100,000 is included in the lower estimate, the increase in the higher estimate is but $65,000. Books for the Public Library, granolithic sidewalks, additional employees and supplies for the City Hospital, additional amounts for the reserve fund and county expenses, increase the lower estimate by $550,000 more. The balance of the $2,271,000 is accounted for as follows:

MORE POLICEMEN — LABORERS' PAY.

No provision is made in the lower estimate for such an important item as additional police protection. The Police Commissioner has submitted to me an exhaustive analysis of his department in which he renews the request made over a year ago, for three hundred additional policemen. I think these men were needed then and I am strongly of opinion that they are needed now, so that I have caused to be added to the lower estimate for these three hundred additional policemen for 1926, the sum of $350,000. The higher estimate also provides for pay roll increases in the sum of $506,000, particularly relating to the pay of laborers. I suppose this increased pay for laborers could be postponed, but I doubt the wisdom of it. Laborers are now receiving a rate of $4.50 a day, and I do not see how anyone can say that a wage of $5 a day is too much for men who try to maintain a home on standards which we all approve. In loyalty and good service the City will get the equivalent. Adding the various foregoing items together, gives a total increase in the higher estimate over the lower of $2,271,000 previously referred to.

The lower estimate calls for an addition of $6,065,000 over the 1925 requirements.

The higher estimate calls for an increase of $8,336,000 over the 1925 requirements.

One produces a tax rate of about $30, the other a tax rate of about $32, each in accordance with its respective estimate.

The lower estimate calling for a tax rate of $30 apparently does not meet the needs of the situation.

The higher estimate calling for a tax rate of $32 furnishes as accurate a statement as can be made at this time of the cost of meeting responsibilities which the city should be prepared to assume during the coming year.

Furthermore, had the requirements for the year 1925 been figured upon a twelve-month year instead of as they were on an eleven-month year, they would undoubtedly have produced a 1925 tax rate close to $30. Under pressure, the rate has jumped from $24.70 to $26.70 in the past eleven-month year, and now tends towards a further abrupt rise. It may not be a cause for rejoicing, but the people who pay taxes are certainly entitled to know the facts.

Almost all of the business transacted at City Hall involves the expenditure of money. The purpose of this expenditure is to provide things necessary for the well-being and advancement of the people. Our demands upon the public service are rarely accompanied by a serious thought of the cost, yet there is no source of revenue except from the people themselves. They meet cost with money derived from their property or their labor, and the higher taxes go the more clearly should the reasons be understood.

The foregoing illustrates some of the matters which must soon be undertaken in presenting a budget to the City Council. This budget is formed upon departmental estimates, and will present a detailed and careful study of matters which here can receive but brief discussion.

SUBWAY RENTALS AND ELEVATED DEFICIT.

An important part of our financial story is concerned with the development of our rapid transit system in which our investment of $42,500,000 will soon be in excess of $50,000,000. Under our plan the city furnishes the credit, builds the structures and leases them to the Boston Elevated Railway Company upon a rental basis.

To those who suggest that the city should relieve the Boston Elevated Railway from payment of subway rentals, I would say that such a course would destroy the entire plan of subway financing.

Under the provisions of the Public Control Act, Boston was assessed, as its share of the deficit resulting from insufficiency of the income of the road to meet the cost of service, $2,906,000. Of this sum $1,177,000 has been repaid, leaving a balance due of $1,729,000.

Before definite legislative action is taken upon the status of the present method of operating properties of the company, serious consideration ought to be given to the repayment to the city of this outstanding balance.

Gentlemen of the City Council, the problems concerning a great city are manifold. I wish it were possible for me to enter upon a general discussion of them, but it would seem to me that the problem of paramount importance concerns the financial situation with which the city is immediately to deal, and therefore I have confined my attention to this.

The responsibility upon those who carry on municipal government is very great. It has been well said that the government of cities presents one of the most difficult problems encountered in civic administration. Boston will grow as she demonstrates her capacity for managing her own affairs. She has an unrivalled opportunity to present an example such as is sorely needed in the government of cities throughout the country. Cities compete just as business enterprises compete. Boston has many competitors. A poorly managed city is at a distinct disadvantage compared with a well managed city. In geographical location and in the skill, industry and courage of her citizenship our city is without a peer. She has traditions which any American city would treasure as a priceless possession.

In upholding our traditions it should be our ambition and effort to give Boston an administration of her affairs such as will encourage her citizens to unite in their earnest desire to promote her growth and prosperity and place her in a commanding position among American cities.

MAYOR NICHOLS ACTS TO PROVIDE CITY WITH REVENUE FOR CONDUCT OF BUSINESS.

SENDS TO COUNCIL ORDER FOR $25,000,000 TO MEET REQUIREMENTS IN ANTICIPATION OF TAXES.

Mayor Malcolm E. Nichols, on January 4, sent the following communication to the City Council.

To the City Council.

GENTLEMEN,—I am in receipt of the inclosed request that I submit to your honorable body for adoption the accompanying order providing for the necessary funds to meet the financial requirements in anticipation of taxes for the year 1926

Respectfully,

MALCOLM E. NICHOLS, Mayor.

Ordered, That to provide temporarily money to meet the appropriations for the financial year 1926, the City Treasurer issue and sell, at such times and in such amounts as he may deem best, notes or certificates of indebtedness of the City of Boston not exceeding twenty-five million dollars in the total, in anticipation of the revenue of the current municipal year; that all such notes or certificates of indebtedness be dated the day the money for the same is received, be made payable with the interest thereon within one year of their date from the revenue of the year 1926, and bear interest from their date until the same are made payable at such rate as the City Auditor, the City Treasurer and the Mayor may determine.

BOSTON'S BIRTH RATE DROPS.

DEATH RATE SLIGHTLY HIGHER THAN FOR LAST YEAR.

The number of deaths in the City of Boston during the year 1925 was 11,590, compared with 10,933 in 1924 and 11,503 in 1923. The number of births last year was lower than any year since 1922. The death rate, per unit of population, however showed little change. The birth rate is lower.

These are the high lights of the vital statistics estimate for the year 1925.

The deaths of mothers at maternity periods show an encouraging drop, but that bane of childhood, measles, shows a marked increase over the last three years. The chief causes of death were, as is usual every year, tuberculosis, cancer, heart disease, and pneumonia. Heart disease led all the rest with a total of 1,991. Automobiles helped the total out with 149 deaths. Of all the brands of tuberculosis, pulmonary was the most fatal.

The statistics for the year, with comparisons with 1923 and 1924, are as follows:

	Estimate for 1925.	Totals 1924.	Totals 1923.
Total deaths	11,590	10,933	11,503
Death rate	14.80	14.07	14.93
Total infant deaths.....	1,591	1,472	1,569
Infant death rate.....	86.0	74.43	82.49
Total live births.....	18,500	19,776	19,020
Birth rate	23.62	25.46	24.69

MAYOR NICHOLS NOT TO WANT FOR EXPERT ADVICE FROM PATRIOTIC CITIZENS.

WAYS AND MEANS COMMITTEE RETAINED AND REORGANIZED INTO SUB-COMMITTEES TO DECIDE, WITH MAYOR, MANY PROBLEMS OF CIVIC ADMINISTRATION.

Mayor Malcolm E. Nichols plans to have the best thought and advice from the community to be had in financial and purely civic matters during his administration. This has been indicated by his decision to continue his Committee on Ways and Means indefinitely. The committee will meet in the executive chamber frequently, and its first real influence will be apparent in the annual budget which will be submitted to the City Council within a few weeks.

A meeting Wednesday, January 6, the first to take place at City Hall, was devoted to analysis of new sources of revenue, expenditures and borrowing.

Mayor Nichols devoted almost the entire time from the date of his election to his inauguration to consideration of Boston's financial problems, being in frequent session with City Auditor Rupert S. Carven and Budget Commissioner Charles J. Fox.

He was thus enabled to establish a general insight into the problems which confront the city, but gave no consideration to the many minor details which are embraced in the final budget study.

As to salaries, one of the most urgent of problems. Mr. Nichols reached a conclusion only regarding the pay of laborers.

But the general salary increases, which find their way into the budget every year, have not yet been considered by the new Mayor.

Every department head has recommended the usual additional outlays, but, on the advice of Mr. Nichols, the Budget Commissioner has not included them in the surveys now being made. They will await enunciation of the Nichols' policy, and it is expected that the Committee on Ways and Means will have an important recommendation to make on that subject.

MONTHLY REPORT OF THE TRANSIT DEPARTMENT.

The Mayor has received the following monthly report from the Transit Department concerning work:

BOSTON, January 5, 1926.

HON. MALCOLM E. NICHOLS,
Mayor of Boston.

DEAR SIR,—During December the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad Company has completed the installation of the freight track from Boston Street Bridge to the top of the incline on Section K, Dorchester tunnel. The contractor for Section 1, Dorchester Rapid Transit, has furnished and graded gravel on the freight track location from Washington avenue southerly, and the railroad company is installing its track along this length.

Between Columbia road and Dillingham street the contractor has continued grading the new right of way of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad. This work is nearly completed. He has also furnished gravel for the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad Company at the westerly side of the Freeport Street Yard, and the railroad company has installed two tracks here to replace the two which are being removed at the foot of the railroad embankment on the easterly side of the yard.

At the Columbia Road Bridge, a part of the old stone masonry abutment has been removed from the southerly half of the roadway.

At the Bay Ridge culvert, excavation has been completed and piles are being driven for its extension. Excavation for a part of the Freeport street underpass has been going on during the month. Work on taking plans, construction plans, etc., for that part of Dorchester Rapid Transit between Harrison square and Ashmont has been in progress during the month.

The repaving of Lewis street, East Boston, by the Boston Contracting Company has been completed.

FINANCE COMMISSION AID IS CALLED ON MATTER OF BUDGET.

The Finance Commission is resuming, at Mayor Nichols' request, its task of scrutinizing all budget estimates submitted to the Mayor for the current year.

At the same time, the commission is going over the city pay rolls to eliminate the excess employees.

Attaches of the Street Laying-Out Department, under classification as constables, rodmen, transitmen, etc., will be summoned before the commission first, it was intimated. Some have already been called to describe just what they do to earn a city wage or salary, it was learned.

As for budget work by the commission, this was dropped under Chairman M. H. Sullivan when the Curley term began, after having been kept up through the years since the segregated budget principle was adopted.

DORCHESTER BAY IMPROVEMENTS.

Mayor Nichols, according to Washington advices, will shortly receive from the War Department detailed plans relative to the economic and instrumental surveys to be made in Dorchester Bay and which would ultimately provide a 30-foot channel to Boston Harbor and which it is declared would make Boston the greatest port upon the Atlantic Coast, with terminal facilities rivaling the Bush terminal in New York City.

Senator William M. Butler has been advised that the instrumental survey will have to do particularly with the deepening of the existing 18-foot channel between the harbor and the bay. Borings will be made if ledge areas are detected. This work will be done under the direction of Maj. Francis K. Newcomer, formerly of the Charlestown district, who has been assigned to the Boston office. Col. H. W. Hobbs of the Army Board of Engineers informed the senator that this part of the work may continue for several months.

POLICE DEPARTMENT ORDERS.

General Order No. 833.

The commanding officers of the several divisions who have in their divisions, hotels, cafes and restaurants, will carefully observe, or cause to be observed, conditions in such hotels, cafes and restaurants, on the night of December 31, New Year's Eve, especially in regard to violations of the liquor laws, or disorderly conduct therein.

They will carefully observe and make detailed report, taking names of witnesses and securing evidence, if possible, as to violations of the liquor laws in the hotels, cafes and restaurants in their division, and if sufficient evidence can be obtained of illegal sales therein of intoxicating liquor, arrests will be made and prosecutions for the same made in court.

If intoxicating liquor is in evidence, they will observe and report as to the manner and by whom the intoxicating liquor is brought to the table and served. They will handle all cases of drunkenness or disorder according to law.

They will particularly observe whether liquor is served or dispensed by the management or any of their servants or agents, reporting the manner of serving or dispensing, and will ascertain whether or not, if the liquor is claimed to be property of the person to whom it is served, a charge is made by the management for the service.

Commanding officers should carefully observe whether there are any violations of the fire laws in relation to exits and means of egress in the various hotels, cafes and restaurants and such violations, if any, should first be called to the attention of the management and upon refusal to remedy conditions found, prosecutions should follow. Reports should be made in every instance where violations of the fire laws are discovered.

All reports must be specific and in careful detail and forwarded forthwith to the Superintendent's Office.

The Superintendent of Police will promulgate this order.

HERBERT A. WILSON,
Commissioner.

General Order No. 834.

A trial board consisting of Captains Grant, Perry and Patterson, having heard by reference a complaint against Patrolman George W. McGrath of Division 3, charging him with conduct unbecoming an officer and disobedience of orders, reported to the commissioner, a finding of guilty. In accordance with which, the said Patrolman George W. McGrath was on December 28, 1925, dismissed from the Police Department.

Due written notice of such dismissal with the reasons therefor was duly and specifically given in hand on December 28, 1925, to the said George W. McGrath.

The Superintendent of Police will promulgate this order.

HERBERT A. WILSON,
Commissioner.

LABOR REPORT.

During the month employers called for 1,310 persons, an increase of 29, or 2 per cent, over November and an increase of 129, or 11 per cent, over December a year ago. The number of positions reported filled was 1,194, an increase of 3 over November and an increase of 118, or 11 per cent, over December last year.

The attendance of applicants for employment was 20,078, a decrease of 1,479, or 7 per cent, from November and a decrease of 3,802, or 16 per cent, from December, 1924. During the month, 1,126 service men (693 soldiers, 433 sailors) visited the office in search of employment. Of this number, 140 (96 soldiers, 44 sailors) visited the office for the first time and were registered; 263 (189 soldiers, 74 sailors) were referred to positions and 202 (138 soldiers, 64 sailors) secured employment.

In the men's skilled department the demands from the metal trades predominated. There were calls for core makers, all-round machinists, millwrights, machine operators, sheet metal workers and polishers. The building trades were not so active but there were calls for carpenters, plumbers, steamfitters, roofers and painters. The steam trades were rather active and a number of positions for engineers and firemen were filled. There was little demand in the printing trades and the few positions for compositors, pressmen and feeders were easily filled. The general trades called for packers, shippers, chauffeurs, rubber mill workers and factory workers.

In the men's unskilled department the line of applicants increased considerably. There was very little demand for able bodied laborers with a large number of men looking for that work. Farm work was very quiet and at the same time no farm hands applied for work. The hotels and restaurants were quiet for this season of the year with a long list of applicants looking for positions.

The demand for boys for errands, office and factory work was fairly good with an ample supply of applicants.

The women's departments were very quiet with no noticeable demand from any particular trade. Housework girls remained scarce with the demand far exceeding the supply.

The number of persons called for by employers was 1,310 as compared with 1,181 in 1924; 1,061 in 1923; 1,253 in 1922 and 887 in 1921.

The number of positions reported filled was 1,194 as compared with 1,076 in 1924; 846 in 1923; 979 in 1922 and 738 in 1921.

LIBRARY DEPARTMENT.

Archdeacon & Sullivan have been granted an extension of the time of completion of the contract for rebuilding wall and fence at West End Branch Library, Cambridge and Lynde streets, dated July 9, 1925, from October 31, 1925, to June 1, 1926.

BOSTON'S URGENT NEED FOR MORE POLICEMEN TO PROTECT CITIZENS IS THEME OF COMMISSIONER WILSON'S REPORT.

SAYS THAT CONDITIONS, THOUGH IMPROVING, REQUIRE AN ADDITION TO FORCE OF AT LEAST 300 MEN.

In his report to the Governor, Police Commissioner Herbert Wilson expresses the opinion that there is a marked improvement in the enforcement of the liquor law in this city, but says that additional legislation is necessary to give the local police authorities power to close up "places" where liquor is sold and to enable them to prosecute persons transporting wood alcohol which is not labeled as such.

Additional police officers are necessary, the Commissioner says, to make possible better enforcement of prohibition and also for the relief of the tremendous traffic problem which faces the city. In the opinion of Commissioner Wilson 300 additional officers should be provided.

He renews his recommendations for more stringent laws to govern the sale or distribution of firearms in this city.

Stealing of automobiles should be punishable by imprisonment in the State Prison for not less than five years.

In his report the Police Commissioner says in part:

"Since my last report upon this subject, I am pleased to state that the general liquor situation in this city has been greatly improved. The source of supply of contraband liquor either from caches in outlying cities and towns or from stills within this city, due to the vigilance and activities of the police, has been noticeably reduced. Many large operators in the illicit liquor business have been not only driven out of this particular occupation but have been actually reduced to penury. The problem of intelligent enforcement of the prohibitory laws is of a two-fold nature; first, liquor must be prevented from flowing into this city from adjacent territories, and the manufacture of so-called 'moonshine' eliminated within the city itself; and second, the illegal distribution of liquor at various points within the city must be curtailed.

"Because of the difficulty experienced with continued violation of the liquor law at these various establishments which operate in violation of the law, I recommend legislation which will empower me to proceed much the same as is now provided for in prosecutions of houses of prostitution under General Laws, chapter 139, sections 6 to 12, inclusive, and which will afford a means that will authorize the police to seek a permanent remedy against the place where such liquor is sold in violation of law.

"The solution of the traffic problem in Boston, because of the width and peculiar contour of the streets, is one which must be worked out to meet actual conditions which arise from time to time. These conditions differ greatly from those which confront the police in other cities, where traffic control can be accomplished largely by means of a synchronized lighting system. The use of semaphores cannot eliminate entirely the necessity of man power in the control of traffic. Since my last report a permanent semaphore has been installed at the intersection of Boylston and Tremont streets. The operation of this signal has solved the traffic problem which confronted the police at this busy and dangerous corner. Through the courtesy and kindness of Louis E. Kirstein, Esq., of the William Filene's Sons Company, and of William L. Shearer, Esq., of the Paine Furniture Company of this city, similar towers have been donated to the City of Boston and will soon be erected at the junction of Summer and Washington streets and at the intersection of Boylston and Arlington streets. In addition, it is proposed during the coming year to place traffic semaphores at the intersections of Commonwealth and Massachusetts avenues and of Massachusetts avenue and Beacon street. A large number of flashing beacons and other signaling devices have been installed at dangerous street intersections throughout the city and they help in no small degree to eliminate accidents at these places. During the year fifteen spotlight poles were installed in addition to those already in service in different locations throughout the city to guard traffic officers on fixed posts. This makes a total of ninety-nine spotlights now in use in the city.

"The same constant demand for traffic officers to protect school children and adult pedestrians at places now unprotected has been met by the response that many dangerous traffic points could not be covered because of the lack of police officers. In certain sections of the city some of the main highways at different times during the day become practically impassable to pedestrians at unpoliced crossings, because of what may be called the barrage of automobiles passing along these streets. In order to properly police this city, 300 additional police officers should be added to this department. These men would be apportioned to the two traffic divisions and to the other police divisions. It should be understood that while primarily it is the duty of a traffic officer to direct vehicular and pedestrian traffic, yet he may and often does, in addition undertake the same type of work as an officer attached to a division of maintaining peace and protecting property.

"Another feature of traffic control, the adoption of which has proved successful in several Western cities, and which I advocated in 1924 before the joint special committee on the control, supervision and regulation of motor vehicles, is the so-called 'right of way or boulevard stop.' It requires vehicles to come to a full stop before entering or crossing a boulevard. This 'boulevard stop' has distinct advantages, inasmuch as operators of through traffic with the right of way can move rapidly without fear of side street traffic entering unexpectedly into the main traffic current. At this time the Board of Street Commissioners has proposed to put this 'boulevard stop' into operation on Shawmut avenue and the same could advantageously be adopted on several other boulevards of this city. If this regulation is universally adopted, repealing General Laws, chapter 89, section 8, which gives a vehicle on the right, approaching an intersecting street, the right of way, in my opinion a great number of unnecessary and serious accidents would be eliminated.

"I recommend that further legislation be enacted to prevent the sale or use of silencers or any instrument, attachment, weapon or appliance for causing the firing of a gun, revolver, pistol or other firearm to be silent, or intended to lessen or muffle the noise of the firing of the same.

"I again recommend for consideration, such legislation as will forbid in the Commonwealth of Massachusetts the sale of magazines or periodicals, published either in Massachusetts or other places outside of the Commonwealth, advertising the sale of firearms.

"I recommend the passage of such legislation as will require all persons purchasing, renting or leasing firearms, to first procure a license to carry the same.

"I recommend that chapter 266, section 63 of the General Laws be amended by adding at the end of said section, the following: That the word 'vehicle' in this section shall not apply to a motor vehicle or motorcycle; that chapter 322 of the Acts of 1920 be repealed; and that a new act be passed, making the penalty for stealing a motor vehicle or motorcycle imprisonment in the State Prison for not less than five years.

"The number of police officers in this department cannot be increased except by concurrent authorization of the Mayor. The present quota is 1,724 patrolmen and eight policewomen. Since February 1, 1920, a period of practically six years, this quota has been increased only by the addition of 150 police officers and eight policewomen. The argument that, inasmuch as the population of Boston has increased in the last ten years only 35,000, the present police force is sufficient, is not tenable, because this department is obliged yearly to take care of millions of persons coming in from outlying cities and towns, and a glance at the table of arrests will show that a large percentage of those arrested by the police officers of this department are not residents of Boston."

CONTRACTS AMENDED.

Alco Contracting Company have been allowed to amend their contract for the erection of an addition to the Washington Irving School in the Charles Sumner District, Poplar street, Roslindale, by striking out the words and figures "$4," on page 138, Section 20, and substituting therefor the words and figures "$5.50," so that the beginning of the last paragraph of said Section 20 on page 138 shall read: "For the above service he is to be paid by the City at the rate of $5.50 per day of eight hours, day or night run." This amendment is to become effective October 13, 1925.

RENT AND HOUSING COMMITTEE SHOWS ACTIVITY FOR SIX YEARS.

CASES OF 56,637 CITIZENS ADJUSTED AND DISPOSED OF DURING ITS EXISTENCE, ACCORDING TO REPORT SUBMITTED TO MAYOR NICHOLS.

Boston's Rent and Housing Commission has handled successfully 56,637 cases in the six years of its existence, according to a report presented to Mayor Malcolm E. Nichols by the commission, and made public by his Honor today.

The report also shows that 5,985 cases of rent increase had been found unreasonable and adjusted, 2,412 complaints heard and agreement made with parties concerned to adjust their troubles. The commission also obtains relief for tenants by securing extension of vacate notices for 6,250. An interesting feature of the work was that in 2,372 cases the tenant was spared humiliation and the landlord informed that notices to vacate were illegal.

The commission was also able to secure cancellation of notices to vacate for 1,170 citizens. There were 1,780 referred to the Board of Health for adjustment, and 1,307 cases dealt with where lack of heat was complained of. The commission was also able to inform tenants and landlord as to their rights in 23,378 cases.

Referred to the next Board.

APPRECIATION OF SERVICES OF RETIRING MEMBERS OF THE BOARD.

Mr. Sullivan offered the following: It is fitting at this time that the School Committee express in full measure, appreciation of the splendid service rendered by Miss Curtis and Dr. Scannell throughout their many years of membership on the Boston School Committee, which service is now about to be terminated; and I ask that this expression be spread upon the records of the meeting.

Mr. O'Hare:

Miss Curtis' thirteen years of continuous service, and Dr. Scannell's long period of service which was interrupted on account of military service in the World War, should be an inspiration to the people of this city, and a lesson as to what real service means.

Dr. Scannell, in reply:

If I may make any statement, it must be one of reaffirmation of faith in the Boston schools. I have been associated with the schools as a member of the School Committee for eleven years, and as these years have gone by, I have never seen other than right done. I have known and esteemed our able superintendents, past and present, and if I am convinced of any one thing after all these years, it is of faith in the Board of Superintendents as an efficient body of educators and leaders. With that body of intelligent and upright educators, no educational policies can go far wrong. It seems to me significant that with the numerous rated lists from which all permanent appointments are made, there is almost never a question raised by candidates.

On the financial side, my memory goes back to Mr. Porter, who was auditor as well as business agent, and thoroughly competent; then to his able and upright successor, Mr. Keough; and then to the present able incumbent, Mr. Sullivan. Never in all these years has there been a suggestion of misappropriation of funds.

As to the teaching service: To my mind it is second to none in the country. I have absolute faith in the service.

Service on the School Committee is a labor of love, and I am sorry to give it up. To my mind, it is the most honorable paid or unpaid service which the city offers.

Miss Curtis expressed appreciation of the tribute to the departing members, and regret that her official connection with the schools is now to be terminated.

The several statements were ordered spread upon the records.

UNFINISHED BUSINESS.

The order laid over at the meeting of Oct. 5, 1925 (see p. 188), as amended Dec. 7, 1925, amending sections 152 and 246 of the regulations relative to the department of physical education, was taken up and passed.

On motion, all unfinished business was referred to the next Board.

The Board adjourned.

LOAN FOR L STREET BATH.

The Council took up unfinished business, No. 2, on the calendar, viz.:

2. Ordered, That the sum of $380,000 be and hereby is appropriated to be expended under the direction of the Park Commissioners, for bath house and laundry, L street, South Boston, and that to meet said appropriation the City Treasurer be authorized to issue, from time to time, on request of the Mayor, bonds or certificates of indebtedness of the city to said amount.

On December 14, 1925, the foregoing order was read once and passed, yeas 8, nays 0.

The question came on giving the order its second reading and passage.

Coun. DONOGHUE—I want to say, in connection with No. 2 on the calendar, that I think it is rather inadvisable at this time to appropriate the sum of $380,000 for a new bath house over on L street, simply because of the fact that this administration is coming to a close, and the expenditure of this money, if it is to be expended, will come under the new administration. We have known of various instances in the past where large sums of money amounting to approximately half million dollars have been appropriated by one administration, and during the entire number of years in which the incoming administration was in office that amount of money was never spent. In the instance I have in mind, the amount was very close to this amount of $380,000. It seems to me, in the closing hours of this Council and the closing hours of this administration, it would be rather like a policy of leaving the cupboard bare to appropriate this particular amount of $400,000 which, evidently, nobody knows just what to do with, other than to spend it somehow. If my memory serves me correctly, this sum was originally appropriated for the building of a municipal auditorium which was to be located somewhere along the Strandway in South Boston, as I understood it at that time. Later on it was discovered that that plan was not feasible at this particular time, and then it was decided to transfer this fund to building a roadway out to Castle Island. After $20,000 of the $400,000 had been expended, they discovered that that plan is not feasible, and still there is $380,000 left, and it must be spent somehow, I suppose. So it is now proposed to put in new bath houses and include a laundry at L street. It does not seem to me that the L Street Bath House is in any crying need of new facilities, because there has been a new bath house built at Carson Beach, which must take care of some of those who formerly visited L Street Bath House. If there is such a need now, that need was there when this $400,000 was available. But this is not the first choice, or the second choice, but this is the third choice of the object for which this money is to be spent. I cannot see any justification in voting for this order because, as I said in starting out, this money will either be expended or will not be expended by a new administration. As a Council, we are laying ourselves liable to a greater or less extent to criticism by not only the citizenry of this city, but by the officials of the city, because I read in the paper only recently that, at some meeting held before some labor organization which was composed almost entirely of Knights of Labor, a speech or two was made in which it was stated that the City Council sent an order to his Honor the Mayor asking him to increase the salaries of almost every head of a department, so that it would cost the city approximately $100,000 a year more than under the present existing condition. That order, to my recollection, was never passed by this Council. It was never even submitted for the sanction of the Council. Therefore it comes with rather ill grace for any official of this city to say that this Council introduced an order raising all salaries of those who are now fairly well to do. Not alone that, but in the same breath it was stated that they noticed that no increases were mentioned for those who are the lower paid city employees. That is not the truth. This Council passed an order which was introduced originally by myself, more than two months ago, in which we asked his Honor the Mayor to increase the salaries of the low-paid employees of our city. That order was amended by Coun. Purcell so that it asked his Honor the Mayor to increase the salaries of all those who were receiving less than $1,500 a year. No action has ever been taken on that particular order. I say that if this administration is going to criticize this Council for not increasing the salaries of the lower paid employees of the city, the fault is not with the Council. The fault is other than with the Council, and it is in the Mayor's office. If we have $400,000 to spend, let us spend it in increasing these salaries. If it is going to be spent on a proposition which is a third thought, I say it ought to be spent on a proposition which is a first thought, and which should take first place in the thought of this Council, and that is the increasing of the salaries of those who are now underpaid on the city pay rolls. This $400,000 will take care of the situation nicely. It can be transferred anywhere that you want to transfer it, so that it can be used for that particular purpose, and I will vote to transfer it in any way necessary in order to make it possible to appropriate that amount of money to increase the salaries of the employees of the city who are now, in my opinion, underpaid. I am not going to leave myself open, as one member of this Council, to any criticism by any administrative head who might cast any reflection upon my personal sympathies with the lower paid employees. I believe, I have always believed, and I now believe in the last days of my sitting as a member of this Council, that the lower paid employees of the City of Boston have been increased only because of the activity of the City Council during the seven years that I have been a member of this body. I know of innumerable instances where this Council has personally appealed to the administration in power asking for an increase of wages of those who are lowly paid. To my way of thinking, such propositions have never come from the other side of the fence. In conclusion, I am going to say that I would be very glad to see this order defeated, so that this money might be appropriated to increase the salaries of city employees who are now living on a starvation wage rather than on a saving wage.

Coun. LANE—I would like to remind the councilor who has just spoken that this $380,000 could not be used for salaries. We need not appropriate it for the purpose requested in the order if we do not wish to do so, but this money cannot be used to pay salaries, because it comes from a bond issue, and you cannot borrow money with which to pay salaries. I do not object to defeating the measure, so far as that goes, and not spending all the money at the end of this term, but it cannot be used for the purpose he suggests.

Coun. HEALEY—I trust that history will not repeat itself. As I remember, in the closing hours of the Peters' administration, $400,000 was appropriated for improvements in South Boston, and in the next administration, it was transferred and used for other purposes. This appropriation is going for something that is well thought of by the people in the district. While I, like Coun. Donoghue, think the employees of the city ought to get a living wage, I voted for this appropriation once, and unless I could see clearly a reason why I should not do so again, I would vote for it on second reading. As I understand it, during the Peters' campaign, $400,000 was asked and appropriated for a gymnasium and bath house, combined.

President MORIARTY—Just a gymnasium.

Coun. HEALEY—And the new administration, when it came in, suggested that that $400,000 should be transferred for some other purpose, and that was done. I would not like to see that thing occur again, where $380,000 was appropriated for improvements in South Boston, and then was defeated. I feel that the underpaid men ought to get better salaries, but I agree with Coun. Lane that the time has not arrived in Boston, as it did in Chicago, where a bond issue may be used for increasing salaries. That would be a terrible step backward. I would be inclined to vote for Item No. 2.

Coun. DONOGHUE—Mr. President, I do not think that any way in which this money might be appropriated to increase the salaries of those who are not now receiving enough to live on would be a terrible way of spending this money, as was expressed by my fellow councilor. I think it would be the best way to spend it. The first consideration of the administration of any city is to see that the city employees are sufficiently well paid to, at least, procure for themselves and their families the necessities of life, food, clothing, and shelter. No one can say that those who are receiving some of the amounts received by city employees at the present time are getting enough to keep body and soul together, and I will vote for any kind of an order to spend this money in any way possible, whether it be raised by bond issue, or whatever it may be, in order that it may be applied to that purpose. As far as South Boston is concerned, I appreciate that a great deal of money has been spent in South Boston during this administration. We have spent millions of dollars over there improving the Strandway, and I feel this is not a very necessary or vital improvement. If it was something that they did not already have, if it was for the establishment of a bath house in South Boston, I might be inclined to vote for it at this particular time. But in view of the fact that we have an L Street Bath House and we have the Carson Street Bath Houses, which were built under this administration, I think the old L Street Bath House which has weathered time for a number of years is going to take care of the wants and needs of the people for some time to come. I don't think it is necessary, at this particular time, to spend this amount of money for a new L Street Bath House. I do not think the administration thought so, because, if they had thought so, they would have introduced the order originally for a new L Street Bath House, rather than introducing it as a third thought. This money was originally provided for an auditorium. The second thought was providing for a road out to Castle Island, and finally the third thought was to send it back to this Council as an appropriation that ought to be expended for an L Street Bath House. I think that shows that this project is not considered necessary or very vital, even by the administration. For that reason, without any more talk, I am going to vote against it.

President MORIARTY—I want to say that in so far as the L Street Bath House is concerned, if the councilor would visit the L Street Bath House he would see that a new building is needed. The L Street Bath House is likely to collapse any moment. The building is gone. They cannot keep it in shape, and so far as the new bath house is concerned there, the facilities out there at the height of the bathing season will not take care of the bathing public that uses the baths, and they are not all from South Boston. The superintendent at L Street told me that, of those who checked goods at the window, there were only about 10 per cent of the people patronizing the L Street Bath House who came from South Boston. I do not know what is in the minds of the other end of the administration, and I am not responsible for that. I think the roadway to Castle Island was the foremost thing in their thought, but if we remember the communication that came back from the Mayor when he transferred this money, we will recall that he said he could not come to an understanding with the state officials. If it was possible to transfer this money to pay higher wages I would be in accord with the councilor who has agreed to oppose this measure. But I know as well as he knows that we are unable to transfer this money and use it to pay the wages of employees. The charter does not allow the Council or the Mayor to raise money by bond issue for the payment of wages to any employee. I realize what happened four years ago. I realize that when this administration went in almost every member here today was a member of the Council, and we voted to transfer the money as has been stated. We cannot blame the administration. The only ones we can blame are the members of this Council. If the members of this Council had not cared to transfer the money, the money would never have been transferred. But the members of this Council did agree with the administration downstairs and did transfer the money that was appropriated under the Peters administration.

Coun. PURCELL—What year was that?

President MORIARTY—That was the year before you came in. This order is here, and so far as I am concerned, I shall not oppose it. I am still a resident of South Boston, and I intend to be there. We have criticized the Mayor publicly, in South Boston, not later than a month or six weeks ago, in regard to the transfer of that money that we had appropriated and in regard to what we have over there now. We have a lot of land which is owned by the city and which was bought out of that appropriation, and we also have a costly set of plans for a $420,000 gymnasium for which the architect has been paid. This appropriation was first, as Coun. Donoghue says, for a stadium on the Strandway. The next move was to provide for a roadway from Castle Island to the mainland, which was again in South Boston. So we have tried to start at both ends. The first attempt was at the Strandway, and then we jumped to the extreme end at City Point, and now we are landed approximately midway between the first and second places. I think there is no better thing to do, so far as the general public in Boston is concerned, than to put an up-to-date bath house on the L Street site. As we are coming to the closing part of the administration, I am going to ask the members of the Council, in consideration for me, to vote for this proposition.

Coun. HEALEY—I suppose, on the question of time, Coun. Donoghue ought to realize that even if order No. 2 were to be voted for increases of salaries it would take two readings, with two weeks between the readings. Of course we have but one meeting left, so it would be not only legally impossible but physically impossible for us to do what he desires. He is generally very keen on those matters, and I think he will realize that situation. We go out of business next month. If we give order No. 2 a first reading for salary increases, we will be out of business when the time for the second reading arrives.

Coun. PURCELL—Does this order require a second reading?

President MORIARTY—This is the second reading.

Coun. HEALEY—If the money were transferred for some other purpose it would require two readings.

Coun. DONOGHUE—I would like to hear from the auditor, and know whether there is any money available at the present time which might be used for an increase of salary for the lower paid employees of our city.

Coun. PURCELL—The auditor has just gone over to the Finance Commission.

Coun. DONOGHUE—My thought has been directed to this matter because of a criticism which has been made against the Council, and I want to state that I am not going to leave myself liable, as one member of the Council, to any criticism of not being interested in increasing the salaries of the city employees. I am not going to sit quietly by and hear any address delivered which will reflect upon me as a member of this Council, and which intimates, at least, that this amount of money should have been appropriated to increase the salaries of certain employees of the departments. I am not going to have it intimated that if that money had been appropriated for an increase of salaries for the lower paid employees it would have been favorably acted upon by this administration. That is not so. They had an opportunity to increase salaries, because a resolution was passed by the Council asking the administration to do so. I feel that, as Coun. Moriarty has said, probably less than 10 per cent of the people of South Boston use the L Street Bath House. I think you would find that about 70 per cent of the people using the L Street Bath House are not residents of the City of Boston, and I think $380,000 is a great deal of money to spend to take care of the welfare and the happiness of those who are not citizens of our city. I feel there is more than one way to bring about a Greater Boston. I know that under the present political conditions in the State House, with a Republican administration dominated by a Republican Legislature, Greater Boston is in the very far distant future, if we are ever going to become a Greater Boston. Political considerations are the only things that prevent a Greater Boston, and I feel that if the citizens of our city refuse to appropriate moneys for the benefit of those who actually should be residents of a Greater Boston, we are going to compel some of the members of the Legislature to see the light, and to agree to a Greater Boston. They never will do so as long as we are going to beg with our hats in our hands and ask them to do so. We must compel them, in order to accomplish any results. I have voted for every order that has ever come in here for any appropriation for the residents of South Boston, but I am not so keenly interested in this order because, as the President says, it does not particularly concern the people of South Boston. They do not particularly care whether a new L Street Bath House is built or not. I think we ought to go rather slowly in the dying days of this administration when it comes to appropriating approximately half a million dollars, because, as I said in opening, this money might be appropriated and this Council might pass the order and it might be signed by his Honor the Mayor, but I do not believe that the money can be spent or the contract can be let for the expenditure of the money until the new administration comes into office. If this order does not meet with the approval of the incoming administration, it is going to mean that this amount of money will be tied up until the new Council disposes of it in some way or another. I think there is going to be considerable opposition, under the new form of government from the various members representing various districts of our city, to an appropriation of $400,000 for a new L Street Bath House. I believe that even the new Council would be glad if they had an opportunity to vote for an increase of salaries for the lower paid employees of our city. I feel that they will represent the wishes and the thoughts of the people in their respective communities, and I am fairly certain the great majority of the people of the neighborhood who will be represented by the new councilors are composed of the lower paid classes, the people who have to struggle, and not the so-called "High Hats." I think $400,000 is a great deal of money to spend on the last meeting day of this year, thereby leaving ourselves open to criticism that has been promised us through the newspapers. I, for one am not going to leave myself open to any such criticism, and I am going to vote against the order. I will say that I would like to vote for it, personally, at the request of Coun. Moriarty. I would be glad to vote for it at any other time of the year if it had been sent in here for him, personally, because he comes from South Boston. But at this time, after it has been bandied around from one project to another, I think it is with very poor grace that the Council should go out of business leaving the cupboard bare.

President MORIARTY—To straighten up something which was mentioned by the councilor who has just spoken, I wish to say that I do not want to leave any impression that 90 per cent of the people who visit the L Street Bath House are not residents of Boston. When I said there were only 10 per cent of the residents of South Boston using the bath house, the other 90 per cent are, of course, residents of Boston and other places. But the big majority of the people who use the L Street Bath House are inhabitants of Boston. I want to say that I do not want anybody to vote for me, personally, in regard to this order. I think that the L Street baths have returned to the citizens of Boston, dollar for dollar, more than any other project for which the money of Boston has ever been spent, with the exception of some of our city institutions. I think it is one of the greatest institutions in Boston, and I often feel that the people in the district do not fully appreciate it. I feel that if the people are given a place that is up-to-date they will probably appreciate it more. There are two bath houses there, and one of them is an inclosure where the old-style bathing can still be carried on. At the new bath house, that is not the case. If we desire to allow those who wish to bathe under the old system to continue to do so, we had better take care of the old structure while we are here. We are not responsible for the acts of the new Council or the Mayor. So far as the appropriation is concerned, I am glad that it is to be made for the L Street baths. If I had made my own choice, my first choice would have been the L Street baths, not a stadium and not a roadway to Castle Island. I do not know whether the Mayor knew of the crying need for saving the structure that is there now, but I feel that, so far as we are concerned, we have one week in which to do our duty. We are not responsible for any other body. It is not South Boston that is getting all these improvements. South Boston is a pleasure resort, so far as the Strandway and City Point is concerned, and I suppose there are more people who go to South Boston in the peninsular district, where all this money has been spent, than go to any other section of Boston. More people go there than go to Franklin Park or Franklin Field or any other pleasure resort in Boston. I feel that, if that is so, and it is becoming the leading pleasure resort in the city, we should give to the people who go there the best accommodation that can be given them, and I hope the order will pass.

Coun. GILBODY—I appreciate that there is merit in the remarks we have heard from Coun. Donoghue with reference to the position in which his Honor the Mayor has put this Council with reference to the raise of pay for day laborers and mechanics. I think it would be well if we would send for the Mayor and ask him if he will use this money to pay the city laborers and mechanics.

President MORIARTY—It cannot be used that way. This is a bond issue.

Coun. GILBODY—I do not feel that it is fair that the Mayor should say that this body refused to raise the pay of the laborers and mechanics.

President MORIARTY—I think everybody agrees with Coun. Donoghue, so far as that is concerned.

Coun. DONOGHUE—Is it not possible to appropriate this money on a bond issue for an increase in salaries?

President MORIARTY—The Budget Commissioner is here. He may be able to answer that.

Coun. PURCELL—The City Clerk could answer it, I think.

Coun. HEALEY—I do not think there is any legal tangle about appropriating this money. I think it is simply a matter of custom, and a belief that good financing does not permit bond issues for current expenses. But the law requires two readings. That is a statutory requirement, and if we give the order one reading, the second reading will come when we are out of business.

Coun. PURCELL—Let us vote for this order today, and put it over with a communication to the next Council recommending that they appropriate a certain amount of money for raising the wages of the city employees. As Coun. Healey says, it is out of the question to change this order now. It cannot be done. It is physically impossible. Why not do it that way?

Coun. LANE—I do not believe that any mayor of this city would ever sign such a thing. I know enough about Mayor Curley to know that he would not sign an order to pay salaries out of a bond issue, and I am very sure that his successors will not do it. No man that is sound in finance would do it.

Coun. DONOGHUE—I differ from the councilor who has just spoken. I think that if the present administration felt the situation as keenly as has been expressed in the newspapers, the Mayor would have been glad to sign the order if it were to increase salaries of the lower paid employees of the city. I think we ought to take him at his word and send this order to him, so far as we can do so. If we can only give it one reading, then let us give it only one reading, and let the second reading be had before the new city government. I think the new city government will be inclined to favor an increase in salaries for the lower paid employees of our city. I do not think there is any question about it. So, if the administration means what it says, there is not any reason why this order should not meet with the executive approval, and at the same time this Council would be taking away from itself any misdirected criticism which might be leveled at it. So I think we should at least wait until we find out whether there is a sufficient amount of money left in the treasury to take care of an increase for the lower-paid employees of our city before we take a final roll call vote upon this order. I realize, of course, that I am a very small minority on this proposition, and I probably will be the only one who will vote against the order. But I think, in fairness to ourselves, before we pass this order finally, we should at least make an effort to get at the facts and find out whether or not there is a sufficient amount of money that might be appropriated for an increase in salary. If there is, and if that order is sanctioned by this Council, I would be glad to change my vote and vote for this order. But if there is not, then I will vote against this order for the sole and express purpose of objecting to the criticism that has been leveled against this Council. I will be glad to vote for the order, as I said, at any other time. But right now, with a new administration coming in, I do not think it is good financial judgment, as we have heard the term mentioned here, to appropriate every available cent for improvements. The L Street Bath House will last for at least another year, or another few months, until the bathing season opens. If there is any crying demand for any new L Street baths, the incoming administration will see the necessity of appropriating a sufficient amount of money to put up that bath house, or to keep the present house in good repair.

I do not think there is any rush about this proposition. I do not think we ought to appropriate this amount of money and leave it for the incoming administration to decide whether or not it is going to be expended. It is going to be within the province of the new incoming Mayor of this city to say whether or not this amount of money will be expended for this particular purpose. If we are going to leave the cupboard bare, and appropriate every cent available, so that the incoming administration will be left stranded I think that such action will injure the cause of a new bath house in South Boston, rather than help it.

Coun. GILBODY—In view of the fact that there is a question of ethics or finance being raised here as to the appropriate disposition of this money, I think we ought to send for the Mayor and find out whether he would consider the discussion that has taken place in the Council this afternoon. He is the one who could settle this dispute.

Coun. LANE—I have already seen in the papers that his Honor Mayor Curley has had the Mayor-elect in his office on two or three different occasions, and among other things which he pointed out to him was that the laborers and the under-paid men would have to have an increase. I think that is fairly well understood, but I do not think that appropriating the necessary money from a bond issue is going to help them any.

President MORIARTY—A letter has been sent to the head of every department requesting them to establish an increase of 50 cents a day.

Coun. BRICKLEY—I ask for a roll call.

Coun. GILBODY—If the money could be expended for a raise in the pay of the city laborers and mechanics, I would gladly consider such a proposition. Inasmuch as this money is provided by a bond issue, and the Council does not want to put the question to the Mayor as to what his position would be, I will vote for the order with the proviso that I will present a resolution providing for a 50 cent increase in the budget for laborers and mechanics.

The order was read a second time and again passed, yeas 7, nays, Coun. Donoghue, 1.

REPORT ON VISIT TO OTHER CITIES.

Coun. MORIARTY submitted the following report signed by Coun. Moriarty, Gilbody, Purcell, Walsh and Lane, viz.:

Report of the Committee of the City Council appointed for the purpose of investigating chronic hospitals in other cities.

The committee begs to submit the following report concerning their investigation of hospitals in New York and Chicago in connection with the proposed expenditure by the City of Boston of $1,000,000 for the removal of the almshouse and chronic hospital from Long Island to Parker Hill.

The consensus of opinion among the leading health officials of New York and Chicago, as well as of the prominent doctors in charge of private institutions visited by your committee, is greatly in favor of the establishment of such an institution upon the mainland.

Your committee visited Blackwell's Island, New York, and spent the better part of the day in viewing this institution. We also visited the Mt. Sinai Hospital, one of the leading institutions of the country.

Leaving New York, your committee went to Chicago, where we visited several penal institutions. Your committee visited and thoroughly inspected the almshouse and institution supported by Cook County for the care of the aged and infirm, which is located outside the city of Chicago.

During the visits to these institutions, observations were made by the several members of your committee concerning each and every situation which confronts us in the care of our aged and infirm.

Particular attention was paid to the sanitary condition of the institutions, to the amount of space allotted to each patient in the almshouse, to the food, to the clothing supplied, to the medical attention given those who are not chronically ill, to the construction of the buildings, to the attention given by employees to the chronic and aged, and to the various methods of superintendence.

One feature developed in Chicago, which your committee brings to your attention, and that is the care in the almshouse of aged couples. In the Cook County institution at Chicago, a room is provided for a man and wife who have, through circumstances, become inmates. Your committee thought this feature a very worthy one because of the many comforts that must be provided to the old folks thus housed.

Another particularly commendable feature is the fact that in the almshouse of Cook County the entire institution is connected by corridors, totaling some seven miles in length, thus affording access to any and all parts of the institution without the necessity of leaving the building.

In connection with the construction of the buildings, it is worth while to note that the general line of thought of the authorities of both the public and private institutions was that they should be of a standard two-story height, also fireproof. Your committee approves of this method of construction as well as the providing of corridors connecting all parts of the hospital with the main building, similar to the Cook County institution, making it unnecessary to go out of doors from one building to the other.

The particular thanks of the committee are extended to the mayors of New York and Chicago, who received your committee with enthusiasm and placed every facility at their disposal. In both cities, the Health Commissioner was placed at the convenience of your committee by the Chief Executives, and the officials of these health departments extended every assistance. Your committee desires to extend its profound thanks to the mayors of these cities, to the Board of Aldermen of Chicago, to the Health Commissioners, their assistants, and to the numerous other city officials who so kindly assisted them in obtaining first-hand information.

Your committee also desires to extend its sincere thanks to President Cermack of Cook County, Ill., for his very generous treatment.

BOSTON WINS UNUSUAL HONOR IN SCHOOL ARCHITECTURAL DESIGNS, TWO STRUCTURES HAVING BEEN SELECTED AS MODELS FOR ALL THE COUNTRY.

THE "AMERICAN BUILDER" RANKS THE CHAMPLAIN BUILDING IN THE JOHN MARSHALL DISTRICT AND THE JAMES A. GARFIELD STRUCTURE AS BEST EXAMPLES OF WHAT SUCH BUILDINGS SHOULD BE.

ARCHITECT'S DRAWING OF CHAMPLAIN ELEMENTARY SCHOOL, ONE OF TWO STRUCTURES SELECTED BY EXPERTS IN SCHOOL CONSTRUCTION AS BEING MODELS FOR ALL OF COUNTRY.

Boston has achieved another distinction in educational circles by having two of its buildings chosen as models for all the remainder of the country. This became a fact through the announcement from the Schoolhouse Department that the "American Builder," a national publication, had made these selections and was publishing the fact to the world in an issue of an early date.

The buildings chosen as models are the Champlain Elementary School, in the John Marshall District, and the James A. Garfield School. Construction work on them has advanced so far that plans are being developed for their dedication by Mayor Malcolm E. Nichols in the not very distant future. Both are among the best that could be produced by experts in architecture and construction and up-to-date in appointments.

The first floor of the Champlain School contains seven classrooms, women teachers' room and a health room. The second floor is divided into six classrooms, while the basement contains girls' and boys' playrooms, fan, boilers, the room of the custodian and the electrician's closet as well as other accessories. Both buildings are considered the most notable examples of modern school design. The materials of the walls are brick with limestone trimmings and the construction is second class with fireproof floor over fan, custodian's room, boiler and coal rooms and corridor.

The system of ventilation for building is the plenum fan system. Fresh air is taken through a cold-air inlet in the basement, passed over primary radiators and discharged by means of a motor-driven fan and galvanized-iron ducts into the various classrooms. The fan is capable of delivering 23,000 cubic feet of air per minute, each classroom receiving 1,350 cubic feet per minute, or 30 cubic feet per minute per occupant.

The temperature is controlled automatically by mixing dampers operated by a graduated thermostat and designed to maintain any desired temperature above 60 degrees Fahrenheit. The various rooms are heated by direct radiators.

O Boston, fair City enthroned like a radiant queen,
From thy hills looking down on the ship-teeming plain of the ocean,
May thy future be bright, thy skies beam with light all serene,

ACTS PROMPTLY ON PARKER HOUSE ACCIDENT WHERE CITIZENS WERE INJURED AND LIVES ENDANGERED.

MAYOR NICHOLS SECURES REPORT ON MATTER FROM ACT- ING BUILDING COMMISSIONER JOHN H. MAHONY AND SUSPENDS LICENSE OF WRECKER—ALSO MOVES TO SECURE LEGISLATION TO PREVENT FUTURE ACCIDENTS.

Mayor Malcolm E. Nichols suspended the license of Robert R. McNutt, building wrecker, after personally viewing the collapsed debris at the old Parker House on School street where nine workmen were injured on Wednesday, January 13. The Mayor took this action following a report by Acting Building Commissioner John H. Mahony.

Mayor Nichols also issued the following statement concerning the accident:

"It is clear to me that the Parker House collapse is due in considerable part to the lack of suitable provisions of law for adequate protection in the demolition of buildings.

"From the report of the Building Commissioner, it appears that the licensee in charge of the work was not present at the time of the accident, and that the men in charge were not of sufficient skill fully to realize the dangers accompanying work of this character.

"It is my opinion that there should be in charge of such work, at all times, an inspector approved by the Building Commissioner. The pay of this inspector should not fall upon the City of Boston, but should be included in the cost of demolition.

"I believe the law should be careful, however, not to release the building wrecker from any responsibility which now attaches to him, under the present law.

"To carry the foregoing outline into effect, I have instructed the Law Department to prepare a bill for immediate presentation to the Legislature.

"Upon the recommendation of the Building Commissioner, I have ordered a complaint immediately to be lodged before the Board of Examiners of the Building Department, to ascertain the reasons why the license of the licensed mechanic in charge should not be revoked.

"Pending hearing on the above complaint, I have also ordered the license applying to this work to be suspended."

The report of Building Commissioner John H. Mahony, which blamed the collapse on the cutting of rafters and which caused Mayor Nichols to act, was as follows:

"On December 7, 1925, three permits to take down 56 and 66 School street and 64 and 68 Tremont street on property known as the Parker House were issued. Work has been prosecuted under this permit to date. Applications were signed by Robert R. McNutt Corporation as owner or representative of owner, with address at 370 Dorchester avenue; licensed mechanic who signed application was Robert R. McNutt, 370 Dorchester avenue.

"In the taking down of this building, which has been duly inspected by officers of the Building Department, and as late as yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock, January 12, nothing was seen that would indicate any unsafety. The work was prosecuted on the night of the 12th instant and on the morning of the 13th when a collapse occurred injuring several workmen, somewhere about 9.10 in the morning of January 13.

"On examination made by the officials of the Building Department it was found that the floors were framed on trusses and floors suspended from each other by rods. There is evidence of rafters of the truss being sawed off thereby transferring the weight of the floors through the tension rods to the floors below. It is apparent that the third floor was probably broom cleaned and, as far as it was visible, there was no unsafety at this point.

"It is the opinion of the officials of the department that in cutting off the rafters of the trusses that the loads were transferred from the truss to the floors below through the tension rods, thereby causing the collapse, walls pushed out towards Tremont Temple. Floors and trusses collapsed to the first floor.

"Revised Ordinance 1914, chapter 8, creates a Board of Examiners in the Building Department of the City of Boston, whose duty is to examine applicants desiring to be registered and qualified to alter, remove or tear down buildings or structures in the City of Boston. The ordinance further provides 'all work of construction, alteration, removal or tearing down of buildings or structures in the City of Boston shall hereafter be under the charge, control and personal supervision of the licensed mechanic qualified by education, training or experience for the performance of that duty in the manner which shall preserve public safety and conform to the laws, ordinances, rules and regulations relating to the construction, alteration, removal or tearing down of buildings and structures in the City of Boston.'

"The licensed mechanic at these premises was Robert R. McNutt, 370 Dorchester avenue, who obtained a Class E license from the Board of Examiners, a license to take down, control and personally supervise the wrecking of buildings. From information obtained after the accident today we learned that Mr. McNutt was not on the premises yesterday or today, therefore it became the duty of the Building Commissioner under section 9 of said ordinance to file charges with the Board of Examiners asking that Board to give the licensee notice of a hearing upon the charges made by the Building Department.

"If for any reason Mr. McNutt desires to leave the premises, under section 10 of the Ordinance it becomes his duty to place another person, duly licensed, in charge of the work and so notify the Building Department. The records of the Building Department shows no such notice."

ASKS THAT ORDER FOR L STREET BATH HOUSE BE REVOKED.

Mayor Nichols, on January 11, sent to the Council the following order:

To the City Council.

GENTLEMEN,—I transmit to you herewith an order providing that the authorization to borrow $380,000 for bath house and laundry at L Street, South Boston, be revoked.

In my inaugural message, addressed to you on January 4, I called attention to the condition of the finances of the city and said that the administration would be under the necessity of examining with especial care every new proposal to ascertain its worth.

The object of the authorization provides for an improvement of great cost, but its utility is already met by present accommodations.

These accommodations include the L Street Bath House, which provides closet and checking facilities for 2,520 persons; the new bath house on Columbus Park, opened for use during the past season, which provides locker, closet and checking facilities for 1,658 persons, and located at a distance of about one half mile from the L Street Bath House; and the Head House at City Point, which provides locker, closet and checking facilities for 834 persons, and which is located at a distance of less than a half mile from the L Street Bath House.

I seriously doubt at this time the need for an extensive addition to these facilities, and I therefore recommend the adoption of the accompanying order.

Respectfully

MALCOLM E. NICHOLS, Mayor.

Ordered, That the authorization to borrow $380,000 for bath house and laundry, L street, South Boston, which loan order was passed December 28, 1925, and approved by the Mayor December 29, 1925, be and the same is hereby revoked.

HOUSING COMMITTEE IS TO BE CARRIED ON.

Mayor Nichols on Monday, January 11, sent to the Council the following order:

To the City Council.

GENTLEMEN,—I am informed that the appropriation for the Committee on Rent and Housing is exhausted, and it seems to me fairly important that the activities of this committee should be continued.

I therefore recommend the passage of the accompanying order.

Respectfully,

MALCOLM E. NICHOLS, Mayor.

Ordered, That the sum of $5,000 be and the same hereby is appropriated to be expended by the Committee on Rent and Housing, under the direction of the Mayor, in the prosecution of its duties, said sum to be charged to the Reserve Fund, when made.

MAYOR NICHOLS MAKES MOVE TO CREATE BOSTON A "GREATER" CITY.

FILES BILL WITH LEGISLATURE TO INCLUDE ENTIRE METROPOLITAN AREA IN CENSUS DISTRICT THUS BRINGING CITY TO FOURTH PLACE IN SIZE — WOULD WIN FAVORABLE SENTIMENT.

Mayor Malcolm E. Nichols moved, on Thursday, January 14, to keep another of his campaign pledges, which was to work for placing Boston where she belongs among the large cities of the country, when he caused to be filed with the Legislature a bill seeking to have Boston, for census purposes, include all the cities and towns in the metropolitan district.

The Mayor, sensitive of the feelings of the adjoining communities and their pride in their individual localities, was opposed to any idea that would force neighboring communities to link themselves with Boston. His measure is calculated to stimulate sentiment in that direction, and at the same time give Boston what is her due before the world and the nation in the matter of census standing and rating.

He does not think that any advantage is to be gained by attempting to legislate against the will of numerous localities, especially Cambridge, Brookline, Milton and Malden, which have always vigorously opposed such movements. If a Greater Boston actually is to come, it is the Mayor's opinion that it should come without serious objection.

Like other chief executives, including Mayors Peters, Curley and Fitzgerald, Mayor Nichols stresses the unfortunate position which the city holds in the Federal census, now that of eighth place, with conditions of a much greater city waiting upon the will of various communities. Such legislation as the Mayor proposes would place Boston in fourth place, so far as the census is concerned, topped only by New York, Chicago and Philadelphia.

"Throughout the country the size and growth of this city is not well understood because of the presence of almost three score cities and towns under separate municipal governments whose business and social life are in fact one and whose commercial center is located within the City of Boston," Mayor Nichols said.

"Everybody interested should be able immediately to see the industrial and commercial advantages of having a city of the population which the bill would create. Furthermore, if we had a metropolitan city, we would get a much more effective public sentiment to our great advantage. You can't push this thing down people's throats. I believe we shall have a metropolitan city in fact sometime, and that the time is not far away."

The bill which Mayor Nichols has filed reads:

An act defining the limits of the City of Boston for census purposes.

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives in General Court assembled, and by the authority of the same, as follows:

Section 8 of chapter 9 of the General Laws, as revised by section 1 of chapter 453 of the Acts of 1924, is hereby amended by adding at the end thereof the following: "For the purposes of such census the City of Boston is hereby defined to include all cities and towns designated as comprised within the metropolitan district adjacent to said city as tabulated in the results of the fourteenth census of the United States, provided that said cities and towns shall likewise be separately returned in said census, under their respective names."

Section 8. The secretary shall make available for inspection and copying by the Federal authorities charged with the taking of the United States census such information in his possession as said authorities may desire. For the purposes of such census the City of Boston is hereby defined to include all cities and towns designated as comprised within the metropolitan district adjacent to said city as tabulated in the results of the fourteenth census of the United States, provided that said cities and towns shall likewise be separately returned in said census, under their respective names.

WOULD CONTINUE POLICY OF LETTING LEGISLATURE FIX BOSTON TAX LIMIT AS WISE PROCEDURE.

MAYOR NICHOLS BELIEVES PRESENT LAW HAS SERVED CITY WELL AND THAT IT WILL CONTINUE TO DO SO. BOSTON HELD TO BE IN CATEGORY BY ITSELF IN MATTER OF FINANCES.

Mayor Malcolm E. Nichols has asked that the state continue to fix the tax limit of Boston, through Assistant Corporation Counsel Joseph P. Lyons, who represented the Mayor at the hearing before the Committee on Municipal Affairs of the Massachusetts Legislature on Wednesday, January 13. Mr. Lyons opposed both the bills of former Mayor James M. Curley, and of Senator Eben S. Draper and Representative Henry L. Shattuck, to abolish the fixing of the tax rate by the General Court.

Mr. Lyons explained that economy, through compulsory paring down of the city's budget to meet the legislative limit, and the fact that a great majority of the taxpayers and business men of Boston live outside of the city, prompted Mayor Nichols' action.

Arguments for the measures were presented by Representative Shattuck. In opening he explained why the debt provisions and the tax limit provisions in his bill were incorporated in one measure, saying that he believed they were and should be so intertwined that they should be considered together.

"Under the present law, Boston can borrow for any purpose except the payment of state taxes," he declared, "but it cannot exceed 2½ per cent of the average valuation of the preceding three years. After acceptance of the city charter the city's debt was reduced materially up to the last three years. In that time it has advanced by leaps and bounds.

"Boston has borrowed money for many things recently which it could not have done under the Municipal Bonds Act, under which other cities and towns operate and under which this bill places the city. It has consistently borrowed almost up to its debt limit. The city has lagged behind in the progress of municipal legislation and there is no reason why it should not come under the general laws and keep abreast of the times.

"As to the tax limit, it is logical to combine it with the debt question. The Joint Committee on Municipal Finance of 1913, which reported the Municipal Bonds Act, declared that a state-regulated tax limit is an inducement to the city or town to borrow up to that limit. The tax limit has merely an annual effect. Borrowing on bonds may affect the city's finances for the next forty years.

"This bill was filed before the recent election, when it was not known, who would be mayor. The tax limit was planned as a safety valve, to stand over a period of years. But now it is fixed yearly. The state's finances are fixed by a careful survey of a detailed budget, in the case of Boston. The Mayor filed a leaflet of a few pages telling what he expects, and the Finance Commission files another saying he's all wrong. From these two the Legislature is supposed to fix a tax limit—by guess work.

"And all these supposed precautions have failed to keep down Boston's tax rate, which is steadily mounting. The Mayor can practically force the hands of the Legislature by incurring obligations which the Legislature must O. K. The tax limit is a rope of sand, which appears to protect while it really does not. I feel that Boston doesn't need a nursemaid in this matter any longer."

Assistant Corporation Counsel Joseph P. Lyons appeared in opposition to both bills by request of Mayor Nichols. He declared that for years the bonds of Boston have been sold at the lowest yield of any municipality and that the tax rate compares favorably with any in the state.

The Mayor feels that Boston is in a category by itself. "Being such a large city, it is pretty nearly the most important part of the Commonwealth. Each year, when the tax limit is set, the Mayor and his heads of departments come here and give a tentative budget. They cannot give a real budget until the tax limit is fixed. Ninety-nine times out of a hundred that budget has to be pared down to fit the limit granted. Furthermore, the great majority of the taxpayers and business men of Boston live outside the city, which is one of the chief reasons for state control. The present law has served us well for years. Let it serve us still."

Chairman Charles L. Carr of the Finance Commission pointed out that when one begins amending a law it is rare that he knows just where he is going to land and that if legislation is to be passed it should be borne in mind that Boston has special provisions in its charter, particularly the power of the city government over loans, or rather the City Council. So in changing the limit of debts, the Legislature should be careful not to change the machinery of the law, too. He admitted that the Finance Commission had taken no action on the debt portion of the bill and that he was not sure it might not be good.

"The Finance Commission, however, has voted opposition to the change in control of the tax limit," he said. "The legislation asked is not for a specific matter, but is general policy. The people, in the long run, have more confidence in the Legislature than in the city in the fixing of a tax limit. I don't blame you for wanting to get rid of this job, but I believe the change would not be beneficial to Boston.

Representative John E. Beck of Chelsea of the committee suggested a state board to secure detailed budget figures for the information of the Legislature, so that it would not have to act "as a jury between the Mayor and the Finance Commission."

Chairman Carr of the commission agreed to file shortly the stand of the commission on the debt question.

MAYOR NICHOLS SEEKS TO AID SCHOOL CONSTRUCTION.

ALLOWS SCHOOL COMMITTEE TO SUBMIT BILL TO LEGISLATURE CALLING FOR $13,000,000 BUILDING PROGRAM.

Mayor Nichols has allowed the School Committee to submit to the Legislature, with his approval, a bill for a $13,000,000 schoolhouse construction program, half to be paid from current tax levy and half from loans, instead of wholly from tax levy.

The Mayor explained that he thought such an extensive program would impose an intolerable burden on the tax rate. He said that he would prefer to see such expenditures met by the tax levy but that because the program was scheduled for the short period of four years it seemed more expedient to him to relieve the tax rate a little by a judicious proportion of borrowing. The program calls for expenditure of $4,000,000 the first year and $3,000,000 in each of the three successive years.

COURT SUSTAINS DEPARTMENT RULING.

Judge Palmer of the Roxbury Municipal Court has sustained the contention that the City of Boston was within its rights in the dismissal of Joseph Lannon, hoisting engineer, World War veteran, 17 Carmel street, Roxbury, from its employ in July, 1925, when no further work appeared for him.

Mr. Thomas F. Sullivan, chairman of the Transit Commission, under whom Lannon was employed, explained the status of the case.

Mr. Lannon claimed he was rated as a permanent employee upon the city's books. Colonel Sullivan explained he was so rated by a clerical error and that he was dropped only when there was no longer any work in his department for a hoisting engineer.

Mr. Lannon had been assured, Colonel Sullivan added, that he would be one of the first called on in case hoisting engineers were again desired.

INJUNCTION MODIFIED.

Justice John C. Crosby in the Supreme Judicial Court has modified the injunction against the Gray Furniture Company, upon request of William J. Drew, counsel for George H. McCaffrey and nine other taxpayers of Boston, which provided the furnishings for the newly appointed Boston City Council Chamber in so far that $3,000 plus such other sums as may be determined to be the fair market value of the furniture and furnishings provided may be paid.

Francis F. Murray, representing the furniture company declared that his client would agree that Mr. Drew might name the sum the company is entitled to under the terms of the alleged contract with the city to do the work in question.

When the parties get together upon the question of the fair market value, the injunction will be further modified to permit further payments.

CONFERENCE UPON SCHOOL CONSTRUCTION.

Mayor Nichols held a conference with members of the Boston School Committee upon the 12th instant relative to their plan for financing the construction program which will be submitted to the Massachusetts Legislature. The committee seeks $13,000,000 for a four-year program, half of the money to be raised by loan and the other half from the tax levy. This is the first expression from the municipal corporation of agreement with Mayor Nichols' inaugural declaration to the effect that, in view of the strained financial status of the city, "it is desirable to consider whether any part of the charges to be met may not with safety be financed by loans in order to avoid an excessive increase in the tax rate."

The School Committee would have available for new schools $4,000,000 this year and $3,000,000 in each of the three succeeding years. The amount desired and the availability of it are in accordance with a policy laid down several years ago in the hope of meeting as rapidly as possible, the increased demands for accommodation. The Schoolhouse Department has been unable to handle all the money that the school department would appropriate, but remarkable progress has been made in the last five years.

Mayor Nichols expressed himself in hearty sympathy with the School Board's idea of removing half of the construction money from the tax levy, but would not have the public believe that he favors an abandonment of the pay-as-you-go policy. Boston, however, is the only metropolitan city in the country that finances its schoolhouse construction from taxes.

ZONING REGULATION HAS BROUGHT ABOUT BETTER CIVIC DEVELOPMENT.

MISS ELISABETH M. HERLIHY, SECRETARY OF BOSTON PLANNING BOARD, DECLARES LAWS HAVE INTRINSIC VALUE FROM REALTY VIEWPOINT.

The task of demonstrating the importance of zoning to real estate—the subject is not of my own choosing—is in a measure comparable to attempting to translate into dollars and cents vital statistics and mortality tables, or the benefit to the community of fresh air and sunshine, parks and playgrounds, healthful recreation and proper living conditions. We know the value is there and that it is reflected in the hearts and homes and happiness of the people, but it is extremely difficult to apply to it any known standard or unit of measure.

In fact I am reluctant to present any balance sheet of profit and loss in the application of the principles of zoning for I am still smarting under the indictment, graciously worded, but none the less defaming, made by a recent visitor from one of the oldest corners of the Old World, in fact, from the very birthplace of Christianity itself, who said that in a tour of inspection throughout many of the more important cities of America, he had been shown much in the way of public improvements, bridges, buildings, streets and parkways, and had had impressed upon him in every case the vast sums of money involved in their construction, but that never once had his attention been called to the beauty of design, to the fame of the builder, or to the æsthetic or social value of the project itself.

Somewhere between this idealism of the Old World and the commercialism of the New, let us hope there will some day be found a common meeting ground where one may supplement rather than supplant the other, to the end that a perfect whole may be achieved, and I am convinced that on that common meeting ground the work which has been done under the name of zoning will loom large as a function which combines beauty and art and pleasure with business and ambition and profit.

There is nothing new, nothing complicated, nothing mysterious about zoning. Order is Heaven's first law, and zoning is but an attempt to bring about order in civic development. Of course, it is entirely possible to surround its fundamental principles with scientific verbiage calculated to confuse the mind of the average lay person just as it is entirely possible to present to the druggist a prescription for "Hamamelis Virginiana" and receive a bottle of old-fashioned witch hazel, or to plant "Taraxacum Officinale" in your garden and reap dandelions in return.

Stripped of all its technical phraseology, zoning is merely an attempt to determine the proper place in the community in which we live, and the proper place in which to work and then to throw around these areas such safeguards as may be necessary to insure proper living and working conditions.

Carried a step further, it means the invocation of the police power, the health, safety, convenience and welfare of the people, to regulate the height of buildings with due regard to the needs of each locality; the area of occupancy, thus insuring proper set-back, rear-yard, and side-yard provisions; and the use to which the building or premises may be put.

When all is said and done, however, zoning has an intrinsic value from a real estate point of view. If we admit that it is possible to reduce the value of property used for residential purposes by the location in close proximity of a lumber yard or a glue factory; or, if we admit that the location of residences in a district primarily and inherently given over to business or industry imposes upon such establishments otherwise unnecessary burdens in the way of street paving, lighting, policing, fire protection, schools, parks, playgrounds, etc., then it must conversely be true that a regulation which prevents the occurrence of such value-reducing developments, not only maintains but enhances the value of the property which it protects.

In fact, one of the foreign delegates to the International City, Town and Regional Planning Conference held in New York last spring reported upon his return to his native heath that zoning was an American game, largely promoted by real estate speculators, notwithstanding the fact that it had its origin in Europe in 1810 with a decree by Napoleon Bonaparte regulating the location of offensive industries in relation to residences in the Rhine district, of which he was then protector.

I might say further that the report of the foreign delegate was particularly interesting in view of the fact that in the progress of the Boston law through the Legislature it met with very healthy opposition on the part of one of the real estate exchanges of the city. Today, real estate operators are very properly capitalizing the protection afforded by the zoning law in the preparation of their advertising matter and in their selling arguments.

It is no doubt true that most of the emphasis with regard to zoning has been placed upon its value in the protection of residential districts. This is due more to sentiment than to circumstances. It is a bit difficult to arouse public enthusiasm over the need for protection or the possibilities for expansion on the part of an iron foundry or a machine shop.

A candy factory might have more appeal, and I have in mind one city in the Commonwealth that was aroused to action through the location of a silk stocking factory opposite its high school building.

I can't imagine an ode to a sawmill, or a poem dedicated to a wet wash laundry, yet these may be quite necessary and important functions in a community and deserving of protection and encouragement in the proper locations. It is simply that they do not make the same appeal to the emotions, and therefore perhaps do not receive proper recognition in public argument.

Boston's zoning plan was preceded by a survey which revealed the fact that more than 800 different kinds of products are manufactured within the city limits. It was further ascertained that previous to enactment of the Boston zoning law, only 2.5 per cent of the area of the city was used for industrial purposes.

The zoning plan provides ten times that amount, or 25.3 per cent of the total area of the city in which industries may be located and expanded without fear of protest, and with every facility for carrying on a successful business.

Boston's zoning law has been in effect scarcely over a year and a half. In view of the fact that it applies to every piece of property within the city limits, covering an area of approximately fifty square miles, it is perhaps too soon to look for any general conclusions. About the only available indications at the present time are to be found in the number and nature of the attempts which have been made to amend the law.

It was recognized from the beginning that flexibility was one of the major essentials of a zoning plan, and provision was accordingly made for a board of zoning adjustment, with authority, under certain given conditions, to make such changes in the plan as might be deemed advisable. In the nineteen months which have elapsed since the enactment of the Boston zoning law, on June 5, 1924, sixty-three petitions have been received, of which fourteen have been granted and thirty-nine dismissed, eight withdrawn and two held under advisement.

By far the preponderance of these requests has been for a change from residential to business districts. In a majority of these cases, the petitions have been inspired by a desire to locate small stores or business establishments in residential districts. In practically every instance, however, these petitions have met with very strenuous opposition from the residents and property owners in the districts affected, who have been quick to recognize the advantage afforded them under the protection of the zoning law and the disadvantage which would result from the invasion of business in residential areas. It is a rule that works both ways, however, for six petitions have been received for changes from business to residential areas.

Our friends across the sea point with pride to the fact that every country in Europe has a compulsory city planning law which carries with it provisions for zoning in the interest of health, safety, convenience and public welfare.

The United States Department of Commerce has organized an Advisory Committee on Zoning, prepared a standard state zoning enabling act and calls attention to the fact that more than 300 cities and towns throughout the United States have adopted zoning plans. Pride, like charity, should begin at home, so let us congratulate ourselves that of the forty cities and towns going to make up the metropolitan district, twenty-five have adopted zoning plans, and of the fifteen unzoned communities six are at present carrying on the necessary preliminary work.

This means that of the 1,808,845 persons going to make up the population of the entire metropolitan district according to the 1925 census, 1,530,899 are living in zoned communities.

Boston's civic conscience is clear. She has protected her people in their homes and in their places of employment. Prosperity should follow.

General Order No. 835.

Acting under the provisions of chapter 521, Acts of 1922, as amended, creating the Contributory Retirement System, the Boston Retirement Board has notified this department that it has approved for retirement for ordinary disability the application of Patrolman Walter F. Corwin of the superintendent's office, a member of said Contributory Retirement System, and who is now receiving a retirement allowance from the City of Boston, effective as of Thursday, December 31, 1925.

Therefore, in view of this operation of law, the Police Commissioner states that the said Patrolman Walter F. Corwin is no longer an active member of this department, and it is hereby directed that its records be so amended.

General Order No. 836.

The resignation of Patrolman Joseph M. Syron of Division 6 having been presented while charges against him are pending, it is hereby accepted, to take effect Wednesday, January 6, 1926, at 7.45 o'clock a. m., seven days' notice waived.

The Superintendent of Police will promulgate these orders.

HERBERT A. WILSON,

EXTENSION OF CONTRACTS.

FIRE DEPARTMENT.

The Northeastern Construction Company have been granted an extension of the time of completion of the contract for alterations at Ladder House 17, to February 26, 1926. This contract is dated September 14, 1925, and was to have been completed January 5, 1926.

The failure of the Building Department to grant a permit for these alterations, owing to considerable structural changes necessary, discovered after work was uncovered, necessitated an unavoidable delay before the work could progress uninterruptedly.

SUPPLY DEPARTMENT.

The E. L. LeBaron Foundry Company have been granted an extension of the completion date of their contract from November 15, 1925, to March 1, 1926.

PRESENTATION TO THE MAYOR.

Mayor Nichols, retiring Master of Aberdour Lodge of Masons, was presented a past master's jewel, and a past master's apron at the installation of the new officers in Masonic Temple, upon the 12th instant. The induction of the new officers was preceded by a banquet, at which the principal speakers were Edward F. Wallace, district deputy grand master for the second Masonic district, Rt. Wor. Walter C. Wardwell and Wor. William F. Clark.

Saint James Building Corporation, 16 St. James avenue, etc., Ward 5, 2,000 gallons.

Placed on file.

LEAVE TO WITHDRAW ON JITNEY PETITIONS.

Coun. BRICKLEY, for the Committee on Jitney Licenses, submitted reports as follows:

1. Leave to withdraw on the following petitions:

Boston Elevated Railway Company (referred March 9) ten motor vehicles between Marine Park, South Boston, and Edward Everett square, via the Strandway and Columbia road.

Boston Elevated Railway Company (referred November 16) motor vehicles between Jeffries Point and Maverick square via Sumner street and Maverick square.

Boston Elevated Railway Company (referred November 16) motor vehicles between Maverick square and the junction of Putnam and Lexington streets via Maverick square, Meridian, Trenton and Putnam streets; returning via Lexington and Meridian streets to Maverick square.

Coun. HEALEY—Mr. President, the action taken by the committee is due to the fact that the Elevated has agreed that during the winter months they will not press the point of placing jitneys in East Boston. That perhaps is the most important matter affecting East Boston, and I presume the honorable gentleman who will succeed me will keep the jitneys out of East Boston. I think he has this advantage, that the Elevated has agreed during the winter months not to press the subject.

The reports were accepted, and the petitioner was given leave to withdraw.

2. Report on message from the Mayor (referred November 30) relative to the general policy to be followed in granting motor transportation franchises, and commending the sound policy of the Boston city government with reference to the same—recommending that the same be placed on file.

Report accepted, said message placed on file.

SECOND ASSISTANT CITY MESSENGER.

Coun. HEALEY offered an order—That the City Council now proceed in the election of a second assistant city messenger.

The order was passed.

For William J. Walsh—Coun. Brickley, Donoghue, Healey, Moriarty, Purcell, Walsh—6. President MORIARTY declared William J. Walsh elected as second assistant city messenger.

ANNUAL REPORT OF PRISON COMMITTEE.

Coun. BRICKLEY submitted the following:

ANNUAL REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE OF THE CITY COUNCIL ON INSPECTION OF PRISONS.

January 2, 1926.

In accordance with the provisions of chapter 223 of the Revised Laws, the Committee on Prisons of the City Council submits herewith its annual report.

Suffolk County Jail.

The semiannual inspections of the jail were duly made.

Notwithstanding the great increase in population conditions at this institution continue at a commendable standard. Though the capacity of the jail has been severely tested, the large number of inmates seem to be supervised with the usual high order of discipline and with proper regard to sanitation.

When the old, unsanitary bucket system gave way to running water and flush toilets it was deemed sufficient to meet all demands by equipping 230 cells. With the steadily increasing population, now averaging from 250 to 325, it became imperative in the interest of sanitation to equip all cells, and necessitates the immediate installation of plumbing in thirty-four additional cells.

The hospital clinics, which were inaugurated with the opening of the hospital, have increased largely and their good effect is quite noticeable.

The cafeteria method of feeding, by which all inmates obtain hot and nourishing food, is an unquestionable success and, in our opinion, solves the question of feeding in institutions of this class. Rations are served to each inmate, and separate mess rooms with common mess tables are provided for those serving sentence, while those awaiting trial are served apart. This is a marked improvement over the old method, which called for feeding in the cells with food grown cold and untidy and unsanitary results.

For the past three years the City Council has indorsed Sheriff Keliher's recommendation to remove the boiler room from within the jail building proper. It is an obvious menace for a heating plant to be so located in a place of this sort, where it jeopardizes the safety of prisoners and inmates locked in their cells. The present boilers have, because of age, been condemned by the state authorities. We renew the recommendations that when new boilers be substituted, they be housed without the jail structure, thus removing the present accident hazard. We believe it would be a grave mistake for the city to part with the land that is now occupied by the West End Division of the Sanitary and Street Cleaning Department. With the urgent need of the County Jail for additional room for a heating plant, fireproof garage, workshop and officers' quarters this should be made available for these purposes. We are opposed to locating a nurse's quarters, as has been suggested, in a location practically within the jail yard.

The committee renews its confidence in and indorsement of the policies of Sheriff Keliher.

House of Correction.

The committee made the required number of visits to the House of Correction during the year and finds that the management of the institution is very efficient.

The food of the inmates is wholesome and plentiful. The committee has not received any complaints as to the treatment of those confined in the institution.

The four industries operated in connection with the House of Correction, namely, the shoe shop, clothing shop, laundry and stone shed, are all doing very excellent work. All the work done in these industries, except in the stone shed, is for the use of the institutions.

The farm furnishes practically all of the vegetables used at the institution during the year, while the bakery takes care of its needs in bread and pastry.

There is also in operation a carpenter, paint, tin, blacksmith and mattress shop to take care of such work as would be required in this large institution.

Inmate labor has been used extensively on the general plant of the institution on Deer Island.

The inmates are obliged to clean their cells and make their beds daily, thus keeping them in sanitary condition.

Additional shower baths have been installed in the institution.

The committee notes that over a period of twelve months the population has increased from 551 on December 31, 1924, to 672 on December 17, 1925.

During the past year 3,251 men have been committed to the institution, while 3,130 have been discharged during the same period. The committee regrets to report the death of five inmates during the year.

Report accepted.

RECESS.

By direction of President MORIARTY the Council at 12.40 p. m. took a recess subject to the call of the Chair. The members re-assembled and were called to order by President MORIARTY at 12.58 p. m.

CLAIMS ACTED UPON DURING 1925.

Coun. WALSH, for the Committee on Claims, submitted an account of all claims acted upon during the municipal year 1925, with a recommendation of the committee that the same be printed as a city document.

Accepted and ordered printed.

UNFINISHED MATTERS REFERRED TO NEXT CITY COUNCIL.

Coun. BRICKLEY offered the following:

Ordered, That all matters of an unfinished nature pending before the committees of this City Council be referred to the City Council of 1926.

GROUP PICTURE OF CITY COUNCIL.

Coun. BRICKLEY offered the following:

Ordered, That the City Messenger be directed to obtain a group picture of the members and officers of the City Council and furnish a copy of the same to each of such members and officers; the expense to be charged to the appropriation for City Council, B-37.

Passed.

TRIBUTE TO PRESIDENT JAMES T. MORIARTY.

Coun. HEALEY offered the following:

Resolved, That the thanks of the members of the City Council be extended to President James T. Moriarty for the impartiality and ability he has displayed as presiding officer of this body.

The dignity which he displayed on all occasions was in keeping with the honored office which he held.

The judgment he exercised on important subjects merits the approval of our citizens.

The tact he showed in times of stress smoothed the path of municipal legislation. He has upheld the best traditions as President of our City Council.

The question came on the adoption of the resolution.

Coun. HEALEY—Mr. Clerk, I desire to say just a few words in support of the resolution I have introduced, expressing the esteem and love we have for our President. We have known President Moriarty, both as a legislator, as a public man and as a friend, for many years. We have always found him a man of tact and a man of courage, a man of wonderful personality. I have seen him here constantly for three years, and the deep affection I feel for him is not merely an affection expressed by word of mouth, but an affection that sinks deeply into my heart. He is a man of rare courage and determination, and back of and above all is a personality that will remain in my mind until death closes my eyes. We have not at all times agreed with him; very often he has taken a position in opposition to us, but at all times his personality was such that underneath it all we knew his opposition was based upon his sense of justice and logic. One of the rarest distinctions that has come to me during my three years in the City Council comes in this opportunity when I have the honor to present to him for the other eight members of the Council a token of their esteem, something that will tick off the seconds and minutes in a delightful way; and as this clock we are presenting you goes on ad infinitum may this thought be ever in your mind, that as the minutes and days, the months and the years roll around, the faithful timepiece may represent to you a symposium of the thoughts of your fellow councilors. As it ticks off the moments, may there go with it the thought that it symbolizes the heartbeats for you of your fellow members of this body, and typifies the love and respect that they have for you. I have been here three years. I have enjoyed my experience here as all the other members of the Council have enjoyed theirs. It was a rare distinction for you to be selected as President of this Council, and you have upheld the best traditions of the great men who have preceded you in the office. You come from a rare stock, and when you die I am afraid the mould will be broken. Scarcely, I think, in our time will we find another James T. Moriarty in Boston, and if such a one be found, I trust that the citizens of Boston will place him, a man combining such forceful character, tact, penetration and unwavering logic in such a position of trust and honor as he deserves. Now, sir, in behalf of the other members of the Council and myself, having presented these resolutions, I trust that they will be passed and spread on the record of the body, to endure for all time as an honor to you and an honor to your posterity.

City Clerk DONOVAN—Gentlemen, you have heard the resolutions presented by Coun. Healey. Those in favor of the adoption of the resolutions will please arise. (All the members of the Council present arose.) The gentlemen will please be seated. It is a unanimous vote, and the resolutions are adopted unanimously.

President MORIARTY—Gentlemen, I suppose we have come to the end of our association as members of this body, and that we will now drift more or less apart in the conduct of our respective affairs. I am finishing my term as President of the Council. I feel about the same as I did on the first day when I was sworn into office, some seven years and eleven months ago. I was very much pleased to be sworn in as a member of the Boston City Council, and I have tried to perform my duty. Every minute of my time here as a member of the Council will be remembered and cherished by me. I will have none but the pleasantest recollections of my associations with the members and with each attaché. My experience has been that nothing but courtesy has been shown to me as a member and as president on two occasions of the body. I leave today satisfied. Let me say to the general public of the city and of the state that the make-up of the members of the Council now going out of office and the legislation which they have put into effect compare favorably with the make-up of any city councils and with the legislation passed by representative bodies of the city, since the beginning of Boston. We have been criticised many times by the newspapers. The new members coming in will receive their share of that criticism, too. I say to those who are within the hearing of my voice, some of whom are going to sit here as members of the new Council, don't be afraid of criticism, because if you are never criticised you will never be heard of in that new Council. Make it possible that they will criticise you, because criticism makes you work the harder in the interest of the people. I say to the members of the Council today that I am sorry we are going to adjourn for the reason, and the only reason that we are not going to be able to be as close to one another as we have been in the past. Of late years here we have been a family. Most measures that have gone through the Council have done so with a substantial vote. The very few disagreements among us individually were always forgotten before we left the inside of the chamber. I am sorry that some of our members are unable to be present with us today, as I would like to express to them my appreciation of their efforts in my behalf, at times when I tried to put through something that I considered was for the benefit of the people whom we represented. We have had a good year, a year of successful accomplishment. I want to thank each member and each attaché for the courtesy and help given me at all times and for their ungrudging and enthusiastic co-operation in our work. Certainly the clock will have a prominent place not only in my home but in my mind and in my every thought, as I think of the happy times and the pleasant associations I have had with the members of the Boston City Council and the attachés, individually and collectively, during the seven years I have been here. I again thank each and every member of the Council and the attachés connected with the Council for their beautiful gift. (Applause.)

GENERAL RECONSIDERATION.

On motion of Coun. DONOGHUE, a general reconsideration of all action taken today was refused.

Adjourned, sine die, on motion of Coun. BRICKLEY, at 1.13 p. m.

AREA TO WARD LINES.

Total, 30,598 acres (i. e., 47.81 square miles), 2,944 acres being filled land, 1,143 acres water area and 1,436 acres flats. Land area only, 28,019 acres (i. e., 43.78 square miles). Included in the latter are 160 acres of filled flats recently added to the land area of South Boston and 175 acres to that of East Boston.

Original Boston contained about 780 acres of land. Of the twelve leading American cities, eight are larger in land area than Boston, viz., Los Angeles (364 sq. miles), New York (318), Chicago (199.4), Philadelphia (129), Baltimore (91.9), Detroit (80), Cleveland (56.6) and St. Louis (61.25). The only city in Massachusetts with larger land area is Taunton (50 sq. mi.).

If Boston should expand by annexations as New York, Chicago, Philadelphia, Los Angeles and others have expanded, its total area, in case of including the 39 cities and towns within the 15-mile radius, would exceed the largest, viz., Los Angeles, the present land area of "Greater Boston" being 409.5 square miles.

BOSTON'S FERRY SERVICE.

In this transportation service, operated by the City during the past 65 years, are seven steam ferryboats plying between Boston Proper and East Boston. The two latest built boats are each 174 ft. in length and of the propeller type, with gross tonnage of 727, accommodating 30 vehicles and seating about 200 passengers. Since 1900 the maximum yearly revenue from tolls was $176,276 in 1903. The opening of the East Boston Tunnel reduced the revenue to $107,074 in 1905. In 1923 the total was $90,663, or less than one-fifth the cost of maintenance. Cost of new boats, repairs and improvements, 1920-23 amounted to $1,177,124. Total passengers carried by North and South Ferries in 1923, 3,240,455 or a daily average of 8,878; total vehicles, 1,156,217 or daily average of 3,167.

BOSTON AS A TOWN.

From its foundation until 1755, or a period of 125 years, Boston was not only the most outstanding but the most populous town in the American colonies. In 1760, Philadelphia's population was ahead, viz. 18,756, Boston's then being 15,631 and New York's about 14,000. In the last year of town government, viz., 1821, Boston's population was about 45,000 and its public debt $100,000, all incurred for new county buildings.

The history of Boston as a town during a period of nearly two centuries surpasses in civic interest that of Boston as a city because of the untiring zeal and successful efforts of its townsmen to realize more of true democracy than had ever been attained before. Their obligations were held as sacred as their liberties.

BOSTON POSTAL DISTRICT, 1924.

Area, 232 square miles; population served, 1,838,522 (estimated); postal stations and branches, 81; letter carriers, 1,595; rural carriers, 5; clerks and other employees, including substitutes, 3,768; contract numbered stations, 155; street letter boxes, 4,345.

Gross receipts, fiscal year ending June 30, 1924, were $13,986,943; money order transactions in same year numbered 6,906,913, amounting to $63,709,040; total number of pieces registered during year, 2,611,992.

PROCEEDINGS OF CITY COUNCIL.

INAUGURAL EXERCISES.

Monday, January 4, 1926.

The ceremonies attending the inauguration of Mayor-elect Hon. Malcolm E. Nichols and the City Councilors-elect of the City of Boston were held in Symphony Hall at 10 o'clock a. m., the Mayor and the members-elect of the Council for 1926 (with the exception of the late Councilor-elect Carr) all being present.

The invocation by Rev. H. Clinton Hay, pastor of the Church of the New Jerusalem, Bowdoin street, was as follows:

Let us lift our hearts in prayer. Almighty God, our Heavenly Father, Creator and Constant Builder of the Universe, Supreme Ruler of the Nation, the heavens are Thine, the earth also is Thine, the world and the fullness thereof. Thou hast founded them; righteousness and judgment are the foundations of Thy throne; mercy and truth go before Thy face. Blessed is the people that know the joyfulness of Thy presence. They walk, O Lord, in the light of Thy countenance; in Thy name do they rejoice all the day and in Thy righteousness are they exalted, for Thou art the glory of their strength.

We lift our hearts to Thee in this hour with thankfulness for our country, of which this city is a precious part, because it has been founded by our fathers to be indeed a Christian city in a Christian nation, with the blessing of Thy righteousness for its safety and of Thy justice for its prosperity.

We thank Thee for the freedom of self-government, into the intelligent enjoyment of which Thou art leading us in our great adventure of a republic, an adventure in which all the other nations of the earth are joining us in this great era of Thy making of all things new.

We invoke Thy divine guidance and blessing in this great assembly of free citizens to inaugurate one of their own number whom they have duly elected to be their mayor, that he may lead them in the administration of the affairs of this great city. Let him so realize the greatness of his responsibilities to Thee and to them, in assuming this exalted office, and the largeness of his opportunities of service, that he may be led to look continually to Thee for wisdom and power, for inspiration and guidance; and let us all so realize that the responsibilities and the opportunities of this administration are not his alone but are also ours to share with him as our representative in a government of the people, by the people and for the people.

Let us so realize this noble fact of democracy that we shall go with him constantly in all his tasks with sympathy, support and encouragement, making him feel our confidence in him and our good fellowship. So may we stand faithfully by him in every hour of difficulty and perplexity, working with him for the achievement of all things just and righteousness for the common good.

So may the bonds of friendship and of good citizenship be strengthened on every side by community experiences of earnest and pious toil in the solution of problems and in the achievement of the building up and carrying on of our city life and prosperity.

Thus, O Lord, our Heavenly Father, we invoke Thy divine blessing upon this inauguration of our Mayor and upon his administration of his office with Thy guidance and help, and we pray that Thou wilt enable us each and all to carry on in the spirit of the divine prayer which Thou hast given us.

Our Father, who art in Heaven, hallowed be Thy Name. Thy Kingdom come, Thy Will be done on earth as it is in Heaven. Give us this day our daily bread, and forgive us our debts as we forgive our debtors, and lead us not in temptation but deliver us from evil, for Thine is the Kingdom, the Power and the Glory, forever. Amen.

The oath of office was administered to Mayor-elect Malcolm E. Nichols by Chief Justice Arthur P. Rugg.

The roll of the members-elect of the City Council was called, and they arose and the oath of office was administered to them by Mayor Nichols.

Mayor NICHOLS, before commencing his inaugural address, said:

Gentlemen of the Council, I am greatly grieved as I rise to address you to find that there is a seat vacated by the death of John T. Carr. He was a soldier, a citizen upright in all ways, greatly beloved by all his friends and greatly respected in his community. In his death the City of Boston sustains a severe loss. He had every opportunity before him and a fine promise of great usefulness in your honorable body. Gentlemen, may I ask you, and may I ask you, my friends, to join with me, standing for a silent half minute in tribute to his memory?

(All arose in tribute to the memory of the late Councilor-elect John T. Carr of Ward 6.)

Mayor NICHOLS delivered his inaugural address, as follows:

Gentlemen of the City Council.

Boston is a business as well as a service center. Her commercial importance reflects the activity of some fifty cities and towns comprising a metropolitan city of nearly 2,000,000 persons.

In trade and commerce Boston is big business. In municipal government she is big business. She disburses seventy-five millions of dollars annually, gathers in the money for this purpose from various sources and expends it for the common good. This vast sum is all governed by statutes passed by the Legislature. Such statutes empower and direct the city to perform public services which cannot so well be supplied in any other manner.

Service is the test by which a city is usually judged. Service spreads over considerable ground. In fact, it covers the civic alphabet from art to zoning. Its cost is fixed in our budget and shown on the tax bill.

The words economy and efficiency inspire a certain feeling of dread. They are sometimes taken to mean that we shall not get as much as we feel we ought to have. I believe that we should exercise economy and efficiency, but I would not have them understood in an unpleasant way. I would do the task in hand with an intelligent effort to get the most for the amount expended. No municipal budget should be increased without thought about the ways and means of payment. This old and respectable principle is sometimes lost in the lure of wishing for things. We all like more and more parks, playgrounds, concerts, celebrations, buildings and other attractive municipal services, and we shall have them too, in reason I hope, always bearing in mind that their cost is reflected in the tax rate. Some of this means borrowing in the first instance. And as borrowing is easier for the time being than levying taxes, debt is easily expanded. It is sound finance to borrow for future benefits, but dangerous to borrow too much. Yet payment for all benefits out of the tax levy would prove so burdensome as to be intolerable.

A Difficult Financial Condition.

Sixteen years ago the governmental affairs of Boston caused such alarm as to result in the passage of the charter amendments by which improvident borrowing has been checked. Thanks to the change of policy at that time the general financial condition of Boston now is not fundamentally unsound, although very difficult.

With the exception of the period of our Civil War, there has been no time within the history of the City of Boston when it has been so immense a task to handle financial questions wisely as during the last twelve years. The outbreak of the World War in 1914, was followed by a great inflation of commodity prices. This inflation has left us with a price level that is more than 50 per cent higher than that of 1913.

This revolution in commodity prices has increased the cost of about every article purchased by the city, and has made necessary successive increases in the wages of city employees, which increases are not at an end. For this reason, city expenditures measured in terms of dollars have inevitably increased, while it has not been easy to secure a proportionate increase in the city revenues.

Then, after the United States entered the war, it became necessary to postpone needed improvements and even to reduce maintenance charges, with the result that in 1919 the city's "Plant" had not been replenished and therefore was in much the same condition as the plants of business corporations and the residences of private individuals.

There was an enormous demand for improvements, one which has been met but partially within the past five years by huge expenditures. Yet the demand, far from being satisfied, appears to be growing, and thus since the war our municipal resources have been strained to meet the restoration of city facilities and the desire for more. This desire has resulted in further demands from here, there and everywhere, for improvements whose cost is placed in the neighborhood of $200,000,000.

Thus far, this review has been directed towards extraordinary conditions of municipal life, and is designed to lift above the level of politics and personalities important questions of municipal finance which the City of Boston must face at the opening of the year 1926. It is intended to set forth, with just, historical perspective, the fundamental and far-reaching causes of a financial situation so serious as to justify making it the sole topic of a Mayor's inaugural address.

The demands for improvements and the necessity for making up deferred charges cannot easily be disassociated, but their effect may be seen during the past five years wherein the amount of loans has more than doubled over the total for the five years immediately preceding, and this takes no account of money for school house construction which, previously raised by loans, has for the last nine years been paid out of the tax levy. Moreover, the inflation of prices during the past ten years is reflected in the amounts appropriated for city, state and county requirements which have very nearly doubled.

The appropriations for the year 1925 were made to cover eleven months because of a change in the ending of the fiscal year from January 31 to December 31. Estimating the increase for a twelve-month year in 1926, with such additions as now seem necessary, the city will need this year over $8,000,000 more than in 1925, with a resulting tax rate very close to $32.

Borrowing and "Pay-as-you-go."

There are only two ways of meeting this additional expense. One way is by increasing a tax rate which may not be high by comparison with that of other cities and towns, but, nevertheless, is a high rate, and the other way is by borrowing. Of the two ways, undoubtedly, that of the higher tax rate is preferable. However, it is desirable to consider whether any part of the charges to be met may not with safety be financed by loans in order to avoid an excessive increase in the tax rate.

The incoming Mayor's inheritance is due to conditions over which he has no control. These conditions oblige him to enter upon his administration under a severe financial handicap for which he has no responsibility, except to meet them with appropriate measures.

Agencies for propaganda directed towards increasing public expenditure are very numerous nowadays, consequently, the administration will be under the necessity of examining with especial care every new proposal to see whether it represents a real or a manufactured need and whether it is for an object of real or of doubtful benefit.

A sharp rise in the tax rate from the figure of $26.70 to $32 is a serious matter for everyone who either dwells or carries on business in the City of Boston. It can be kept down by borrowing, which, of course, would tend to increase the tax rate in the future. If the existing situation, critical but not dangerous, is met promptly and wisely by an appropriate increase in the tax rate, taxpayers will suffer present inconvenience but will turn the best face towards the future. This course will also improve the credit of the city which is still good and must be maintained above all question or suspicion.

If, on the other hand, the city fails to face the facts, much higher tax rates, even as high as $35 or $40, will become inevitable at no very distant date and the city's credit may be impaired.

The permanent interests of taxpayers demand the adoption of a farsighted policy, which requires them to submit to some present inconvenience in order to avoid still greater difficulties at a future date; and the adoption of such a policy will hold forth the prospect that when the charges inherited from the war period and the demands for new projects have been met, the taxpayers can benefit by a period of no further increase and perhaps a reduction in the rate of taxation.

Two estimates for 1926 requirements.

Excessive demands for maintenance, upkeep and improvements have given grave cause for reflection. I realize the burden placed on real estate. It is difficult to find new sources of revenue. The revenues of a city are pretty rigidly fixed by provisions of law. About all that can be done on a large scale must be done by good management and with the realization that if expenditures are allowed to become as great as those we now face, then tax rates must respond to them. With this thought in view, I have caused to be made up two estimates for city, state and county requirements for which the city may be liable during the coming year. I refer to one of these as the lower estimate, and to the other as the higher estimate, and there is only a small margin between the lower and the higher. Both estimates are, therefore, not far apart in point of tax rate. The lower estimate produces a tax rate of about $30, and the higher a tax rate of about $32.

The requirements for 1925 were as previously stated for an eleven-month year ending on December 31 last, and the requirements for this year must be made on the basis of a twelve-month year corresponding to the calendar year. This difference in time was occasioned by the charter amendments of last year whereby the fiscal year begins on January 1 instead of as heretofore on February 1. The additional month for this year, together with various increased costs, adds to the city and county requirements of 1925 the estimated sum of $3,044,000. School requirements add $1,900,000. Debt requirements add $721,000. The contributory pension accumulation fund for employees adds $400,000. The total is $6,065,000, to be added to the 1925 requirements under the lower estimate. In making the higher estimate, there has been added to the lower estimate a further sum of $2,271,000.

The additional items which make up this $2,271,000 include estimates for street reconstruction, for resurfacing parkways and roadways, for library books, granolithic sidewalks, additional employees and supplies for the City Hospital, larger reserve fund, increased county expenses, pay roll increases and more policemen. These items are accounted for as follows:

The allowance for street reconstruction is $800,000. In 1925, the requirement set aside for this purpose was but $200,000. The policy used to be regarded as settled that $1,000,000, chargeable to the tax levy, was required annually for this purpose. I believe this policy, if possible, should be again put into effect, and I have, therefore, added to the lower estimate the sum of $800,000 for street reconstruction.

It is estimated that $100,000 will be needed this year to complete the permanent resurfacing of parkways and roadways, but inasmuch as $35,000 of this required sum of $100,000 is included in the lower estimate, the increase in the higher estimate is but $65,000. Books for the Public Library, granolithic sidewalks, additional employees and supplies for the City Hospital, additional amounts for the reserve fund and county expenses, increase the lower estimate by $550,000 more. The balance of the $2,271,000 is accounted for as follows:

More Policemen — Laborers' Pay.

No provision is made in the lower estimate for such an important item as additional police protection. The Police Commissioner has submitted to me an exhaustive analysis of his department in which he renews the request made over a year ago, for three hundred additional policemen. I think these men were needed then and I am strongly of opinion that they are needed now (applause), so that I have caused to be added to the lower estimate for these three hundred additional policemen for 1926, the sum of $350,000 (applause). The higher estimate also provides for pay roll increases in the sum of $506,000, particularly relating to the pay of laborers. I suppose this increased pay for laborers could be postponed, but I doubt the wisdom of it. Laborers are now receiving a rate of $4.50 a day, and I do not see how anyone can say that a wage of $5 a day is too much for men who try to maintain a home on standards which we all approve. In loyalty and good service the City will get the equivalent (applause). Adding the various foregoing items together, gives a total increase in the higher estimate over the lower of $2,271,000 previously referred to.

The lower estimate calls for an addition of $6,065,000 over the 1925 requirements.

The higher estimate calls for an increase of $8,336,000 over the 1925 requirements.

One produces a tax rate of about $30, the other a tax rate of about $32, each in accordance with its respective estimate.

The lower estimate calling for a tax rate of $30 apparently does not meet the needs of the situation.

The higher estimate calling for a tax rate of $32 furnishes as accurate a statement as can be made at this time of the cost of meeting responsibilities which the city should be prepared to assume during the coming year.

Furthermore, had the requirements for the year 1925 been figured upon a twelve-month year instead of as they were on an eleven-month year, they would undoubtedly have produced a 1925 tax rate close to $30. Under pressure, the rate has jumped from $24.70 to $26.70 in the past eleven-month year, and now tends towards a further abrupt rise. It may not be a cause for rejoicing, but the people who pay taxes are certainly entitled to know the facts.

Almost all of the business transacted at City Hall involves the expenditure of money. The purpose of this expenditure is to provide things necessary for the well-being and advancement of the people. Our demands upon the public service are rarely accompanied by a serious thought of the cost, yet there is no source of revenue except from the people themselves. They meet cost with money derived from their property or their labor, and the higher taxes go the more clearly should the reasons be understood.

The foregoing illustrates some of the matters which must soon be undertaken in presenting a budget to the City Council. This budget is formed upon departmental estimates, and will present a detailed and careful study of matters which here can receive but brief discussion.

Subway Rentals and Elevated Deficit.

An important part of our financial story is concerned with the development of our rapid transit system in which our investment of $42,500,000 will soon be in excess of $50,000,000. (Applause.) Under our plan the city furnishes the credit, builds the structures and leases them to the Boston Elevated Railway Company upon a rental basis.

To those who suggest that the city should relieve the Boston Elevated Railway from payment of subway rentals, I would say that such a course would destroy the entire plan of subway financing. (Applause.)

Under the provisions of the Public Control Act, Boston was assessed, as its share of the deficit resulting from insufficiency of the income of the road to meet the cost of service, $2,906,000. Of this sum, $1,177,000 has been repaid, leaving a balance due of $1,729,000.

Before definite legislative action is taken upon the status of the present method of operating properties of the company, serious consideration ought to be given to the repayment to the city of this outstanding balance. (Applause.)

Gentlemen of the City Council, the problems concerning a great city are manifold. I wish it were possible for me to enter upon a general discussion of them, but it would seem to me that the problem of paramount importance concerns the financial situation with which the city is immediately to deal, and therefore I have confined my attention to this.

The responsibility upon those who carry on municipal government is very great. It has been well said that the government of cities presents one of the most difficult problems encountered in civic administration. Boston will grow as she demonstrates her capacity for managing her own affairs. (Applause.) She has an unrivalled opportunity to present an example such as is sorely needed in the government of cities throughout the country. Cities compete just as business enterprises compete. Boston has many competitors. A poorly managed city is at a distinct disadvantage compared with a well managed city. In geographical location and in the skill, industry and courage of her citizenship our city is without a peer. She has traditions which any American city would treasure as a priceless possession.

In upholding our traditions it should be our ambition and effort to give Boston an administration of her affairs such as will encourage her citizens to unite in their earnest desire to promote her growth and prosperity and place her in a commanding position among American cities. (Great applause.)

At the close of the inaugural address the Mayor and suite and the members of the City Council withdrew to City Hall.

Coun. HEFFERNAN—Mr. Chairman, I move that we now adjourn.

The motion was seconded, put and declared lost.

Coun. HEFFERNAN doubted the vote. Chairman DOWLING—The doubt will be solved by a show of hands.

(A show of hands showed that the motion to adjourn was defeated, 8 to 13.)

On motion of Coun. WRAGG, the Council voted to take another ballot for President, with the following result:

For Charles G. Keene—Coun. Arnold, Bush, Dowling, Englert, Freeley, Guild, Keene, Parkman, Ruby, Wilson, Wrapp—11.

For George F. Gilbody—Coun. Donovan, Fitzgerald, Gilbody, Green, Heffernan, Lynch, McGrath, McMahon, Ward—9.

Chairman DOWLING—You have cast 10 votes for Coun. Gilbody and 11 for Coun. Keene, and there is no choice.

Coun. FITZGERALD moved that the Council take a recess of ten minutes; declared lost. Coun. Fitzgerald doubted the vote and asked for a rising vote. The Council stood divided, and the motion to take a recess was lost, 10 to 10.

Coun. FITZGERALD further doubted the vote and asked for the yeas and nays. The motion to take a recess for ten minutes was lost, yeas 10, nays 11.

Coun. DONOVAN—Mr. Chairman, I move that the Chair declare a recess for fifteen minutes.

Coun. ARNOLD—Mr. Chairman, I am in accord with the wishes of the gentleman, but I believe fifteen minutes is too long. I, therefore, would like to amend that so that we may take a recess for seven minutes.

Chairman DOWLING—The question comes on the longer time. The question before the house is on a recess for fifteen minutes.

The motion to take a recess for fifteen minutes was declared lost. Coun. DONOVAN doubted the vote and asked for a verification by roll call.

Coun. HEFFERNAN—Mr. Chairman, I rise to a point of order. I believe the vote should be taken on the amendment first.

Chairman DOWLING—The question is now on solving the doubt on the vote taken on Coun. Donovan's motion to take a recess of fifteen minutes. The Chair will rule that the question comes on the longer time, first. The Clerk will call the roll, the question being on solving the doubt as to our vote on the motion to take a recess for fifteen minutes.

Nays—Coun. Arnold, Bush, Dowling, Englert, Freeley, Guild, Keene, McGrath, Parkman, Ruby, Wilson, Wrapp—12.

Chairman DOWLING—Nine members having voted in the affirmative and twelve in the negative, the motion is lost. The question now comes on our taking a recess for seven minutes.

The Council voted at 1:12 p. m. to take a recess for seven minutes, and the members reassembled and were called to order by Chairman DOWLING at 1:28 p. m.

On motion of Coun. WILSON, it was voted that the Council proceed to a seventh ballot for election of President of the body, with the following result:

For George F. Gilbody—Coun. McMahon—1.

Chairman DOWLING—The result is, Keene, 11, Ward, 9, and Gilbody, 1, and there is still no choice.

Coun. WILSON—Mr. Chairman, I move that the Council adjourn until three o'clock.

The motion was declared carried. Coun. McGRATH doubted the vote and asked for a verification by a show of hands. The motion to adjourn to three o'clock was carried by a show of hands, 13 to 7; and the Council adjourned at 1:30 p. m. to 3 p. m.

The session of the Council was resumed at 3:15 p. m. in the Council Chamber, Chairman DOWLING presiding.

Chairman DOWLING—The hour having arrived to which the Council took a recess, the Council will now be in order.

Coun. GILBODY—Mr. President, we witnessed a very gracious act of his Honor the Mayor this morning in Symphony Hall in reference to the death of one of our comrades here, Coun. John T. Carr. In order that the records of this meeting may also show our feeling in regard to the death of our brother member-elect, I think one of our first acts should be to pay a similar tribute to the departed councilor. I move, therefore, that we rise in silent respect for one-half minute in memory of Councilor-elect John T. Carr.

The motion was seconded and carried, and the members of the Council arose in silent tribute to the memory of the late Councilor-elect John T. Carr.

On motion of Coun. WILSON the Council voted to proceed to another ballot for President of the body, and the eighth ballot then taken resulted as follows:

For Charles G. Keene—Coun. Arnold, Bush, Dowling, Englert, Freeley, Guild, Keene, McGrath, Parkman, Ruby, Wilson, Wrapp—12.

For John J. Heffernan—Coun. Donovan, Dowd, Fitzgerald, Gilbody, Green, Heffernan, Lynch, Ward—8.

For George F. Gilbody—Coun. McMahon—1.

Chairman DOWLING—The ballot just taken shows 1 vote for Coun. Gilbody, 12 for Coun. Keene, and 8 for Coun. Heffernan. Mr. Keene is, therefore, elected President of the City Council for 1926. The Chair will appoint a committee, consisting of Coun. Arnold and Heffernan, to escort the new President to the chair.

Coun. Arnold and Heffernan escorted President-elect Keene to the chair at 3:20 p. m., Chairman DOWLING greeting President-elect Keene as follows:

Coun. Keene, I tender you my congratulations on your election.

President KEENE—May I be permitted to say that I appreciate the honor which has been bestowed upon me by you, gentlemen? As I sat here this morning and have seen the interest taken in the proceedings of the new Council and have met the individual members, I cannot help thinking that we will have a successful Council, certainly as far as our relations are concerned. I do not intend to make any extended remarks, as it is late, and I am quite sure that we have been through a good deal in the formalities of the morning.

Coun. GILBODY offered the following:

Ordered, That the City Council now proceed to the election of a City Clerk to hold office for the term of three years from the first Monday in February, 1926, and until his successor is elected and qualified.

The order was passed.

President KEENE—The Clerk will call the roll.

The roll was called, with the following result:

For James Donovan—Coun. Arnold, Bush, Donovan, Dowd, Dowling, Englert, Fitzgerald, Freeley, Gilbody, Green, Guild, Heffernan, Keene, Lynch, McGrath, McMahon, Parkman, Ruby, Ward, Wilson, Wrapp—21.

President KEENE—James Donovan has 21 votes and is unanimously elected City Clerk. (Applause.)

JURORS DRAWN.

President KEENE—The Chair is in receipt of venires to draw jurors, and will direct the City Messenger to notify his Honor the Mayor.

The City Messenger retired, and presently returned and reported that the Mayor was not present.

President KEENE—I appoint Coun. Gilbody to draw the jurors in the absence of his Honor the Mayor.

Jurors were drawn under the law, as follows:

Four additional grand jurors, Superior Criminal Court.

BOSTON GREETES HER FIRST HONORARY MAYOR, HON. THOMAS N. HART, ON 97TH BIRTHDAY.

MAYOR MALCOLM E. NICHOLS INTERPRETED PRETTILY THE HEART OF THE CITY WHEN HE GRACEFULLY CONFERRED TITLE UPON FORMER MAYOR AND BOSTON'S "GRAND OLD MAN."

HON. THOMAS N. HART, BELOVED OF ALL BOSTON, WHO WAS GIVEN OFFICE OF HONORARY MAYOR ON 97TH BIRTHDAY.

Mayor Malcolm E. Nichols, at the same time that he paid a very graceful compliment, expressed the sentiments of all the citizens of Boston, when he, on Wednesday, January 20, visited Hon. Thomas N. Hart, Boston's "Grand Old Man" and conferred upon him the title of Honorary Mayor of Boston.

The courteous and thoughtful act was performed at the home of former Mayor Hart, 298 Commonwealth avenue, upon the occasion of the latter's ninety-seventh birthday. The former mayor was enjoying the many felicitations and good wishes from his increasing host of friends, when Mayor Nichols called.

As Mayor Nichols approached the former mayor's face brightened perceptibly as he extended his hand and said:

"I am coming down to City Hall to see you."

"Does it wear on you?" he questioned, recalling, perhaps, the weighty problems of the past, but he turned quickly to present day affairs in which he has an abiding interest, and he inquired for Miss Marjorie, Mayor Nichols' little daughter.

"Well, I had about one hundred and thirty callers at City Hall yesterday," said Mayor Nichols.

MAYOR NICHOLS WINS VICTORY FOR CITY OF BOSTON BONDS.

RECEIVES WORD FROM SENATOR BUTLER STATING THAT IN ACCORD WITH HIS WISHES AMENDMENT TO INTERNAL REVENUE BILL AFFECTING CITY'S WATER BONDS AND RAPID TRANSIT WILL BE DROPPED.

Mayor Nichols received a long distance telephone message from Senator Butler in Washington on Thursday morning, January 21, stating that the amendment which would place an income tax upon future bonds of Rapid Transit and Water Bonds of the City of Boston would not be incorporated in the Internal Revenue Bill.

Mayor Nichols has heard from the two senators and all the congressmen from Massachusetts to whom he wrote about this matter, and it appears that everyone of the congressmen and senators opposed this matter before the Senate Finance Committee.

The Mayor expressed himself as pleased with the co-operation from the representatives of Massachusetts in Congress and sent to them a letter of thanks.

The amendment was proposed in Section 213 of the Revenue Act, and would have included in gross income the interest on bonds, warrants and obligations issued by any political subdivision of any state or territory since January 1, 1925, in payment for or to be used in paying for the construction, acquisition, operation or maintenance of any utility, which bonds, warrants, or obligations do not constitute general indebtedness of the issuer but are payable out of the revenue of such utility or otherwise than by general taxation.

WAYS AND MEANS COMMITTEE.

Hon. George H. Lyman, former Collector of the Port, and Sydney S. Conrad, prominent merchant, have been appointed by Mayor Nichols as additional members to the Municipal Committee on Ways and Means. The committee was created to help the Mayor, by advice, upon matters of administration.

At the suggestion of Mayor Nichols it has been decided to have the Committee on Analysis of Expenditures sit frequently with the Finance Commission, and consult upon the principal municipal expenditures. It is their purpose to seek to determine any leaks in the city purse which may be stopped. H. B. Sawyer is the chairman of the committee, which includes Louis E. Kirstein, George R. Nutter, Richard S. Teeling and Miss Marguerite Souther.

The general committee met in the Mayor's office upon the 20th instant and the members were lauded by the Mayor as the best committee of business men he has known in the history of the city.

"O Boston, fair City enthroned like a radiant queen,
From thy hills looking down on the ship-teeming plain of the ocean,
May thy future be bright, thy skies beam with light all serene,

MAYOR NICHOLS' POLICY FOR L STREET BATH UNCHANGED BY COUNCIL ACT.

MEANS OF CARING FOR SITUATION
TILL CITY'S FINANCES WARRANT GREATER EXPENDITURES.

Refusal of the City Council to adopt the order of Mayor Nichols for rescinding the $280,000 loan order for a new L Street Bath House will not, it is indicated, affect the policy of the Mayor this year, which is to spend from $10,000 to $20,000 for new lockers, a new handball court, and other repairs on the present structure. These, the Mayor believes, will serve the purpose until the city's finances warrant a greater expenditure.

In connection with his decision Mayor Nichols has received the following from the Bath Division of the Park Department.

"This bath house was established in 1866 and was the first municipal bath established in the United States. The present building was erected in 1901 at a cost of approximately $50,000. The architect considered very carefully the landscape effects when the design of the building was being studied and it was never intended that any building should be erected over one story high at this location.

"A great deal of sentiment is attached to the present building by the regular patrons and this office is in receipt of a number of complaints against the construction of a concrete bath house and laundry combined. Naturally, if a laundry is placed in the building, the work will have to be done principally by women employees which would do away with fig-leaf bathing.

of gypsy moths and the charges made for such service. Application may be made to this department for information regarding the public baths and gymnasiums maintained by the city, and with regard to municipal indoor concerts and band concerts; also information relative to Mt. Hope, Evergreen, Fairview and other public cemeteries owned by the City of Boston.

TO THE SCHOOL COMMITTEE, 15 Beacon street, for information relative to the operation of the schools of the city.

TO THE SCHOOLHOUSE COMMISSIONERS, Room 1007, City Hall Annex, for information as to the construction and repair of school buildings.

TO THE BOARD OF EXAMINERS, Room 1001, City Hall Annex, for information regarding the licensing of persons having charge or control of the work of construction, alteration, removal or tearing down of buildings.

TO THE WIRE DIVISION OF THE FIRE DEPARTMENT, Fire Department Headquarters, 60 Bristol street, for all information relative to the erection of poles, the building of conduits, the installation of all overhead and underground construction and electrical apparatus, as well as for general information relative to the entire division. TO ROOM 906, City Hall Annex, for permits for the installing of wires and electrical apparatus within buildings in the City of Boston, and for the payment of fees incident to the granting of the privileges above named, and which must be paid in advance.

"The studies for the new bath house include metal lockers, doing away entirely with the comfortable wooden lockers now in place. A suggestion has been made that we restore the present building and add enough lockers to the men's house to allow for the increased patronage, and the following is an estimate of what it would cost to put the house in good condition: Repairs to skylights and roof, $1,000; 500 additional lockers for men, $2,500; restoring underpinning, stringers and repairs to present flooring, $7,500; new handball court, $2,500; repairs to old handball court, $500; repairs to present fences, $1,500; repairs to present lockers and locks, $500; repairs and additions to sun room, $500; new valuables room, $1,500; new toilet room with sanitary conditions, painting, $2,000. Total, $20,000.

"This department expends yearly from $1,000 to $2,000 on the repairs to the present division fences, segregating the bathers. It would cost $35,000 to put masonry walls in place of the present wooden fences. There is, however, one objection to a concrete divisional wall and that is, that at the rate L street is growing and the patronage increasing, it will only be a short time when it will be necessary to lengthen the beach the L bathers use,—in such an event the masonry walls would have to be removed and relocated at a cost almost equal to the construction of new walls."

Mayor Nichols is in receipt of a petition from the L Street Brownies asking that the L Street Bath be left alone in so far as erecting any such proposed structure. They say that with some few relatively minor changes they much prefer the present structure.

These matters will be considered in the framing of the budget.

BOSTON'S TRAFFIC PROBLEM AND ITS SOLUTION BELIEVED OF PRIMARY IMPORTANCE TO CITY BY MAYOR NICHOLS.

PLACES THIS AHEAD OF PROPOSAL FOR LOOP HIGHWAY IN ADDRESS BEFORE ASSEMBLY LUNCHEON OF CHAMBER OF COMMERCE. $30,000,000 PLAN MIGHT ADD TO CONGESTION. SAYS IMPROVEMENT MUST BE CAREFULLY JUDGED AND THAT OVERORGANIZATION OF DISTRICTS INTERESTED FOR SUCH MAY BE DANGEROUS.

Hon. Malcolm E. Nichols, Mayor of Boston, delivered the following address before the assembly luncheon of the Boston Chamber of Commerce, Thursday, January 21.

BUSINESS AND GOVERNMENT.

The management of the financial affairs of the City of Boston has a marked influence upon the commercial and industrial development of the city. This is too obvious to require proof. Careless municipal government does not attract business. The city should present so complete a picture of good financial management that wealth and numbers will be more strongly attracted here to take advantage of the great opportunity which the City of Boston has to offer.

She has no greater asset than her wonderful natural harbor. She holds second rank among United States ports in the volume and value of foreign imports. The business of the port is steadily increasing. The averages of total water-borne commerce from 1905 until 1921 amounted to 9,500,000 tons, while the same business for the past four years has been well above 13,500,000 tons.

The evidence points to the encouraging response of our New England industries to the suggestions so forcefully emphasized by earnest study on the part of many public and private bodies.

Foremost among such bodies is the Boston Chamber of Commerce, which exists for the purpose of promoting the business prosperity of Boston and New England. Its success depends in a large measure upon the work of government—city, state and national. It is concerned quite directly with the government of the City of Boston because that government is a part of the every-day life of this community. The Boston Chamber of Commerce, therefore, whose concern is with the prosperity of the community, is emphatically interested in the affairs of the city. The Chamber co-operates with executive and legislative officials in its policy to deal with important civic matters which have a bearing upon the public welfare.

As Chief Magistrate of this city I am encouraged in the knowledge that I shall have this co-operation, and I am deeply complimented at the invitation extended to me to address you today.

There has been a remarkable increase in the coastwise and intercoastal business through the Panama Canal, showing that our industries are wide awake to the importance of the trade of the growing communities along the Atlantic seaboard, the Gulf of Mexico, and the Pacific Coast.

EXPORTS AND DIFFERENTIALS.

In seeking trade of the country's rapidly growing seaboard communities, the latest figures, however, indicate a falling off in foreign exports due to the blighting effect of the rail rate differentials on export and import business from and to the west. These differentials give Baltimore, Philadelphia and Norfolk unfair and discriminatory advantages over this port which no amount of enterprise or energy has been able to overcome.

New England is a unit in demanding the removal of these railroad rate differentials and it is earnestly to be hoped that no local difference of opinion as to the method to be employed will interfere with our efforts in behalf of their removal. The City of Boston will do all that it possibly can to aid the movement to secure an equitable railroad rate differential.

On account of our scant export business by reason chiefly of the railroad rate differential, our unsurpassed terminal facilities for overseas business are not being utilized to anywhere near their capacity. Such facilities include the Army Base with berthing accommodations for nine ocean going steamers and low water depth of 40 feet. The largest dry dock in the Western Hemisphere, and the only one capable of taking in such steamers as the "Leviathan" and "Majestic," the most modern fish pier in the world, and Commonwealth Pier No. 5 with berth space for five ocean going steamers and low water depth of 40 feet are here. In close proximity is the world's largest wool storage warehouse.

The Commonwealth has an investment of over twenty millions in the facilities and improvement of Boston Harbor, a substantial part of which was assessed against and assumed by the city. We, therefore, have a very direct interest in all efforts to build up the business of the port, and it will be the policy of my administration to co-operate in any undertaking having for its object the welfare of the Port of Boston.

The conditions that account for a tax rate this year in excess of $30 are not difficult to understand, and have been set forth fully in my inaugural message. We are just emerging from a period of storm and stress in which the City of Boston has encountered the most difficult financial problems in its history. During this trying time, when a revolution in commodity prices has greatly increased the cost of carrying on public as well as private business, without any corresponding increase in public revenue except such as may be derived from taxes levied upon property subject to local taxation, an increase of tax rates was inevitable.

Moreover, during the recent war some things were held back which would otherwise have been undertaken; and it seems probable that the city, like so many private individuals and corporations, did not keep maintenance expenditures up to a proper standard, so that many extraordinary demands had to be made during the five years that have just elapsed. To a considerable extent it is a troublesome legacy from the war period which accounts for our present predicament; and it is therefore reasonable to expect that after this situation has been met we can look forward to lower tax rates.

But this is not the whole story. It is perfectly evident that, quite apart from the burden of deferred maintenance charges and deferred improvement outlays, the city has to meet all along the line continued demands for increased municipal service which have called for increasing expenditures, and therefore increased taxes.

MUNICIPAL COST AND EXPENDITURE.

Cost and expenditure play an important part in municipal management. And both have risen in such fashion as to produce tax rates which would not have been dreamed of years ago.

It is needless to count the many things which the Boston of fifty years ago never thought of doing and was not expected to do. They are, however, reflected in the costs.

In twenty years the annual expenditures for public schools, including new buildings, has increased from five and one half millions to sixteen and one half millions, or 190 per cent. Expenditure on parks has increased from half a million to a million and a half dollars, or 185 per cent. Expenditure for streets, sewers and bridges has increased from three and one quarter millions to eight and three quarter millions, or 173 per cent. The total city expenditure from tax levy during this period has increased from twenty-four and three quarter millions to sixty-three and three quarter millions, or 157 per cent.

School expenditures in twenty years have jumped 190 per cent, but school population has jumped only 42 per cent, city expenditure has jumped 157 per cent, but the population has increased by only 31 per cent.

When we consider the foregoing, and further consider that thirteen millions is now estimated as necessary for the next four years for school buildings, that a new court house is to cost six and one half millions, that a million dollars a year is said to be a fair estimate for the construction of residential streets, that a like sum annually is said to be necessary for the reconstruction of business streets, and that a like sum is to be necessary for sewer construction; when we consider that the sums covering these and other projects amount to a total not far from two hundred million dollars, it will be clear that the City of Boston is confronted by constant demands for increased service which is certain to plunge us into financial difficulty unless the city scrutinizes very carefully all proposals for increased service and therefore increased expenditure.

HOW DEMAND GROWS.

In dealing with proposals for increased municipal expenditure, one of our difficulties is going to be to distinguish between real demands and demands which may be described as manufactured, that is, demands which result from propaganda carried on through many agencies which are interested in promoting a variety of projects. Most of such projects perhaps relate to things which are good in themselves if the city can afford them; but some of them at least seem to be of doubtful advantage, and others certainly cannot be classified as present necessities. It is difficult for a public official in these days to resist the demands that come from the many agencies for expressing what is called a "public" demand for increased public service and expenditure.

Civic and commercial bodies interested in the improvement and prosperity of the community naturally and properly indorse projects that call for increased expenditures, but in addition a variety of associations, societies, clubs, leagues, conferences, federations, boards, councils, committees, and other organizations, aggregations and confederations, lend their aid in devising new and attractive methods of spending public money, with results which are familiar to every observer.

Agencies for expressing, directing, focusing, and frequently for manufacturing, public opinion are very numerous in these days; and their effect on public expenditures is only too apparent. Then, in addition to all the demands that come from outside sources, we have the constant desire of public departments to expand and expend. Within reasonable limits this desire is both natural and proper; but it means that pressure for increased expenditure comes from within the municipal household as well as from without, and it adds to the difficulties of a situation already difficult enough.

COMMUNITY OVERORGANIZED.

Since the new Mayor faces a tax rate probably in excess of $30 he may be biased; but he may well record now his conviction that, so far as advocacy of new or increased public expenditures is concerned, this community is overorganized. This conviction is not of recent origin, but results from many years of experience; and it will probably be shared by many of you. If there be any who are doubtful on this point, their doubts would in most cases be readily resolved if they would give careful attention to the nature and origin of all the projects which they themselves are constantly being asked to indorse, either individually or through the various organizations with which they are connected.

Indorsements of new public expenditures are easy to give, and therefore easy to secure, since they involve no liability to the indorser and are an easy method of gratifying the indorsee. When the bill becomes due it goes to the city treasury for payment, while the indorser has the satisfaction of having aided in an inexpensive manner, what he regards as a worthy public project. And it has happened that the indorsee has been enabled to secure a contract, dispose of a piece of property, and even secure a regular job. Under such conditions, which are not peculiar to Boston and are due in considerable part to laudable motives, the ordinary political restraints upon the increase of public expenditure have largely broken down, while increased tax rates threaten to break up our political household.

IMPROVEMENTS SHOULD NOT BE WITHHELD.

Next in importance to the financial condition of the city at the present time comes the subject of the improvements which the city needs, and within the bounds of reason, ought to have. While the finances of the city should be our first concern and the immediate financial outlook is not pleasant, conditions are not fundamentally unsound, and there is no reason why we should not proceed with the planning and construction of such improvements as the welfare and prosperity of Boston require.

With the suggestion that improvements should be withheld the Mayor has no sympathy. He is, on the other hand, even from the financial point of view, interested in everything that will build up the business of Boston and contribute to its future economic, and therefore financial, welfare. However difficult the financial problems of the moment may be, there can be no permanent solution of them if the city fails to grow and prosper in the future.

But the financial condition of Boston does require that every project for improvement should be scrutinized with the utmost care. Improvements we need most emphatically; but we can afford to make only improvements that will improve. We can afford to expend money with reasonable liberality for the development of the physical plant and the municipal services of the City of Boston; but we cannot afford to make costly mistakes, since the future is already mortgaged heavily enough.

This community fortunately has learned that there is such a thing as municipal planning; and we now have an agency through which a proper municipal plan can be worked out. In this plan the Mayor is greatly interested; and in perfecting it and carrying it out he is prepared to co-operate as far and as fast as practicable. But there is one requirement upon which he must insist as the price of securing his co-operation, and that is that we shall formulate definitely and clearly the end at which we aim before we spend large sums of money on permanent commitments.

THE INTERMEDIATE THOROUGHFARE.

The Mayor has found much of interest and promise in recent plans for the improvement of the streets in the business district, and particularly in the plan for the so-called "loop" or intermediate thoroughfare; but he is not yet satisfied with the treatment that one aspect of the whole subject has received. Plans are being made to accommodate traffic in the business district, and certainly this is the object at which we should aim. But in my opinion no one has yet studied with sufficient care the kind of traffic that we ought to plan to accommodate and the probable limits upon our ability in various directions to accommodate increased traffic. The Mayor has not yet had the opportunity to study the subject as he would like to do; and, indeed, he has felt that he should not make up his mind until the plans under consideration were presented for public discussion.

During the recent campaign he was repeatedly challenged to say what, if elected Mayor, he would do about the proposed loop; and he replied that he proposed to do nothing until plans were perfected and presented in such form that they could be given intelligent consideration. He promised also that at that time he would give this matter his best attention; and this promise he may well repeat on the present occasion. The plans are now before us, public consideration is now under way, and the time has come when it is proper for the Mayor to say that he is inclined to think that the problem of future traffic regulation underlies the problem of street improvement, and must be given attention before any comprehensive city plan can be wisely and economically carried through.

This suggestion is made by the Mayor in the hope and expectation that it will not delay the undertaking of needed improvements of the main arteries of traffic in the business district, but rather accelerate it. In spite of the very important and influential support which the so-called "loop" has received, there exists, and, in my opinion, naturally and properly, in the minds of many people serious doubt as to whether this improvement now presented will not in a few years' time produce more congestion rather than less. To this it is not a complete answer to say that if such a situation develops further improvements can then be undertaken in accordance with an intelligent plan now formulated, because it is not given to any man to foresee all the conditions in the problem if unlimited access for motor vehicles is permitted in the business district. Upon the other hand, if we will first come to an agreement concerning the regulation of motor vehicle traffic, we may then find it easier to agree concerning the precise improvement which shall be next undertaken.

ON TRAFFIC LIMITATION.

I shall not have the temerity to present in this address a plan for the future regulation of motor vehicle traffic in the business district of Boston; but it is proper for me to indicate that I incline to the belief that it is not possible for many years longer for motor vehicles to have unlimited access to the business district. Even if the city does not, by suitable regulation, limit such access, the increasing traffic congestion will effectually limit such access by forcing motor traffic to readjust itself to an impossible situation. If we wish to make access to the heart of the city possible for the largest number of people, and it seems to me that this is the end to be aimed at, we must recognize that this can be brought about only by very radical regulation of the use of the city streets by motor vehicles.

It is, indeed, possible that, without action by the city, the problem is already beginning to be worked out in a natural way. Already we can see garages and parking places being established outside of the business district, at points where easy access to the heart of the city can be secured by existing facilities. From such points we can also see lines of busses being established; so that it is a reasonable surmise that a natural remedy is being found without the aid of any city plan. As we observe what is now coming about in a natural way, we can find ground for seriously doubting whether, if a city plan does not accommodate itself to the natural requirements of the case, nature will not largely ignore the city plan, with the result that the city will presently find that its money has been spent to little purpose.

I may conclude by reminding my audience that if it were a question of building a railroad, no one would think of laying out and constructing a line without knowing how much traffic it was going to carry, and what kind of cars and locomotives would be used. The same requirements confront us when we undertake a city plan; and I believe that these requirements must be met before that agreement can be reached which is essential if a comprehensive plan is to be adopted.

Finally, it may be suggested that a city plan and city planners do not have absolute control over traffic, which has always had, and always will have, a habit of finding its own way, sometimes in defiance of all the plans of the wisest men. With traffic under better control, the city may wisely proceed with no serious delay with the improvement of the main arteries of the business district. But, unless we solve the traffic problem first, we shall run the risk of making mistakes which no city ought to make and the City of Boston certainly cannot afford. Every one desires the improvement of the City of Boston; but, before we make commitments amounting to tens of millions, let us make sure that our improvements are going to improve.

GREATER BOSTON.

Every principle of sound policy points towards the desirability of a greater city in name as well as in fact. Boston is the business center of nearly two million persons. In name she represents but one half of this vast population. The conduct of public business affecting the common interests of the cities and towns in the metropolitan area would be immeasurably improved by the establishment of a greater city. I look forward to a time in the near future when these interests will receive the recognition which they ought to have.

It seems to me that the Greater Boston idea has been too frequently misunderstood by those who think that the City of Boston is anxious to obscure the identity of her sister cities and towns by annexation. I favor annexation whenever it is deemed to be mutually beneficial, but it has happened that whenever annexation has been talked of unyielding opposition outside of the City of Boston has appeared. I think the opposition is sometimes based upon reasons which are temperamental rather than practical; nevertheless, they are real, and for the most part represent that local pride in a home community which we all naturally feel.

When away from home a resident of a city or town in the metropolitan district invariably claims Boston as his residence. If we could only make the traveler feel that he is a Bostonian at home as he feels it while he is abroad we should have taken a long step towards the conception of a greater city.

To assist in this step I have introduced a bill in the Legislature to provide that for the purpose of the federal census the metropolitan district shall be called the City of Boston. It is sufficient for the purpose of the census and elevates Boston to fourth place among American cities as a matter of official record in the census, but the figures of each city and town in the district will be reported as they are at present and none of the local rights now enjoyed will be affected.

This is more than a gesture. It is a decisive step towards the creation of a metropolitan city, and in my opinion must sometime be followed by other legislation which will further establish the identity of a Greater Boston without sacrificing the local identity of the municipal elements thereof.

I believe that this step will create a feeling of broader interest in the affairs of the City of Boston and do its part towards helping the Chamber of Commerce in its public welfare work.

This address, entitled "The Business Man and the City Government of Boston," certainly offers plenty of latitude for discussion. I have attempted in it to deal with but few of the great business and commercial questions which are daily receiving the attention of the public-spirited men who are gathered within the membership of the Chamber—a membership representative of the fine spirit of noble and cherished traditions, and working with sincerity and breadth of view in purpose and action.

PROPOSES TO TAX AUTOMOBILES FOR PARKING PRIVILEGES IN CITY OF BOSTON.

MAYOR NICHOLS, FOLLOWING SUGGESTION OF HIS ADVISORY WAYS AND MEANS COMMITTEE, REQUESTS STREET COMMISSIONERS TO STUDY PROPOSAL FOR $5 TO $10 CHARGE ANNUALLY AND REPORT AFTER HEARINGS—WILL ADD $500,000 TO REVENUES.

Mayor Malcolm E. Nichols has requested the Board of Street Commissioners to incorporate in an amendment to the traffic regulations of the City of Boston a proposal for charging a fee of from $5 to $10 a year for any and all parking of automobiles throughout the city. He has issued this request following the suggestion of a subcommittee of revenue of the Administration's Ways and Means Committee, which has had the plan under consideration for more than two weeks.

The Street Commissioners set Friday, January 22, at 10 a. m. as the hour for a public hearing on the question, which affects motorists who live not only in Boston but in all parts of the state, especially in the metropolitan district.

The Mayor offers the scheme as a means of relieving traffic congestion as much as a means of increasing the city's income.

If the fee is not paid, a motorist will not be allowed to park even once, but payment of the fee entitles a motorist to all the parking privileges allowed under the present regulations, according to the details of the scheme.

The committee estimates that adoption and enforcement of the recommendations would bring the city a net revenue of at least $500,000 a year on the basis of a $5 fee.

One of the objects of the scheme is to shift to nonresidents of Boston part of the burden now imposed on residents to provide traffic facilities equally enjoyed by outsiders. On this point the committee says:

"The streets of Boston are being largely and regularly used as parking places, for long or short periods, by thousands of nonresidents, who contribute nothing to the revenue of the city. This use of the streets accentuates congestion, increases the difficulty of handling traffic, and necessitates the maintenance of an enlarged force of traffic officers, thus imposing an additional burden on Boston taxpayers. It would seem only fair that a portion of this additional burden, if not the whole of it, should be borne by those who enjoy the advantages."

The statement is based on data collected by the committee, the Chamber of Commerce and the Street Commissioners, from which it was estimated that at least 100,000 machines avail themselves of parking privileges in Boston's streets and parkways at some time during the course of the year, and that a large proportion of them use such privileges regularly. A count of 200 cars parked all day on certain streets of the business district recently made by the Street Commissioners showed that 85 per cent were owned by nonresidents.

Mayor Nichols announced the plan at the conclusion of a conference in his office with the entire Committee on Ways and Means. The subcommittee on new sources of revenue, which suggested the plan, comprises: Prof. W. B. Munro, chairman; Mrs. Hilda H. Quirk, Charles H. Innes, James J. Phelan and George H. Johnson.

Further details of the plan, as set forth in the committee's report, are as follows:

"After consultation with the chairman of the Board of Street Commissioners, your subcommittee is convinced that the imposition of a small yearly license fee for parking privilege would not only help to relieve in some measure existing traffic congestion, but would also bring the city sufficient revenue to cover the cost of traffic control, including the expense involved by the impending increase of the Police Department.

"We are assured that such a fee would be within the jurisdiction of the Street Commissioners, and could be accomplished by the insertion of an appropriate provision in the present street traffic regulations, without any changes in laws or ordinances. It is assumed, however, that due notice of such action, say thirty days, would be advisable before putting it into operation. The subcommittee therefor recommends:

"1.—That Mayor Nichols be advised to request the Street Commissioners to frame and adopt a suitable regulation which would restrict the privilege of parking in the streets of Boston to cars which bear a small metal plate or tag, indicating that a license fee has been paid to the city for this privilege. We suggest that this fee be fixed at not less than $5 nor more than $10 per annum, the licenses running from January 1 to January 1. It is desirable, if practicable, that for future years some arrangement be made to secure the co-operation of the state registry of motor vehicles so that car owners may obtain their state registration plates and their parking tags at the same time. Your subcommittee estimates that the adoption and enforcement of the foregoing recommendation would bring the city a net revenue of a least $500,000 per annum at a $5 fee.

"2.—That the Mayor be advised to request the Street Commissioners to work out the detailed arrangements for the issue of these parking licenses, with special attention to the following points:

"(a.) A small metal plate or disc bearing the serial number (somewhat similar to the 'wheel-tax plate' used in Chicago) to be attached to each licensed car in a conspicuous place;

"(b.) Some method whereby car owners will be saved all possible delay and inconvenience in obtaining their licenses, for example, by having the distribution of licenses made at various points throughout the city (such as police stations), rather than concentrated at City Hall;

"(c.) The extension of the usual courtesy to cars of non-Massachusetts registry, as in the case of state registration;

"(d.) A special definition of the term 'parking,' with reference to the license regulation, such as would prevent its application to delivery cars and other vehicles which only stop to perform specific errands;

"(e.) A provision whereby a parking license may be suspended or revoked for repeated violations of the parking rules, thus making the license system a valuable aid to the enforcement of these rules.

"3. That the Mayor be advised to request the Park Commissioner to adopt, as respects the use of parks and parkways under his control, regulations similar to those which may be issued by the Street Commissioners in this matter. It is obviously desirable that the same restriction of the parking privilege to licensed cars shall apply to parks and parkways as to streets.

"The subcommittee does not contemplate that the requirements of a license for parking on the streets shall modify in any way the existing traffic regulations, whether as regards time limits, restricted streets, or any other limitations now maintained on parking privileges.

"Under the proposed arrangement, licensed cars would be privileged to park where parking is allowed, and within the time limit permitted by the regulations now or hereafter established by the Street Commissioners, while unlicensed cars would not have the privilege of parking on the streets at all. They would have to make use of public garages or of parking spaces on private property. It is estimated that such garages and parking spaces in Boston are now able to accommodate about 10,000 cars."

MAYOR NICHOLS ACTS QUICKLY IN DEFENSE OF MUNICIPAL UTILITY BONDS.

ADDRESSES BAY STATE SENATORS AND MEMBERS OF CONGRESS AND SECRETARY OF TREASURY URGING DEFEAT OF LEGISLATION SEEKING PROPOSED AMENDMENT TO REVENUE ACT.

Mayor Malcolm E. Nichols has addressed a communication to each member of the House of Representatives and the Senate at Washington and to Secretary of the Treasury, Hon. Andrew J. Mellon, stressing the importance of defeating legislation for an amendment to the Revenue Act which would work injury to the financing of municipal utility bonds.

Attention of the Mayor was called to the matter by the General Counsel for the State Board of Trustees of the Boston Elevated Railway Company who had received a letter directed to his company in advocacy of legislation on behalf of the American Electric Railway Association, American Gas Association, and the National Electric Light Association.

This legislation is as follows:

"Amendment to section 213 of Revenue Act to include in 'gross income' the interest on bonds, warrants and obligations issued by any political subdivision of any state or territory since January 1, 1925, in payment for or to be used in paying for the construction, acquisition, operation or maintenance of any utility, which bonds, warrants or obligations do not constitute general indebtedness of the issuer but are payable out of the revenues of each utility or otherwise than by general taxation."

In the opinion of both the General Counsel for the State Board of Directors of the Boston Elevated Railway Company and the Law Department of the City of Boston this legislation is of doubtful constitutionality, but its passage, no matter whether it is constitutional or not, would work a very serious harm to the finances of our utilities, particularly to our rapid transit system.

I am advised that in case this became a law our transit bonds which now are marketed from around 4 to 4½ per cent probably could not be marketed at less than 5 per cent, while the leases under which the cost of rapid transit construction is met are on a 4½ per cent basis.

Another utility which would be adversely affected by this amendment is our water system which, like that of other cities, is constantly being enlarged. It is my opinion that this amendment would seriously impair the financing of this utility which has been successfully carried on for many years.

Of course this legislation would interfere with the acquisition of other utilities such as electric and gas plants in case it were deemed advisable for the city to carry on such utilities.

This matter is before the Senate Finance Committee, and I hope it will be possible for you to communicate with the committee and oppose the adoption of the amendment and do everything possible to prevent its passage.

Yours very truly,

MALCOLM E. NICHOLS, Mayor.

"That's fine. That's the way it was when I was there," and Mayor Hart's momentary vision of his City Hall experiences sent a yearning look into his countenance, now wrinkled and gray but full of expression. His head, not yet bald, his gray whiskers clipped and groomed into a goatee, he still presents the familiar picture that Boston has known for many years, and his sparkling eyes, though with retarded vision, portray the same keen mentality.

"Do you want a job?"

A good joke sends a smile over his face and the venerable gentleman matched it with the suggestion that in the uncertainties of life it may become necessary to hunt for employment.

"Then," said Mayor Nichols, grasping his hand as he rose to terminate the interview, "I appoint you honorary mayor of Boston."

"Thanks."

For the honorary mayor it was a more strenuous day than the ordinary days in the week, for the doorbell rang frequently and visitors came to the house. Many of them were ushered into the presence of Mr. Hart and were received with warm cordiality and a handshake. There came the letter carrier who makes his daily round past No. 298. He is H. F. Mernin, and he could not resist the temptation to step inside and express his congratulations, for he was an appointee of Mr. Hart's when Mr. Hart was postmaster of Boston, some thirty-four years ago.

City Hall employees of former days also called upon the honorary mayor, and school boys came in from the Thomas N. Hart School, where the birthday anniversary is always remembered.

Mr. Hart keeps in close touch with the affairs of the world by having books and newspapers read to him every day by his nurse. So far as his immediate family is concerned he has survived all its members and is alone in the world, but he receives cheerful messages occasionally from his cousin, Mrs. Julia N. Deland, in Portland, who is setting a good pace for longevity, as she will be 105 years old next March.

From her he received greetings with a birthday cake containing about the number of candles that mark the remaining years for Mr. Hart to travel to reach his cousin's age. He believes his chances are good.

One of the visitors was Mrs. Walter L. Fisher of Chicago, who formerly lived in the house, and whose husband was Secretary of the Interior in President Taft's cabinet. Her father and Mr. Hart were partners in business, and they married sisters. Letters and telegrams coming to the house were numerous, as usual on these anniversaries, and Mr. Hart showed that he was delighted to receive them.

FIRE DEPARTMENT.

Archdeacon & Sullivan have been granted permission to extend the time of completion of the contract for building new fire house, Engine 21, to February 6, 1926, on account of the weather conditions which would not permit the outside stucco work to be done.

TUNNEL OR BRIDGE TO EAST BOSTON.

Chairman Henry I. Harriman and Commissioners Hale, Stone, Hall, Slattery, Ratschesky and Bauer of the Metropolitan Planning Commission, have filed their annual report with the Massachusetts Legislature recommending that direct physical connection between East Boston and the city proper, either by a vehicular tunnel or a bridge, be established with the preference for the tunnel, to be fully supported by adequate tolls. The commission points out that the final choice between a bridge or tunnel is a matter for legislative and municipal action.

The initial cost of a tunnel is less, Chairman Henry I. Harriman and his associates maintain, and its grades are shorter, the roadway is protected from ice and snow in bad weather and the destruction of taxable real estate is far less than in the case of a bridge. The terminals of such a tunnel, according to the Board, should be between Maverick and Central squares, on the East Boston side and near the junction of the proposed Loop Thoroughfare and Hanover street in the city proper.

Though two tubes might ultimately be necessary, the Board estimates that a single tube could carry nearly 5,000,000 vehicles a year, a volume which will probably not be reached before 1940. To build such a tube would now cost at least $9,000,000, to meet which the tolls should be adjusted, says the commission, to equal at least the fixed charges and operating expenses of the structure. No plan placing the burden on the general taxpayer of the city or the district is favored by the Board.

The cost of a suspension bridge over Boston Harbor, at its narrowest point with terminals near those suggested for a vehicular tunnel, is estimated at $17,000,000, conservatively.

According to the estimate of Ralph Modjeski, New York consulting engineer, a second vehicular tunnel would be required by 1940. He estimates that the tunnel traffic for the first year would average 3,300,000 vehicles. In the opinion of the Board any tunnel or bridge built should be a toll affair. "It is suggested that the tunnel or bridge, as the case may be, can be built and operated as a municipal structure, built as a municipal structure and operated by public trustees on a service at cost basis, or built by a public utility, specially chartered for that purpose."

The advantages and disadvantages of these three plans are summed up by the Board in the following manner:

"First.—A bridge or tunnel owned by a municipality would undoubtedly secure its money at the lowest rates and would, therefore, have the lowest carrying charges.

"The danger of this plan is the inevitable demand that tolls be reduced or abolished to a point where the structure would not be self-supporting and hence become a burden upon the taxpayers of the city. The present East Boston ferries are being operated at a loss of $800,000 per year. The division is also mindful that the one-cent charge for the use of the East Boston Transit Tunnel was abolished within a few years after it had been opened.

"Second.—The second plan for the construction of a bridge or tunnel with municipal credit, but operated by public trustees on a service-at-cost basis, would furnish the money at a low cost and would give greater assurance that self-sustaining tolls would be collected. It would also enable any possible deficit to be spread over a metropolitan area which would include not only Boston, but the cities on the North Shore that would be benefited.

"Third.—The third plan involves the chartering of a public service corporation to build, own and operate the tunnel or bridge. If such a charter were granted, the Department of Public Utilities should be given full supervision over rates, the issuing of securities and the quality of service to be rendered. As private capital would cost more than public money, the total carrying charges under this plan would be somewhat higher than if built with municipal credit.

"On the other hand, there is much to be said for a plan which in no way involves municipal credit or municipal operation, and which provides a public service in the same way as lighting, gas, railroad or street railway service is furnished.

"If such a plan is followed, the charter should grant authority to the City of Boston which might well rearrange or tunnel at any time by paying the then unliquidated cost and should also provide that when the operation of the Sinking Fund had retired the investment, the bridge should automatically become the property of the City of Boston."

BILL AMENDED.

William J. Drew, counsel for George H. McCaffrey and other taxpayers of Boston, appeared before Justice John C. Crosby in the Supreme Judicial Court upon the 19th instant and asked leave to amend the original bill brought by the petitioners to prevent the City Auditor, Rupert S. Carven, from approving an order of the City Council authorizing the expenditure of $2,500 to investigate the advisability of establishing a hospital on Parker Hill for the treatment of chronic diseases and to enjoin the City Treasurer from paying the money. Leave was asked to amend the bill so that the petitioners might proceed to recover the money from Mr. Carven and Mr. Curley.

This action was made necessary because the Corporation Counsel's office had advised, it was said, that the money might be turned over by the treasurer to a committee of the City Council and had already been expended before the announcement of the decision of the full Supreme Judicial Court that McCaffrey and the others were entitled to relief in their bill of equity to prevent payment.

Judge Crosby said that under the decision of the full court the petitioners were entitled to relief and he did not see why the respondents would not be obliged to return the money to the city treasury.

OVERSEERS OF THE POOR SUE CITY OVER LAND TAKEN BY EMINENT DOMAIN, ON CAMBRIDGE STREET.

Two departments of the city have submitted their cases to a jury session of Suffolk Superior Court to determine what can be done in regard to some Cambridge street land which was willed to the city.

The land is that of Lucy Bullman, a Beacon Hill resident, whose will stipulated that the land was to go to the city and the income used for the benefit of the poor. She also stipulated that the land never should be sold.

However, the land was taken over by the city by the process of eminent domain and the trustee of the fund was given but $8,000 for it. The land is reputed to be worth $17,000.

The Overseers of the Poor, trustees of the estate, who have charge of the spending of the income from the land, have filed suit seeking a higher payment for the property. They also want to sell the remainder of the property, but this is forbidden under the terms of the will.

The Supreme Court will be asked to allow the sale of the property and the dissolution of the trust. Meantime however, the Overseers of the Poor are suing the city and the Law Department of the city is defending the case.

APPOINTMENT OF MASTER.

Justice John C. Crosby of the Supreme Judicial Court has named Frederick W. Mansfield as master to hear the issues in connection with the refurnishing of the Boston City Council Chamber by the Gray Furniture Company. Mr. Mansfield is to determine how much more of the contract price of $16,500 the company is entitled to receive.

The company has received $3,000 of the full amount as a result of an agreement between William J. Drew, representing George H. McCaffrey and nine other taxpayers, who in a petition claimed the amount of the bill was excessive, and Francis J. Murray, appearing for the Gray Furniture Company.

NEW COURT ACCOMMODATIONS.

Hon. George L. Mayberry, member of the commission for the extension of court accommodations in Suffolk County, appeared before the Committee on Counties of the Massachusetts Legislature upon the 18th instant and urged the immediate taking of land on Ashburton place and the block bounded by Allston, Somerset and Bulfinch streets, near the State House, and across Somerset street from the present courthouse and the erection of a building between Allston and Court streets to cost $6,450,000. According to Mr. Mayberry the greater portion of the expense would fall on Boston.

FIRE DEPARTMENT MONTHLY REPORT.

HON. MALCOLM E. NICHOLS,
Mayor of Boston.

DEAR SIR,—In accordance with the usual custom, I submit below a report of the activities of the Boston Fire Department for the month ending December 31, 1925.

During the month the pumps at High Pressure Station No. 1 were started in response to thirty alarms and were in actual operation for twenty-four hours and twenty-three minutes. The pumps at High Pressure Station No. 2 were started in response to fifteen alarms and were in actual operation for two hours and forty-eight minutes.

At 8 a. m. Sunday, December 27, 1925, the new fire alarm station in the Fenway was placed in commission and the former station on Bristol street was abandoned. This change over was a very progressive step in fire protection for the City of Boston. The old fire alarm station which was located in the headquarters building on Bristol street had outlived its usefulness and outgrown its possibilities for efficient service. It was impossible to extend the system in the old station. Furthermore the location was a very hazardous one, the fire alarm office having been threatened on several occasions by fire in the immediate neighborhood.

In the Bureau of Supplies and Repairs 394 repair jobs were performed on apparatus by shop mechanics. Two hundred and eighteen calls were responded to by the emergency crew; sixteen omnibuses were inspected by the Supervisor of Motor Apparatus; 375 jobs were performed by inside mechanics other than auto repairers.

In the Wire Division 1,782 permits were issued to perform work and $7,325.96 was collected in fees for same. Fifty-two conduit grants were issued and plans approved.

In another communication I have forwarded to your Honor a list showing the alarms to which this department responded during the month.

Yours very truly,

THEODORE A. GLYNN,
Fire Commissioner.

IMPROVEMENT OF WEST FIRST STREET.

Mayor Nichols has signed the order of the Board of Street Commissioners for the widening of West First street, South Boston. The widening varies from 2 to 4 feet and establishes a 50-foot width for the street from Dorchester avenue for a distance of about 450 feet easterly.

The land for this widening, about 1,300 square feet, has been deeded to the city without charge by the Old Colony Trust Company and the Gillette Razor Company.

The latter company is now engaged in the erection of an eight-story building at 15 West First street, on the widened portion of the street, and this extra 4 feet of street width, made possible by their donation of the land, will allow them to carry their building to a height of 120 feet and at the same time preserve the sky line now fixed by the company's existing buildings.

POLICE DEPARTMENT ORDERS.

General Order No. 838.

Since April 9, 1925, on which date a General Order was issued on the use of the Schaefer or prone method of resuscitation by officers in this department, I have received from time to time reports from the commanding officers of the several divisions concerning the use, successful in most cases, by patrolmen in their respective divisions of this method on persons suffering from gas poisoning or from immersion; and I take pleasure in commending the following-named officers for their intelligent understanding and prompt application of this method of resuscitation:

The resignation of Patrolman Pearl E. McFarland of Division 13 having been presented while charges against him are pending, it is hereby accepted, to take effect Thursday, January 14, 1926, at 7.45 o'clock a. m., seven days' notice waived.

HERBERT A. WILSON,

General Order No. 840.

A trial board consisting of Captains Grant, McDevitt and Patterson, having heard by reference a complaint against Patrolman Richard W. Brannon of Division 12 charging him with neglect of duty and conduct unbecoming an officer, reported to the commissioner a finding of guilty as charged. In accordance with which, the said Patrolman Richard W. Brannon was on January 4, 1926, dismissed from the Police Department.

Due written notice of such dismissal with the reasons therefor was duly and specifically given in hand on January 4, 1926, to the said Richard W. Brannon.

On the sixth day of January, 1926, the said Richard W. Brannon requested through his attorney, in writing, a public hearing as provided by law, and the Police Commissioner set down Tuesday, January 12, 1926, at eleven o'clock, a. m., at the office of Police Commissioner as the time and place for said hearing and duly notified the said Richard W. Brannon.

The said Richard W. Brannon was present at said time and place with counsel, and was heard with his witnesses. Whereupon, after hearing the case, the Police Commissioner finds the said Richard W. Brannon guilty as charged and further finds that the said Richard W. Brannon shall stand dismissed from the Police Department.

The Superintendent of Police will promulgate this order.

HERBERT A. WILSON,

General Order No. 841.

Lieut. Wesley W. Chandler of Division 14 having arrived at the age of sixty-one and three-twelfths years, having performed faithful service in the Police Department for thirty-three and five-twelfths years, and having requested to be retired from active service, it is hereby Ordered, That the said Lieut. Wesley W. Chandler be retired from active service and that his name be placed upon the department pension roll with pay at the rate of twelve hundred sixty-two and fifty one-hundredths (1,262.50) dollars per annum, said sum being one half of the amount of compensation received by him in the office from which he is retired; to take effect Saturday, January 16, 1926, at 5.45 o'clock p. m.

The Superintendent of Police will promulgate this order.

HERBERT A. WILSON,
Commissioner.

General Order No. 842.

My attention has been called by the commanding officers of the several divisions named below to the following commendable police work performed by officers in their respective divisions:

On the morning of April 14, 1925, Patrolman Daniel J. O'Brien of Division 15, while in Thompson square, saw a horse attached to a light, covered wagon running up Main street. After the team had collided with a Ford coupe and then with an elevated upright, Patrolman O'Brien perceived that the horse was running away, and commandeering the nearest automobile, in this instance an old Ford, which he shortly left for a Somerville yellow taxi, gave chase. Overtaking the team near Oak street, Patrolman O'Brien grasped the reins, and jumping from the running board of the taxi was dragged some twenty feet before he brought the horse to a standstill.

This was an admirable piece of police work, and I warmly commend Patrolman O'Brien for the courage, alertness and quickness of resource displayed by him in stopping this runaway horse, thereby saving the driver and probably others from injury and possible death.

On April 26, 1925, at about 3.30 a. m., Patrolman Joseph F. Gallant of Division 3, while on his way to the station house, discovered a fire in the basement of the five-story brick lodging house at 5 Hancock street, city. Knowing that a number of persons were asleep in this building, Patrolman Gallant ran to the station house and notified Patrolmen Bernard J. Graham and Joseph Decker, asking them to turn in an alarm, and then returned to the burning house, together with the two patrolmen mentioned. Finding the hallways filled with smoke and flames, the patrolmen quickly aroused the inmates, eighteen in number, and all reached the street in safety.

This was a most excellent piece of police work, and I heartily commend these officers, and particularly Patrolman Gallant, for their quick and intelligent action which undoubtedly prevented a dangerous fire and the possible loss of life.

On May 3, 1925, at about 2.05 a. m., Patrolman Edward B. Quinn of Division 3 observed a colored man coming from an apartment house in Mt. Vernon street. Having been directed to be on the lookout for a colored man who, on the twenty-ninth of April, had assaulted a white woman in that vicinity, Patrolman Quinn questioned the man and brought him to the station house. After an investigation, in which Patrolman Clifford O. Bowen, also of Division 3, assisted, it was found that the colored man was the man wanted for the assault and also that on this very morning, May 3, he had entered an apartment on the third floor of an apartment house in Mt. Vernon street and had assaulted and robbed a woman seventy years of age, threatening her with death if she gave an alarm, and that he was on parole from the Charlestown State Prison where he had served three years of a three to five years' sentence for breaking and entering. He was held for the Grand Jury in the sum of $10,000 and later sentenced to State Prison for a term of from ten to fifteen years.

Such meritorious police work is a source of gratification, and I take pleasure in commending Patrolman Quinn for the ability and shrewdness displayed by him in the arrest of the arrant criminal.

On May 31, 1925, a woman by the name of Mae Price was found brutally murdered in the Hotel Hollis. Sergeant Thomas F. Harvey then of Division 4, but now of Division 14, with Patrolmen William J. Condon and Coleman A. Morrison, both of Division 4, was assigned to this case, and all three officers worked early and late until they apprehended and brought to trial, on August 17, 1925, one Frank Costello of Worcester, Mass. A verdict of not guilty was rendered by the jury hearing the case, but the work done by these officers in apprehending Costello was of the highest calibre, and I take pleasure in commending them for their intelligent and persevering investigation of this case which resulted in bringing Costello to trial.

The Superintendent of Police will promulgate this order.

HERBERT A. WILSON,
Commissioner.

General Order No. 843.

A trial board, consisting of Captains Driscoll, Goff and Anderson, having heard by reference a complaint against Patrolman Michael McEllin of Division 12, charging him with neglect of duty, reported to the commissioner a finding of guilty as charged. In accordance with which, the said Patrolman Michael McEllin was on January 16, 1926, dismissed from the Police Department.

Due written notice of such dismissal with the reasons therefor was duly and specifically given in hand on January 16, 1926, to the said Michael McEllin.

The Superintendent of Police will promulgate this order.

HERBERT A. WILSON,
Commissioner.

President KEENE appointed the following committee to prepare and report rules for the proceedings of the Council: Coun. Arnold, Green, Parkman, McGrath, McMahon.

EXECUTIVE APPOINTMENTS.

Communications were received from the Mayor making the following appointments for the term ending April 30, 1926:

Miss Matilda Goldstein, 139 Lamartine street, Jamaica Plain, Weigher of Coal and Measure of Wood and Bark.

Orris P. Knight, 56 Columbus avenue, Somerville, Weigher of Beef at the Brighton stockyards, Brighton, Mass.

REVOCATION OF L STREET BATH HOUSE LOAN.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, January 11, 1926.
To the City Council.

Gentlemen,—I transmit to you herewith an order providing that the authorization to borrow $380,000 for bath house and laundry at L street, South Boston, be revoked.

In my inaugural message, addressed to you on January 4, I called attention to the condition of the finances of the city and said that the administration would be under the necessity of examining with especial care every new proposal to ascertain its worth.

The object of the authorization provides for an improvement of great cost, but its utility is already met by present accommodations.

These accommodations include the L Street Bath House, which provides closet and checking facilities for 2,520 persons; the new bath house on Columbus park, opened for use during the past season, which provides locker, closet and checking facilities for 1,658 persons, and located at a distance of about one half mile from the L Street Bath House; and the Head House at City Point, which provides locker, closet and checking facilities for 834 persons, and which is located at a distance of less than a half mile from the L Street Bath House.

I seriously doubt at this time the need for an extensive addition to these facilities, and I therefore recommend the adoption of the accompanying order.

Respectfully,
MALCOLM E. NICHOLS, Mayor.

City of Boston,
In City Council.

Ordered, That the authorization to borrow $380,000 for bath house and laundry, L street, South Boston, which loan order was passed December 23, 1925, and approved by the Mayor December 29, 1925, be and the same is hereby revoked.

President KEENE—Unless the rules are suspended, this order will lie over for one week for consideration.

Coun. ARNOLD—Mr. President, I move you that the rules be suspended and that action be taken at the present time.

Coun. DOWD—Mr. President, before the rules are suspended and the order passed, I believe we should have an opinion from the Corporation Counsel as to whether or not this body has the authority to revoke an order enacted by the previous Council and signed by the previous Mayor.

President KEENE—It is the feeling of Coun. Dowd that the advice of the Corporation Counsel should be procured and that the motion to suspend the rules should be defeated.

The question comes on suspension of the rules.

Coun. GILBODY—Mr. President, I think the Council would be a little hasty in suspending the rules on this matter at this time. I want to call attention to the fact that one ward concerned directly in the improvement proposed in this order is not now represented, and I do not believe it is fair to bring the order in until such time as that ward has representation in this body. I think also that this is a matter that concerns the welfare of the entire City of Boston. It does not directly and alone concern the South Boston members, but the entire City of Boston. I know that the people of Dorchester use the L Street Bath as well as those from South Boston and from other sections of the city. I know that the people of Roxbury use the L Street Bath, that people from all over the city come there. Therefore, it is a matter of moment to the entire City of Boston, what shall be done at L street. I think suspension of the rules at this time and revocation of the order providing for the expenditure is inexpedient, and I hope that it will not prevail.

The motion to suspend the rules was declared lost.

President KEENE—The order will lie over one week under the rules.

RECONSTRUCTION OF SIDEWALK ON MAPLE STREET.

Coun. WRAGG offered an order—That the Commissioner of Public Works reconstruct the sidewalk on the westerly side of Maple street beginning at Pine street and continuing north to Oak street, thence down the southerly side of Oak street to Hyde Park avenue, Ward 18, in front of the estates and churches thereon, the said sidewalk to be built of artificial stone.

Passed under suspension of the rules.

ALIENS IN CITY DEPARTMENTS.

Coun. DOWD offered an order—That his Honor the Mayor be requested to immediately confer with the department heads of the various institutions and advise them to comply with sections 2, 3 and 4 of chapter 9 of the ordinances of 1921 relative to employing aliens in any public department of the City of Boston and inform them that it is the wish of the City Council that only citizens be employed in their institution and that all aliens employed now be herewith discharged in the next three months and their places occupied by citizens.

Coun. DOWD—Mr. President, in introducing this order, concerning a matter which I wish brought to the consideration of his Honor the Mayor, I had in mind the fact that in several institutions of the City of Boston aliens have been employed for the last ten years. As we all understand, the city spends some $10,000 of the taxpayers' money on Americanization work. We all understand that it is against the statutes to employ aliens, but they have been there for years. I have in mind one institution where some 200 aliens are employed, the taxpayers of the city paying their salaries, and they not thinking enough of the City of Boston or the United States of America to become citizens of the country. I have no objection to aliens who have been in the country but a short time being employed for a short period in such institutions, but I do object to those people who have been in this country for years and who have no intention of becoming American citizens being so employed. I believe the time has come in this city to take drastic action. For years it has been known that aliens were so employed, but no action has been taken, and I believe the time has now come, at the start of the present administration, to clean the thing up. We all know that there are plenty of American citizens, both men and women, walking the streets of Boston today, who should be employed in the institutions instead of these aliens. I therefore ask a suspension of the rule in order that the order may be passed and the matter may be brought to the attention of his Honor the Mayor. I certainly trust that the Mayor will not simply forward it to the institution heads as a mere matter of form, but that he will take some real, drastic action in regard to the matter, and report back to the body within the next three months any action taken by him.

The order was passed under suspension of the rule.

PROPOSED INCREASE FOR POLICE AND FIREMEN.

Coun. DOWD offered an order—That his Honor the Mayor be requested to consider in the coming budget an increase in salary for all officers employed by the City of Boston in both the Police and Fire Departments.

Coun. DOWD—Mr. President, I have in mind the fact that the ordinances of both the Fire and Police Departments, with very few exceptions, have not provided for the granting of increases of salary since April, 1920, almost six years. I think it is about time, if the efficiency of those departments is to be maintained, that sufficient salaries should be paid to those men. I trust that the body will suspend the rules and pass the order, in order that his Honor the Mayor may take the matter under consideration in the coming budget. The rule was suspended and the order was passed.

FIXING UP RANDOLPH STREET PLAYGROUND.

Coun. DOWD offered an order—That the sum of $75,000 be and hereby is appropriated to be expended under the direction of the Park Commissioners to provide for the erection of a concrete stand with a seating capacity of 3,000 persons; the erection of a new local building; the resurfacing and grading of playground; the erection of concrete and iron fences wherever necessary at the Randolph Street Playground, and that to meet said appropriation the City Treasurer be authorized to issue, from time to time, bonds or certificates of indebtedness to said amount.

Referred to the Committee on Finance when appointed.

REMOVAL OF INSTITUTIONS AT LONG ISLAND TO MAINLAND.

Coun. McGRATH offered the following:
Ordered, That his Honor the Mayor be requested to take such steps as may be necessary to arrange for the immediate removal of the city's charges from the institutions at Long Island to the mainland.

Passed under suspension of the rule.

PAYMENT TO JAMES E. HALLIGAN.

Coun. WARD offered an order—That until otherwise ordered there be allowed and paid to James E. Halligan the sum of $200 per annum in compensation for extra services rendered at meetings of the City Council and committees; said sum to be charged to the appropriation for City Council, A-1.

Passed under suspension of the rule.

SUM FOR SOLDIERS' RELIEF DEPARTMENT.

Coun. GILBODY offered an order—That there be allowed and paid to the Soldiers' Relief Commissioner, and charged to the appropriation for Soldiers' Relief Department, the sum of $500, said sum to be expended subject to the approval of the Committee on Soldiers' Relief by said commissioner in affording immediate relief to persons entitled to aid under chapter 115 of the General Laws, and acts in amendment thereof and addition thereto.

Coun. GILBODY—Mr. President, I would simply say that this is an order that the body passes every few months in order to provide temporary money for the department, and I therefore move a suspension of the rule.

The order was passed under suspension of the rule.

TAX TITLES ON COREY STREET.

Coun. GILBODY offered the following:
Whereas, The City of Boston did at divers times enumerated below acquire tax titles to the property numbered 58 Corey street, in that part of Boston called Charlestown, because of nonpayment of taxes; and

Mc Morrow, City Collector of the City of Boston, did remise, release and quitclaim to Royal S. Wentworth all the interest acquired by said City of Boston in the deeds below enumerated; and

Whereas, Section 52, chapter 60, of the General Laws of Massachusetts, reads: "Cities and towns may make regulations for the possession, management and sale of such land and for the assignment of tax titles, not inconsistent with law or with the right of redemption;" it is hereby Voted, That the City Council of the City of Boston, ratify the act of said E. F. McAdams, Acting Treasurer of the City of Boston, in executing the herein described deeds and does hereby confirm said deeds, convey, release, remise and quitclaim unto said Royal S. Referred to the Executive Committee when appointed on motion of Coun. GILBODY.

MOTION TO ELECT SECOND ASSISTANT CITY MESSENGER.

Coun. HEFFERNAN—Mr. President, I move that we now proceed to the election of a second assistant city messenger.

Coun. ARNOLD—Mr. President, I am in accord with what the gentleman from Ward 22 proposes to do, but I believe the Council does not wish to be rushed into this matter at this session. I move, therefore, that it be laid on the table until the next meeting of the Council.

The motion was declared lost. Coun. ARNOLD doubted the vote and asked for a rising vote. Twelve members stood in favor of laying the matter on the table, and the motion was declared carried.

RECESS.

President KEENE, at 2.27 p. m., declared a recess subject to the call of the Chair. The members reassembled in the Council Chamber and were called to order by President KEENE at 3.21 p. m.

RULES OF THE COUNCIL.

Coun. ARNOLD, for the Committee on Rules, submitted a report recommending the adoption of rules for the proceedings of the Council.

The question came on accepting the report of the committee.

Coun. ARNOLD—Mr. President, if the members will take their copies of the rules, I can indicate what we have done. There is no change in Rules 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15 and 16. In Rule 17, the fifth line in the copy before you, we have stricken out the words "presented to, or" and have inserted in place thereof the word "unless."

(The sentence reads as follows: "Every ordinance, order and resolution shall, unless rejected, have two several readings, both of which may take place at the same session, unless objection is made, provided, however, that all orders for the expenditure of money, unless reported upon by a committee of the Council, shall lie over for one week before final action thereon.")

In Rule 18, on page 4, the third line of the rule, after the words "he may give notice," insert the words "in writing."

(The sentence will read: "When a vote has been passed any member may move a reconsideration thereof at the same meeting, or he may give notice in writing to the Clerk, within twenty-four hours of the adjournment of any meeting except the final meeting, of his intention to move a reconsideration at the next regular meeting; in which case the clerk shall retain possession of the papers until the next regular meeting.")

On page 5, in Rule 24, the second paragraph, we have stricken out "all the" and inserted in place thereof the word "seven."

(The sentence will read: "A Committee on Appropriations, to consist of seven members of the Council, to whom shall be referred such appropriation orders as may be submitted to the Council from time to time.")

Then we have stricken out the third paragraph. (This paragraph reads as follows: "3. A Committee on Branch Libraries, to consist of five members of the Council.")

In the sixth paragraph, we have stricken out in the first line the words "all the" and inserted in place thereof the word "seven."

(The sentence reads: "A Committee on Finance, to consist of seven members of the Council," etc.)

We have stricken out paragraph 7.

(This paragraph reads: "A Committee on Fire Hazard, to consist of five members of the Council.")

In the tenth paragraph, relating to the Committee on Ordinances, we have stricken out in the first line the words "all the" and inserted in place thereof the word "seven."

(The sentence will read: "A Committee on Ordinances, to consist of seven members of the Council," etc.)

Between paragraphs 13 and 14, 13 relating to Committee on Public Lands and 14 referring to Committee on Soldiers' Relief, we have inserted another paragraph:

"A Committee on Rules, to consist of five members of the Council, to consider all matters concerning the rules."

The next change comes on page 7, in Rule 28. Here, in the third line, before the words "City Council" we have inserted the words "Executive Committee of the."

(The sentence will read: "No permission for the use of land for the purpose of burial shall be granted until a public hearing shall have been given by the Executive Committee of the City Council, after due notice has been served upon abutters, on the application for such permission.")

In Rule 30, fifth line, after the words "by special messenger," we have added the words, "provided, that meetings of the Executive Committee may be held during the recess period at any meeting of the Council without such consent or notice."

(The sentence will read: "No meeting of any committee shall, without the consent of all the members thereof, be called upon less notice than twenty-four hours from the time the Clerk shall have mailed the notices or dispatched them by special messenger; provided, that meetings of the Executive Committee may be held during the recess period at any meeting of the Council without such consent or notice.")

The rest of the rules remain the same. This is the unanimous report of your committee, Mr. President, and I recommend its adoption.

Coun. FITZGERALD—Mr. President, I understand that under Rule 24, relating to standing committees, the Committee on Branch Libraries has been omitted. I would like to find out why that has been stricken out.

Coun. ARNOLD—I am informed by competent authority that such committee has not met for several years and, not wishing to cumber the Council with a list of committees that did not function or that were not called upon to function, the Committee on Rules decided that it would be well to eliminate that committee.

Coun. FITZGERALD—I happen to have been a member of the Visiting Committee on Public Libraries, and I think there are conditions existing in connection with our libraries that would be very surprising to members of this Council. In Brighton a scandalous condition exists, and there are conditions in Mattapan, in South Boston and in other places, that certainly should be remedied. Such conditions may well in part have been brought about because of the fact that former members of the Council evidently did not see fit to give proper attention to this extremely important branch of the city's service. I hope that this committee will not be eliminated. I think there will be plenty for the committee to do on branch libraries and on public libraries all over the City of Boston. I certainly hope that will not be stricken out.

President KEENE—Coun. Fitzgerald moves to amend the report of the Committee on Rules by inserting, "A Committee on Branch Libraries, to consist of five members of the Council."

Coun. Fitzgerald's amendment was adopted.

Coun. HEFFERNAN—Mr. President, I would like to ask, through you, why Rule 28 has been changed?

President KEENE—May I ask Coun. Arnold, chairman of the committee that considered the matter, to supply the information desired by Coun. Heffernan?

Coun. ARNOLD—Mr. President, I believe that the Council meetings should be for the work of members of the Council, and not for hearings. This concerns hearings, and I believe that our hearings should be before a committee in a room designated for that purpose and not before the Council as a whole, when it is in its regular session.

President KEENE—Does the explanation satisfy Coun. Heffernan?

Coun. HEFFERNAN—Mr. Chairman, I would like to ask the chairman if to change your rule accomplishes anything? I understand that the Executive Committee consists of all the members and that we are really working back to what we have had before.

President KEENE—I understand that the rule merely permits a committee to hold a hearing without the Council's permission.

Coun. DOWLING—Mr. President, I would like to ask the chairman of the Committee on Rules, through you, the reason for striking out Rule 33?

(Rule 33 of the Rules of the Council of 1925 was as follows: "No petition, remonstrance, resolution or other communication submitted by any improvement association, civic society, club or other unincorporated organization, or its officers, shall be considered by the City Council or printed in its proceedings, unless such organization shall have filed with the City Clerk a statement, sworn to by one of its officers, specifying the number of members in good standing, the time and place of meeting, and a list of the officers for the current year.")

President KEENE—Doctor Arnold, will you give the explanation desired?

Coun. ARNOLD—Mr. President, your committee believed that this particular rule was not constitutional, and voted accordingly. The history of the rule, as I understand it, was that it was to accommodate one of the members of a former City Council who wished some information and protection. I don't believe any member of this body needs that protection and therefore your committee voted to eliminate Rule 33.

Coun. WARD—Mr. President, I believe we should get a ruling from the Corporation Counsel as to whether that rule is constitutional?

Coun. DOWD—Probably our City Clerk will furnish us with that information, if agreeable to the Council.

President KEENE—I am informed by the Clerk that Rule 33 is considered unconstitutional because it prevented the free right of petition of anybody to this body. The body can do anything it sees fit with any petition after it is presented, but the rule restricts the right of presentation.

The Council voted to adopt the rules as reported by the Committee on Rules, with the amendments noted, as the rules of the body for the year.

The rules of the City Council, as thus adopted, are as follows:

Rule 1. Unless otherwise ordered from time to time the regular meeting of the city council shall be held on every Monday at two o'clock p. m. Special meetings may be called by the president at his discretion, and by the city clerk for the purpose only of drawing jurors.

President.

Rule 2. The president of the council shall take the chair at the hour to which the council shall have adjourned and shall call the members to order, and a quorum being present, shall proceed with the regular order of business. In the absence of the president the senior member by age present shall preside as temporary president or until a presiding officer is chosen.

Rule 3. The president shall preserve decorum and order, may speak to points of order in preference to other members, and shall decide all questions of order, subject to an appeal. Any member may appeal from the decision of the chair, and, when properly seconded, no other business, except a motion to adjourn or to lay on the table, shall be in order until the question on appeal has been decided. The question shall be put as follows:

"Shall the decision of the chair stand as the judgment of the council?" The vote shall be by a roll call, and it shall be decided in the affirmative unless a majority of the votes are to the contrary.

Rule 4. The president shall propound all motions in the order in which they are moved, unless the subsequent motion shall be previous in its nature, except that, in naming sums and fixing times, the largest sum and the longest time shall be put first.

Rule 5. The president shall, at the request of any member, make a division of a question when the sense will admit of it.

Rule 6. The president shall, without debate, decide all questions relating to priority of business to be acted upon.

Rule 7. The president shall declare all votes; but if any member doubts a vote, the president shall cause a rising vote to be taken, and, when any member so requests, shall cause the vote to be taken or verified by yeas and nays.

Rule 8. The president shall appoint all committees, fill all vacancies therein, and designate the rank of the members thereof.

Rule 11. A motion to strike out and insert shall be deemed indivisible; but a motion to strike out being lost shall not preclude amendment, or a motion to strike out and insert.

Rule 13. When an order or resolution relates to a subject which may properly be examined and reported upon by an existing committee of the city council, such order or resolution shall, upon presentation, be referred to such committee. 1. To a standing committee of the council.
2. To a special committee of the council.

Readings.

Rule 17. Every ordinance, order and resolution shall, unless rejected, have two several readings, both of which may take place at the same session, unless objection is made, provided, however, that all orders for the expenditure of moneys unless reported upon by a committee of the council, shall lie over for one week before final action thereon.

Whenever the second reading immediately follows the first reading the document may be read by its title only; provided, that all orders releasing rights or easements in or restrictions on land, all orders for the sale of land other than school lands, all appropriations for the purchase of land other than for school purposes, and all loans voted by the city council shall require a vote of two-thirds of all the members of the city council, and shall be passed only after two separate readings and by two separate votes, the second of said readings and votes to be had not less than fourteen days after the first.

Reconsideration.

Rule 18. When a vote had been passed any member may move a reconsideration thereof at the same meeting, or he may give notice in writing to the clerk, within twenty-four hours of the adjournment of any meeting except the final meeting, of his intention to move a reconsideration at the next regular meeting; in which case the clerk shall retain possession of the papers until the next regular meeting. No member shall speak for more than ten minutes on a motion to reconsider.

Rule 22. No member shall be permitted to vote on any question, or serve on any committee, where his private right is immediately concerned, distinct from the public interest.

Rule 23. Every member who shall be present when a question is put, where he is not excluded by interest, shall give his vote, unless the council for special reason shall excuse him. BATH HOUSE AND LAUNDRY, L STREET.

President KEENE called up, under unfinished business, No. 3 on the calendar, viz.:

3. Ordered, That the authorization to borrow $380,000 for bath house and laundry, L street, South Boston, which loan order was passed

December 28, 1925, and approved by the Mayor December 29, 1925, be and the same is hereby revoked.

Coun. KEENE—Mr. Chairman, in the matter of unfinished business, Item No. 3 on our calendar, the order authorizing the borrowing of $380,000 for bath house and laundry, L street, South Boston, which loan order was passed December 28, 1925, and approved by the Mayor December 29, 1925, the order as it appears on our calendar provides that said action by the last City Council "be and the same is hereby revoked." I desire to call the attention of the Council to the Mayor's position in the matter, and I want it understood that no criticism of the prior administration in connection with the original passage of the order is intended. The Council will, of course, realize that the city is called upon to raise for the 1926 budget $8,000,000 more than was required for the 1925 budget; $3,400,000 of this amount is occasioned by the fact that in 1925 there were only eleven months in the municipal year, from the budget standpoint. There seems to be a disposition on the part of a great number of patrons of what we know as the L street baths to oppose this proposition to construct an elaborate structure. The history of the bath house shows that it is the only one of its kind in America. It was established in 1866, if I am advised correctly. The present building was erected in 1901 at a cost of approximately $50,000, and at that time the architects considered very carefully the landscape effect, and when the design of the building was being studied out, it was then felt that at no time should a building of more than one story be placed upon that location. The Park Commission has stated that if the laundry was placed in the building the work will have to be done principally by women employees, and that will do away with the present manner of bathing. Studies for the new bath house include metal lockers, doing away entirely with the comfortable wooden lockers now in the place. A suggestion has been made that we restore the present building and add enough locker space to the men's house to allow for the increased patronage. Following is an estimate of what it would cost to put the house in good condition,—repairs to skylight in the roof, $1,000; 500 additional lockers for men, $2,500; restoring underpinning, stringers, and repairs to present flooring, $7,500; new handball court, $2,500; repairs to old handball court, $500; repairs to present fences, $1,500; repairs to present lockers, and locks, $500; repairs and additions to sun room, $500; new valuables room and new toilet room, with sanitary conditions, $1,500; painting, $2,000,—making a total of $20,000. The Park Department expends yearly from $1,000 to $2,000 on repairs to the present division fences segregating the bathers. It would cost $35,000 to put masonry walls in place of the present wooden fences. There is, however, one objection to a concrete divisional wall, and that is, that at the rate L street is growing and the patronage increasing it will be only a short time when it will be necessary to lengthen the beach the L street bathers use. In such event, the masonry walls would have to be removed and relocated, at a cost almost equal to the cost of the construction of the new wall. The figures I have given comprise practically a summary of the Park Department's estimate of the requirements. There is no disposition on the part of his Honor the Mayor to take away from the people of that part of the city any improvements they should have, but I think, with a $32 tax rate staring this city in the face, it behooves us to watch out and use great care, making necessary improvements in present structures rather than erecting elaborate new improvements. It is estimated by his Honor the Mayor that it will cost approximately $30,000 to place this building in proper condition, so that it may be enjoyed by those at present patronizing the place, with the usual increase that is to be expected. Several petitions have been received by the Mayor, and I understand that others are on their way, from that association known as the "Brownies," objecting to the proposed changes involved in the plans in connection with this proposed $380,000 appropriation. In considering whether or not it would be advisable to amend the order, as asked for, it has been thought wise by his Honor the Mayor to put into the present budget the items as read, in the report of the chairman of the Park Commission. In other words, it was thought that it could be taken care of better in that way, as he had intended to do what is there suggested in any event. I would move, therefore, Mr. President, that this order, No. 30 on the calendar, be passed.

The question came on the passage of the order.

Coun. LYNCH—Mr. President, I come from the district where the L Street Bath is located and am a constant visitor there, and feel that I know just what is needed. The bath house is a third class construction building, twenty-five years old, and does not furnish the accommodations necessary up there. We are told by his Honor the Mayor that there are three bath houses on the Strandway, and figures are given, yet it is not an uncommon sight, when you go into L Street Bath, any day in the summer, to find the walls, the platforms, the sand alongside the fences covered with clothing, men being unable to find lockers. Inside the building you will at times find three and four men using one locker. The building has had very little money spent on it during the past few years, and consequently a this time I think any appropriation for repairs means a useless, wasteful expenditure. We have got to meet this situation at some time or other. If we do not, the building will fall down. I advise the defeat of No. 3 on the calendar.

Coun. WARD—Mr. President, I have for the past three or four years made a study of conditions existing at L Street, and I have found that the bath house over there today is nothing more or less than a fire trap. Although I do not represent the people of South Boston, I know that the people of Roxbury have used the bath house as much as the people of any section of Boston. The people of South Boston were promised a gymnasium over there in 1921, and that was taken away from them with the understanding, when this question came up in August of 1923, that they would get a new bath house that would be a permanent bath house for use both in winter and summer. We cannot discuss so intelligently this measure in light of the conditions in January, but if we went there in July or August and saw conditions as they really exist when the bath house is being extensively used, I certainly feel that the members of the Council would unanimously defeat such an order as this that is before us at the present time, rescinding the order that has already been passed. As I understood the outline from the Park Commission, they wanted a gymnasium over there that might be of some benefit to the people taking examinations for the Fire and Police Departments, and I certainly, Mr. President, advise the defeat of this measure, on the ground that it is taking away from the public something that they are really in need of and should have.

Coun. DOWD—Mr. President, as I understand it, the original loan order passed by the outgoing Council over a year ago called for some $100,000 to erect a stadium for Columbus Park and the Strandway, South Boston. After due consultation with the engineers of the Park Department, it was deemed inadvisable to erect that. The Park Commissioners then recommended to the City Council and the Mayor that the money be expended for the improvement of Castle Island, including the building of a roadway to Castle Island from the mainland. This, again, was given up, because it involved joint action with the state as it would include state land; and it was found that it could not be put through, involving exchange of land, without a special act of the Legislature. But it did result in an appropriation of $20,000 for engineers' and architects' fees, and if this sort of thing is repeated much there will not be a great deal left to argue about. The Park Commissioners then sent a recommendation to the Mayor of Boston and the City Council that the sum of $380,000 be borrowed and appropriated to erect a modern bath house at L street. I have listened with a great deal of interest to the remarks of our President in regard to the Park Commission. I understand that they are a body supposed to function without pressure being brought to bear on them, and I would like to ask the Park Commissioners why on the 28th or 29th of December they hired architects to lay out construction under these plans and within three weeks have taken such a flop? I would like to ask the Park Commissioners if any pressure has been brought to bear on them to rescind the order and to ask for repairs instead of for the erection of a new building. There is another matter there that I would like to go into somewhat, and that is the matter of the laundry. I have made it my business during the course of the last week to visit that dungeon on Dover street, 35 feet below the street level, where women, American mothers who have seen better days and who are all American citizens, are unable to get a breath of fresh air or sunshine, because of the dungeon conditions under which they work now. I have a great deal of admiration and respect for the Mayor of Boston who has just gone out of office, who to my mind has done more in the last four years to bring Boston to the forefront than any preceding mayor or mayors have done in the last twenty years. I believe his action and judgment in this matter, and the action and judgment of the preceding Council, was very good. I believe this City Council should take into consideration the tax rate. Personally, I believe the present Mayor of Boston is not really in earnest when he informs us that we are going to have a $32 tax rate, because that means rather an abrupt rise, and I believe is out of the question. I am sure, also, that this body is against any such huge increase in the tax rate of Boston. I believe in economy, but not in false economy, and I believe every cent that is spent in the promotion of the health, happiness and welfare of our citizens is well invested. I believe every dollar spent upon the Strandway in the last few years has come back to us, perhaps not financially, but in the added comfort and happiness of our citizens. I believe we should not rescind the action that was taken by the last city government, but that the original action should stand. I would like to have this body today show the citizens of South Boston that we are interested in their welfare and in the welfare of all the citizens of our city. If we do as we are asked to do on this occasion, who can tell whether the same thing may not be asked of us in connection with two or three other projects passed by the last administration, and which I believe were for the benefit of the city? I believe the revocation of the previous action of the city government in this matter would be unfair to South Boston and to the mass of people whom we represent. Unfortunately, we cannot all have private beaches and a private seashore reserved for us, but have to avail ourselves of that which the City of Boston offers us. I certainly think that this order should be defeated.

Coun. McGRATH—Mr. President, I don't think there is any member of this body with whom I would rather vote than the gentleman on my left (Coun. Dowd), who represents the ward adjoining mine, and when he speaks in opposition to the Mayor's proposed revocation of the order of last year I know he does it sincerely. As others have injected themselves into this debate, I feel privileged also to say a word. We cannot lose sight of the facts that should govern our action upon this matter. The Mayor of our city has sent in a request that we revoke the order passed last year, and we as a body of twenty-one members cannot override the veto of the Mayor. We can send this thing back to him, and he can send it back to us. As a believer that half a loaf is better than no bread, I am in favor of South Boston getting something. There is no bath house in the eastern part of this country that better fulfills the requirements not only for bathing but for hospital purposes than the sun room at L Street Bath, and, knowing so many of the brownies personally, I think I am in a position to say that what they do want are some repairs, however minor they may appear to be. They want a new handball court, want the roof repaired, want additional shower baths—and want, more than anything else, to be allowed to continue to bathe in the costume in which they now bathe, and such changes as have been proposed in this order already passed would leave out the one thing that to their minds is most important. So, if we are going to get anything over there, we can only get the things that the President of this body has enumerated, and they cover every desire of those who take advantage of the bath house over there, as I understand it. As this is the first request from his Honor the Mayor, I think this body, in order to show that it is a constructive body, should follow out his request.

Coun. BUSH—Mr. President, I have listened very carefully and with a good deal of attention to the various speakers on this particular subject. It happens that in the past I have been myself what is called an L Street brownie and have spent a good deal of time at L Street. Therefore, I am very familiar with conditions over there. The bath house is in a woefully dilapidated condition, and has been for years. No substantial repairs of any kind have been made there, to my knowledge, within the last five years. Most of the speakers so far have spoken of this project as an entirely local matter, and have considered it from the viewpoint of local residents. As a matter of fact, I personally know that that place serves the entire City of Boston as no other place can serve it. There are people who visit the place from every section of the city. It is not a merely local South Boston institution. It happens to be the good fortune of South Boston to have it within its limits but if the place were in any other part of the city it would be just as much frequented. It is the only place of the kind I know of in the entire United States, and its fame has traveled as far as Germany and England. It has been frequently spoken of in the highest terms in England and doctors have sent people over here to bathe at L Street because of the sun baths and the benefits they would derive from it. I am entirely in accord with the Mayor in his desire to have an economical program in the administration of the city's business, and it is my intention and desire to help him achieve that desire. But there are some things that I think the city needs above all else, and a matter of this kind, which is of benefit to the entire city, and not simply to one single locality, is one that I think merits the favorable consideration of the entire Council.

Coun. GREEN—Mr. President, I think it is only fair to the people of South Boston that we should let this matter lie on the table until after the election of a councilor for that district, which will take place March 6. I know that every member of the body wants to be fair and to vote intelligently, but I think, in fairness to the people of South Boston, this matter should be placed on the table until after the election.

Coun. LYNCH—Mr. President, I have inquired from Commissioner Long whether the plans for the new bath house would call for a change in dress, and his answer is that there will be no change of dress at either the old or the new L Street Bath. I also think that we should settle this matter today and not lay it over any longer. I don't think we will be hurting anybody's feelings by acting before the new councilor is elected, and I don't think we need his help to settle the matter.

Coun. WILSON—Mr. President, I wish to take but a few moments upon this subject. Although I come from the Dorchester district I have some interest in South Boston, having been born on I street, South Boston, in 1891. I also have some interest in the L Street Bath House owing to the fact that in the summer months I personally visit this bath house, staying there perhaps an hour to an hour and a half, about three times a week. I must differ from the councilor who referred to the fact that day after day, as a matter of necessity, clothing is laid on the beach and hung on the wall, over there. It is my belief that in the summer months the chief reason for hanging clothing on the wall and spreading it on the beach is not because of any lack of facilities in the bath house but because the people in charge of the bath house do not see fit to give the public the proper service that they might have with the lockers now there. I have been there frequently on warm days early in the summer and have been told that the outside lockers are not open on this side or the other side. It is my personal opinion that, except perhaps for a few Saturday afternoons, Sundays or holidays during the summer, the present facilities at L Street Bath House, if the help are on the job, are reasonably adequate. The reason why there is so much clothing on the beach and why there is so much congestion at the bath house is because the facilities now there are not taken advantage of. It seems to me that the history of this particular project fails to show at this time any widespread demand on the part of the people of the district, where I was born, in favor of a new bath house. The history of the project shows three changes, and until such time as a representative of that South Boston ward is elected and comes in here and tells us that there is a crying need for this sort of thing, and until people who go there day in and day out in the summer and other times of the year, tell us they want a new $400,000 building, I personally feel that the request of the Mayor is a fair one—adding to that that I trust sufficient people will be placed there so that those visiting L Street may be able to take advantage of the facilities now existing. I feel that the request of the Mayor should be acceded to. Like Coun. McGrath, I am in favor of the revocation of the order of last year and of the carrying out of the alternative proposition suggested here today.

Coun. ARNOLD moved the previous question. The main question was ordered, and the question came on the passage of the order.

Coun. LYNCH—Mr. President, for the information of the gentleman who has just spoken—

Chairman DOWLING—The previous question has been moved, and the main question has been ordered. Therefore, no debate is in order at this time. The question is on the passage of the order.

LEGALITY OF WARD 21 BUILDINGS.

Coun. DOWLING offered an order—That the Building Commissioner, through his Honor the Mayor, be requested to inform the City Council by what authority or right buildings have been erected on the land owned by the Brighton Avenue Realty Company at the corner of Brighton and Harvard avenues, Ward 21.

Coun. DOWLING—Mr. President, I don't want to take up the time of the Council in this matter, but I do wish to state that the order refers to one of the most prominent and probably most valuable locations in the Allston district, Ward 21. The piece of land referred to there is at the corner of Brighton and Harvard avenues, and contains about 19,000 square feet, valued at $133,000. At the present time, as for the past six or seven years, it has been occupied by a little group of squatters who originally began with bushel baskets and a table or two from which they sold fruit and vegetables. During the six or seven years they have been operating there they have acquired more courage and more nerve, and in the last two years have erected, I believe, in violation of the building laws, what are apparently pretty good buildings outwardly, although not what we would want to live in or do business in, perhaps. They are nevertheless, buildings; but they are built in violation of the building laws, without permits having been given, as I understand it. The buildings have been lighted by electricity, and I am not sure that any permit was granted for laying the wires there; they have been heated by an electric plant, which I suppose is not an expensive thing, and I am told that they have applied for a telephone and had their application accepted. I suppose they will now take additional steps, and will presently have rest rooms and sun parlors, and we will then have fine squatter apartments there. I believe the buildings have been erected in violation of law and should be removed. At the present time they offer somewhat of a menace to the public health, and there is no good reason, in my judgment, why they should be allowed to remain there. I ask that the rules be suspended and that the order be passed at this time.

The order was passed under suspension of the rule.

PROPOSED INCREASE TO SKILLED MECHANICS.

Coun. DOWD offered an order. That the Mayor of Boston be requested, in making up this year's budget, to take into consideration the matter of granting an increase to all skilled mechanics working for the City of Boston.

MASSACHUSETTS BAY COLONY.

The first chartered colony in New England, charter granted by Charles I on March 4, 1629. About a year before, a patent had been granted to six prominent men of Dorchester, west of England, among whom was Capt. John Endicott. He sailed in June, 1628, with a party of 50 or 60 persons, arriving in September and settling at Naumkeag, afterward named Salem. In the spring of 1629, the Bay Company fitted out three ships conveying about 400 persons and arriving at Salem in June. Endicott sent a small party to effect a settlement on the Bay in Mishawum, afterward named by the settlers Charlestown, the first town in New England to assume the town polity, Plymouth and Salem being governed by a Governor and Council. Endicott was appointed in London as the first resident Governor on April 20, 1629. The Massachusetts Bay Company was reorganized in London on Oct. 20, 1629, when John Winthrop was chosen as Governor. He arrived at Salem on June 12, 1630, soon proceeded to Charlestown with a large following and finding that place unsuitable, finally settled in Boston. Winthrop served 13 years as Governor in four different periods ending in 1649 and Endicott 15 years at various times ending in 1665. Other governors were

Thomas Dudley, Richard Bellingham, John Haynes, Henry Vane, John Leverett and Simon Bradstreet, the latter serving 12 years until 1692 when the Bay Colony and the Plymouth Colony were merged, becoming the Royal Province of Massachusetts Bay, which existed 82 years to 1774, the governors being appointed by the King.

MAYORS OF BOSTON.

In its 102 years of existence as a city Boston has had 38 elected Mayors and five ex-officio Acting Mayors. Of the 36 men who have held the office for one year or more, six were elected for other than consecutive terms and 25 were re-elected one or more times. Those born within the present limits of Boston numbered 21; in towns near Boston, 8; in neighboring New England States, 5; in Ireland, 2. The Mayor longest in office was Mayor Curley, who served four years ending 1918 and then four years ending 1926. Next in length of service were the first Mayor Quincy and Mayor Fitzgerald, who served six years each. Those who served four years were Mayors Prince, O'Brien, Matthews, (third) Quincy, Hart, Lincoln and Peters. Mayor Collins was in office nearly 4 years, his death occurring 3½ months before his second term expired. Those serving 3 years were Mayors Otis, Eliot, Chapman, (second) Quincy, Bigelow, Shurtleff and Cobb; 2 years, Mayors Wells, Lyman, Brimmer, Seaver, Smith, Rice, Wightman, Gaston, Pierce (22 months) and Hibbard; 1 year, Mayors Phillips, Armstrong, Davis, Norcross, Green, Palmer, Martin and Curtis. The five Acting Mayors were Chairmen (Board of Aldermen), Parker, Leavitt, Allen, Cutter and Whelton.

Mayor Otis was Speaker of Massachusetts House of Representatives, President of Senate, Representative in Congress, also Senator before becoming Mayor. Mayor Armstrong was Lieutenant-Governor and at times Acting Governor before serving as Mayor. Mayors Rice and Gaston served 3 years and 1 year (respectively) as Governor, after their terms as Mayor. Mayor Collins, Curley, Fitzgerald, Peters, Pierce and Rice have represented Boston in the lower house of Congress, Mayor Peters having also served as Assistant Secretary of the Treasury.

Ex-Mayor Curley was elected for the second time in December, 1921, to serve for a term of four years.

Ex-Mayor Curtis was appointed Police Commissioner in 1919 for term of five years but his service was terminated by his death in 1922. Ex-Mayor Quincy died in 1919, and Ex-Mayor Green in 1918. (See annual City Doc., Municipal Register, for full list of Mayors from 1822 to 1924, with place and date of birth, years of service and date of death.)

BOSTON CITY RECORD

OFFICIAL CHRONICLE OF MUNICIPAL AFFAIRS.

VOL. 18.

No. 5

BOSTON DOING YEOMAN WORK IN KEEPING CHILDREN SAFELY FROM DISEASE EPIDEMICS.

BABY CLINICS AT HEALTH UNITS AND INSTRUCTION TO MOTHERS IN HOMES AS WELL AS OTHER PROGRESSIVE WORK SHOWING GOOD RESULTS.

CLINIC AT BLOSSOM STREET HEALTH UNIT WHERE CITY WORKERS TEACH MOTHERS BABY HYGIENE.

With baby conferences and baby clinics in the health units of the city constantly and largely attended, the Boston health officials are doing yeoman work in the prevention of infant mortality and in checking those child diseases that are so prevalent during the winter months.

Scarlet fever, measles, diphtheria and whooping cough are the diseases that are being most successfully combated. Dr. Francis X. Mahoney and his staff of officials believe in teaching mothers and families how to prevent these diseases rather than in curing them after they have been allowed to find lodgment in the systems. They are working with the school officials in these efforts.

Studies have been made during the past year in the immunizing of infants and children under the school age from these diseases and with the campaign of education that has been going on the parents of the children are more and more patronizing the health units and depending on them for aid and instruction. This is resulting in better health conditions for all the city.

To this fact is due the statement from Dr. Francis X. Mahoney that there is at present less scarlet fever in the city than has been usual despite the winter conditions. This is also true of whooping cough and measles. The Schick test has also been a great deterrent in diphtheria.

Coincident with these facts it may be mentioned that morbidity and mortality reports for the Health Department for the year show that the total deaths for the year in Boston was 11,590 as against 10,933 for the year previous. This was an excess of 657 over 1924. In that same period the number of deaths among infants was 1,583 or 111 more than the year previous. Of the total deaths 17 per cent were among nonresidents.

The number of births recorded was 18,450, which was 1,326 less than the year 1924, giving a birth rate of 23.56, the lowest ever recorded in the history of the records. This birth rate has affected the death rate among infants, since the death rate is based on the number of births reported. Owing to the attention being paid to mothers the deaths reported have been less.

The deaths from diphtheria have been decidedly less for the year 1925 than for the previous year, the figures showing 99 for 1925 as against 168 for the year before.

MAYOR NICHOLS WILL NOT OPPOSE BUS LINES IN DOWNTOWN DISTRICT.

HOPES THUS TO GIVE SOME RELIEF TO TRAFFIC CONGESTION—INFORMATION IS GIVEN AT HEARING.

Mayor Malcolm E. Nichols will not oppose the operation of a bus line by the Boston Elevated Railway through the congested sections downtown, according to Joseph P. Lyons, assistant corporation counsel, who spoke for the Mayor at a hearing on Thursday, January 28, before the Commission on Public Utilities, when the matter came up for the second time.

The line is planned by the Elevated trustees as an experiment, according to Edward Dana, general manager, to see if automobile owners can be induced to leave their cars in garages on Massachusetts avenue and take the bus line down to their offices. It would run from the corner of Massachusetts avenue and Newbury street, down Massachusetts avenue to Boylston street and over Boylston, Tremont and Bromfield streets to Washington street and back again over Boylston street to Hereford street, to Newbury street and Massachusetts avenue.

Mr. Lyons said that the Mayor's decision not to oppose the experiment was the result of an investigation made

MAYOR NICHOLS NOT KEENLY ENTHUSIASTIC OVER REVERE ANNEXATION PER SE.

BELIEVES ANNEXATION DESIRE SHOULD BE WITH A GREATER BOSTON IDEA, WITH BENEFITS FOR ALL, RATHER THAN THE PURELY INDIVIDUALISTIC PURPOSE, AS SHOWN.

Mayor Nichols is not keenly enthusiastic over the legislation for the annexation of Revere to Boston and is planning to transmit his views in writing to the Legislative Committee to the effect that he does not believe that the plan can be associated, at present, with the Greater Boston idea. Revere, as the Mayor sees it, is anxious to become a part of the larger city to recoup herself whereas the idea of a Greater Boston is one of common benefit. Hence the Mayor believes that the proposition may well be postponed.

The proposal of the Revere Taxpayers' Association for the annexation of Revere to Boston brought out the largest attended hearing of the present session of the Legislature. The petition, heard before the Legislative Committee on Metropolitan Affairs at the State House, provides for the annexation upon acceptance of the plan by the voters of the two cities at the next state election.

After a number of speakers had been heard the hearing was continued until the first proximo in order that Mayor Nichols of Boston might have opportunity to express his views.

Hon. Albert Hurwitz appeared for the association, which he said has between 600 and 700 members, and presented a petition containing about 4,000 names, the petition being unrolled and reaching the entire length of the hearing room, one of the largest in the State House.

The annexation of Revere to Boston would be the opening plan for the creation of a Greater Boston, he said, and the annexation of other cities and towns would follow. The organization of the Taxpayers' Association followed the increasing of the tax rate from $34 to $48.80, the largest tax rate in the state.

He said the report of the state director of accounts, made after an investigation of the books of the city, showed the city to be practically bankrupt and its credit impaired. Meetings have been held and the sentiment of the people is in favor of annexation.

The Taxpayers' Association is not fostered by any political organization, Mr. Hurwitz said, and then proceeded to give the history of the annexation of the various towns to Boston up to the annexation of Hyde Park in 1912. Boston would not be a second rate city today without the early annexations, and the districts added to Boston are the growing suburbs for the benefit of the entire city, he said.

Boston has a population of 748,000, he said, while the population of the metropolitan district in 1920 was 1,652,870.

It took many years to join the five boroughs of New York into New York City, and Paris and London would not be what they are without annexing several communities, Mr. Hurwitz said.

The people of the city of Revere did not wake up to favor annexation until the $48 tax rate, he said, and by annexation to Boston would be relieved of paying the entire expense of Suffolk County and Revere as a ward of Boston would pay its share.

The debt of Revere on January 1 was $2,286,917, he said, which doubled from 1921, and the debt of Boston is $79,341,863, divided among the twenty-two wards.

Revere has eight to ten parks to give the City of Boston, with several playgrounds, one central and three branch libraries, and seventeen school buildings, and the City of Boston will not have to give Revere anything in the line of buildings.

If annexed, Revere would get the benefit of proper valuation and when Hyde Park was annexed it had a tax rate of $11, while the Boston rate was $16.40 and the Boston rate dropped $1.60 the first year.

Revere has a population of about 33,000, he said, and as a part of Boston would receive additional industries because of a lower tax rate. There have been charges of mismanagement and corruption in the city, which he refused to comment upon.

Boston would gain 3,133 acres if Revere was annexed, he told the committee, and he read from the report of Mayor Peters in 1919 when the chief executive of the city favored a Greater Boston.

He read the list of salaries of the city clerk, mayor, auditor, treasurer, city solicitor, city clerk and city employees whose services would not be required by annexation and whose salaries could be saved.

Mr. Hurwitz said all the bill asks for is for the Legislature to give the people of Boston and Revere the opportunity of saying whether or not they want to be part of the same municipality and if the bill is passed the voters will have ample opportunity to discuss the question between the adjournment of the Legislature and the time the question is submitted on the ballot at the next state election.

There is no emergency for a commission form of government in Revere, he said, and Chelsea had a commission government after the fire and was on the front pages of the newspapers and is on the front pages again today.

Representative Michael F. Shaw of Revere asked the committee to give the voters of the two cities the opportunity of expressing their opinion on the question. Revere has a situation unequaled in the state, as the transportation system is abominable and retards building.

If annexed, Revere will become a ward of 100,000 in ten years, Representative Shaw said, as it is now the second healthiest city in the state. Revere should have a tunnel, he said, as the bridges are deplorable.

John E. Sheehan, president of the Taxpayers' Association, said that on Saturdays and Sundays during the summer season Revere has a population which makes it the second largest city in the state, yet there is not a hospital or dispensary in the city.

Mr. Sheehan said 95 per cent of the residents of Revere make their living in Boston and a majority of the residents are former Bostonians and want to get back to the mother town.

EXTENSION OF CONTRACTS.

FIRE DEPARTMENT.

Frank J. Gallagher & Co. have been granted an extension of the time of completion of the contract for repairs to Engine House 52 to February 20, 1926. The reasons this contract was not completed on the prescribed day are the Building Department requirement for new gasoline separator, new fireproof concrete floor and considerable extra work was developed as the old foundations were exposed to view, requiring necessary caisson work.

PARK DEPARTMENT.

J. C. Coleman & Sons Company have been granted an extension of time until March 1, 1926, for the completion of the contract for development of new section for single graves at Mt. Hope Cemetery, West Roxbury, Mass.

PUBLIC WORKS DEPARTMENT.

The Boston Bridge Works have been granted an extension of the time of completion of the contract for rebuilding Massachusetts Avenue Bridge, over the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad, dated July 13, 1925, from December 31, 1925, to May 15, 1926.

This extension is requested for the reason that the large amount of work done by public service corporations on the approaches so interfered with their operations that they were unable to complete the work on the approaches.

HEALTH OF CHILDREN.

The result of the health service survey or appraisal of health services in the City of Boston, as carried on by the United States Public Health Association, co-operating with the United States Public Health Service, showed that Boston has scored for health services a total of 907 points out of a possible 1,000 points, and unofficially it was learned that this total has not been exceeded by any other city in the country.

These figures are marked improvements over results showed by almost similar surveys in 1920. The Secretary of the American Public Health Association, speaking at a meeting in Texas last year, said in connection with these surveys that "we now have a means of determining the truth about a city's health protection, a method of appraisal which gives us a single figure that is an index of a city's healthfulness. It makes it possible to grade cities and list them in the order of their merit. The city that heads the list in health protection will have a distinction unexcelled."

The estimated population for the city this year is 783,166, and the amount of money expended by the Health Department for the past year was about $725,000, which amounts to about .92 per capita.

It is expected that during 1926, results will be published of the intensive study that is now being made into the duration of the contagiousness and treatment of whooping cough by a board of local investigators.

It is fortunate that during the past year there has been no unusual outbreak or epidemic of communicable diseases in this city. The remarkable improvement in the diphtheria situation has been noted in preceding paragraphs. Diphtheria immunization has been continued in the entering classes of all parochial schools in the city.

Under the direction of the Sanitary Division many old buildings have been razed this past year, the Building Department co-operating. An extensive stable survey has been made with the results that thousands of stable licenses have been revoked because the buildings are no longer used for the stabling of animals and do not require inspection on this account.

Material progress has been made by the Child Hygiene Division during the past year. One step, if not the most constructive, was the employment of a director of nurses, who has been able to reorganize the nursing division and to develop an efficient program of service, both in connection with the child health clinics as well as in the communicable disease field.

In September, 1924, the city took over officially from the Community Health Association eleven child health stations. During the past year the work has been developed in the stations originally taken over and to date have been added all other clinics conducted by the Community Health Association, so that at the conclusion of the year the city is assuming full responsibility for the complete pre-school age child hygiene work.

A unique and progressive development in the field of child hygiene has been the perfection of a plan whereby the Harvard Medical School, Tufts Medical School and the Boston University School of Medicine furnish through their pediatric departments the medical personnel which functions at the twenty-nine weekly child health clinics conducted by the city. This assures the very highest type of medical service, and the schools in turn avail themselves of the opportunity to use these clinics as teaching centers for their students.

The Child Hygiene Division has also perfected an arrangement with the day nurseries of the city whereby the nurses of the Health Department periodically visit the day nurseries and inspect the children.

Posture clinics have been organized during the year and are now doing this work both for pre-school age children and youngsters referred from the public schools.

In addition to the periodic child health clinics, dental service, posture, nutrition, refraction and habit clinics are carried on at the health units.

WILLIAM S. KINNEY TAKES PLACE OF DR. DAVID J. JOHNSON.

The Mayor, on January 22, announced the resignation of Dr. David J. Johnson as Commissioner of the Institutions Department, and named in place thereof William S. Kinney, of the Copley Square Hotel.

Mr. Kinney was born in Boston in 1882, and educated at Boston English High School, graduating therefrom in 1900 and Boston University Law School Class of 1903. He served in the Boston

City Council in 1909, as a member of the Massachusetts House of Representatives in 1912 and 1913, was a delegate to Massachusetts Constitutional Convention, and Assistant District Attorney for Suffolk County during the years 1918 to 1922.

ADDITIONS TO CONTRACTS.

BOSTON SANATORIUM.

John B. Dolan has been ordered to add to the contract for the erection and completion of the Out-Patient Building, Boston Sanatorium, the sum of $149.50 for the following: Labor and material for preparation to erect corner stone for the City of Boston, Out-Patient Building, East Concord street and Harrison avenue, Boston, $149.50.

The above addition makes the contract stand as follows: Amount of contract at signing, $156,400; addition No. 1, $57.50; addition No. 2, $172.50; addition No. 3 as above, $149.50; amount of contract to date, $156,779.50.

DOWN-TOWN BUS LINES.

by Police Commissioner Herbert A. Wilson. Mr. Wilson, in his statement to the Mayor, said the bus line would add but little more traffic to the streets, and he thought the experiment should be allowed.

Mr. Lyons said he had also talked with the Street Commissioners and that they feel it would be well to try the experiment to see if congestion of automobiles would be relieved. They thought it might, he said.

H. Ware Barnum, general counsel for the company, said the average automobile entering the city carries close to two passengers. He said: "You can take the passengers of fifteen cars in one bus. If we can get them to park their cars outside, it will greatly relieve the congestion of automobiles downtown, because one bus will do the work of fifteen private automobiles."

Chairman Henry C. Attwill remarked: "People don't seem to be willing to transfer from one conveyance to another on their way to Boston."

Mr. Dana thought they could be "educated" to drop their cars outside and get into the Elevated buses.

Mr. Attwill asked if the buses would "run local" and pick up and drop passengers anywhere. Mr. Dana answered that they would stop only where designated by the Police Commissioner. The buses now in operation in the city, he said, stop where marked by the police.

Mr. Barnum said that the trustees are hopeful of solving the problem of relieving the streets from the congestion of the automobiles of persons who commute by the Elevated. He said: "We began with a parking space close to the Everett Terminal and we are also working on one near the Cambridge end of the Harvard square subway." He thought that eventually the automobile owners could be educated to leave their cars outside the congested part of the city and come uptown by Elevated or bus line.

J. Dallas Corbiere, proprietor of the Y D Garage and the Motor Mart Garage, said that automobile owners who can afford it go to the expense of hiring cars to take them to their offices, after leaving their own cars outside the congested section.

PROPOSED INCREASE IN PENSIONS.

Coun. WRAGG offered the following:

Resolved, that the City Council of Boston hereby favors the enactment of legislation providing for the increase of pensions for certain retired attendance officers of the City of Boston.

Referred to the Executive Committee.

SIDEWALK, KITTREDGE STREET.

Coun. WRAGG offered an order—That the Commissioner of Public Works make a sidewalk along Kittredge street, from Rosecliff street to Washington street, Ward 18, in front of the estates bordering thereon; said sidewalk to be from 3 to 10 inches above the gutter adjoining, to be from 5 to 12 feet in width, and to be built of artificial stone, with granite edgestones, under the provisions of chapter 196 of the Special Acts of 1917.

Passed under suspension of the rule.

PAY OF MECHANICS.

Coun. DOWD offered an order—That the Mayor of Boston be requested, in making up this year's budget, to take into consideration the matter of granting an increase to all skilled mechanics working for the City of Boston.

Referred to the Executive Committee.

COLLECTION OF ASHES AND GARBAGE.

Coun. GILBODY offered an order—That his Honor the Mayor be requested to appoint a commission to study the necessity of semi-weekly collection of ashes and garbage in the City of Boston during the respective busy seasons.

Coun. GILBODY—Mr. President, I move a suspension of the rule that the order may be put upon its passage. This is a hardy annual of mine, because I think it is a necessity of the suburban districts of our city. I am going to ask a suspension of the rule that the order may be put upon its passage at this time.

The order was passed under suspension of the rule.

OPPOSITION TO PARKING FEE.

Coun. WARD offered an order—That the Boston City Council go on record as opposed to the proposed parking fee to be collected from automobile owners for the privilege of parking their cars in regularly provided parking spaces in the City of Boston.

Coun. WARD—Mr. President, I move a suspension of the rule that the order may be placed upon its passage. In support of the order I desire to say that this absurd proposition of the Mayor's new board of strategy has made of Boston a laughing stock, not only here in our own city but throughout other cities and towns of the Commonwealth. I think this City Council should go on record as opposed to this product of the new administration's vivid imagination, in trying to obtain a fee for parking privileges in a free parking space. I move a suspension of the rule and passage of the order.

Coun. RUBY—Mr. President, I don't think that the order ought to pass at this time. I personally attended the hearing last Friday in the Street Commissioners' office, feeling that the matter was of sufficient importance for me to know just what the situation was. I think at that time even the opponents of the proposed measure were not ready to state definitely whether they were opposed to it or in favor of it. In consequence, a postponement was asked for and granted, I think until February 17. I therefore move, under the circumstances, that this order be laid on the table.

Coun. DOWD—Mr. President, I very much like to disagree with the councilor on my right, but, in view of the fact that within the last four or five days every organization, civic and social, and automobile owners generally within the confines of my district, have asked me to present their sentiments against the proposed tax, it was my desire to present an order similar to the one offered by Mr. Ward. In view of the fact, however, that he has presented such an order, I believe it should be passed under suspension of the rule. While I realize only too well that the Council has no direct jurisdiction over the Board of Street Commissioners, at the same time I am firmly of the opinion, realizing that each individual here holds an elective position and that the Board of Street Commissioners hold an appointive position, that not only the Board of Street Commissioners but every department head should be advised by the City Council of Boston that our judgment should not be entirely disregarded or thrown into the waste basket. I believe that some millions of dollars have been spent in the last six years to relieve the congestion in the City of Boston and to revive commerce and industry in the city, and I believe it is the intention of the State Legislature, if they have their way, to spend a few millions of the money of the taxpayers of the city to revive industry and commerce. Still, we see the Advisory Board of his Honor the Mayor suggesting as an economy proposition this plan to bring into the city treasury of Boston $500,000 each year, practically abandoning the millions of dollars that have been spent during the past years and which will be spent during the next four years, in order that this tax plan may be adopted. I think the Advisory Committee should take into their confidence the merchants of the City of Boston because, after all, they are the backbone of the city and they have been taking the brunt of the congestion and traffic conditions in Boston without a murmur. They have been willing to co-operate with us in every possible way, and I believe this proposed plan is a direct insult to and imposition upon those merchants, who not only cater to Boston but cater to practically all New England. If Boston is in such dire financial condition, I believe the Mayor of Boston can have access to $500,000 a year very easily, if he so desires. I might take it upon myself to suggest to this committee that if they are looking for ways and means to save the City of Boston some money they might—if they will pardon the suggestion—suspend for four years the two so-called commissions now functioning under state control, saving the city $380,000, a plan which I believe would be gratefully received by the entire electorate of Boston. I believe these commissions should be abandoned, if we are so badly in need of money, and I suggest that idea and the abandonment of the idea of this parking fee. I trust that Coun. Ward's motion to suspend the rule will prevail.

Coun. RUBY'S motion to lay the order on the table was carried.

BATHHOUSE, ALLSTON DISTRICT.

Coun. HEFFERNAN offered an order—That the Park Commission be requested, through his Honor the Mayor, to furnish the City Council with an estimate of the cost of constructing of an up-to-date bath house fronting on the Charles river on the Metropolitan Reservation in the Brighton-Allston district.

Passed under suspension of the rule.

RECESS.

The Council at 2.25 p. m., on motion of Coun. GREEN, took a recess subject to the call of the Chair.

The members reassembled in the chamber and were called to order by President KEENE at 3.15 p. m.

Coun. DOWD for the Executive Committee, submitted the following:

1. Report on resolution (referred today) favoring enactment of legislation providing for increase of pensions for certain retired attendance officers of the City of Boston—that the same ought to pass.

Coun WRAGG, for the Special Committee on Jitney Licenses, submitted a report on the petition of Franklin L. Hart (referred January 18) for license to operate six motor vehicles in the City of Boston—that a license be granted.

On motion of Coun. DOWD the matter was assigned to the next meeting.

RECONSIDERATION REFUSED.

On motion of Coun. HEFFERNAN, the Council refused a reconsideration of all action taken today.

Adjourned, on motion of Coun. DOWLING, at 3.18 p. m., to meet on Monday, February 1, at 2 p. m.

R. notes in circulation; sixth as to capital paid in. The gold reserves of the 12 Federal Reserve banks on July 2, 1924 amounted to $3,120,655,000 or 96.9 per cent of all reserves.

On June 30, 1923 the number of national banks in U. S. had increased to 8,241 with aggregate capital of $1,328,891,000; deposits, $16,897,980,000; total resources, $21,511,766,000.

The highest record for clearings in United States was in 1920, or $463,020,250,000 (total for 201 cities). In year ending Sept. 30, 1923, the total was $411,251,633,000 (for 218 cities). In 1920 the U. S. Sub-treasury system, established in 1846, was discontinued, the Federal Reserve banks taking over its currency functions.

POPULATION OF UNITED STATES, NEW ENGLAND AND MASSACHUSETTS.

Continental United States (i. e., 48 States in 1920, 15,708,771; outlying possessions, 12,148,738; total, 117,857,509; New England, 7,400,009; Massachusetts, 3,852,356 or 52 per cent of New England, and ranking sixth in the Union. In density of population it ranks second, i. e., 476 per square mile of land, Rhode Island ranking first, with 566 per square mile of land. Population of the other New England States in 1920, ranking from the highest total; Connecticut, 1,380,631; Maine, 768,014; Rhode Island, 604,397; New Hampshire, 443,083; Vermont, 352,428. Density for New England, 119 per sq. m., for U. S. (48 states) 36 per sq. m.

In Jan., 1924, the population of the United States slightly exceeded 113,300,000 (i. e., 7 per cent of the earth's estimated total) the rate of increase being 3 per cent every two years as shown by the actual increase from 1910 to 1920, while that of Massachusetts was 4,240,000 (approx.).

AREA TO WARD LINES.

Total, 30,598 acres (i. e., 47.81 square miles), 2,944 acres being filled land, 1,143 acres water area and 1,436 acres flats. Land area only, 28,019 acres (i. e., 43.78 square miles). Included in the latter are 160 acres of filled flats recently added to the land area of South Boston and 175 acres to that of East Boston.

Original Boston contained about 780 acres of land. Of the twelve leading American cities, eight are larger in land area than Boston, viz., Los Angeles (364 sq. miles), New York (318), Chicago (199.4), Philadelphia (129), Baltimore (91.9), Detroit (80), Cleveland (56.6) and St. Louis (61.25). The only city in Massachusetts with larger land area is Taunton (50 sq. mi.).

If Boston should expand by annexations as New York, Chicago, Philadelphia, Los Angeles and others have expanded, its total area, in case of including the 39 cities and towns within the 15-mile radius, would exceed the largest, viz., Los Angeles, the present land area of "Greater Boston" being 409.5 square miles.

BOSTON'S FERRY SERVICE.

In this transportation service, operated by the City during the past 65 years, are seven steam ferryboats plying between Boston Proper and East Boston. The two latest built boats are each 174 ft. in length and of the propeller type, with gross tonnage of 727, accommodating 30 vehicles and seating about 200 passengers. Since 1900 the maximum yearly revenue from tolls was $176,276 in 1903. The opening of the East Boston Tunnel reduced the revenue to $107,074 in 1905. In 1923 the total was $90,663, or less than one-fifth the cost of maintenance. Cost of new boats, repairs and improvements, 1920-23 amounted to $1,177,124. Total passengers carried by North and South Ferries in 1923, 3,240,455 or a daily average of 8,878; total vehicles, 1,156,217 or daily average of 3,167.

BOSTON AS A TOWN.

From its foundation until 1755, or a period of 125 years, Boston was not only the most outstanding but the most populous town in the American colonies. In 1760, Philadelphia's population was ahead, viz. 18,756, Boston's then being 15,631 and New York's about 14,000. In the last year of town government, viz., 1821, Boston's population was about 45,000 and its public debt $100,000, all incurred for new county buildings.

The history of Boston as a town during a period of nearly two centuries surpasses in civic interest that of Boston as a city because of the untiring zeal and successful efforts of its townsmen to realize more of true democracy than had ever been attained before. Their obligations were held as sacred as their liberties.

After making proper deductions for decreased immigration and additions for increasing excess of births (as compared with the 5-year period 1910-1915) the estimate for July 1, 1924, is 853,029, showing an average annual net increase of 1.20 per cent.

By districts, the estimates as of July 1, 1924 are: Boston Proper, 197,914; East Boston, 78,278; South Boston, 65,224; Roxbury, 143,830; Dorchester 181,337; West Roxbury, 77,112; Brighton, 52,588; Charlestown, 35,849; Hyde Park, 20,897.

COLLECTION OF ASHES AND GARBAGE.

Coun. GILBODY offered an order—That his Honor the Mayor be requested to appoint a commission to study the necessity of semi-weekly collection of ashes and garbage in the City of Boston during the respective busy seasons.

Coun. GILBODY—Mr. President, I move a suspension of the rule that the order may be put upon its passage. This is a hardy annual of mine, because I think it is a necessity of the suburban districts of our city. I am going to ask a suspension of the rule that the order may be put upon its passage at this time.

The order was passed under suspension of the rule.

OPPOSITION TO PARKING FEE.

Coun. WARD offered an order—That the Boston City Council go on record as opposed to the proposed parking fee to be collected from automobile owners for the privilege of parking their cars in regularly provided parking spaces in the City of Boston.

Coun. WARD—Mr. President, I move a suspension of the rule that the order may be placed upon its passage. In support of the order I desire to say that this absurd proposition of the Mayor's new board of strategy has made of Boston a laughing stock, not only here in our own city but throughout other cities and towns of the Commonwealth. I think this City Council should go on record as opposed to this product of the new administration's vivid imagination, in trying to obtain a fee for parking privileges in a free parking space. I move a suspension of the rule and passage of the order.

Coun. RUBY—Mr. President, I don't think that the order ought to pass at this time. I personally attended the hearing last Friday in the Street Commissioners' office, feeling that the matter was of sufficient importance for me to know just what the situation was. I think at that time even the opponents of the proposed measure were not ready to state definitely whether they were opposed to it or in favor of it. In consequence, a postponement was asked for and granted, I think until February 17. I therefore move, under the circumstances, that this order be laid on the table.

Coun. DOWD—Mr. President, I very much like to disagree with the councilor on my right, but, in view of the fact that within the last four or five days every organization, civic and social, and automobile owners generally within the confines of my district, have asked me to present their sentiments against the proposed tax, it was my desire to present an order similar to the one offered by Mr. Ward. In view of the fact, however, that he has presented such an order, I believe it should be passed under suspension of the rule. While I realize only too well that the Council has no direct jurisdiction over the Board of Street Commissioners, at the same time I am firmly of the opinion, realizing that each individual here holds an elective position and that the Board of Street Commissioners hold an appointive position, that not only the Board of Street Commissioners but every department head should be advised by the City Council of Boston that our judgment should not be entirely disregarded or thrown into the waste basket. I believe that some millions of dollars have been spent in the last six years to relieve the congestion in the City of Boston and to revive commerce and industry in the city, and I believe it is the intention of the State Legislature, if they have their way, to spend a few millions of the money of the taxpayers of the city to revive industry and commerce. Still, we see the Advisory Board of his Honor the Mayor suggesting as an economy proposition this plan to bring into the city treasury of Boston $500,000 each year, practically abandoning the millions of dollars that have been spent during the past years and which will be spent during the next four years, in order that this tax plan may be adopted. I think the Advisory Committee should take into their confidence the merchants of the City of Boston because, after all, they are the backbone of the city and they have been taking the brunt of the congestion and traffic conditions in Boston without a murmur. They have been willing to co-operate with us in every possible way, and I believe this proposed plan is a direct insult to and imposition upon those merchants, who not only cater to Boston but cater to practically all New England. If Boston is in such dire financial condition, I believe the Mayor of Boston can have access to $500,000 a year very easily, if he so desires. I might take it upon myself to suggest to this committee that if they are looking for ways and means to save the City of Boston some money they might—if they will pardon the suggestion—suspend for four years the two so-called commissions now functioning under state control, saving the city $380,000, a plan which I believe would be gratefully received by the entire electorate of Boston. I believe these commissions should be abandoned, if we are so badly in need of money, and I suggest that idea and the abandonment of the idea of this parking fee. I trust that Coun. Ward's motion to suspend the rule will prevail.

Coun. RUBY's motion to lay the order on the table was carried.

BATHHOUSE, ALLSTON DISTRICT.

Coun. HEFFERNAN offered an order—That the Park Commission be requested, through his Honor the Mayor, to furnish the City Council with an estimate of the cost of constructing of an up-to-date bath house fronting on the Charles river on the Metropolitan Reservation in the Brighton-Allston district.

Passed under suspension of the rule.

RECESS.

The Council at 2.25 p. m., on motion of Coun. GREEN, took a recess subject to the call of the Chair.

The members reassembled in the chamber and were called to order by President KEENE at 3.15 p. m.

EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE REPORTS.

Coun. DOWD for the Executive Committee, submitted the following:

1. Report on resolution (referred today) favoring enactment of legislation providing for increase of pensions for certain retired attendance officers of the City of Boston—that the same ought to pass.

Coun. WRAGG, for the Special Committee on jitney licenses, submitted a report on the petition of Franklin L. Hart (referred January 18) for license to operate six motor vehicles in the City of Boston—that a license be granted.

On motion of Coun. DOWD the matter was assigned to the next meeting.

RECONSIDERATION REFUSED.

On motion of Coun. HEFFERNAN, the Council refused a reconsideration of all action taken today.

Adjourned, on motion of Coun. DOWLING, at 3.18 p. m., to meet on Monday, February 1, at 2 p. m.

POPULATION OF UNITED STATES, NEW ENGLAND AND MASSACHUSETTS.

Continental United States (i. e., 48 States in 1920, 15,708,771; outlying possessions, 12,148,738; total, 117,857,509; New England, 7,400,009; Massachusetts, 3,852,356 or 52 per cent of New England, and ranking sixth in the Union. In density of population it ranks second, i. e., 476 per square mile of land, Rhode Island ranking first, with 566 per square mile of land. Population of the other New England States in 1920, ranking from the highest total; Connecticut, 1,380,631; Maine, 768,014; Rhode Island, 604,397; New Hampshire, 443,083; Vermont, 352,428. Density for New England, 119 per sq. m., for U. S. (48 states) 36 per sq. m.

In Jan., 1924, the population of the United States slightly exceeded 113,300,000 (i. e., 7 per cent of the earth's estimated total) the rate of increase being 3 per cent every two years as shown by the actual increase from 1910 to 1920, while that of Massachusetts was 4,240,000 (approx.).

AREA TO WARD LINES.

Total, 30,598 acres (i. e., 47.81 square miles), 2,944 acres being filled land, 1,143 acres water area and 1,436 acres flats. Land area only, 28,019 acres (i. e., 43.78 square miles). Included in the latter are 160 acres of filled flats recently added to the land area of South Boston and 175 acres to that of East Boston.

Original Boston contained about 780 acres of land. Of the twelve leading American cities, eight are larger in land area than Boston, viz., Los Angeles (364 sq. miles), New York (318), Chicago (199.4), Philadelphia (129), Baltimore (91.9), Detroit (80), Cleveland (56.6) and St. Louis (61.25). The only city in Massachusetts with larger land area is Taunton (50 sq. mi.).

If Boston should expand by annexations as New York, Chicago, Philadelphia, Los Angeles and others have expanded, its total area, in case of including the 39 cities and towns within the 15-mile radius, would exceed the largest, viz., Los Angeles, the present land area of "Greater Boston" being 409.5 square miles.

BOSTON'S FERRY SERVICE.

In this transportation service, operated by the City during the past 65 years, are seven steam ferryboats plying between Boston Proper and East Boston. The two latest built boats are each 174 ft. in length and of the propeller type, with gross tonnage of 727, accommodating 30 vehicles and seating about 200 passengers. Since 1900 the maximum yearly revenue from tolls was $176,276 in 1903. The opening of the East Boston Tunnel reduced the revenue to $107,074 in 1905. In 1923 the total was $90,663, or less than one-fifth the cost of maintenance. Cost of new boats, repairs and improvements, 1920-23 amounted to $1,177,124. Total passengers carried by North and South Ferries in 1923, 3,240,455 or a daily average of 8,878; total vehicles, 1,156,217 or daily average of 3,167.

BOSTON AS A TOWN.

From its foundation until 1755, or a period of 125 years, Boston was not only the most outstanding but the most populous town in the American colonies. In 1760, Philadelphia's population was ahead, viz. 18,756, Boston's then being 15,631 and New York's about 14,000. In the last year of town government, viz., 1821, Boston's population was about 45,000 and its public debt $100,000, all incurred for new county buildings.

The history of Boston as a town during a period of nearly two centuries surpasses in civic interest that of Boston as a city because of the untiring zeal and successful efforts of its townsmen to realize more of true democracy than had ever been attained before. Their obligations were held as sacred as their liberties.

After making proper deductions for decreased immigration and additions for increasing excess of births (as compared with the 5-year period 1910-1915) the estimate for July 1, 1924, is 853,029, showing an average annual net increase of 1.20 per cent.

By districts, the estimates as of July 1, 1924 are: Boston Proper, 197,914; East Boston, 78,278; South Boston, 65,224; Roxbury, 143,830; Dorchester 181,337; West Roxbury, 77,112; Brighton, 52,588; Charlestown, 35,849; Hyde Park, 20,897.

MAYOR NICHOLS PLANS FOR GREATER USE OF CITY'S PLAY SPOTS BY YOUTH OF BOSTON DURING OPEN-AIR SEASON.

WITH AIM OF ENCOURAGING AND WINNING BOSTON'S BOYS AND GIRLS MORE INTO OPEN AIR, HE DIRECTS PARK DEPARTMENT TO PREPARE PLAYGROUNDS AS SOON AS WEATHER PERMITS AND TO KEEP THEM IN BEST CONDITION.

UPPER PICTURE—BASEBALL SCENE AT CHRISTOPHER J. LEE PLAY-GROUND WHICH MAYOR NICHOLS PLANS TO HAVE USED MORE THIS SUMMER. INSERT SCENE AT CHARLESBANK FIELD.

Mayor Malcolm E. Nichols is planning that under his administration the sixty-seven playgrounds and other open-air play spots of the City of Boston shall be used every moment of the day during the outdoor season for athletics and the upbuilding of the youth into wholesome and robust men and women of the future.

Under his direction the Park Department has already begun to plan to rebuild, grade and to put into condition as soon as the weather opens, all the playgrounds so that children of the city, boys and girls, may get out into the open and fill their lungs with fresh air and their bodies with good blood.

Every baseball diamond of which the city has charge will be conditioned so that not only the older boys will be using them but the smaller ones, and there will be more small diamonds arranged for this year on the various playgrounds. All the playgrounds are within twenty minutes distance of each other and within a quarter mile of settled districts, so that they will be handy.

While the playgrounds and play spots have been largely used in other years the Mayor believes that outdoor play should be encouraged more and the available play spots more generally used than they are, since the city can boast of so much space given to recreation. Three hundred sixty and one half acres of the city have been devoted to playgrounds and the use of the younger generation, together with more than 2,226.45 acres of park systems. With so much space devoted to open-air activities Mayor Nichols feels that the thing mainly needed is encouragement to use these advantages more. It was with this in view that he gave directions so early that as soon as possible the Park Department prepare for the athletic urge of youth this and the other years of his administration.

The Mayor still retains his fondness for outdoor athletics and particularly his love for baseball, at which sport he won an enviable reputation. The crash of a bat against the ball and the shouts of the children sends a thrill through him that greatly lightens the cares of manhood and a chief executive.

MAYOR NICHOLS GETS THREE MEASURES BEFORE THE HOUSE FOR CONSIDERATION.

WOULD HOLD PRIMARIES DAY AFTER LABOR DAY—MORE TIME FOR FILING NOMINATION PAPERS.

The House has admitted, under the suspension of rules, three petitions of Mayor Malcolm E. Nichols, of Boston. The most important of these bills proposes to change the date of the state primary elections from the eighth Tuesday previous to election to the seventh Tuesday preceding, which would make the date of the primary fall on the Tuesday immediately after Labor Day.

Another bill admitted under suspension of rules would authorize the Election Commissioners to call special elections, authority for which is now vested in the City Council. The third bill of Mayor Nichols would grant the Election Commissioners an additional month for the distribution of nomination papers for elective officers in the City of Boston, and an additional week for the certification of papers.

MAYOR NICHOLS MOVES TO PROSECUTE TELEPHONE RATE CASES WITH VIGOR.

CORPORATION COUNSEL FRANK S. DELAND SUPERSEDES HON. E. MARK SULLIVAN AND WILL PROCEED WITH WORK—LATTER'S EXPERIENCE MAY BE MADE AVAILABLE.

Mayor Nichols conferred on Friday, January 29, with Corporation Counsel Frank S. Deland and former Corporation Counsel E. Mark Sullivan, upon the prosecution of the telephone rate case.

Mr. Deland, when asked by Mayor Nichols for his opinion upon the agreement entered into between the City of Boston and Mr. Sullivan for the prosecution of the case, declared that the agreement as a contract was void. Mr. Sullivan stated that he was content to believe that the contract was valid but that he was willing to withdraw from the case if it was the desire of the Mayor. The Mayor stated that it was his intention to have the telephone rate case vigorously prosecuted, and instructed Mr. Deland to proceed with the same.

The Mayor also stated that if it was agreeable to Corporation Counsel Deland it would be agreeable for the City of Boston to consider with Mr. Sullivan terms for enlistment of his services in the prosecution of the case, and it is understood by the Mayor that Mr. Deland and Mr. Sullivan will further confer and report to him.

"O Boston, fair City enthroned like a radiant queen,
From thy hills looking down on the ship-teeming plain of the ocean,
May thy future be bright, thy skies beam with light all serene,

NATHAN HASKELL DOLE.]

BOSTON POLICE DEPARTMENT DOING TWO-THIRDS OF WORK OF METROPOLITAN DISTRICT, CLAIMS MAYOR NICHOLS.

ASSERTS, IN TALK BEFORE CITY CLUB MEMBERS, THAT 66 PER CENT OF ARRESTS IN CITY ARE OF PEOPLE LIVING WITHIN "GREATER BOSTON" DISTRICTS — GETS PLEDGE OF CO-OPERATION IN PLANS FOR DEVELOPING MUNICIPALITY.

Mayor Nichols was a guest of members of the Boston City Club at a luncheon in his honor upon the 1st instant, and suggested, as a fruitful means of furthering the Greater Boston idea, that the Mayor of Boston serve as chairman ex officio of the Boston Elevated trustees and of the several metropolitan commissions.

Such a relationship, Mayor Nichols explained, would present no opportunity for a Boston mayor to exercise undue influence on the affairs of the district, but would provide a unification of thought and an understanding of interests that would prove of great helpfulness in administrative and sentimental matters.

Boston should receive more consideration from the Massachusetts Legislature than she has been getting, declared Mayor Nichols, and spoke at length upon the Greater Boston idea and touched upon the topic of a metropolitan police force, saying it would not seem unfair if Boston went to the State House to ask the Legislature for the best financial consideration the state could give.

Mayor Nichols said figures showed that the Boston Police Department was doing two thirds of the police work of the metropolitan district; that 66 per cent of all the arrests made in this city were of people living within the metropolitan district.

Mayor Nichols declared he values the opportunity of personal touch and appreciates the view of the average citizen on matters pertaining to the administration of the city's business. He said it was unfortunate that the official business of a great city poured into the Mayor's office, with the result that the Mayor was almost a prisoner there. Under such condition, he said, a mayor of any large city was likely to get out of touch with the thought of the people in general because his affairs were mostly the hearing of official reports and the discussing of problems with the various experts.

One of the great problems before this city, said the Mayor, was the consolidation and organization of public opinion of the community with the idea of solidifying its great forces and giving her the advantages of such an amalgamation. Plans and suggestion will fall far short of consummation, said Mr. Nichols, if they have not the force of public opinion behind them.

The great problem on the horizon, in his opinion, is a Greater Boston. He said that every year there are bills before the Legislature for annexation of some city or town. Boston, he continued, is moving toward the consummation of Greater Boston; he expected to see Greater Boston within a few years. Mr. Nichols said he favored annexation of Revere but he did not favor the present bill because he thought that the time for it was not ripe. He touched upon the possibility of annexation of Revere, Chelsea and Winthrop and said it would do away with the idea that those cities, as parts of Suffolk County, do not pay their share of the bills of the county.

Mayor Nichols said that Greater Boston idea has been too frequently misunderstood by those who think the City of Boston is anxious to obscure the identity of her sister towns and cities by annexation. Mr. Nichols said he stood for annexation whenever it is deemed to be mutually beneficial. He pointed out that whenever residents of the various cities or towns around Boston are away they invariably claim Boston as their residence. If we could only make them feel they are Bostonians at home as well as when away we should have taken a long step toward the conception of a greater city.

Mayor Nichols spoke of the bill he introduced in the Legislature to provide for the purpose of a federal census, the metropolitan district shall be called Boston. This, he said, would elevate Boston from the eleventh to the fourth city among American cities in the official census records. The figures of each community, he went on, would be reported as they are now, and none of the local rights enjoyed would be affected.

Mr. Nichols said there was much to be said in favor of a metropolitan police force, but perhaps it would require further study.

He wanted to see the people of Boston unite in their efforts against the freight differentials which puts Boston at a disadvantage with every city on the Atlantic seaboard.

Mayor Nichols was introduced by former Mayor Andrew J. Peters, who presided. Mr. Peters assured Mr. Nichols he would find the members of the City Club ever responsive to serve, work and help toward a better development for Boston.

"We are going to develop Boston into a stronger, better and happier place to live in."

On behalf of the City Club, Mr. Peters extended Mayor Nichols "our best confidence and our best trust to make the coming four years ones of constructive progress."

MAYOR NICHOLS MAKES VIGOROUS PLEA FOR BOSTON'S INTEREST IN URGING DORCHESTER BAY CHANNEL.

HEADS DELEGATION OF LEADING CITIZENS AT HEARING AT U. S. CUSTOM HOUSE, HELD BY WAR DEPARTMENT, POINTING TO FACT THAT IMPROVEMENT WILL MEAN MILLIONS OF DOLLARS FOR CITY, IN COMMERCIAL WAY.

Mayor Malcolm E. Nichols presented very cogent arguments in favor of the thirty-foot channel proposals for Dorchester Bay, when he represented the citizens of Boston at the hearing on Thursday morning, February 4. The hearing was held at the Custom House by Major F. K. Newcomer of the United States Engineering Corps, for the Secretary of War. The hearing was in connection with the survey for the channel that has been authorized by the War Department. The proposal is for a channel in Dorchester Bay, from President Roads to Neponset river. The construction of the channel will mean millions of dollars in business for the city.

Mayor Nichols offered the investigators written reports of the Public Works Department of the city, which had already made a preliminary investigation of the harbor bed. He asserted that such a channel would result in many immediate advantages to the City of Boston itself.

Because the pumping station at the end of the Cow Pasture is now operated on fuel, it is necessary to ship the fuel oil into the city and transport it in trucks to the pumping station. The channel would eliminate this duplication. He said that while attending the hearings and talking with Boston business men he found a strong sentiment in favor of the construction of such a channel.

The Mayor declared that many of the lumber companies now located along the South Cove were compelled to bring their stocks in through drawbridges, and with the construction of the channel many of them would remove to the areas opened up along Dorchester Bay because of the great saving in transportation and hauling that would result. These advantages, he admitted, were advantages in a narrow, selfish sense, but he believed that greater developments in this area would naturally follow.

He emphasized that this was one of the big disadvantages under which the port now labored, the freight differential being the other. Business in Boston would respond, he believed, in a remarkable way to any improvements made in the harbor. In the $21,000,000 invested by the state in the harbor, he pointed out, Boston has an investment amounting to about $10,000,000. He believed that the city's share in the East Boston development was considerably over $1,000,000.

Concerning objections as to the possible high cost of dredging such a channel, due to rock formation, Mayor Nichols said that a study of the matter has been made and that he has been advised by the consulting engineer that a line for the channel can be found close to shore where little rock may be encountered except near Squantum.

The Mayor urged serious consideration of the channel project, not only for the immediate benefits to be derived, but from the point of view of the future promise.

He spoke also of the desirability of the channel from the point of view of war purposes.

The channel would undoubtedly increase the market value of the Victory Plant at Squantum, which the Navy Department built at cost of about $12,000,000 and is anxious to sell; would probably eventually contribute to a possible reduction in the price of gas to Greater Boston consumers, and in many other ways would help build up the prosperity of the Port of Boston and the surrounding community.

Herbert Cheney, vice president of the Boston Consolidated Gas Company, supported the Mayor, saying his company is particularly interested in the Dorchester Bay channel project especially in view of the fact that the company's main production plant in Everett is now as large as it is desirable to have it in that location and that the next increase in production capacity should logically be made at Commercial Point, Dorchester.

A substantial increase in plant capacity will be necessary within the next few years, he said, and the company has been since 1885 acquiring property at Commercial Point with a view to the future use of this location as its largest storage plant.

Moreover, the Commercial Point location, he said, is the natural distribution center. The gas output must inevitably increase and the company must have increased capacity. The gas made in Everett, he said, has to cross the Mystic and Charles rivers before much of it is used, and plans of the company for future developments have for years contemplated the south side of the city as the logical place for expansion.

The Dorchester Bay channel, if constructed would tend to bring about a reduction in transportation costs, and consequently would have a tendency to bring about a reduction in the price of gas to the consumer.

Commander C. D. Thurber, public works officer of the First Naval District and in charge of the Victory Plant, acknowledged that when bids were received about a year ago for sale of the $12,000,000 plant, the highest regular bid was $263,000. The Navy Department, he said, is in favor of the channel project and is now about to attempt to lease the Victory Plant, either in whole or in part, to suit the lessees.

Other prominent Boston business men, including counsel for the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad, Commissioner William F. Williams, navy officers and engineers appeared, including Frank S. Davis of the Maritime Bureau of the Boston Chamber of Commerce, and Edward Hamlin, president of the Metropolitan Coal Company, representing the New England Terminal Trust. The latter announced that if the channel is constructed his interests would build in this area one of the greatest terminals on the Atlantic seaboard.

BOSTON'S CITY WORKERS BATTLE STORM TO KEEP STREETS PASSABLE FOR PUBLIC.

MAYOR NICHOLS HAS PUBLIC WORKS DEPARTMENT PUT ENTIRE STREET FORCE TO WORK EARLY, AND PARK DEPARTMENT JOINS IN EFFORT TO MASTER SITUATION—CITY HALL AND MUNICIPAL BUILDINGS OPENED TO STRANDED CITIZENS.

Mayor Malcolm E. Nichols issued orders to the Public Works Department to work until the main traffic arteries of the city are freed from snow, or they were forced to quit from exhaustion and over 4,600 men were at work all night in a battle with Boston's snowdrifts. The Mayor himself remained at City Hall until midnight planning how best to meet the difficult situation.

It is estimated in addition to the regular pay of permanent city employees engaged in snow removal the city will foot a bill of $20,000 for the storm, of which $13,000 will be for the additional labor and $7,000 for the use of the contractors' vehicles.

The Mayor also gave orders that the ten contractors holding city snow removal contracts begin work. These firms employ men at the rate of 60 cents an hour until the removal is completed.

At 6 o'clock Thursday morning the Public Works Department had put every available man to work plowing and removing snow in order that the storm raging up the coast might not inconvenience the public too much. The force numbered about 1,000. At the same time 380 men of the Park Department were beginning work. Late in the afternoon 600 additional city employees, those of the Sanitary Division, began work and toiled until midnight.

The combined force of 2,000 men, with sixty plows attached to five-ton trucks; 300 single and double wagons, three tractors and twenty horse-drawn plows and scoops presented a formidable force, but the snow was so heavy that only the main highways and the walks on the Common were kept reasonably clear.

Fifty-five of the plows attached to heavy trucks owned by the contractors were at work.

Thousands of Boston's storm stranded, who slept in railway stations, hotel lobbies and office buildings, did so only because they could not be appraised of Mayor Nichols' action late yesterday in throwing open all municipal buildings for use as sleeping quarters.

Mayor Nichols, upon leaving City Hall at midnight, said the plans provided for the comfort of 10,000 for the night.

It was the first time in the city's history, old employees said, that such action had been taken. Barely a handful, reports today showed, took advantage of the city's hospitality, and no one used the State House.

Realizing the seriousness of the situation, the Mayor, early in the afternoon issued his order and then with Acting Fire Commissioner Sullivan and his secretary, Edward F. Condon, supervised arrangements.

Arrangements were broadcast early in the evening from Stations WNAC and WEEI, but no method of reaching those stranded was found.

MAYOR NICHOLS SHORTENS WORK DAY FOR CITY EMPLOYEES BECAUSE OF STORM, ALLOWING WOMEN TO LEAVE AT TWO O'CLOCK.

In view of the delay in transportation, and the severity of the storm, Mayor Nichols on Thursday directed his department heads to permit all women employees to quit work at two o'clock February 4, and as many of the men as could be spared. This resulted in a skeleton force at work in all departments. Only once or twice before in the past fifteen years has such an order been promulgated.

PROVES CONFIDENCE IN HIS BELIEF WHEN HE APPEARS BEFORE LEGISLATIVE COMMITTEE IN BEHALF OF HIS CENSUS PROPOSAL. SAYS NEIGHBORS WHO ARE BOSTONIAN IN ASSUMPTION WHEN TRAVELING SHOULD BE SUCH IN REALITY.

Malcolm E. Nichols appeared before a Legislative Committee for the first time on January 29 when he asked action on his measure to create a "Greater Boston" for census purposes. He informed the Legislative Committee on Metropolitan Affairs that he wants to see a metropolitan Boston, that he expects to see one, and that his purpose in seeking legislation to define the city for census purposes as including the fourteen cities and thirty-six towns in the district was a move to such an end.

He explained that before he filed his petition for the proposed legislation, jointly with Senator Gaspar G. Bacon of Jamaica Plain, he consulted with the director of the federal census and learned that the federal authorities would follow the state statutes in taking the census.

Replying to questions, Mayor Nichols said he believed it would be practical to have the Mayor of Boston made the chairman of all metropolitan boards, naming specifically, the Metropolitan Planning Board, District Commission and the public trustees of the Boston Elevated Railway.

He declared there should be no objections to this bill. "It carries out in name that which everybody knows to be a fact. When a man from Somerville or any other nearby municipality goes to Chicago, he registers from Boston. When he comes back he resumes his Somerville designation. In other words, when some thousands of miles away he wants to be known as a Bostonian, and when he comes back, it seems to me, he ought to be a Bostonian."

"The petition is broader than the bill," said Mayor Nichols, "and would permit legislation much broader than this, but I deemed it expedient to present a simple measure which ought to invite the co-operation of all and the hostility of nobody."

Representative Lemuel Standish of Stoneham, a member of the committee, called Mayor Nichols' attention to the demand of people in Revere that Revere be annexed to Boston, and of the point made by some that this would be an entering wedge for the establishment of a Greater Boston. "Isn't your bill here another entering wedge?"

Mayor Nichols replied: "This is a very decisive step toward a metropolitan city. I want to see a metropolitan city and I expect to see one."

Representative Standish asked, "Would it be a metropolitan city in all matters?"

"I think the city should function as a metropolis," said the Mayor, "allowing every municipal portion to exercise its municipal functions if it desires to do so. I do not feel that Boston ought to obscure the identity of your city or town if it desires to remain a separate corporate entity."

In answer to a question from Representative Standish as to how the consolidation of the cities and towns into a metropolitan Boston might be brought about, Mayor Nichols said: "Before any consolidation of the municipalities could be established, there should be a referendum to all the cities and towns affected. Previous to this referendum, it might be well than an investigation be made to see if annexation would be mutually beneficial. For myself, if I were a citizen of one of these smaller communities, I would resent its being submerged into a larger one if I did not feel the benefit would be mutual."

As to the manner in which the various activities of the cities and towns would be administered, the Mayor thought they might be handled by a metropolitan council. The Mayor of Boston might become a member of various boards, he said.

In speaking directly on the bill to have the census of the population of the cities and towns "count" for Boston, Mayor Nichols said: "This would make Boston the fourth city in size in the country, it being surpassed only by New York, Chicago and Philadelphia. It would give this city an identity among the great cities of the United States and the world which it does not now possess."

Business in Boston would immediately be enhanced with a Metropolitan Boston, Mayor Nichols said, because there would be 2,000,000 people back of every effort. The interests of the city and the state are the same, he said, and the City of Boston pays one third of the state tax and the city wants the state to make it a potential factor.

Felix Rackemann, representing the town of Milton opposed the plan of a Greater Boston, but if the city could be assured of a continued administration such as Mayor Nichols will give "if he is free to do so," he would not oppose the plan.

On Thursday, February 4, it was announced that all bills pertaining in any way to a Metropolitan Boston, including the Revere annexation bill, the measure of Mayor Nichols of Boston that for federal census purposes Boston shall be defined as the fifty cities and towns in the Greater Boston area, and the bill of Representative Lewis H. Peters for the establishment of a single police department for the entire area, have been reported adversely by the Committee on Metropolitan Affairs.

He said the Mayor had no elaborate statement to make, contenting himself with merely recording his opposition.

CITY'S FINANCIAL CONDITION REPORTED GOOD DESPITE DEFICIT.

MAYOR NICHOLS RECEIVES STATEMENT FROM CITY AUDITOR CARVEN TELLING OF MONEY SITUATION — DEFICIT $1,339,726.76, BUT COLLECTIBLE TAXES AMOUNT TO $5,335,244.37.

City Auditor Rupert S. Carven has reported to Mayor Nichols that the City of Boston had a cash deficit on December 31 last, at the close of the financial year amounting to $1,339,726.76. This amount represents the excess of payments over receipts on account of maintenance charges for the conduct of the city. Because of it the city was obliged to borrow in anticipation of taxes at the beginning of the year $1,500,000.

Included in this deficit is an amount of $5,914.52, which represents the unexpended balances and excess revenue over estimates of the School Department, which under the law must be carried forward to the new year for the benefit of the School Department.

If the law did not provide for this treatment, then the above amount of $59,174.52 would be applied to reduce the deficit mentioned above. The effect of the law is to assume that 100 per cent collection in taxes prevails for all school appropriations, whereas through the inability to collect the full taxes levied in any year, the city absorbs the full deficit.

Notwithstanding this deficit of $1,339,726.76, the city is in excellent financial condition, for, of the taxes levied for collection on account of the expenses for 1925, the large sum of $5,335,244.37 remained uncollected at the end of the fiscal year.

After making a liberal allowance of $800,000 for abatements, there will remain over $4,500,000 of absolutely good taxes to be collected, and if we deduct the deficit mentioned, there will remain substantial assets of over $3,100,000, in taxes of 1925 alone.

This is all the more encouraging when it is understood that all the known liabilities incurred to December 31, 1925, inclusive, were paid, as the books of the city were kept open until January 22, 1926, for the purpose of charging these liabilities into the year ended December 31, 1925.

DESIRED CHANGES IN ELECTION LAWS.

Mayor Nichols has directed that four bills for changes in the election laws be filed in the Massachusetts Legislature.

Melancthon W. Buren, chairman of the Election Department, represented Mayor Nichols before the Committees on Rules upon the 28th instant. One measure would change the date for the state primaries from the eighth Tuesday prior to the state election to the seventh Tuesday. Mr. Buren told the committee that the eighth Tuesday this year comes one day after Labor Day and that it was questionable whether this is a good day to secure the attendance of voters at the polls.

Another petition would give the Election Commissioners of Boston the right to call elections as well as primaries and also would transfer from the City Council to the Election Commissioners this power.

Other petitions would give the Election Commissioners more time in which to prepare and distribute nomination papers for elective offices in the City of Boston.

MAYOR NICHOLS CALLS FOR SPIRIT OF CO-OPERATION IN STUDY OF PARKING TAX PROPOSAL.

ISSUES STATEMENT POINTING TO NEED OF BROADMINDED VIEW OF FACTS AND CONDITIONS PROMPTING SUGGESTION ON PART OF HIS COMMITTEE — WANTS CITIZENS TO REALIZE BOSTON IS GROWING — NEEDS FOR REVENUE PRESSING.

Mayor Malcolm E. Nichols has issued the following statement relative to the proposition of his Finance Committee on Ways and Means for an automobile parking tax.

"The Committee on City Ways and Means, consisting of a body of public-spirited men anxious to give all the assistance possible for the solution of revenue and traffic problems, recently presented to me a report containing suggestions of a fee for parking automobiles on the public streets, and I submitted that report for further study and hearing to the Street-Laying Out Department.

"I believe that the report has merit and should be given careful thought, thoroughly discussed and both sides presented at hearings soon to be held.

"I would not say that this proposal offers anything like finality either in point of its revenue or traffic features, and I would only ask that it be given the thought that the Committee on Ways and Means gave it, in a spirit of co-operation with the administration of the City of Boston.

"It is apparent to every thoughtful man that the needs of the city for more revenue are pressing, and that the traffic congestion presents one of the most difficult and complicated problems that we have to deal with.

"It is my earnest wish that all persons who find themselves affected by suggestions relating either to revenue or to traffic approach them in a broad-minded way with a recognition of the complexities involved.

"The fact is sometimes overlooked that the City of Boston is growing, and by reason of this growth the pressure is becoming so great in certain downtown sections of the city as to interfere very seriously with the most effective conduct of business. This pressure, indeed, is already, in my opinion, responsible for the expansion of the business districts of the city.

"I am confident that there is business enough for all, and that if a serious attempt were made to agree upon regulations which made more, rather than less, street room for pedestrians, more business could be transacted with less inconvenience downtown and that the legitimate needs farther away from the most congested sections would be adequately met.

BILL TO REMOVE DIFFERENTIALS.

United States Senator William M. Butler has renewed his effort in the Senate at Washington to prevent discrimination against the City of Boston in favor of Philadelphia and Baltimore in the matter of freight rates, export and import commerce.

The bill of Senator Butler declares it to be the policy of Congress to promote and develop port facilities and to co-ordinate rail and water transportation to insure the free flow of the Nation's foreign commerce through the several ports of the United States without discrimination, to the end that reasonable development of the said ports shall not be handicapped by unwarranted differences in rail and ocean transportation rates and charges, and to provide as many routes as practicable for the movement of the Nation's export and import commerce.

The second section of the bill provides that on and after June 1, 1926, it shall be the duty of the common carriers by railroad to establish and maintain for the transportation of export and import freight between points in the United States and ports on the Atlantic Ocean, the Pacific Ocean and the Gulf of Mexico, respectively, rates that shall be the same between ports on the same seaboard upon the respective classes or kinds of property; provided, that the Interstate Commerce Commission may define the territory tributary to any port or ports, including ports in adjacent foreign countries, from and to which the rates and charges applicable to such export and import traffic may be lower than the corresponding rates and charges to and from other port or ports on the same seaboard.

It is further provided that it shall be unlawful for any common carrier by railroad to maintain or apply to or from any port in the United States from and to points located in territory not found by the said commission to be tributary to such port, any rate or charge for the transportation of export or import freight which is higher than the corresponding rate contemporaneously maintained to or from any other port on the same seaboard, or to prefer any port by the maintenance of port differentials or other differences in rates.

Also it shall be unlawful for any common carrier by railroad to maintain, apply or participate in between any port in an adjacent foreign country and points in the United States not determined to be tributary to such foreign port, lower export or import rates than are contemporaneously maintained or participated in by it between any United States port on the same seaboard and the same point in the United States.

The bill further provided:

Any steamship line or vessel serving any port of the United States shall be permitted, in its discretion, to establish and maintain to and from such ocean port rates as low as those maintained by any other steamship line or vessel between any other port in the United States or adjacent foreign country and the same foreign port, and any contract or agreement to the contrary is hereby declared to be unlawful.

The bill provides that authority shall be vested in the Interstate Commerce Commission to enforce the provisions of the proposed act.

JANUARY LABOR REPORT.

Business during the first month of 1926 at the Massachusetts Public Employment Office, 23 Pearl street, Boston, showed a falling off from December, as was to be expected after the Christmas trade.

The records for the month show that 1,122 persons were called for by employers, which was a decrease of 188, or 14 per cent from December, but when compared with January, 1925, the figures indicate a decided improvement with an increase of 190, or 20 per cent. The number of positions filled during the month was 1,035, a decrease of 159, or 13 per cent from December but an increase of 233, or 29 per cent over January, 1925.

The attendance of applicants during January was 21,756, an increase of 1,678, or 8 per cent over December but a decrease of 2,370, or 10 per cent, when compared with January, last year.

During the month 1,314 service men (842 soldiers, 472 sailors) visited the office in search of work, of which 106 (77 soldiers, 29 sailors) visited the office for the first time and were registered. Of these, 227 (157 soldiers, 70 sailors) were given introduction cards to employers and 196 (132 soldiers, 64 sailors) secured positions.

In the men's skilled department the metal trades were the most active with calls for tool and die makers, all round machinists, millwrights, screw machine operators and general machine operators, machine moulders and brass moulders. The building trades slowed down considerably in their demands with only an occasional call for plumbers, sheet metal workers, electricians and steamfitters. There was practically no demand for carpenters and painters while hundreds of these craftsmen visited the office daily looking for work. Considerable activity in the steam trades was noticed with a good demand for engineers and firemen of all classes, which was easily taken care of. The printing trades were very quiet early in the month but showed more activity during the last week with calls for compositors, pressmen and feeders. The general trades were remarkably quiet with a few calls for packers, rubber workers and shippers. The shipyard demand for marine mechanics was very quiet throughout the month.

The men's unskilled department had long lines of applicants for employment daily with but little demand for the men's services. The demand for able-bodied laborers for heavy manual labor was very quiet while there was a little stronger demand for casual and day laborers. There was practically no call for farm help and the demand from the hotels and restaurants for culinary workers was poor. At the same time there was a scarcity of chefs and cooks.

The boys' department was quiet with a small demand and an over-abundant supply of applicants.

The women's departments were also very quiet with hundreds of applicants for all kinds of work visiting the office daily. There was a little spurt in the demand for candy workers which was easily filled. Housework girls continued scarce with a demand far exceeding the supply.

The number of persons called for by employers was 1,122 as compared with 932 in 1925; 1,013 in 1924; 1,445 in 1923; 928 in 1922 and 1,080 in 1921.

The number of positions reported filled was 1,035 as compared with 802 in 1925; 920 in 1924; 1,186 in 1923; 734 in 1922 and 812 in 1921.

SOUTH BOSTON CITIZENS GET TOGETHER FOR "HARMONY CIVIC SPIRIT AND PRIDE."

MAYOR'S COMMITTEE ON PUBLIC CELEBRATIONS MAKE REPORT AFTER CONFERENCE OVER EVACUATION DAY PLANS.

Mayor Malcolm E. Nichols has received the following report from his committee which conducted a meeting with representative citizens of South Boston relative to the South Boston Evacuation Day celebration.

Boston, February 4, 1926.

To His Honor the Mayor.

The call for the South Boston Evacuation Day celebration at the Mayor's meeting of representative citizens of South Boston embracing all groups of various activities, industrial, commercial, religious, fraternal, historical and social organizations, held in the Boston Public Library Tuesday evening, February 2, 1926, for the purpose of developing, encouraging and promoting a program of a worthy South Boston celebration of the sesquicentennial of Evacuation Day, was very largely attended.

It was a real get together, teaching all units the slogan of, "Harmony for Civic Spirit and Pride." Not a sour note was heard at the amalgamation of all forces and the Mayor's commissioners, Messrs. R. J. Bottomly, A. C. Ratschky and George H. Johnson on budget and plans, were economically and efficiently prepared. The general meeting adopted the following recommendations:

1. A motion, That his Honor the Mayor be requested to designate the South Boston Citizens' Association as an official committee representing all groups of the citizens of South Boston for the purpose of developing, encouraging and promoting a program of a worthy South Boston celebration of the 150th anniversary of the Evacuation of Boston by the British forces on March 17, 1776.

2. A motion, That his Honor the Mayor be requested to appoint a chief marshal for an Evacuation Day parade to be held in South Boston.

3. A motion, That his Honor the Mayor be requested to designate an orator of the day for the historical exercises to be held in South Boston on the evening of Sunday, March 14, 1926.

4. A motion, That his Honor the Mayor be requested to appoint an honorary committee on the South Boston celebration of the 150th anniversary of the Evacuation of Boston.

5. A motion, That his Honor the Mayor be requested to authorize an appropriation for the proper celebration of Evacuation Day in South Boston, through the Advisory Commission on Budget and Plans already appointed by his Honor in connection with the proposed South Boston celebration, namely, Robert J. Bottomly, A. C. Ratschky and George H. Johnson; the expenditure of said appropriation to be under the control of his Honor.

At the executive session of the Ways and Means Committee of the South Boston Citizens' Association it was agreed that efforts should be made to co-ordinate the federal, state and city appropriations in the one fund to be disbursed under the control of his Honor the Mayor.

From G-1, Probation Officers' Expense, $54, to A-2, Temporary Employees, $54.

From B-1, Probate Court, $150, to A-2, Temporary Employees, $150.

It was necessary to transfer from A-2 to cover B-4, Transportation of Prisoners, earlier in the year. This left A-2 with a deficit. Commitments of prisoners called for larger sum than was expected at beginning of year.

Telephone bills call for added credit of $15 as above estimated.

It is estimated that the above transfers will cover this court for the remainder of 1925.

Respectfully,

GEORGE B. STEBBINS,
Clerk.

The above transfers were made by the City Auditor with the approval of the Mayor December 31, 1925.

The marked increase in the death rate reached its climax in December with a total of 124 cases investigated, and the particularly large number of bodies requiring removal. Increase in the number of autopsies is due to the large number of deaths.

The marked increase in the number of cases investigated by this department this year has led to unexpected expense.

Respectfully,

Medical Examiner.

EXPERTS WILL INVESTIGATE.

The Finance Commission has retained the services of Dr. William C. Woodward, former Commissioner of the Health Department, to make a survey of administration in this department. One of the principal issues is whether the City of Boston should continue to establish health units under the George R. White Fund.

The services of R. Clipston Sturgis, former chairman of the Schoolhouse Department, and prominent architect, has been engaged to make a survey of administration in that department.

One of the major issues concerns the reorganization to permit an increased capacity for school construction in harmony with the program of the School Committee.

16. A director of special classes and an examiner for special classes.

Section 307, paragraph 1. Strike out the paragraph and substitute in place thereof the following:

Sect. 307. 1. The superintendent may grant, subject to the approval of the Board, leaves of absences to teachers and members of the supervising staff, except the supervising nurse, supervising school physicians, school physicians, school nurses, and examiner for special classes, for study and travel or for rest, for a period not exceeding one year; provided, that such leave shall take effect only at the beginning of a school year and shall be continuous for the full period for which leave is applied for. Any unexpired portion of a full year's leave shall not be credited to a further leave of absence to be taken before the completion of the prescribed period of subsequent service. Teachers and members of the supervising staff become eligible for a leave of absence for study and travel after the completion of seven years of service, and for leave of absence for rest after twenty years of service in the schools of the City of Boston, a part of which service may have been rendered in the Parental School; provided, that leave of absence for rest may begin with any school year in the course of which the required twenty years of service shall have been completed. Teachers and members of the supervising staff may be granted leave of absence for study and travel for not more than one year in any eight consecutive years, and for rest for not more than one year in any twenty-one consecutive years; provided, that before such leave may be granted they shall file with the superintendent an application upon a form prescribed by him, stating the definite purpose for which the leave of absence is desired.

The substitute order was laid over.

RESTORATION OF OLD IRONSIDES.

Mr. James T. Williams, Boston newspaper man, asked for and was granted the privilege of discussing the movement to restore Old Ironsides, his aim being to assist the organization which has taken over the work with the permission and encouragement of the Navy Department.

The plan is to raise the necessary funds through the school children of America. Mr. Williams was aware of the attitude of the School Committee which has been opposed to soliciting or permitting contributions from school children, but felt that this particular movement is such that no dangerous precedent is involved. Some half million dollars is required to restore and maintain the ship in Charlestown Navy Yard as a permanent shrine. One hundred and twenty-five thousand dollars has been contributed by school children of the United States. Some eighty cities of the Commonwealth have contributed their quota, and Mr. Williams asked that Boston school children now be privileged to participate.

Mr. Sullivan stated that in his judgment there can be no doubt as to the wisdom of inviting school children of Boston to participate in this patriotic program. It will be an inspiration to the children to feel that they have been instrumental in restoring Old Ironsides. Hoped that the project would have the unanimous approval of the School Committee at the next meeting.

Mr. O'Hare: When the officers of the Navy Department visited the School Committee last year seeking participation of school children in the movement to restore Old Ironsides, was in favor of the project and his attitude is unchanged. It was his privilege to be present at the re-dedication of Old Ironsides on its one-hundredth birthday and was much impressed. Feels that no dangerous precedent is involved. The object is such that the granting of the permission will not prove in any sense an open sesame for future demands upon the schools.

Mr. Sullivan: Absolutely and unqualifiedly opposed to any encroachment by federal government on education, but in this case the proposition comes, not as an order, but as an invitation—a suggestion, nothing more.

Dr. Bogan: Matter was discussed at the conference which preceded this meeting, and on request, action was deferred. At next week's conference it will be taken up and decision reached. Personally believes that Old Ironsides is as much a part of the history of Boston as Bunker Hill, Old South Church or Dorchester Heights. If Old Ironsides is to be restored for all time by school children of the country, then Boston should lead the way.

The matter was taken under advisement.

ERECTION OF STADIUM.

Mr. Sullivan made the following statement: The School Committee has gone on record as unanimously in favor of a stadium and proposes to ask the Legislature for $250,000 as a start. The School Committee already has ample physical accommodations for the purpose, if the Board of Superintendents and the School Committee shall finally consider the location advisable.

Mrs. Barron: Do not understand that the Committee has gone on record as unanimously in favor of a stadium.

On question from Mr. Sullivan, Chairman stated that the Board has agreed to the insertion of an item in the four-year land and building program of $250,000 for the grading and preparation of the lot adjoining the Dorchester High School for Boys for an athletic field, and for the start of a stadium.

Mr. O'Hare: Voted in favor of the item, and in so voting stated definitely that while the item was there, if other needs were found to be more important, then the money would be used for these other needs.

Doctor Bogan: Discussion is out of order, since at the present time there is no money available for the purpose.

Mrs. Barron: Believe that it was clearly understood that my approval of the $250,000 item was with the distinct understanding that if other emergencies shall arise, such as need for housing of pupils, urgent need for additional yard space, or other similar emergencies, then the money will be devoted to such emergencies. Desire to state now that unless a seat shall be available for every pupil, and sufficient yard space for every school, will oppose the use of the money for a stadium.

Doctor Bogan: Reiterated that the discussion is out of order.

Mr. Sullivan: Believe that there is now a seat for every pupil and better housing accommodations than ever before in the history of our schools. It may be necessary to go to the Legislature for special action for special appropriation for the special purpose of a stadium.

Doctor Bogan: Since there is no money available, the discussion is to no purpose.

Mr. O'Hare: The item in the proposed four-year building program of $250,000 is for the purpose of grading and preparing an athletic field and for the beginning of a stadium. Question of cost would have to be considered and no definite figures are yet available.

No action was taken.

Mr. Sullivan took occasion to compliment the Superintendent and the officials of the schools for their splendid efforts in the past educationally, but was of the opinion that the School Committee was not to be complimented to the same extent. Feels that the School Committee should now bend its efforts to make a real city, educationally, of Boston.

INTRODUCTION OF VOCATIONAL COURSE.

Mr. Sullivan spoke in favor of the introduction of a vocational course which shall include, first, vocational guidance; second, a survey of commercial Boston; third, the teaching of "getting jobs"; fourth, the teaching of "holding jobs."

He has interviewed representatives of Boston business houses and they are unanimously in favor of the proposition, and will lend support. In Mr. Sullivan's judgment, nobody better fitted to handle the proposition than the Board of Superintendents, to whom he recommended the matter be referred for study and report. Upon receipt of the report, the Committee to invite the committee of business men to co-operate in the introduction of a course which he believes and trusts the Board of Superintendents will report.

Mrs. Barron pointed out that there has been a Department of Vocational Guidance for many years.

Mr. Sullivan: If the work as he sees it is carried on properly the Department of Vocational Guidance will function because it may then confine its activities exclusively to the care of those who do not readily fit into the course which he feels will be reported by the Board of Superintendents.

Referred to the Board of Superintendents for consideration and report.

The Board adjourned.

Secretary.

MAYOR NICHOLS MARSHALS FORCES AND MASTERS BOSTON'S SECOND SNOWSTORM AND BLIZZARD IN SPEEDY FASHION.

TAKES PERSONAL CHARGE OF SITUATION, REMAINING AT CITY HALL TILL LATE IN NIGHT, LABORING TO SEE THAT CITIZENS ARE MADE COMFORTABLE AND ENABLED TO REACH HOMES—PROVIDES COMFORT FOR ALL STORM BOUND.

ONE OF CITY'S CHAMPION SNOWPLOWS WHICH MAYOR NICHOLS CALLED INTO STRENUOUS SERVICE IN SUCCESSFUL BATTLE AGAINST BLIZZARD—BETWEEN 80 AND 90 OF THESE WERE AT WORK.

Boston has emerged from her battle with the second snowstorm and blizzard within a week with all honors going to Mayor Malcolm E. Nichols and officials under his direction in charge of various departments called on for emergency service. When it was seen that the storm was to rival that of a week ago, Mayor Nichols put into operation every resource at his command, including between eighty and ninety champion snow plows, and the three snow loading machines, as well as about 4,000 men.

He also directed Public Works Commissioner James H. Sullivan to man every truck available, whether owned and operated by the city or under contract to the city for snow removal work by private contractors and to remain at the job till Boston was relieved. As a result the city has made a record that all are proud of and to be surpassed by few cities under the circumstances.

As in the case of the storm during the previous week, Mayor Nichols thoughtfully issued orders that all the women employees be allowed to start for their homes at two o'clock and as many men as could be spared, an hour later. He also

In accordance with the foregoing motion the Mayor has designated Rev. Mortimer E. Twomey, pastor of St. Eulalia's Church, South Boston, as the orator of the day on the occasion of the celebration of the sesquicentennial of the British evacuating Boston, held under the auspices of the South Boston Citizens Association.

Rev. Mortimer E. MAYOR NICHOLS NAMES CHIEF MARSHAL FOR EVACUATION DAY PARADE.

JOSEPH F. DALY GETS COVETED HONOR—THE MAYOR TO ANNOUNCE HONORARY STAFF OF 100 CITIZENS SOON.

On February 9 Mayor Malcolm E. Nichols issued the following announcement of choice for chief marshal Evacuation Day parade.

At a general meeting of representative citizens of South Boston held in the Boston Public Library, embracing all groups of different activities of South Boston, to formulate plans for the South Boston celebration of the sesquicentennial of the Evacuation of Boston, a motion was unanimously passed that his Honor the Mayor be requested to appoint a chief marshal for the Evacuation Day parade to be held in South Boston.

Complying with that vote the Mayor announces the appointment of Joseph F. Daly of 133 Dorchester street, South Boston, as chief marshal for the parade, and will later announce an honorary staff of one hundred of the leading citizens of South Boston.

"O Boston, fair City enthroned like a radiant queen,
From thy hills looking down on the ship-teeming plain of the ocean,
May thy future be bright, thy skies beam with light all serene,
Ensured by thy sons' and thy daughters' unselfish devotion!"

"Vincent A. Keenan, of the Dudley School, proposed that his Honor be requested to communicate with his Excellency the President of the United States, Calvin Coolidge, and the Secretary of the Navy, Curtis D. Wilbur, and ask that a detail of war ships be assigned to Boston Harbor to be a part of this celebration.

"Massachusetts Senate President, Wellington Wells, suggested, and his suggestion was carried, that the Mayor's Commission, R. J. Bottomly, A. C. Ratschesky and George H. Johnson, on budget and plans for this celebration, be requested to approve the above motions and submit the same to his Honor the Mayor as the recommendation of this meeting.

"A. C. Ratschesky, Senator Wells, Representative Albert A. Sutherland, Edward A. McLaughlin, Jr., were the committee appointed to confer with Governor Alvan T. Fuller on the state co-ordination and co-operation in the budget and program of city celebrations.

HANDLING OF SNOW STORM.

ordered all the municipal buildings and police stations held open for the use of storm-bound citizens. An invitation was extended to citizens, through the police and other sources, that City Hall would entertain for the night all who could find no other accommodations.

Superintendent of Public Buildings John P. Englert saw to it that the Mayor's orders were carried out, even to providing all-night telephone service.

The Mayor telephoned Gen. Preston Brown, commanding the First Army Corps Area. General Brown assured the Mayor that he could furnish army blankets and army cots to municipal public buildings, as needed. The Mayor accepted the offer and arranged through the City Hall Annex switchboard to keep the city buildings in touch with the Army Base all through the night.

Mayor Nichols remained at his desk practically all night, returning late to his Jamaica Plain home after assuring himself that all promised well for those who might be marooned in the city.

The City Hospital sent blankets to City Hall, and an Army Base squad, under Lieut. W. B. Gray, provided 300 blankets. Josephine Gilmore and Mary McWinney, matrons, were in charge of the women's quarters in the annex rest room for women.

The men's quarters, in the Street Commission's auditorium and upon the fifth floor above, were supervised by Superintendent of Public Buildings John P. Englert and City Councilor Walter J. Freely remained through the night.

More trucks and teams were available than heretofore, and all who sought work were hired. A total of 180 men had been placed by the Municipal Employment Bureau at noon Thursday and the total number of extra men on snow removal work mounted to 1,200.

An equal number of men was set to work by the snow contractors and there were 1,000 men of the Sanitary Division and 1,000 men of the Paving Division of the Public Works Department.

The contractors used 200 trucks and 50 teams, while the Sanitary Division was operating 42 teams, 30 trucks, 2 snow loaders and 75 blade plows. An appeal for trucks and teams was repeated by the city.

The most strenuous fight against the snow was in the intown and downtown sections of the city. There were numerous dumps along the waterfront, but the larger tonnage of snow was disposed of through the sewerage system, with numerous openings in Beacon, Charles and Falmouth streets, in Albany street, from Broadway to Southampton street, and Massachusetts avenue, in Brook avenue and Camden street, Roxbury, and Canal and Commercial streets.

The outlying parts of the city will be tackled next, particularly the main streets used by the trolley cars and general traffic.

"We feel that we have done an effective job," was the comment today of James H. Sullivan, Commissioner of Public Works, under whose direction the snow removal forces have been at work.

The department had 1,400 men, all it could muster, working in the storm.

There have been approximately 4,000 men at work loading 225 trucks and 300 double teams.

Mr. Sullivan estimated that $100,000 is a very conservative estimate to put on the cost of the first storm to the city in actual removal of snow. Had it not been for the prompt action of the department in getting on the streets the economic loss to the city, he figures, would have been far in excess of this.

The emergency, due to the storm of last week, coming at the close of the day, threw into action all the street forces of the city, including sewer, sanitary, street cleaning, paving and highway, refuse collection and maintenance men. During the high wind and driving snow of the storm the city's forces could exert but little effective effort, but they took advantage of the opportunity to form an organization which set out early next morning when the wind had subsided.

The fourteen city districts, organized and supervised, were manned with regular employees and as fast as contractors could be called in additional help was put in the field. By Saturday contractors had put 1,200 men to work, using 152 five-ton (10-cubic yard) trucks. The Paving and Highway Division had 1,200 men out with 48 trucks and 56 two-horse teams. The Street Cleaning and Sanitary Service responded with 850 men, 20 trucks, and 220 teams, and the Sewer Division came in with 150 men.

After answering emergency calls, clearing fire hydrants, opening street drains and planning to meet all eventualities and conserve public safety, the city forces manned the 54 snow plows in opening traffic lanes.

The automatic snow loaders followed the plows, feeding a chain of trucks that dumped their loads into the harbor or through openings into sewers. An unusual feature of this work was the part played by the ferryboats. The trucks were driven aboard and the snow dumped over the edge. Openings in the bridges also served in the disposal of snow.

DISCUSSES DORCHESTER BAY DEVELOPMENT AND GREATER CITY.

MAYOR MALCOLM E. NICHOLS IS GUEST OF DORCHESTER BOARD OF TRADE WHERE HE DISCUSSES CITY PROBLEMS.

Mayor Malcolm E. Nichols addressed the members of the Dorchester Board of Trade at the Hotel Westminster on February 9, where he made a plea for a better and bigger Boston, and, incidentally, for his bill which was placed before the Legislature with a view to creating a larger metropolitan area.

The Mayor said that the department heads of the city government have their responsibility to shoulder, that each should be capable of facing his task, and that he intended to see to it that they did.

By that road he saw great possibilities for the city's future, and he expressed confidence that the men he is selecting for such work will make good. When each has discharged his share of responsibility to the city and its people, he said, there will be no question of a bigger Boston. Any bill, he declared, would go through any legislature in the world to that end, and far from being diffident, neighboring communities would clamor to enter the fold.

He declared that Boston is committed to the development of Dorchester Bay and that in the next five years Boston will become a metropolis of 5,600,000 persons if it does not receive too much adverse advertising.

The Mayor has approved the following petitions received from the Board of Street Commissioners:

BOSTON TO SPEND $1,000,000 FOR SNOW FIGHTING AND EMERGENCY EQUIPMENT.

MAYOR NICHOLS ANNOUNCES DETERMINATION AFTER BATTLING SECOND BLIZZARD AND DIRECTS EMERGENCY COMMITTEE TO MAKE SURVEY OF RESOURCES TO KNOW WHAT IS NEEDED.

Mayor Nichols has decided to spend $1,000,000 for snowfighting equipment for Boston, and when this sum has been turned into apparatus for combating blizzard weather the city will not again for a long time have cause to complain. The decision of Mayor Nichols was reached on Wednesday afternoon during a discussion of plans and a consultation over the progress made in clearing Boston of the more than eight inches of snow then falling.

The Mayor had decided to name a commission for emergencies such as had arisen within the past week, the members being James H. Sullivan, Commissioner of Public Works; Louis K. Rourke, Building Commissioner; Thomas F. Sullivan, Acting Fire Commissioner; Dr. Francis X. Mahoney, Health Commissioner; Herbert A. Wilson, Police Commissioner, and Frank S. Deland, Corporation Counsel.

The plans for expenditures when laid before his committee were unanimously approved. The Mayor then instructed the committee to make a prompt survey of municipal resources available for meeting any emergency conditions that might arise in the future, whether they be from storms, floods, earthquakes, conflagrations or epidemics. The proposal to spend $1,000,000 for snow-fighting equipment had been considered by other administrations but had been deferred. It remained for Mayor Nichols to put the proposal into effect.

Mayor Nichols declared that the city was poorly prepared to meet the emergency of last week's storm, lacking both organization and equipment. Commissioner James H. Sullivan of the Public Works Department finds that the basis of organization is man power and avers that only regularly employed city laborers will work in rain or snow.

The city's forces were at work as usual, but the contractors could not get sufficient men to handle all the available trucks.

Several contractors reported that it was not a question of wages, for the men declared that they would not take the chance of illness by working in a storm at its height.

The instructions in the second were the same as those in the first snow storm so far as the Public Works Department was concerned, with perhaps a little more insistence on extreme efforts by the foremen in handling their districts. Complaints have been numerous in Dorchester, West Roxbury, Hyde Park and Brighton, and extra men were sent to the various paving yards to augment the regular forces.

Mayor Nichols was anxious to obtain trucks and drivers and appealed to business men to come to the aid of the city. The Mayor highly commended the city forces for their loyalty and good work since last Thursday morning, his praise extending also to the 400 employees of the Park Department who have succeeded in keeping all the park roads open, and all the walks as well.

DESIRES BAN UPON HEAVY TRAFFIC.

The Board of Street Commissioners will hold a public hearing relative to the question of whether heavy traffic shall be excluded at all times from Beacon and Marlborough streets, Back Bay, between Arlington street and Massachusetts avenue, February 18, at eleven o'clock.

Alexander Whiteside is counsel for the petitioners.

It is the contention of the petitioners that their troubles would cease if there should be greater use of Stuart and Boylston streets, Huntington and Columbus avenues, Harvard or Cambridge bridges. If half the traffic were diverted from Beacon street to Boylston street, it is stated the latter thoroughfare would have only half the traffic that Beacon street has. A day's count of trucks over Beacon street was 2,257, Cambridge Bridge, 1,004, Stuart street, 1,398, Columbus avenue, 872 and Boylston street, 940.

The Board of Street Commissioners are including Marlborough street in their consideration, in view of the testimony which was given last year that this thoroughfare is likewise a great sufferer. Both streets are now enjoying an exclusion of heavy traffic between the hours of 8 p. m. and 8 a. m.

BUILDINGS RAZED.

The Mayor has approved the request of the Building Department to raze the following structures as unsafe:

To take down the wooden building in the rear of 14 Monponset street, Ward 18. The owner, Mary A. Guernsey, who resides on the premises, has been notified of the unsafe condition of the building, but she neglects to remove the cause of complaint. The inspector reports that he has placarded the building, but on re-examination he finds that the placard has been removed. He also reports that the building is in such a condition that it should be taken down at once.

To take down the building on premises 2 Pulaski avenue, Ward 6. The owner, Daniel J. O'Malley of 5 Ware street, Dorchester, has been served with a notice of the unsafe condition of the building, but he neglects to remove the cause of complaint. The building is in such a condition as to constitute a fire menace and a nuisance.

To take down the building on premises 330 East Eighth street, Ward 7. The owner, Arthur J. Phelan of 11 East street, Stoneham, has been served with a notice of the unsafe condition of the building, but he neglects to remove the cause of complaint. The building is in such a condition as to constitute a fire menace and a nuisance.

WILL ENTERTAIN MAYOR.

Mayor Nichols has accepted an invitation to be a guest at the first annual charity ball of the Gerard Guild, to be held in the Alden Park Manor, Longwood, Monday evening, February 15. James A. McDonough of West Roxbury heads the committee in charge, and is assisted by Miss Julia A. Ronan of Jamaica Plain, president of the guild; Dr. Timothy G. Healy of Newton, treasurer; Miss Anna Comerford of Brookline, Miss May Doherty of Brighton, Miss Anna Forrestal and James McDonald, both of Auburndale; Dr. James G. Regan and Arthur G. Cooper, both of South Boston; Miss Mary Meleedy, Roxbury; Miss Katherine Scarry, Dorchester; Miss Eleanor O'Brien, Watertown, and Miss Elizabeth Murphy of Jamaica Plain.

BOSTON IS MAKING GOOD ON ALL ITS PROBLEM SOLUTIONS.

"Boston is making good and will make good on all its problems," said Mayor Malcolm E. Nichols when speaking before the members of the Advertising Club of Boston on Tuesday, February 9, at their weekly luncheon.

Mayor Nichols was introduced by Tilton S. Bell, who spoke of Mr. Nichols' wide experience in political matters and the positions he had held. "He will not try to do the spectacular," Mr. Bell said, "but will continue for four years the same line of action and thought which have characterized his course."

Mayor Nichols began by referring to the death of his bill in the Legislature looking to a metropolitan census, and expressed wonder why the "innocent creature" had been smothered.

He attributed much of Boston's good name to advertising men and he wondered if Boston was as well known to its citizens as it is abroad. He spoke of the municipal buildings and the lack of use of them, especially in germinating true community spirit, and suggested that mercantile advertising carry a story, once in a while, of what Boston does for its citizens and the extensive service maintained.

Then, branching out on the difficulties of the administration, Mayor Nichols said it would be necessary to look with great care on all demands made. He had been obliged to discourage the requests for more municipal buildings and also for a new bathhouse. "Times are hard," he declared, "and the tax rate will be high. I expect now to see a tax rate of $32, as I predicted in my inaugural.

But during the remaining years of my administration I do not intend to have it as high as it must be this year."

The Mayor spoke of plant and equipment of the city as far from adequate and announced that he wanted to see more responsibility on the part of all people concerned with the best interests of the municipality. "I am going to make the department heads bear more responsibility," he remarked. "If you can maintain a municipal family along the line of a tub standing on its own bottom, you will have a much more efficient organization."

It was at this point that he spoke of the ineffective snow removal. Emergencies must be met far in advance, he declared. He did not know why the snow contractors had not been checked up in advance, but he purposed to see that they were in the future.

"Of course this city will make good," Mr. Nichols concluded. "We are going to have a Greater Boston in a few years. Boston is crowding its people into the suburbs and that is one of the reasons why the district will demand solidarity of its interests under one name."

"Boston found itself ill prepared to handle last week's heavy snowfall. Not only was its equipment insufficient, but its emergency contractors had not been checked up in advance. When called out to open the streets and to remove the snow downtown, they were not ready. The situation resulted in all sorts of protests, and those protesting have been told the reason."

REALTY TO BE SOLD FOR TAXES.

City Collector William M. McMorro announces the city's lien in properties, equal to the unpaid taxes on that date, will be sold at auction beginning March 16, 1926. The estates on which taxes are outstanding will be given the customary advertising in the official City Record, for three successive weekly issues, beginning February 20.

The books of Collector McMorro show $3,401,981 in taxes outstanding on about 8,000 parcels at the present time.

Mr. McMorro expects that this total will be greatly reduced during the next fortnight by those who are anxious to avoid having their names advertised in the City Record as delinquents. In order to give them opportunity for settlement before the advertising date, arrangements have been made to keep the City Hall Annex, second floor offices, open until 5 p. m., three hours after the old closing hour. Collector McMorro states he may decide to make five o'clock the regular closing hour hereafter.

THANKS TO GENERAL BROWN.

Mayor Nichols was a guest of members of Jamaica Plain Council, Knights of Columbus, at their banquet at Hotel Westminster upon the evening of the 10th instant.

The Mayor publicly thanked Maj. Gen. Preston Brown, U. S. A., commanding the First Army Area Corps, for his generous offer to the City of Boston of thousands of cots and blankets, during the aftermath of the recent snowstorms.

Mayor Nichols said that he had appointed an emergency commission and was doing everything possible to bring about relief. He said it was a fine thing to have the Army Base with its many resources to materially aid in case of any conflagration in the city.

W. Frank Connell, G. K., presided.

MAYOR NICHOLS MAKES ADDRESS BEFORE MEMBERS OF BOSTON MUNICIPAL CLERKS ASSOCIATION AT THEIR ANNUAL BANQUET.

"The business of the city is well conducted. I always knew it and my short service as Mayor has strengthened my conviction. I believe the city's conduct of its business will compare favorably with that of any mercantile corporation," said Mayor Malcolm E. Nichols, addressing one hundred and fifty members of the Boston Municipal Clerks Association at their annual banquet at the American House. The Mayor was the guest of honor and it was the first time he had appeared before any large body of city employees. He was given a rousing welcome.

Introduced by Frank F. Tripp, president of the association, the Mayor said that he could assure the company from the bottom of his heart that there was no group in the world in which he would rather spend some time than among the men in the city's employ, many of whom he had known for years, who are working faithfully for the taxpayers and whose fidelity is being demonstrated day after day.

"I am convinced that you do not get the credit which is due you," the Mayor remarked. "When something goes wrong you are criticized and the fault is magnified. Why, today I walked along the street and was halted by a man who called attention to two snow shovelers who were taking it easy. They were men who had been working steadily for twelve and sixteen hours, as I found on inquiry. Turning to the critic, I said, 'It is the work that these men are doing which makes it possible for you to transact your business!'"

"I never felt so happy in my life as when I found I had the power to increase the pay of the city's laborers from $4.50 to $5 a day. You are not laborers, but the quality of service at one end of the yardstick you will find at the other.

"It is too bad that our citizens do not know their city as they should know it, in the way of administering to the common good. There isn't a city in the world that can compare with Boston in this regard. We ought to talk about Boston, and the other day I suggested to the advertising men that they incorporate in their business advertisements little stories of Boston's service to her citizens.

"It takes character to assume large responsibilities, and I am going to insist that department heads assume more responsibility. Character means doing the day's work and that is what you are doing. That is why you and I can work together for the welfare of the city."

The banquet committee comprised the following-named:

Ambrose Woods, chairman; John H. Glover, secretary; J. P. Ego, Harry Browning, James J. Coulter, James McNamee, Joseph T. Towle, Walter Foley, Charles Popiano, J. D. Mahoney, Daniel F. EXPORTS FROM BOSTON.

Hon. Wilfred W. Lufkin, Collector of the Port of Boston, announces exports through the port during 1925 were valued at $47,473,803.

In 1924 the exports were valued at $57,339,333.

The difference is accounted for by about $10,000,000 worth of foreign wool that was re-exported from here in 1924.

The great difference between exports and imports at this port is to be noted in the fact that imports for 1925 in the Massachusetts Customs District aggregated $321,563,908.

About 98 per cent of the Massachusetts district imports were received through the port of Boston, while practically 100 per cent of all exports credited to this district were shipped through Boston.

Springfield, $2,617,061; Fall River, $3,921,942 (largely crude oil); Plymouth, $2,793,235; Worcester, $1,603,051; Salem, $625,763; Gloucester, $581,924; New Bedford, $607,612; Provincetown, $25,984, and Vineyard Haven, $11,612.

ADMINISTRATION DID EVERYTHING POSSIBLE FOR PUBLIC CONVENIENCE ON OCCASION OF FIRST BIG SNOW STORM.

MAYOR NICHOLS ISSUES STATEMENT ON FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 5, FOLLOWING BATTLE AGAINST RAGING BLIZZARD BY ALL CITY'S AVAILABLE FORCES—MAKES PLANS FOR FUTURE.

Mayor Malcolm E. Nichols, following the storm which visited Boston on Thursday, February 4, issued the following statement, showing how the administration had been battling the storm and how it was planned to take care of such visitations in the future. He announced to the citizens that they would be given every protection possible and that for future convenience the city would be divided into districts for taking care of snow removals as the most efficient method, and that each district would be held for the care of that section. His statement was as follows:

"Everything possible is being done by the city to clear the streets for traffic. The Mayor, Commissioner of Public Works and the Acting Fire Commissioner have been in close touch with the existing situation since noon yesterday. At one o'clock this morning the Mayor directed the Commissioner of Public Works to give employment to every man who applied for it.

"Yesterday morning the Commissioner of Public Works communicated with the contractors asking them to be prepared and ordered them out at once with all available men. There was, and is, difficulty in getting men, and consequent delay. The trouble that the city is going through has been experienced by all the public service corporations, and all are alike struggling to meet the most unusual conditions encountered for years.

"The Commissioner of Public Works has communicated with all contractors doing the local work and has asked them to put every available man on the job of clearing local streets.

"The strain upon all public resources is made manifest by numerous requests to provide householders with assistance in making it possible for them to obtain egress from their homes. These cases are being met with all the promptness possible.

"We are making an effort to put a force of 5,000 men on the streets before nightfall.

"The Fire Department has taken every precaution possible to protect life and property under the existing serious storm conditions. In all out-lying districts where motor apparatus can be used to advantage only on the principal traffic arteries, reserve apparatus has been placed in service on horse-drawn pungs, and an additional supply of hose and equipment has been issued in order to reach property on the side streets which are impassable. Uniform demand on special details have been ordered back to companies and all leaves of absence have been revoked.

"While these abnormal conditions exist, the Mayor appeals to the general public to assist the department by taking precautions to avoid fire and the possible loss of life. Hot ashes in wooden containers, the storage of uncollected rubbish and the thawing of water pipes are prolific sources of fires at the present time. Extreme care should be taken in the use of electric irons to see that the current is shut off.

"Every citizen can help appreciably by making the hydrants in the vicinity of their property accessible to the department in the case of fire by the judicious use of the snow shovel, as it is manifestly impossible for the fire-fighting forces to keep several thousand hydrants uncovered.

"Apparently all the resources available for every agency were not sufficient to meet the unexpected intensity of the storm, and it is my belief that our snow-fighting forces ought to be more carefully organized so that in a doubtful case like the present they may be more quickly brought into action. I have therefore suggested to the Commissioner of Public Works the advisability of handling snow removals by districts, placing the responsibility for each district on the foreman who will be required to hold himself in readiness for such emergencies as the present.

"I am of opinion that not only the city but the public service corporations who have to deal with snow removals should know more accurately than apparently they do at any time what resources they may depend upon in the event of a great storm.

"The city should meet promptly its duty in a case like this.

"I have arranged with the Police Commissioner whereby instructions are to be immediately issued to all patrolmen to notify men along their route who desire snow work to report either to the city officials in charge at Adams square or to the Public Works Department yard in their own section and they will be placed at work at once. If these men have shovels, well and good; if not, the city is prepared to supply them.

"The city is trying to do its duty by every possible means, and I feel sure that we shall have effective results in a very short time. The local district yards of the Public Works Department are located at:

"Brighton, Chestnut Hill avenue; West Roxbury, Childs street; Dorchester, Hancock street; Roxbury, Highland street; South End, 630 Albany street; Hyde Park, Dana avenue; South Boston, Ninth and H streets; East Boston, Eagle street; Charlestown, Medford street."

CLAIMS DISAPPROVED.

LAW DEPARTMENT.

The Law Department has disapproved sixteen claims against the city, aggregating $3,139.42, and they are classified as follows:

Against the Building Department, one, amounting to $200.60; against the Collecting Department, one, amounting to $25; against the Fire Department, one, amounting to $500; against the Institutions Department, one, amounting to $115; against the Police Department, four, amounting to $938.82; against the Public Works Department, eight, amounting to $1,360.

SETTLEMENT OF GRAY CLAIMS.

JUDGE CARROLL ALLOWS INJUNCTION TO ENTER, BARRING PAYMENT OF ORIGINAL SUM OF $16,500.

The terms of a consent decree filed in the clerk's office of the Supreme Judicial Court provides the City of Boston shall pay the Gray Furniture Company $8,250 for the furniture and furnishings for refitting the Boston City Council Chamber. The contract price for the articles was $16,500.

When it became known that the amount was $16,500, William J. Drew, on behalf of ten taxpayers of Boston, petitioned the Supreme Judicial Court for an injunction to restrain the payment. A temporary injunction was issued. Francis J. Murray, on behalf of the defendant furniture company, obtained a modification of the order to permit payment of $3,000 and then suggested that the case be sent to Frederick W. Mansfield, to have him determine the fair market value of the articles. Mr. Murray has withdrawn from the case.

Judge Carroll of the Supreme Judicial Court issued a temporary injunction against former Mayor Curley, City Auditor Rupert S. Carven and City Treasurer John J. Curley, restraining them from paying the amount of the bill, $16,500.

Negotiations for a settlement of the matter have been in progress since the filing of the bill and are now concluded with the consent decree, which ends all the legal proceedings and releases the city from any further liability in the matter.

MAYOR WILL PRESIDE.

ALSO TO SERVE AS CHAIRMAN OF COMMITTEE TO HONOR BOSTON CITIZEN.

Mayor Nichols will preside and serve as chairman of the committee of well known Boston citizens who will tender a complimentary dinner to Col. Charles H. Innes, at the Algonquin Club, Thursday, February 25.

The committee further comprises Frank S. Deland, Hon. Channing H. Cox, Hon. Andrew J. Peters, William H. Brooks, Eliot Wadsworth, Joseph T. Lyons, Robert J. Bottomly, Frank L. Brier, Major William J. Keville, Joseph P. Manning, Henry I. Harriman, J. Sumner Draper and Hon. Henry C. Atwill.

DECREE IN JUNKET CASE.

TAXPAYERS WIN AND MONEY FOR FORMER COUNCIL'S HOSPITAL TRIP MUST BE RETURNED.

Justice John C. Crosby of the Supreme Judicial Court has allowed Attorney William J. Drew, counsel for George H. McCaffrey and nine other taxpayers of Boston, a final decree upon the petition brought to order former Mayor James M. Curley, his brother, John J. Curley, former city treasurer, and Rupert S. Carven, City Auditor, to reimburse the city treasury $2,500 that was expended by several members of the old City Council for a Western trip with a view of determining the advisability of establishing a hospital at Parker Hill.

James T. Moriarty, one of the Councilmen who went upon the trip, has paid back $184.67, representing his share. There is still due $2,434 with interest from May 14 of last year.

The following was received:

PRELIMINARY BUDGET.

The following was received:

City of Boston,

Office of the Mayor, January 28, 1926.

To the City Council.

Gentlemen,—Under the provisions of section 3, chapter 486, of the Acts of 1909, the Mayor is required to submit the budget within thirty days after the beginning of the fiscal year.

Under existing law the city may raise $6.52 on each one thousand of the average valuation for three years, less abatements, for general municipal purposes, exclusive of schools.

When it is considered that the total amount available for appropriations inside of this statutory tax limit is approximately $17,500,000, and that our total appropriations for an eleven-month year in 1925 were approximately $25,900,000, no further comment is needed to show the inadequacy of the present law to provide for the needs of the city.

It is my intention to request the Legislature to fix a tax limit for 1926 which will be adequate to meet the needs and requirements of the various city departments. Until this request is acted upon it is impossible for me to submit to your honorable body the annual budget in full segregated form.

In order to avoid any question being raised as to the submission of a budget within the time limit stated in the city charter, I submit herewith a budget in lump sum form.

Respectfully,

MALCOLM E. NICHOLS, Mayor.

Ordered, That the appropriation for Water Service, current expenses, and the payment to the state under the provisions of chapter 488 of the Acts of 1895, and acts in addition or amendment thereto, and for the interest and debt requirements or for loans issued for water purposes be met by the income of said works and any excess over income from taxes; that the appropriation for Printing Department be met by the department income and any excess over income from taxes; and the appropriation for City Record be met by the income of said publication and any excess over income from taxes; that the other appropriations hereinafter specified be met out of the money remaining in the treasury at the close of business on December 31, 1925, exclusive of the money raised by loan or needed to carry out the requirements of any statute, gift, trust or special appropriation, and by the income of the financial year beginning January 1, 1926, and taxes to the amount of $16,935,324.44 and that said amount be raised by taxation on the polls and estates in the City of Boston.

Ordered, That all sums of money which form no part of the income of the city, but shall be paid for services rendered or work done by any department or division for any other department or division, or for any person or corporation other than the City of Boston be paid into the general treasury, and that all contributions made to any appropriation be expended for the objects and purposes directed by the several contributors thereof.

Ordered, That all taxes raised to meet the appropriations of the city and all taxes assessed for meeting the city's proportion of the state tax for the year 1926, or for any other taxes or assessments payable to the Commonwealth, be due and payable on the fifteenth day of September, 1926; that interest shall be charged on all taxes remaining unpaid after the second day of October, 1926, in accordance with the provisions of chapter 59, section 57, of the General Laws, until paid, except the taxes assessed upon shares of national banks, which shall bear interest at the rate of 12 per cent per annum from the fifteenth day of September, 1926, until paid; and that all interest which shall have become due on taxes shall be added to and be part of such taxes.

partment for any of the purposes or items designated in the tables and schedules hereinafter set out in excess of the amount set down as appropriated for such specific purpose or item; and except as aforesaid, no salary or wages shall be paid in excess of the rate specified in said tables and schedules.

HART JITNEY LICENSE.

On motion of Coun. WRAGG, the Council took from the table the following:

4. Action on the question of granting a license to Franklin L. Hart, to operate jitneys, from 14 Columbus avenue over Charles and Cambridge streets to the Cambridge line. The question came on granting the license.

Coun. DOWLING—Mr. President, I don't know about this. On general principles I am not very much in favor of extending bus privileges to anybody who wants them. I think the committee which has heard this might be able to offer some explanation upon which the members of the Council could vote intelligently. At the present time we have nothing before us except this order, which does not give a very definite idea of what the bus concern proposes to do or how it proposes to operate the buses and charge fares. I don't know that we have anything to do with the matter of fares. But I would like to get some information from the committee which has considered the proposition which will enable us to act with some intelligence.

Coun. WRAGG—Mr. President, with reference to the petition of Mr. Hart for the privilege or license to operate his bus line from Boston, I would say that it is simply a matter of running these buses from Boston to Keene. That is the petition. He simply starts, I understand, at 14 Columbus avenue and goes over the road to Keene, New Hampshire, passing through Charles street and Cambridge street over to the city of Cambridge. He does not propose to take on or let off passengers after he has a load. The committee at the last meeting went over this matter very thoroughly, and as far as we could see there was no objection. As a matter of fact, the committee was unanimous after thorough discussion of the matter. Mr. Wilson, I believe, has some information that he can give; and Mr. Hart, I think, is in the audience. If any member of the Council desires to ask Mr. Hart any questions he can do so. But, so far as I can see, this is a public necessity. I cannot see why any objection should be raised in the City of Boston to the granting of the petition.

Coun. FREELEY—Mr. President, in regard to Mr. Hart's petition, I would say that I have found out that the city of Cambridge or the Boston and Maine Railroad are opposing Mr. Hart on this petition, and I feel that, Boston being a greater city than Cambridge, we should wait, laying the matter on the table for another week until we find the result from Cambridge.

Coun. WILSON—Mr. President, in reference to the previous statements concerning Mr. Hart's connection with this business, I understand, of course, that such a question would naturally be asked in view of the fact that Mr. Dowling was not aware of the length of time that Mr. Hart has been in the business. I have known Mr. Hart personally in Dorchester for some time, and have known that he has done a jitney or automobile business for perhaps twelve to fifteen years. He was probably a pioneer in this jitney business which is now spreading out to such an extent throughout the United States. He runs two lines, one from Boston to Albany and the other from Boston to Keene. As far as the City of Boston is concerned, he merely asks of this city the right to start from Columbus avenue, making no further stops until he crosses the river. He has been in business for a substantial length of time, and the reason why he comes to Boston for a license at this time is due to the decision of the Supreme Court, which requires him to get licenses from the various cities through which the buses pass. We in Boston are not particularly interested in his bus lines, but in the outlying districts I understand that there is considerable public necessity for this sort of thing. I have here a paper which shows the communities through which the line passes. For instance, the buses go through Ashburnham, and there is no railroad station within five miles through Lunenburg, where there is no railroad station within four miles; through Shirley, where the nearest station is three and one-half miles; through Acton, where it is three and one-half miles to the South Acton station; through Littleton, where it is two and one-half miles from the nearest railroad station,—and so on. The buses pass through, I believe, fifteen towns, and licenses have been obtained from eleven out of the fifteen, and one more license is expected today, if I am correct. In view of the fact that the Boston and Maine Railroad has been cutting service to Lexington and other towns, I think the matter of running jitney lines through that particular part of the state is something to which attention should be given. This man has $70,000 to $80,000 invested in the business and pays close to $1,000 to the state of Massachusetts for registration fees, and pending the getting of licenses from the various cities and towns his business is absolutely stopped. Taking into consideration the amount of money that he has tied up in the business, the length of time that he has been in the business, and the necessity on the part of these various outlying towns to receive this service, I think in justice to this man and in justice to such towns as Ayer, Shirley and others he should be given his license at the earliest possible moment.

Coun. DOWLING—Mr. President, I confess that I have a lot more interest in the people of my district in Boston than I have in the little towns referred to by the councilor on my left. I don't know why the City Council should undertake to make provision against the financial difficulties that Mr. Hart may have, without taking into consideration other elements that enter into the thing. I know nothing, gentlemen, about the operation of his business; I know nothing about his buses and don't know how long he has been in business. Those things don't interest me very much. But I live in a district that is overrun with buses. It is not possible for me to send my little girl across the street in my district without a great deal of fear in my mind, on account of the promiscuous driving of buses through there. My little girl is seventeen years old, and I have to keep warning her to be extremely careful in looking both ways before she crosses, because of the reckless driving there. They go through that district at thirty to forty miles an hour, passing through Union square, for instance, a bad traffic trap, without consulting the wishes of anybody at all. If Mr. Hart wishes to conduct business through another part of the city, I feel as much interested in those districts. I am not sure that this is not the same order that came in some time ago, perhaps in the previous Council. I don't know whether it was held up, or what happened; but I do hope that we will get a better explanation than has thus far been offered before granting a permit to Mr. Hart or anybody else to operate buses. I may be wrong in voting against it, but I shall vote against it until I hear better reasons than I have yet heard for granting the license.

Coun. WRAGG—Mr. President, I think the best way to get at this would be to invite Mr. Hart to appear before the members here, and they will then be at liberty to ask him any questions they may desire.

Coun. FREELEY—Mr. President, I feel that the city's business here is sufficiently important today so that we should not devote the entire Council meeting to Mr. Hart. I move, therefore, that the matter lie on the table, and that we proceed with further business.

Coun. WARD—Mr. President, I move that the matter be placed before the Council in executive session and that Mr. Hart be invited to appear before the Executive Committee.

President KEENE—There is a motion pending to lay the matter on the table. The question now comes on that motion.

The Council voted to lay the matter on the table.

Later in the session, Coun. WILSON said, Mr. President, I move that the matter of Mr. Hart's license be referred to the Executive Committee for action today, in order that we may have an opportunity to question Mr. Hart.

President KEENE—The motion is out of order, inasmuch as the matter is now lying on the table.

Coun. WILSON—I simply thought it might be well to bring Mr. Hart into the hearing.

President KEENE—There is nothing to prevent the Executive Committee from listening to Mr. Hart as the matter stands at this time. But in order to have any action taken the matter would have to be taken from the table.

A QUESTION OF PRIVILEGE.

Coun. DOWD—Mr. President, we all know that this morning's paper, the Boston Post, carried a story in regard to a certain Mr. Hart.

President KEENE—For what purpose does the councilor rise?

Coun. DOWD—To a question of personal privilege, before going into recess.

President KEENE—Will the gentleman state his question of personal privilege?

Coun. DOWD—It is with reference to Mr. Hart.

President KEENE—You may proceed, councilor.

Coun. DOWD—Mr. President, this morning's Post carried a story from Mr. Hart in reference to the City Council in regard to jitney licenses, and named specifically three councilors who were supposed to be talked to in reference to the said license. As I understood the matter at the last meeting, we were supposed to ask Mr. Hart to attend our executive session. The Boston Post said this morning that there was a secret investigation to be held by the Council this afternoon. I am going to ask the Council to oppose any secret investigation, if there is to be an investigation. Let us have Mr. Hart in the Council Chamber, before the press and before the public, to answer any questions that the Council may like to ask.

RECESS.

The Council voted at 2.18, on motion of Coun. DOWLING, to take a recess, subject to the call of the Chair. The members re-assembled in the Council Chamber and were called to order by President KEENE at 2.53 p. m.

Ordered, That the Commissioner of Public Works be requested, through his Honor the Mayor, to include in the budget for this year a sum sufficient for the purchase of two additional latest type snow loaders.

Report accepted; order passed in above new draft.

CHANGING NAME OF NORTH BEACON STREET.

Coun. DOWLING offered the following:

Ordered, That the Board of Street Commissioners be requested to hold a public hearing in the matter of changing the name of North Beacon street to Brighton avenue.
 Passed under suspension of the rule.

FRANKLIN L. HART JITNEY LICENSE.

On motion of Coun. WRAGG the Council voted to take from the table No. 4 on the calendar, viz.:

4. Action on the question of granting a license to Franklin L. Hart, to operate jitneys, from 14 Columbus avenue over Charles and Cambridge streets to the Cambridge line.

Coun. DOWD—Mr. President, I understand that Mr. Hart is here, and I trust it will be the pleasure of the body to have Mr. Hart appear before it, so that we may ask him any questions that may be desired.

Coun. McGRATH—Mr. President, I don't think we should establish a precedent by allowing anyone to appear at a council meeting. I think there is only one way to treat this committee report, and that is under a call for the yeas and nays, and I trust that we will act upon it today.

Coun. ARNOLD—Mr. President, the Council has received a communication from a competitor of this proposed line, and I believe, in fairness to them, the Council ought to hear whatever they have to say in the premises. Therefore, I would like to ask, Mr. President, that the City Messenger get in touch, if possible, with the representative of the Boston & Maine Railroad, which desires to be heard in this matter, and that we suspend the rules so that they may be heard this afternoon.

Coun. WARD—Mr. President, I understand that the representative of the Boston & Maine Railroad is here, in the gallery?

Mr. KEAY—Yes.

Coun. ARNOLD—Mr. President, if the Committee on Jitneys has no objection, I would like to move that we go into committee of the whole and take up this matter and have it over with this afternoon.

Coun. HEFFERNAN—Mr. President, I feel that on this entire matter the Council ought to proceed with great care. We all read in this morning's paper a story in connection with this application for a license, and if we send this back into committee the motives of members of this Council are very apt to be criticized. I know if the matter is to be voted on here today some of the members of the Council will probably vote in a way in which they would not vote under ordinary conditions, because of fear of misunderstanding. We all saw what appeared in the Boston Post this morning. Mr. Hart is here, and I understand that a representative of the railroad is here. I think for the protection of the Council these men ought to come before us now and that we ought to thrash the matter out in the body, instead of having to go back to the committee. I think if the petitioner is entitled to a license, the matter ought to be heard on its merits, and that we cannot go back into committee without certain members of the Council being questioned. I think the place to hear the matter is right on the floor here. I move that both the petitioner and the remonstrant be heard in the chamber, and I understand that both of them are present.

Coun. DOWD—Mr. President, I second the motion.

President KEENE—The Chair will state that the body can go into executive session at this time and in this room, and have a hearing as proposed. The Chair will further state, however, that in his opinion it is absolutely improper to have persons appear on the floor of this body at a meeting of the body, and would suggest that when matters of this nature arrive it would be far better to adjourn to our larger committee room, which holds approximately 150 people, keeping this floor free from arguments of that nature.

Coun. RUBY—Mr. President, with all due respect to the Boston press, I am not disturbed by the story that appeared in the paper this morning. I am a member of that committee, and I believe as members of the Council we owe the duty to our committees of having faith in them as they have been appointed. I do not believe, especially so early in our existence, that we should allow a question like this to disturb our usual proceeding. We are trying to break away from methods that have been practiced in previous administrations. The committee believe, under the circumstances, that the Boston & Maine Railroad, having asked for permission to be heard, should be given that opportunity. But, apart from that, I feel that we ought to have the courage of our convictions, and when a committee unanimously, in a proper session, passes upon a request or a petition, we ought not to be disturbed because of the appearance in the press of hints of certain things that they think are happening. I say, if we back water on this proposition now, people will have a right to be suspicious of us in connection with anything we do in the next two years that we are here. I, for one, am opposed to breaking away from the methods that have been established by our Rules Committee, under which we go into committee room and act upon matters that may come before us. Of course, the Jitney Committee will give to the Boston Elevated, the Boston & Maine, or any individual petitioner, an opportunity to come in and be heard. We will give everybody, I think, an opportunity to be heard; and I am not afraid, as a member of the committee, of any feeling of suspicion there may be as to the circumstances under which I cast my vote. I am opposed to changing the rule so that hearings, public or private, will be held if they interfere with the regular workings of a committee duly established by this honorable body.

Coun. GILBODY—Mr. President, I think that aspersions have been cast upon the fair name of this body. Of course, we probably are not functioning to the proper degree as yet, having just started in with our meetings, and it is not to be suspected that we would. But everybody connected with the Council is under more or less suspicion because of what has appeared in the paper. I think the only way to handle the situation now is to have a hearing before the public and in the presence of representatives of the press, right in this open chamber. I would, therefore, move that we suspend the rule and go into executive session now.

Coun. DOWD—Mr. President, I rise to a point of information. Do I understand that this body has the right to summon witnesses or not?

President KEENE—I don't understand that they have, without the proper motion.

Coun. DOWD—I believe the motion made by Coun. Heffernan seconded by myself, is before the chair at the present time?

President KEENE—The Chair does not so understand. Will Coun. Heffernan state his motion again?

Coun. HEFFERNAN—Mr. President, I moved that the committee invite both Mr. Hart and the remonstrant before this body now, to state their case.

Coun. DOWD—And I second the motion, Mr. President.

President KEENE—The motion is made that the committee of the whole hear Mr. Hart and other representatives present. Those in favor of the Council going into executive session—

Coun. WILSON—Mr. President, is this to be the usual executive session, or where is it to be held?

President KEENE—Wherever the committee may determine. Those in favor of going into executive session will rise and stand until counted.

A rising vote showed that the motion to go into executive session was carried.

The Council went into executive session at 3.07 p. m., and were called to order in Council session in the Council Chamber by President KEENE at 4.30 p. m.

ACTION ON FRANKLIN L. HART PETITION.

President KEENE—We will now take up the matter of the Hart petition. The question is on granting the Franklin L. Hart jitney license. The Chair awaits the pleasure of the Council.

Coun. DOWLING—Mr. President, my position upon this matter is not one bit different today from what it was last week, and probably not one bit different than it will be in the next six months or two years, as long as I am here. Personally, I do not favor the granting of special privileges to the bus corporations, which naturally are going to do the business of the railroads. The buses we have only by special privilege. I am not, either, going to pay any attention to stories which appeared in the papers this morning and this afternoon, because, although my name has been mentioned in connection with it, I am not much concerned. It is possible for the newspaper boys to make a mistake, because I well know that when I was working for the papers I made mistakes. So far as the story refers to me, it is an error, because I know my own position and am at peace with my own conscience. I am the owner of my own soul, subject only to my Creator, and I know there is nothing I have done that I would not willingly and freely tell my family, my wife or my clergyman. I am opposed to the granting of bus permits, personally, for the reason given by the Mayor of this city in 1924 and 1925; and, with the permission of the Council, I am going to read the veto message of Mayor James M. Curley, which expresses my position much better than I can express it. At the meeting of the Council of September 29, 1924, there came into the meeting a message from Mayor Curley vetoing the applications of a number of petitioners for these permits. The Mayor said:

"The tremendous growth in motor transportation, both freight and passenger, has resulted in a serious problem. At the present time, to a large extent, the motor transports are taking the cream of the business during the good weather and leaving the burden on the railroads during the time when operating expenses are highest; and, in my opinion, unless both the railroads and public authorities meet the situation with wisdom and foresight, practically all the short-haul freight and passenger traffic will be abandoned by the railroad systems within a few years.

"In some parts of the country this might not be a matter of great concern, but in New England, with its severe winters, transportation would be crippled during at least three months of the year with disastrous effects on our industries and prosperity.

"It does not necessarily follow that the solution of the problem is to concentrate motor transportation under the control of the public service corporations, but until some solution is presented which will not jeopardize the prosperity of our people I shall refuse to be a party to any competition of this nature either with the railroads or the street railways."

Strange as it may seem, I do not agree with ex-Mayor Curley on some things, and certainly in that respect. I may refer to another message from the same source. On April 27, 1925, in a similar connection, ex-Mayor Curley said:

"It is evident that the time has arrived for the establishing of a definite policy for dealing with jitney licenses. Unless there is some material change in the situation it is my opinion that the policy of the city government should be to grant jitney licenses to independent operators only in cases where the existing street railway and railroad are either unable or unwilling to furnish proper service to the public, or for the purpose of reaching territory not covered by existing lines. At all events, it seems only fair that the existing public service corporation should be given the opportunity to meet the public demand for this comparatively new form of transportation."

Now, Mr. President, I cannot change my position at all, and I don't care what anyone thinks of my attitude. I am doing what I think is right and am doing it without any outside solicitation, without any encouragement to take the attitude I am taking, but simply because I honestly and truly believe that the wide abuse of the public highways in congested districts, such as the terminals suggested by Mr. Hart, is bad policy. Only a few weeks ago a committee representing the present Mayor suggested a substantial annual tax on the parking of automobiles in this city. The purpose of that, no doubt, was to clear the streets of promiscuous parking in the downtown section. The Park square section, where the proposed terminal of the Hart Motor Transportation Company is is no less congested than other sections of the city. I cannot understand what this Council will be thinking of if it allows outside competition to come in and monopolize the parking places. As I say, I am against that sort of thing now, as represented in this petition, was against it last week, and shall be against it for two years, and when the question comes on granting the petition I shall vote against it.

Coun. WILSON—Mr. President, when the yeas and nays are called, I shall vote for it.

Coun. GUILD—Mr. President, I think before calling the yeas and nays, on this question the Council should consider here that we are confronted with a perfectly definite economic principle, that the carriage of passengers for hire has been for many years a special service, that it is subject to a special body being brought into Boston in this way, and they also talk about the amount of money they pay in the way of registration fees. Not one cent paid for registration fees to Massachusetts comes to the City of Boston. It all goes into the maintenance of state highways, and Boston gets not one cent of it. As far as the use of the state highways by these vehicles is concerned, we know what happens, of law, and that the reason why it is so subjected to a special body of laws is that the carriage of passengers for hire is from the very nature of the business monopolistic. This is not simply a question of the carriage of passengers for hire between Keene, New Hampshire, and Boston, Massachusetts. We cannot do that without imposing on all the communities, including Boston, certain economic laws. I think this Council should give due consideration to the fact that in allowing competition or in taking steps to allow competition with the existing monopoly they are undermining a perfectly definite economic principle. I shall vote against the report of the committee.

Coun. FREELEY—Mr. President, I feel the same way as my colleague, Mr. Dowling, as regards the Hart petition. My name appeared in the paper this morning, and I feel that my character should not be attacked in a matter like this, unwarrantably. I feel that the comparative taxes paid by the Boston & Maine Railroad to the City of Boston, and those paid by Mr. Hart, should receive a great deal of consideration in this matter.

Coun. DOWD—Mr. President, at the outset of the administration and of the functioning of this Council, we are faced in the petition for that proposed license, with a situation with which we will have to be faced continually the next two years, unless the situation is properly met. The question is simply this: the Boston and Maine organization has been running for years and years. It is a large organization furnishing transportation to the community, and it is a well known fact that it costs considerable money to run it and that the road has had very serious difficulties. I cannot believe, if the Council grants the petition, that Mayor Nichols will approve of it, because I feel that Mayor Nichols will take the same stand that Mayor Curley has taken in the last four years. The Boston & Maine is being operated at a yearly loss of a million and a half, somewhere around there, and the taxpayers of Boston have to pay back $60,000 or $63,000 of that. If the Boston & Maine loses, the stockholders are also losers. This is a situation that the Council should handle very carefully. I cannot think that Mr. Hart really believes the attitude he takes in regard to this matter is the correct one, having in view the situation of the public. I don't believe he really feels that this sort of competition with the public carriers is a proper thing. Two weeks ago I was the councilor who arose and asked that the order be laid on the table, because I believed it to be unfair not only to the Boston & Maine but to any other such corporation to have this kind of competition. If we approve of this petition, in the course of the next six months we are going to be confronted with a number of such petitions. I think the Council should take a definite stand on the matter at this time. I think it is unfair to the Boston & Maine to grant such a petition, and when the roll is called today I shall vote against it.

Coun. HEFFERNAN—Mr. President, it strikes me, in addition to the argument as to unfairness to the Boston & Maine, there is another principle involved here. It strikes me that this bus line and a good many others that have been running into Maine, New Hampshire and other states, have been doing so in order to evade the intrastate law. They were probably advised by counsel that by running over the state line into New Hampshire they came under the interstate commerce law and that the Legislature here had no control over them in the way of regulation. But the Massachusetts Legislature did pass a law regulating them, and the Supreme Court held that it was within the power of the Legislature to regulate such things. I think this bus line and others have merely run over the state line to get around the law.

The situation is this. They talk about trade that our state highways are an absolute menace because of bus drivers running wild. It is a serious problem. It is a thing that we, of course, cannot entirely settle. It is a problem that must be settled eventually by the Department of Public Utilities. We are having these highways overrun day after day by these buses; and, for one, unless stronger evidence is produced than has been brought forth here today, I will not vote to allow additional buses to run this way in this city.

Coun. GILBODY—Mr. President, I would like to give just a short synopsis of the history of the transportation problem through monopolies. The Elevated is a monopoly, and what do we get? Nothing but poor service. The streets are filled with snow, and the whole situation is entirely in the grasp of the Boston Elevated. The Boston & Maine wants the same sort of monopoly. But what happens? In the case of the Mayor's messages quoted here, there was a sound principle involved. I will admit that that was so, when the previous Mayor submitted his messages. But let us follow the history of the thing. Recognizing the principle, the Council passed favorably on the jitney bus line petitions of the New Haven. They subsequently went to the finally approving board, the Public Utilities Commission, and they said, "No, you came up here and opposed the independent jitney operators, because you said you had to maintain roadbeds, keep up your property, and so on, and that you could give the same service that the independent buses could give. We will not yet give you a right which will force the independent jitney men out of business, in order that you may get a monopoly unless you are prepared to run such buses." But in spite of favorable action upon the petition of the New Haven to run buses, they have not operated a single bus themselves. In other words, they wanted to use the argument against the independent bus operators that they were interfering with their furnishing of transportation, without themselves intending to furnish that sort of service. If I am running a little cigar store there is no reason why I should be driven out of business by a big cigar store across the way. I don't think that is fair. If we review the situation here in Boston, seeing what it really is, we will see the importance of granting some of these petitions, in the interest of transportation service for the people, and cheaper and better transportation. I submit, the more competition we have with the big companies from the independent men, the better it will be for the public, the better off you and I and our families would be, not only competition with street cars but with trains. I am therefore, in favor of granting the permit, simply again calling attention to the fact that the Public Utilities Commission will not grant the New York, New Haven, & Hartford Railroad the sole right to operate buses, because of that very monopolistic idea.

Coun. RUBY—Mr. President, at the meeting held last Monday two separate jitney petitions were presented, both by the Boston Elevated Railway Company, and without any talk or without any criticism the committee brought in a favorable report, and the licenses were granted without any question. Now, let us see the difference. One is going to operate in a certain section of Boston, going through main thoroughfares and highways of Boston, and there was no objection. I myself voted in favor of it. This petition comes from a private person, and because of that fact a different element, as some would believe, must be taken into consideration. The Hart buses will only travel through streets at the extreme end of Boston, if I am correctly informed. I believe they will start from Columbus avenue, go through Charles street and then out of Boston. We are asked to reject the petition not because of any possible danger that there might be to pedestrians, but because it will interfere with the conduct of the business of a public service corporation. I, for one, do not think the gentleman who represented the Boston & Maine Railroad gave us any argument at all, other than the competition argument, why this permit should not be granted. I agree with the councilor on my right (Coun. Gilbody) in a sense, that promiscuous granting of these bus limits should not be made. I believe in sections that are thickly populated and where there is danger to life and limb of the public, careful consideration should be given to the matter. But with reference to this particular jitney proposition, we are asked to grant a license to an inhabitant and a taxpayer of Boston, a man who pays taxes on his property in Boston, who lives in Boston with his family and who makes a request to carry on a legitimate line of business. I, for one, believe that that man is entitled to the same amount of consideration as a public service corporation. I believe we should take that attitude. Nothing has been presented to us showing us that there is any particular hazard in connection with the running of this proposed line. I dare say that if it had not been for the publicity given to the proposition in the press we would not have spent practically our whole session here in considering it, but that there would have been no doubt of the action we should take and that we would have voted to grant the petition. I believe it should be granted.

Coun. WARD—Mr. President, I have listened to the remarks of the previous speaker. He has criticized the action of the Council a week ago in granting permits to the Elevated railroad and is now objecting to granting this permit. I will simply say this, that during the past week the Elevated has had its ploughs out removing snow from the tracks and from the streets, clearing the snow away, and that others who have taken no part in that work have had the advantage of it. Does it seem fair to the members of the Council that a public service corporation such as the Boston Elevated should spend thousands of dollars in clearing the snow away, and then have these independent buses come along directly behind their cars and buses and carry away their passengers. I myself do not believe it is fair. In regard to the statement made by Mr. Keay this afternoon I think he outlined the situation fairly,—that for one hundred years the Boston & Maine Railroad has given service to the people of Boston and of New England, helping to build up the community, and that the road should be given fair treatment. A man enters into competition with the Boston & Maine Railroad Company, paying no taxes to the City of Boston to speak of in comparison, paying no personal tax on his property in the City of Boston, and proposing to run over our highways to distant points in the state, and even out of our state. I am against this petition. I am against it because I feel that the railroad cannot continue to give efficient service of competition is going to be so keen.

Coun. McMAHON—Mr. President, being a member of that particular committee, the Jitney Committee, I sat in there and listened to the different men representing the railroads and the bus lines, and then certain members stated that they were opposed to this petition, that they did not feel that it should be granted. Still they gave no good reason why it should not be granted. I have listened this afternoon and I have not found any real cause stated why they should not give Mr. Hart his license to operate. The gentleman representing the Boston & Maine did not make it clear to my mind why we should not grant this petition of one of our taxpayers in the City of Boston. I will agree with some of the other councilors that he is a little fellow, but I feel this way. If I am running a little business and a big fellow comes along and tries to put me out of business, I would feel the same way as Mr. Hart. I would like to have the councilors here fair,—that if they are going to give this permission to one they should give it to the other, the little fellow as well as the big fellow. At this time I would like to see the petition of Mr. Hart go through. I am thoroughly in favor of it.

Coun. DONOVAN—Mr. President, I did not wish to inject myself into the controversy at all today, but I do wish now to say just a word. I believe there is such a thing as investing too much power in public utilities, and I think that we here in Boston should therefore consider that aspect of the question very carefully. I believe if we grant this license to Mr. Hart, and he comes before us next year and we find that he has not acted within bounds, we can then repeal his permit. But I see no reason today why we should not grant his permission. I don't know Mr. Hart, and have nothing either for or against him. I saw, of course, what appeared in the paper. But today competition is bound to be the life of trade, and it has been brought out at this hearing today that the Boston & Maine Railroad has discontinued service without first finding out the frame of mind of the patrons of the road. I say that the only way to compete with the Boston & Maine is to allow buses to come in and compete, and I certainly hope that Mr. Hart will be granted the privilege he asks for.

Coun. BUSH—Mr. President, I have listened very carefully to the arguments on both sides of the question, those by Mr. Keay and also those by Mr. Hart. I did feel after reading that newspaper article this morning that Mr. Hart was guilty of an attempt to sort of sandbag the Council into granting the permit to him, by giving this information to the reporter. It looked to me like a piece of insidious propaganda. Since listening to Mr. Hart this afternoon and hearing his answers to questions put to him by members of the Council, I am inclined to give him the benefit of the doubt and to purge my mind of all prejudice against him on account of the article. I am inclined to feel that we should handle the situation entirely on its merits, as they have been brought out in the course of the argument. There is no question whatever in my mind that the railroads are entitled to every consideration in the world. They are the ones who first built up these outlying communities. Property owners in those communities have purchased and developed property and established communities on the basis of transportation by the railroads. We cannot afford to injure the railroads in the slightest degree. But it seems to me where the railroads do not efficiently give transportation to passengers in these outlying communities, and that want can be filled by private competition, the people who live in those outlying communities are entitled to even greater consideration than the railroads. Then, in the course of the argument, it has appeared that many of the towns are practically not touched by the railroads at all, or where they are touched by the railroads that the stations are at a considerable distance from the point where the buses run through. So it seems to me each petition of a private bus line running through towns of that sort should be judged according to the individual merits; that where it appears that the tendency of such a bus line is to seriously curtail the income of the railroads and compete with them for patronage, the individual permits should not be granted. But this does not seem to me to be such a case, and I believe this permit should be granted.

Coun. FITZGERALD—Mr. President, I think the time has come when the Council ought to take a decided stand on all these propositions. I think the manner in which the Elevated railway, for example, is using the public in this city is an outrage and a crime. I don't think it would be tolerated in any other large city except Boston. They have absolutely no regard for the public welfare, and no regard whatever for the people. The question is, how long are the public going to stand for the service they are getting? Our highways are being used by them in a way in which they were never intended to be used. It was never supposed that they should have a right to run jitneys through the streets. Their franchise calls for a different proposition, that they shall run their cars on tracks. So the question arises, whether they really have a right to run these jitneys through our streets? Their franchise did not call for it when first granted. I believe these corporations that want these privileges ought to have some regard for the public. I am not personally interested in this matter one way or the other. I don't know this man. No doubt the man who wrote the statement for the paper this morning had some ground for it.

There was the suggestion of seeing certain people and practically putting the words in the man's mouth. There is no question about that, from the statements that we have heard, although I don't know whether I heard the man right or whether anybody else understood him differently. But it was my understanding that he gave some good grounds, when he was pressed the second time, for the writing of the story. I have ridden on the buses several times—the Boston & Maine, the White Line and others, going to Portland and other places, and any people who ride on those lines I think are welcome to do so. But my experience of the way they go through different cities and towns is that they do not go according to law. We have had a large number of accidents during the short space of time that they have been in operation. Everybody is in danger. This line goes through a part of the district that I represent, and therefore I feel that I have some right to talk about it. It is a pretty crowded district. There are a good many of such vehicles that run through it. This will go through Charles street and also a part of the Back Bay, so it is within the province of the gentleman from the Back Bay and myself to speak in regard to the matter understandingly. I don't think it bothers the districts of the other councilors. I feel that we ought to hold this whole matter up, certainly letting it lie over for another week, so that we may find out some more information about it. I think we should give it careful consideration, considering whether we may be guided by the arguments expressed by the former Mayor in his veto message. I think the message that has been quoted here was very sound and deserves to have a great deal of weight attached to it in our minds. I feel that the Council should act slowly and should be guided by what the people of the city really want. The question is, whether our streets are not being used for a purpose for which they were never intended, and the treatment that the public are now receiving from these jitneys should also be considered. I, for one, will not vote for more jitneys to be run by the Boston Elevated while I am a member of the Council.

I believe that the road should put on proper cars and should run them on the tracks, giving the people the service they rightly deserve.

Coun. DOWLING—Mr. President, I don't want to take up the time of the body further, but the councilor who has just spoken suggests further delay. In order to prevent a motion to lay on the table, and so that action may be taken at the present time, I will move the previous question. I certainly trust that we will not be made to appear more ridiculous than necessary.

Coun. McGRATH—Mr. President, I second the motion.

The main question was ordered, and the Council refused to grant Mr. Hart's petition. yeas 10, nays 10:

Yeas—Coun. Bush, Donovan, Gilbody, Keene, Lynch, McGrath, McMahon, Ruby, Wilson, Wragg—10.

Nays—Coun. Arnold, Dowd, Dowling, Engler, Fitzgerald, Freeley, Guild, Heffernan, Parkman, Ward—10.

RECONSIDERATION REFUSED.

On motion of Coun. DOWLING, the reconsideration of all action taken today was refused.

Adjourned at 5.04 p. m., on motion of Coun. WARD, to meet on Monday, February 15, at 2 p. m.

MAYOR NICHOLS ASKED TO PROVIDE $80,000 ADDITIONAL TO COMPLETE NEW POLICE HEADQUARTERS.

ONE FLOOR YET TO BE COMPLETED AND ENTIRE STRUC-TURE FITTED UP—SENDS ORDER TO COUNCIL ASKING APPROPRIATION.

BOSTON'S NEW POLICE HEADQUARTERS BUILDING WHICH IS TO BE FINISHED BY MAY FOR WHICH MAYOR NICHOLS ASKS
ADDITIONAL FUNDS.

Mayor Malcolm E. Nichols has been called upon to provide additional funds for the completion of the new Police Headquarters Building in Park square district, to the extent of $80,000 for furnishing the building when completed. The structure has been practically completed, with the exception of the fourth floor on which little of the interior work has been performed as yet.

Owing to the fact that this work has been allowed to lag behind the remainder of the building, the various branches of the Police Department that are to be housed there will not be able to remove from Pemberton square as soon as was expected and hence the dedication of the structure will also be delayed.

The Mayor was informed that to finish the building would require the sum of about $80,000 and he has accordingly presented to the Council an order asking that this sum be provided. It is expected that the building will be ready for dedication and occupancy in May.

The building is at the corner of Stuart and Berkeley streets, Park square district. It will cost about $650,000. Ritchie, Parsons & Taylor are the architects.

Nearly the entire area bounded by Stuart, Berkeley and Stanhope streets is covered by the building, which is seven stories high, with two basements. The exterior is treated in Italian Renaissance with limestone on the Berkeley and Stuart street facades and with a light-colored brick on Stanhope street and the court. The interior will be after the modern office building style, all fireproof.

BOSTON'S LEAD IN HEALTH WORK HIGHLY PRAISED.

NOTED LEADER IN PUBLIC HEALTH
HONOR.

Boston was given high praise for leadership in health work at the annual dinner meeting and election of the Boston Health League held at Hotel Victoria on Wednesday, February 17, during an address by C. E. A. Winslow, professor of public health at Yale University, who is president also of the American Public Health Association. He spoke on "The Health Department and the Individual." He emphasized Boston's excellent rank and position in public health endeavor and pointed to a recent survey which revealed Boston's priority in correlated health work. The promotion of child hygiene service by the Boston Health Department and its tie-up with Harvard, Tufts and Boston University are regarded as marked achievements in public health practice, he said.

HEAVY TRUCKING TO BE BARRED ON BEACON STREET IN THREE- MONTH TEST.

POSAL A THOROUGH TRIAL BEFORE
FINAL DECISION, AFTER HEARING.

Through trucking on Beacon street, from Charles street to Raleigh street, and on Marlborough street, from Arlington street to Massachusetts avenue, will be completely barred on a three-months' trial according to indications at the close of the hearing before the Street Commissioners on Thursday, February 18.

It was the suggestion of Alexander Whiteside, counsel for the Beacon Street Association, who, on behalf of his clients, offered to employ a force of men to act under the Board's direction in ascertaining results and to pay for a sufficient number of traffic officers to enforce the rule.

More than a year ago the Beacon street residents came before the Street Commissioners for relief from heavy trucks. They indicated that sleep was practically impossible, that nerves were shattered, that their houses were constantly damaged and that property had decreased in value by reason of the tremendous volume of commercial business carted by their doors. Relief that had been expected a year previously, by the exclusion of trucks at night, had proved more or less of a joke. Twenty-four-hour exclusion was the appeal, and 150 residents were present to demand it.

No action was taken by the Street Commissioners on this petition. It was at Mr. Whiteside's request that the Board reopen the case that the second hearing was granted.

EXTENSION OF HARBOR LINE FOR FORT POINT CHANNEL GARAGE OPPOSED.

LEADING MANUFACTURERS AND BUSINESS POINT TO HARM THAT WOULD BE DONE SHOULD STATE COMMITTEE ON HARBOR AND PUBLIC LANDS APPROVE PROPOSAL.

William F. Williams, State Commissioner of Public Works, as well as leading business men, appeared before the Legislative Committee on Harbors and Public Lands on Wednesday, February 17, to oppose a bill extending the harbor line in Fort Point channel at South Boston for the purpose of erecting a garage at this point.

E. R. Anderson, representing Fred F. Hodgkins of Boston, who petitioned for the legislation, admitted that it was the purpose to erect a garage on the Dorchester avenue side of the channel.

William T. Taylor, representing the American Sugar Refinery Company, and Frank S. Davis of the Maritime Association, Boston Chamber of Commerce, also were recorded in opposition.

Mr. Davis offered the suggestion that if a garage must be built in this vicinity "why not use the lower level of the South Station." Commissioner Williams thought the suggestion an excellent one, but had not given the matter any great thought at this time.

Mr. Taylor, for the sugar company, said the widening of the harbor line would greatly interfere with the shipping at this point, and that no boat of any size at the company's wharves would be able to turn if the proposed enterprise went through.

ASKS RIGHT TO HIRE WORKERS.

The Mayor has approved the following letter received from the Commissioner of Public Works, James H. Sullivan:

Boston, February 4, 1926.

To the Honorable the Mayor.

The unusual conditions resulting from the snowstorm now in progress require that we use every effort to meet the situation. It becomes necessary, therefore, to add to our force of employees in the different services of the department. We have issued a call for men, through the police and other agencies, and expect to be able to obtain between 1,000 and 1,500. The approval of your Honor for the temporary employment of this maximum number, if necessary, is respectfully requested.

Yours respectfully,

JAMES H. SULLIVAN,
Commissioner of Public Works.

FIFTY YEARS AT LIBRARY.

Frank C. Blaisdell of the Issue Department of the Boston Public Library observed the fiftieth anniversary of library employment upon the 17th instant.

Not even a severe attack of pneumonia which has kept him confined to his house at 41 Ridgmont street, Brighton, for about two months, could keep Mr. Blaisdell away from his desk in the library upon his anniversary.

Mr. Blaisdell came into the library at 11 o'clock for about a half hour, in order to maintain his record of having been at work on February 17 each year since that date in 1876 when he first entered the employ of the library.

Mr. Blaisdell began his service at the age of seventeen, when the library was housed in the building on Boylston street, where the Colonial Theater now stands.

SNOWSTORM COST TO DATE FIXED AT MORE THAN $400,000 BY EMERGENCY COMMITTEE.

MAYOR MALCOLM E. NICHOLS' BOARD, FOLLOWING PLAN OUTLINED TO THEM BY HIM, START SURVEYS TO SAVE CITY FROM UNNECESSARY TROUBLE OR HUGE COSTS IN FUTURE—AUTOMOBILE TRAFFIC IN STORMS A BIG HINDERING FACTOR.

With the statement that the snow removal for the winter, under the new administration, has cost the city more than $400,000 to date, the Committee on Municipal Emergencies appointed by Mayor Malcolm E. Nichols, following their first meeting on Wednesday, February 17, announced that they had decided to at once make a survey of the snow-handling equipment owned by the City of Boston with the purpose of recommending the purchase of sufficient equipment for all future contingencies.

Discussion of a proposal to purchase ten mechanical snow loaders, many small plows and various other mechanical contrivances for snow-removal work was a feature.

The committee is determined that Mayor Nichols and the city during his as well as future administrations will not be handicapped or hampered again. They will also be prepared for other emergencies that might face the citizens should disasters be visited upon us, such as cyclones, earthquakes or epidemics.

A further survey will be made as to the available transportation facilities in respect to trucks, wagons and horses. Other contemplated surveys will concern the hospitalization resources of the city; wrecking equipment available; and what co-operation could be had from the national and state authorities in case of any extraordinary emergency.

The Board organized with Building

Commissioner Louis K. Rourke as chairman. John M. Shea, an engineer in the Public Works Department, was appointed engineering secretary. Present at the conference besides Chairman Rourke were Police Commissioner Wilson, Acting Fire Commissioner Thomas F. Sullivan, Public Works Commissioner James H. Sullivan, Corporation Counsel Deland and Health Commissioner Mahoney.

According to an estimate by Public Works Commissioner James H. Sullivan, $160,000 has been paid to the contractors and the rest of the $400,000 has been charged to the municipal pay roll.

Five contractors are still at work, as are all the city forces which can be spared from garbage and ash collection. Snow and ice now pack the streets so solidly that removal can be accomplished only by picking. Commissioner Sullivan is expecting the arrival from Portland, Maine, of a tractor-drawn machine, which, the inventor claims, will break up ice and solidly packed snow. The device will be given an immediate trial, but officials are skeptical of its value because they have tried all known machines which have been designed for this purpose and found them more unsatisfactory than picks wielded by laborers.

All contemporary work is necessarily slow and difficult, because the hardened snow and ice must be picked, as well as shovelled.

RECEPTION TO PRESIDENT KEENE.

President Charles G. Keene of the Boston City Council, now Acting Mayor, during the temporary absence of Mayor Nichols from the city, was the guest of honor of fellow members of West Roxbury Lodge, A. F. and A. M., at a reception in Roslindale Masonic Temple upon the evening of the 16th instant.

The banquet hall was thronged with members. Selections were rendered by the Weber Male Quartet. Following the dinner a formal reception was held in the lodge room. The committee delegated to escort President Keene into the presence of Worshipful Master Stephen J. Lent was composed of Worshipful Fremont S. Eggleston, Worshipful George C. McClellan, Lewis S. Breed, Fred T. Widmer, A. M. Butler, William H. Jenness and Frank B. Skelton.

Worshipful Master Lent welcomed President Keene and he was received by the lodge members with much applause.

Mr. Keene responded feebly to the greetings. He was accompanied by these members of the Boston City Council: Walter E. Wragg, Robert G. Wilson, Horace Guild and Herman L. Bush.

The guest of honor was presented a Masonic fob by the Worshipful Master, also a scroll containing the names of the army officers who occupied the chairs when he received his third degree. This presentation was made by Worshipful George C. McClellan.

APPROVAL FOR NEW HOSPITAL.

Dr. Francis X. Mahoney, Commissioner of the Health Department, has highly commended the service of the new Beth Israel Hospital, now being erected at Brookline and Longwood avenues, as of marked benefit to the entire community of Greater Boston.

The comprehensive program of service which the new hospital will offer has many phases which appeal to Commissioner Mahoney and win his approval, among them the courses for nurses, the establishment of an out-patient department with facilities for the treatment of 100,000 patients a year, and the practical training in hospital work for medical school graduates.

The dispensary building and the nurses' home at the new Beth Israel Hospital are nearing completion.

PETITIONS APPROVED.

The Mayor has approved the following petitions received from the Board of Street Commissioners.

Atlantic Refining Company, Commonwealth avenue, Ward 21, 5,000 gallons of gasoline and 1,000 gallons of oil.

Richard J. Fawcett, 12 Trenton street, Ward 1, oxygen, two tanks of 200-cubic feet each.

The Macallen Company, 16 Macallen street, Ward 6, 1,000 gallons of denatured alcohol.

CHILDREN'S BUREAU OF THE DEPARTMENT OF LABOR COMMENTS FAVORABLY ON WORK OF VOCATIONAL GUIDANCE DEPARTMENT.

Vocational training in the public schools of Boston is highly commended in the report of the Children's Bureau of the Department of Labor issued upon the 15th instant.

The movement in Boston originated outside the public schools in private philanthropic enterprise, but the school system co-operated almost from the beginning with the agencies which had been developed through private initiative, and, as early as 1923, organized a vocational guidance department which is still functioning, the report declares.

"Educational and vocational counsel," says that part of the report dealing with Boston, "is given by the staff of the Vocational Guidance Department to selected groups of school children, principally high school students or graduates, and to all other pupils requesting advice. In each school, also, one or more counselors working the general supervision of the department have been appointed by the principal from the teaching staff. The school counselors give assistance to pupils in choosing their school courses, in making vocational plans, and in finding employment.

"Organized placement is carried on by the Vocational Guidance Department for all applicants who have attended the public or parochial schools of the city and who apply for registration within a year of leaving school, and by the continuation school for its own pupils. All persons placed by the department are carefully followed up. Special follow-up studies of high school graduates, whether or not placed by the department, and analyses of data from the files of its placement service are features of the work of the department.

"The school curriculum is especially well adapted to give effectiveness to the guidance program. The junior high school organization is limited to comparatively few school districts, but exploratory or try-out courses are provided, not only in the junior high schools, or intermediate schools as they are known locally, but to those who are in prevocational classes. The latter are open to all sixth, seventh and eighth grade pupils who are at least twelve years of age, but preference is given to those who are planning to leave school early. Training for an unusually wide variety of vocations is available in specialized high schools and in trade schools for boys and for girls.

"Intelligence tests administered under the direction of a special department of the public schools have been given to more than one fourth of the school population, including all pupils entering senior high school and nearly all entering junior high school. The results are used at the discretion of the individual school principals, and no regular procedure of classification has been established.

BOSTON'S WATER SUPPLY, MENACED BECAUSE OF METROPOLITAN DEMAND, ADMITTED TO BE IN URGENT NEED OF EXPANSION.

ENGINEERS AND EXPERTS APPEARING AT LEGISLATIVE HEARING BEAR OUT CONTENTION OF MAYOR NICHOLS THAT COMMON COMMUNITY DEMANDS PRESS TO A MORE CLOSELY ALLIED GREATER BOSTON.

One of the most potent factors supporting the arguments of Mayor Malcolm E. Nichols for a more closely knitted Metropolitan Boston developed on Wednesday, February 17, during the hearing at the State House before the joint legislative committees on Metropolitan Affairs and Water Supply when the matter of expanding the water system was argued.

Davis B. Kennison, who as chairman of the Metropolitan District Commission directs the water, sewage and park systems of the nearly 2,000,000 residents of Greater Boston, offered the Legislature temporary relief from the harassing problem of the district's water needs when he recommended a minimum program of expenditure far below either of the special commission studies that are before the Legislature.

He recommended to the Legislative Committee on Metropolitan Water Supply that it filter the South Sudbury reservoir, already controlled by the Metropolitan District, but not used and badly polluted, and that it build a new reservoir on the upper Ware river, to be paid for jointly by Worcester and Boston.

To filter the South Sudbury waters, and to build the reservoir on the upper Ware river would cost, according to figures presented in the plans for these projects, about $17,400,000. Of this the Metropolitan District would pay $15,800,000 and Worcester the remainder.

This program of Chairman Kennison compares with the $60,000,000 project of the Joint Board of 1922, prepared by Engineer X. H. Goodnough, and with $47,000,000 requirement for the first ten years of the program recommended by the Charles R. Gow commission which has just reported to the Legislature.

The minimum program recommended by Mr. Kennison would not be a permanent solution of Boston's water needs. But it would be, he said, an almost definite solution of Worcester's urgent problem. And he urged that it would "not be inconsistent" with the later undertaking of either the Gow or the Goodnough projects for permanent supply.

Mr. Kennison urged that the Legislature take action immediately on the two steps that he recommended, declaring that it would be dangerous to run into a dry year without the 30,000,000 gallons that can be made available in two years from the filtration of the South Sudbury supply at a cost of $3,400,000. The upper Ware river reservoir is immediately required by Worcester and would supply 45,000,000 gallons of water, of which Boston and vicinity could get 40,000,000 a day.

These two steps would add 30 to 40 per cent to the cost of water in the Metropolitan District, Mr. Kennison admitted. To undertake the whole Goodnough project, of going to the Swift river, or the whole of the Gow project, would more than double the district's carrying costs for water, and would be a serious burden, he argued.

By the time the district requires more water than the Ware reservoir would furnish, Mr. Kennison declared, it would have paid off a great part of the heavy indebtedness still carried for the construction thirty years ago of the Wachusett system. He said that water costs are now divided in the district, $1,700,000 for interest and $800,000 for maintenance.

Whatever plan the Legislature accepted, it must filter the Sudbury waters immediately, take care of the immediate need of the district for the safeguarding of its supply, Mr. Kennison argued. He further urged that to go to the upper Ware river would permit the district to take its time about deciding whether later it should go west to the Swift river, as Mr. Goodnough urged, or take the several nearer projects of the Gow commission.

The Gow commission would take the Sudbury filtration first, then the construction of the Ware reservoir, and later the Assabet river waters, and finally the Ipswich river at Topsfield. This latest commission, whose report the Legislature is considering for the first time, had figured that the Ware river reservoir would meet the district's needs until 1941, and that the 47,000,000 gallons expected from the Assabet river would tide over until about 1954. At that time it was proposed to build a reservoir on the Ipswich river at Topsfield to secure 80,000,000 gallons a day.

At present, the committee was told, water sources can be depended on for only 119,000,000 gallons per day in dry years, whereas the district is now consuming approximately 130,000,000 gallons daily, and is called upon for relief from surrounding communities.

Recess committees of the Legislature have studied the problem, and in 1924 the commission which reported today was formed. About $200,000 has been spent in research, and there is great need for constructive action now, the legislative committee was told.

The report filed on Wednesday was that of the Metropolitan Water Supply Investigation Commission and was signed by Charles R. Gow, chairman, George F. Booth, and Elbert E. Lochridge.

The hearing attracted a crowd of about two hundred officials, engineers and lawyers representing the communities and industrial interests and other property owners affected by the huge scheme.

BEACON STREET TRUCKING.

But consideration had been broadened since that of a year ago, by including the other end of Beacon street, from Massachusetts avenue, and also Marlborough street.

City Councilor Parkman, living at 182 Beacon street, and Franklin F. Roundy, representing the property at 93 and 92 Beacon street, also appealed for truck exclusion, the latter speaking of depreciation in property and rents.

Former Corporation Counsel John A. Sullivan, representing clients who are property owners on Beacon street, between Massachusetts avenue and Raleigh street, said he appeared in no spirit of opposition to Mr. Whiteside's case, but his clients felt they ought to be included in the movement, inasmuch as they have suffered as much. He admitted that the problem was one of great complexity, for trucks cannot be excluded from every street, but they should be obliged to do business with the least inconvenience to the public.

Others who spoke were: Herbert G. Summers, manager of the Charlesgate Hotel, Fred W. Herlihy, representing the Vacuum Oil Company, with a warehouse at Cambridge; M. J. Wallis of the Motor Bus Owners' Association; William H. Taylor, a truck distributor, and Harry F. Estabrook of 264 Beacon street.

BIG DEVELOPMENT IN BRIGHTON PROMISED TO CITY AS RESULT OF APPROVAL OF SPUR LINE TRACK.

ACTION OF BOARD OF STREET COMMISSIONERS IN GRANTING PETITION OF RAILWAY ENGINEERING AND CONSTRUCTION COMPANY WILL OPEN UP TWENTY-FIVE ACRES OF DORMANT LAND FOR DEVELOPMENT DURING ADMINISTRATION OF MAYOR NICHOLS.

The Board of Street Commissioners has approved a petition of the Railway Engineering and Construction Company for a spur track across Cambridge street, Brighton, near Windom street, opposite the roundhouses of the Boston & Albany Railroad.

Behind this grant is a promise of large industrial development of a territory comprising more than twenty-five acres of land which has lain dormant for many years. Before granting the spur track location the Board conferred with several parties in interest, including some of the land owners and a representative of the Boston & Albany Railroad.

Assurances were given that, if the spur track was allowed, there would be a speedy development of the tract. In fact it was said that negotiations are already under way with a number of large industrial concerns that promise the erection of storage warehouses and factory buildings which will add millions of dollars of taxable value to the city, and which, eventually, will give employment to a great many people.

The tract of land lies between Cambridge street and Western avenue, with the Charles river and the Metropolitan Park Reservation on the east. The territory has already been zoned for industrial uses. The spur track will connect this land with the main line of the Boston & Albany Railroad, giving the best of shipping facilities for the industries that may locate there.

In addition to shipping advantages on which the developers of this tract rely it was set forth at the conference with the Board that it had the further advantage of being located in a district where all kinds of help can be readily obtained and where also, if the need arises, homes for the help can be erected with all the advantages of schools, churches and stores, with well-planned streets, having sewers and water and having also every opportunity to establish desirable recreational facilities.

Those who appeared before the Board in favor of the spur track location were: Hon. Charles H. Innes, attorney for the petitioner; James M. Walsh, George W. Abbott, manager of the Railway Engineering and Construction Company; William K. Corey, C. B. Whitten, M. L. Pratt and F. P. Freeman, chief engineer of the Boston & Albany Railroad.

PORT OF BOSTON.

Boston comprises an area of about 47 square miles, (exclusive of the islands) including all the expanse of tidewater within a straight line from Point Allerton to Point Shirley and extending therefrom to the mainland. It is the best of natural harbors, near open sea, sheltered and spacious for anchorage; main ship channel 35 feet in depth at mean low water, increasing to 40 feet from President Roads to open sea; new dredging operations in charge of U. S. engineers are under way for increasing depth of said main channel to 40 feet; waterfront (i. e., lineal pier space) 40 miles, 6 miles fronting on 30 feet depth at low water.

Commonwealth Pier No. 5, South Boston 1,200 feet long, 400 feet wide, accommodating five 600-foot ships at one time, 40 feet depth at mean low water on both sides, with three 2-story fire-proof buildings of steel and concrete construction, containing 900,000 square feet of floor space, total cost of this enterprise to State, $4,500,000. NO INCREASE IN WATER RATES.

MAYOR NICHOLS DECIDES NOT TO PUT INTO EFFECT RECOMMENDATION OF HIS WAYS AND MEANS COMMITTEE.

Mayor Nichols has decided not to put into effect the recommendation of his Ways and Means Committee, by which water rates to small users would have been advanced 13 per cent and rates to larger users 36 per cent.

Boston compares favorably with other large cities in the charges made for water supply. It expends $4,000,000 annually in supplying the service and the revenue is slightly greater. Though new sources of income have been the searching study of the Mayor's committee, his Honor felt that an increase in water rates would not be warranted at this time.

The Mayor has approved the following petitions received from the Board of Street Commissioners:

St. James Building Corporation, 16 St. James avenue and 311 Stuart street, Ward 3, 2,000 gallons of gasoline.

APPROPRIATIONS AND EXPENDITURES FOR 1925.

A communication was received from the Business Agent, under date of Dec. 31, 1925, submitting a statement for the financial year 1925, showing the appropriations, the expenditures and the balances for current expenses for the financial year 1925, the expenditures for the financial year 1924-25, with the increases and decreases in the several items. A summary of the statement showing the various items of current expenses is as follows:

Appropriations for 1925.....	$13,286,687.37
Expenditures for 1925.....	12,769,323.65
Expenditures for 1924-25.....	13,131,300.13
Decrease in year 1925.....	$861,977.08
Balances unexpended 1925.....	$27,364.32

The Business Agent pointed out that the decrease in the year 1925 is due to an amendment to the City Charter changing the financial year period from—February 1 to January 31—to—January 1 to December 31; that the consequence of this change was an eleven-month period in 1925 instead of the usual twelve-month period; and that it is obvious that had the financial year 1925 covered a twelve-month period instead of an eleven-month period there would be the usual substantial increase in expenditures due to the annual growth and expansion of the school system.

A communication was received from the Schoolhouse Custodian, under date of Feb. 1, 1926, reporting that, in view of the fact that The Teachers College is used for school purposes on Saturdays, the schedule for extra compensation is not applicable, and recommending that he receive compensation in accordance with the salary schedule for Mondays, Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays, for such rooms as are occupied on Friday evening and again on Saturday.

Placed on file.

On motion, it was ORDERED, That the custodian of The Teachers College be allowed and paid compensation for sweeping rooms in accordance with the established salary schedule for Mondays, Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays, for such rooms as are occupied on Friday evenings and again on Saturday, such occupancy to be certified by the custodian to the Director of Extended Use of the Public Schools, to take effect Feb. 1 1926.

FOUR-YEAR LAND AND BUILDING PROGRAM.

Mrs. Barron made the following statement:

"I understand that the school building program and the School Committee's petition to the Legislature for increased appropriation power is based on the amount of money which it was felt might be obtained, rather than upon our actual school needs. I have visited some of the schools and have been in conference with members of the Board of Apportionment, and I am convinced that we have a large number of pupils unsatisfactorily housed,—some 4,956 over and above those which will be provided for in the proposed four-year building program—4,956 pupils will still be housed in basements, halls, portables, or rented quarters.

"I believe the School Committee should go on record as presenting a program based upon our actual school needs, rather than on the amount it is felt the Legislature will grant. Until every child shall be provided with a seat in a suitable school room, our school needs will not be adequately met. I believe that an intensive survey should be made of our school needs; that we should face the fact that in September, 1925, the Superintendent sent out a circular letter to principals notifying them that until otherwise directed, dancing, running, marching and jumping were to be discontinued in many school buildings because of a report received from the Schoolhouse Commission. No provision is made in the present building program for these buildings, no provision for housing these pupils; no provision for growth in certain districts.

"The Board of Apportionment has felt compelled to include in the budget provision for four-room schools where it is felt that eight-room schools will be needed in the near future. It has been proven frequently in the past that by the time four-room buildings are completed, the school population is such as to require an eight-room building."

In closing, Mrs. Barron asked that the building program to be presented to the Legislature include the entire school building needs, and that a survey of the system be made, under the supervision of the Board of Apportionment, so that the School Committee may be better informed as to the actual needs of the system.

Mr. O'Hare was of the opinion that the building program now proposed will result in very satisfactory high school conditions, probably no better in the country. In the intermediate and elementary schools the situation is somewhat different; growth here is constant. Agreed with Mrs. Barron that it would be well to present to the Legislature the entire building needs at this time; that the Committee should ask for all that is needed and that the Schoolhouse Commission can wisely expend. Pointed out that there is still four and a half million dollars appropriated on previous program but not yet levied or raised by taxation.

Mrs. Barron's statement and requests were referred to the Board of Apportionment for consideration and report.

BOSTON AS A TOWN.

From its foundation until 1755, or a period of 125 years, Boston was not only the most outstanding but the most populous town in the American colonies. In 1760, Philadelphia's population was ahead, viz., 18,756, Boston's then being 15,631 and New York's about 14,000. In the last year of town government viz., 1821, Boston's population was about 45,000 and its public debt $100,000, all incurred for new county buildings.

The history of Boston as a town during a period of nearly two centuries surpasses in civic interest that of Boston as a city because of the untiring zeal and successful efforts of its townsmen to realize more of true democracy than has ever been attained before. Their obligations were held as sacred as their liberties.

PLAN TO EXTEND SCOLLAY SQUARE TO INCLUDE PORTION OF COURT STREET AND DO AWAY WITH TREMONT ROW.

MAYOR MALCOLM E. NICHOLS CONSIDERING ADVANTAGES AND DISADVANTAGES OF PROPOSAL OF STREET COMMISSIONERS AFTER PUBLIC HEARING — PROPOSITION SPONSORED BY LEADING BUSINESS MEN AS MAKING FOR LESS CONFUSION.

PLAN OF REARRANGEMENT OF STREET NAMES IN SCOLLAY SQUARE, MAYOR NICHOLS IS CONSIDERING, WHEREBY COURT STREET WILL BE SHORTENED TO PREVENT CONFUSION.

Mayor Malcolm E. Nichols is seriously considering the advantages and the disadvantages of the proposal of the Street Commissioners to renumber Scollay square and enlarge it at the expense of Court street. According to the commissioners the proposal will simplify matters for citizens and others who use the famous square by shortening Court square to a third of its present length, retaining only that portion of it between Washington and Tremont streets and doing away with Tremont row.

If Mayor Nichols approves the action of the Board of Street Commissioners before March 1, the change in street designations will become legally operative on that date. The new street numbers, made necessary by the rechristening, will then become effective as soon as the Public Works Department can map them out and give proper notice to the owners, postoffice authorities, police and fire officials.

The three main points of the rechristening are as follows:

1—Court street will end where it now enters the area known as Scollay square.

2—The designations Court street and Tremont row will be abandoned where they now exist in that area known as Scollay square and both sides of the square will be officially numbered as "Scollay square." This name will run from the new end of Court street (Tremont street and Cornhill) to the natural end of the area at Sudbury and Howard streets.

$1,000,000 IN STREET CONSTRUCTION AND IMPROVEMENTS PLANNED FOR THIS YEAR AS ONE OF CITY'S MOST URGENT NEEDS.

MAYOR MALCOLM E. NICHOLS DISCUSSES HIS BUDGET PLANS BEFORE COMMITTEE ON MUNICIPAL FINANCE OF LEGISLATURE, SEEKING TO FIX TAX LIMIT AT $14. SLASHES $1,500,000 FROM ESTIMATES BUT EXCESS DEMANDS OF THIS YEAR OVER LAST COMPEL WHAT HE SEEKS. PROMISES IT WILL NOT BE SO HIGH AGAIN.

Mayor Malcolm E. Nichols has determined that this first year of his administration shall find, at its end, Boston's streets in the best condition ever known. He feels that well-kept, well-paved and good streets for the city is one of Boston's greatest assets, consequently, when he appeared before the Committee on Municipal Finance of the Legislature on February 25 of this week to present his budget figures and to ask the Legislature to fix the tax limit for the year he emphasized this feature of his plans.

Where the previous administration in the past year had spent but $200,000 Mayor Nichols is going to spend $1,000,000 in construction and repairs. The Mayor has figured that despite his careful paring of the budget estimates by $1,500,000 the city will need $4,980,500 more in 1926 than in 1925. From one of the largest items in this feature is the fact that 1925 was a short year with but eleven months. He plans to raise from taxation $24,933,236.52.

The Mayor said: "I am determined that the tax rate shall never be so high again during my administration. I realize the burdens which this high rate will impose upon the taxpayers and I realize also the great responsibility of my office to so direct affairs of the city that minimum burdens will be imposed."

"The present year, the first of my term, must necessarily result in a feeling-out process. The Finance Commission has been helpful in its summaries of department needs, and if I have not followed its suggestions to a great extent it is because I must have sufficient time to make inquiries, which the first few weeks of my administration do not offer."

There is little in the Mayor's final decision as to municipal finances to excite the taxpayers. It runs fairly true to the careful study he had made previous to inauguration day. Boston operated last year, due to a change in its bookkeeping system, upon an eleven months' year. The additional month to be provided for in the tax levy this year takes an additional $2,300,000 for maintenance alone. To complete the total of needs in excess of last year's, the Mayor was obliged to provide $515,000 for snow removal, the expense of the recent storms and the largest amount since 1920, and twenty or more items which could not be avoided.

Salary increases require more money than last year, with the Mayor's plan to increase the pay of the laborers from $4.50 to $5 a day, provide for 300 additional policemen, observe the sliding scale obligation and to reward several hundred of the employees who have not received much in bounty as the years have passed.

This item will absorb $300,000 and will affect 3,600 employees, 2,000 of whom are laborers. To provide for the sliding scale increases for inspectors, nurses, patrolmen, firemen, engineers, draughtsmen, custodians, transitmen and sealers, to the number of 1,100, a total of $80,000 is required.

Mayor Nichols's announcement that he would accede to the wishes of Police Commissioner Wilson by providing for 300 extra policemen forces $230,394 for such purposes. The intention is to make the appointments in groups of fifty, and on these dates: April 30, June 1, July 23, Sept. 3, Oct. 15 and Nov. 26. Of the amount apportioned, $45,000 is set aside for police uniforms, or $150 for each man.

For additional motor equipment, there is a provision for $158,500 over that of last year, the Fire Department taking $100,000 for the replacement of obsolete equipment, the Park Department $10,000 for replacement of road rollers and a sprayer, the Paving Service $10,000 for two additional snow loaders, the Sanitary Service $16,000 for replacement of the horse-drawn tip-carts used in gathering ashes and rubbish, the Weights and Measures Department for replacement of six sealers' cars.

The City of Boston owns real estate valued at approximately $150,000,000. To maintain such an extensive plant, the Mayor argued an annual appropriation of large sums is necessary. In this year's budget the tentative allowance for plant repairs closely approximates $800,000, or $75,000 in excess of the requirements for 1925, and due to the need of replacing waterpipes at the Boston Sanatorium, wharf repairs and laundry installation at the almshouse and hospital, the remodelling and fireproofing of fire stations, the rehabilitation of the L Street Bath House, for which $20,000 is allotted, and the restoration of quarters at the Wayfarers' Lodge.

A total of 157 new positions were requested by the various department heads, but the Mayor has tentatively allowed but 68, at a cost of $60,000. They include an assistant dietitian at the Boston Sanatorium, for improved methods of serving food to the patients, at $1,200 two building inspectors at $2,000 each; two inspectors in the Wire Division at $1,600 each, for positions recommended by the fire underwriters: one telephone operator in the Wire Division at $1,200; 54 hospital employees at the Boston City Hospital, at salaries ranging from $1,000 to $1,600 each, for the new Gynecological and Obstetrical Building and for other new activities; two clerks for the Institutions Department at $1,000 each; one chef at the Boston Almshouse and Hospital at $1,800; two deck hands for the steamer "George A. Hibbard" at $1,100 each, to permit of working a double crew; two firemen for the Public Welfare Department at $30 a week each; one physician in the Public Welfare Department at $1,200.

Mayor Nichols desires a reserve fund of $500,000, which was more or less an established policy prior to 1923, but owing to the heavy demand occasioned by the recent snowstorms it has been decided to limit the fund to $450,000.

For parkways and roadways, the tentative allowance is $75,000, which will permit of the improvement of Commonwealth avenue, from Sunderland road to Chestnut Hill avenue, at $38,000; Commonwealth avenue, from Washington street to Wallingford road, $22,000; Arborway, from Prince street to South street, $15,000. The first two stretches are part of the main highway to Worcester and the last stretch is an important section of the Boston to Providence road. These three stretches are in poor condition. Last year only $35,000 was provided in the budget for this purpose.

Excess allowances over last year also include $35,000 to meet the increased costs of lighting charged by the Edison Company and the gas companies; a similar amount to provide for an additional election this year; $30,000 for the increased membership of the City Council and for additional attaches and equipment; $25,000 more for books in the Library Department; $25,000 to enable the city starts its four-year program of street signs; $25,000 for the maintenance of two new municipal buildings, Police Headquarters and the Charities Building on Hawkins street; $15,000 for increased telephone costs; $15,000 to clean a branch of Stohy brook sewer near the Boston State Hospital; $10,000 for the Mayor's salary; $10,000 for carrying on the increased work of the health units and $2,000 for the special election to fill the vacancy in the City Council caused by the death of John T. Carr.

The average valuation of the city for the last three years upon which the tax limit is based is $1,780,945.16. The tax limit of $14 would give $24,933,236.52. As the estimated income figures $5,825,000, the total appropriating power would be $30,758,236.52, or approximately $5,000,000 more than last year.

SCOLLAY SQUARE EXTENSION.

3—The designation of Court street will also be abandoned where it now extends to the west beyond Scollay square as far as Cambridge street. This section of highway will be renamed Cambridge street. Thus Cambridge street will be extended eastward from its present starting point at Bowdoin square to a new starting point at Scollay square.

The purpose of the change is to avoid a long-standing confusion by the public in finding its way about in this district. It is particularly desirable now, the Board of Street Commissioners felt, because it gives a unified designation for the entire length of the new widened thoroughfare extending from Scollay square to the Charles river, most of which has always been Cambridge street.

The plan also avoids a virtual separation of the two ends of Court street and gives to business houses in Scollay square a means of being found more readily by customers. At the same time the shortening of Court street makes the location of banking houses there more easily determined for persons unfamiliar with Boston.

The extension of the name of Cambridge street will involve the renumbering of the entire thoroughfare, because the numbers now begin at Bowdoin square. Under the new scheme they will have to start at Scollay square. This change will also mean the abandonment of any Bowdoin square numbers.

The renaming of the central part of Court street and of Tremont row as Scollay square will necessitate the renumbering of all this area and of the passing from the map of historic Tremont row. This name, however, runs for only a block and the confusion caused by its presence led even men with business numbered on Tremont row to appear in favor of dropping that name and calling the whole area Scollay square.

The chief proponents of the changes were A. C. Ratschesky, president of the United States Trust Company, who first suggested the scheme last year, when strong opposition killed the plan to extend the name of State street, and John C. Kiley, real estate man, who, although originally opposed, became more and more impressed with Ratschesky's idea and finally pushed it to realization.

BOSTON'S HUGE SESQUICENTENNIAL HISTORICAL CELEBRATION TO BE MOST MEMORABLE.

MAYOR NICHOLS' COMMITTEE'S PLANS FOR MECHANICS BUILDING EVENT MARCH 17, MEETING ENTHUSIASTIC APPROVAL—GREAT CIVIC CHORUS TO BE FEATURE.

Boston's Sesquicentennial Historical Celebration of the Evacuation of Boston by the British, on March 17, will be made ever memorable, according to the plans of Mayor Nichols' Committee on Budget and Plans for the event. In addition to the notable addresses that will be made on the occasion of the monster meeting at Mechanics Building on Wednesday evening there will be a civic chorus of 450 voices of the most expert musicians in the city taking part.

This chorus has been planned and organized by the committee, headed by George H. Johnson, Director of the Commercial, Industrial and Publicity Bureau for Mayor Nichols. Those assisting him are Robert J. Bottomly, and A. C. Ratschsky. There has been such an enthusiastic response to the call issued by the committee for the event, and such interest manifested in the patriotic occasion, that it promises to be the most stupendous affair of the kind in the history of such celebrations.

In addition to the musical feature there will be addresses by his Excellency Governor Alvan T. Fuller, his Honor, Mayor Malcolm E. Nichols, Maj.-Gen. Preston H. Brown, Commander of the First Corps Area, and Rear Admiral Philips Andrews, Commandant of the Charlestown Navy Yard.
